Inquiries, Visits, and Correspondence

Wellesley welcomes inquiries and visits to the College from prospective students, their parents, and other interested individuals. For those who would like more detailed information on many of the programs and opportunities described in this catalog, the College publishes a number of brochures and booklets. These publications, as well as answers to any specific questions, may be obtained by writing to the appropriate office as listed.

For those who would like to visit the College the administrative offices in Green Hall are open, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The Board of Admission is open on most Saturday mornings during the academic term. With the exception of a few holidays, arrangements can usually be made for Wellesley students to meet with prospective students during the College's vacation periods. Student guides provide scheduled tours for visitors without appointments. However, visitors should check the schedule online at www.wellesley.edu/Admission/admission/campustours.html or call the Board of Admission prior to coming to Wellesley to obtain information regarding scheduled tours. A prospective student who wishes to arrange an interview with a member of the Board of Admission should make an appointment at least two weeks in advance.

Accommodations for alumnae and for parents of students or prospective students are available on the campus in the Wellesley College Club and may be reserved by calling the College Club at 781-283-2700.

Please visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/admission to learn more about Wellesley before you arrive on campus. For directions, go to www.wellesley.edu/admission/admission/visiting.html.

The College

The mission of Wellesley College is to provide an excellent liberal arts education for women who will make a difference in the world.

Wellesley is a college for the student who has high personal, intellectual, and professional expectations. Beyond this common ground, there is no typical Wellesley student. Students come from all over the world, from different cultures and backgrounds, and they have prepared for Wellesley at hundreds of different secondary schools. Through the Davis Degree Program, women beyond the traditional college age, many with families, are part of the student body working toward a Wellesley degree. Women and men from other colleges and universities study at Wellesley through various exchange programs.

This diversity is made possible, in large part, by the College's need-blind admission policy. Students are accepted without consideration of their ability to pay. Once admitted, those with demonstrated need receive financial aid through a variety of services.

Henry Fowle Durant, Wellesley's founder, was an impassioned believer in educational opportunity for women. His strong philosophy carries over to the present day. Throughout its 129-year history Wellesley has been one of the country's pre-eminent liberal arts colleges, and a distinguished leader in the education of women.

In some respects, the liberal arts curriculum at Wellesley has changed little since the College was founded. Though the structure of distribution requirements has evolved, the requirement that each student should be acquainted with the main fields of human interest has remained a constant. The concept of the major – the opportunity for each student to establish mastery in a single area through concentrated study during her junior and senior years – has remained consistent as well. The College is committed to this framework because it emphasizes the essence of education: the ability to speak and write clearly, the knowledge to manage quantitative data with ease, the confidence to approach new material, and the capacity to make critical judgments. These skills are essential – whatever the student chooses to do with her life.

Within this traditional liberal arts framework, the Wellesley curriculum is dynamic and responsive to social change and new fields of study. The dramatic expansion of information of the last decades has led to an increasingly interdisciplinary course of study. Single majors in traditional disciplines have been joined by double majors and specially designed interdisciplinary and interdepartmental majors. Some departments also offer minors.

One of the first liberal arts colleges to establish a separate computer science department and computer science major, Wellesley remains at the forefront of technological development. Students and faculty in all disciplines use the College's academic computing facilities in their courses and research. The Knapp Media and Technology Center provides state-of-the-art technology for students in courses ranging from multimedia language instruction to graphic arts.

The well-known Wellesley Centers for Women, composed of the Center for Research on Women and the Stone Center for Developmental Services and Studies, produce work of national importance about issues facing women in contemporary society.

The Wellesley-MIT cross-registration program allows students to combine the strengths of both institutions while remaining in residence on their own campuses. Students can complement their Wellesley majors with additional MIT courses in a variety of subjects including architectural design, urban planning, linguistics, financial accounting, computer science, engineering, mathematics, and the sciences.

The Twelve College Exchange Program brings women and men from member colleges to Wellesley for a semester or a year, and enables Wellesley students to live and study on another campus. The College also offers exchanges with nearby Brandeis University, Babson College, and Olin College of Engineering; Spelman College, a Black liberal arts college in Atlanta, Georgia; and Mills College in Oakland, California. In addition, Wellesley students are encouraged to spend a semester or a year abroad in programs at many institutions. Approximately 40% of Wellesley College students elect to spend a semester or year abroad.

The Wellesley faculty is a community of recognized scholars. They include scientists, artists, and political and economic analysts. Dedicated to teaching, they bring a vast range of academic and professional interests to the College. Many members of the faculty live on or near the campus. They are committed to all aspects of life in the Wellesley community and are available to students outside of the classroom.

There is one faculty member for every nine students. The average class size ranges from 17 to 20 students. A few popular introductory courses enroll more than 100, but these classes routinely break into small discussion groups under the direction of a faculty member. Seminars typically bring together 15 to 18 students and a professor to investigate clearly defined areas of interest. The low student-faculty ratio offers an opportunity for students to undertake individual work with faculty or honors projects and research.

Excellent academic facilities support learning at Wellesley. Students have access to virtually all the collections on campus through a computerized library system totaling over 1.5 million items. The holdings include more than 200 electronic databases; 11,000 electronic journals; 22,000 electronic books; 7,000 films on VHS and DVD; and 7,000 music CDs. Among the special holdings are a world-renowned Browning Collection, a Book Arts Collection, and a Rare Book Collection. Interlibrary loans through the Boston Library Consortium augment the College's own holdings.

Wellesley's strength in the sciences dates to the nineteenth century, when the College's physics laboratory was the second in the country (the first being MIT). The Science Center brings together all the science departments, including mathematics and computer science, in a contemporary setting that fosters interdisciplinary discussion and study. Laboratories are completely equipped for a wide variety of fields. The Center also includes an observatory and an extensive complex of greenhouses.

Students in the arts find excellent facilities in the Jewett Arts Center and the Davis Museum and Cultural Center.

Wellesley recognizes that classroom activities and studying are only part of a college education. The residence hall system not only provides a pleasant and comfortable place to live but seeks to integrate academic and extracurricular life through educational programs. Residence life is administered in several ways, ranging from residence halls staffed by professional resident directors to student-run cooperatives.

For many students, the lessons learned competing on the athletic field, publishing the Wellesley News, or participating in a Wellesley-sponsored summer internship in Washington, D.C. have lifelong impact. The College encourages self-expression through over 160 established student organizations, as well as any interest that a student may choose to pursue alone or with a group of friends. Wellesley also supports those students who investigate religious issues and thought. The Office of Religious and Spiritual Life offers religious programs in many faiths, including denominational services for those who wish to participate.

As a small community, Wellesley's quality of life depends upon the involvement and commitment of each of its constituents. For this reason, students participate in decision making in nearly every aspect of College life. They serve, frequently as voting members, on almost every major committee of the Board of Trustees, including the Investment Committee, as well as the Academic Council, the Board of Admission, and the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction. In academic departments, they frequently participate in the curriculum and faculty search committees. They also serve on committees that set policy for residential life.

Established in 1901 by student and faculty agreement, the Wellesley College Government Association is the official organization of all Wellesley students. Through Senate, its elected representative body, College Government officers are elected each spring on a campus-wide basis; Senate representatives are elected from each residence hall and from the Davis Scholars and Wellesley off-campus students.

Each student who comes to Wellesley College joins an extended community of alumnae. Some of them have been outstanding scholars and researchers, others have been businesswomen and leaders in politics and social issues, still others have made important contributions to their communities through volunteer work. No matter how they have chosen to make their mark in the world, these women have proven that four years at Wellesley College is just a beginning.

The Campus

Located just 12 miles west of Boston, Wellesley's 500-acre campus of woodlands, hills, meadows, an arboretum, ponds, miles of footpaths, fitness trails, and athletic fields and facilities borders scenic Lake Waban. The 68 buildings on campus range in architectural style from Gothic to contemporary.

Facilities and Resources

State-of-the-art academic facilities, ranging from creative arts media to advanced scientific research equipment support Wellesley's curriculum. These facilities are available to all students.

Classrooms

The three primary classroom buildings on campus are Founders Hall for the humanities, Pendleton Hall for the social sciences and arts, and the Science Center.

Science Center

The Science Center houses the Departments of Astronomy, Biological Sciences, Chemistry, Computer Science, Geosciences, Mathematics, Physics, and Psychology, as well as several interdepartmental programs. The Center includes up-to-date teaching and research laboratories, extensive computer facilities, and modern classrooms. The Science Library contains more than 110,000 volumes, maintains subscriptions to more than 725 paper journals and periodicals with additional journals in electronic format, and provides access to online databases.

Sage Hall, the College's original science building, dates to 1927. The Science Center, encompassing Sage Hall and new construction, was built in 1977 and won the Halston Parker Prize for architecture in 1987. Renovations and additions to the Science Center were done in 1991. The Center contains a variety of state-of-the-art instrumentation including: a confocal microscope, two NMR spectrometers (one with a micro-MRI accessory), a MALDI-TOF mass spectrometer, energy dispersive X-ray fluorescence spectrometers, microcalorimeters, an automated capillary DNA sequencer, a high-power pulsed tunable laser, and a 16-node supercomputer equipped with state-of-the-art bioinformatics tools. For more information, visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/ScienceCenter/mainpage1.html.

Botanic Gardens

The Botanic Gardens represent a historically significant component of the College's campus. Dating from 1922, the Margaret C. Ferguson Greenhouses contain a diverse array of exotic plants representing various climatic regions from around the world. The 22 acres of the Hunnewell Arboretum and the Alexandra Botanic Garden showcase an extensive collection of hardy trees and shrubs for New England, many having been planted in the early twentieth century. All of the collections support courses and research in the biological sciences. The Gardens are an outstanding teaching facility and community resource visited by thousands each year. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/FOH/home.html.

Observatory

The Whitin Observatory contains laboratories, classrooms, a darkroom, and the Astronomy Library. Its research equipment includes 6-, 12-, and 24-inch telescopes, state-of-the-art electronics, and computers. The observatory was a gift of Mrs. John C. Whitin, a former trustee of the College. Built in 1900, and enlarged in 1906 and 1966, it is considered an unusually fine facility for undergraduate training in astronomy.

Computer Facilities

Students have access to hundreds of computers in computing labs, classrooms, and residence hall computing rooms. Advanced computing and multimedia equipment and software are available in the Knapp Media and Technology Center, located in the Margaret Clapp Library. Wellesley's ResNet provides support to students who use the high-speed, campus-wide network from their own rooms to access electronic resources both on campus and around the world. These resources include: the College Web site; the library online catalog and full-text electronic resources; centralized E-mail and conferencing provided via FirstClass®; Element K® online courses for desktop applications, and an array of instructional software. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/Computing/computing.html.

Knapp Media and Technology Center

The Knapp Media and Technology Center, located in the Margaret Clapp Library, contains 43 computer workstations capable of viewing and digitizing audio and video, scanning printed images, slides, film and negatives and creating digital images and animations; audio and video-production studios; a video-conferencing site; three computer and media-equipped project rooms; two video-editing rooms; a large format printer; and other multimedia equipment and software.

Information Services staff assist faculty, students, and staff in the use of these resources and collaborate in the development of multimedia projects.

The Knapp Center also provides support for course reserves, laptops, cameras, and other equipment for check-out.

For more information see www.wellesley.edu/Knapp.

Jewett Arts Center and Pendleton West

The Jewett Arts Center consists of the Mary Cooper Jewett art wing and the Margaret Weyerhaeuser Jewett music wing. The art wing consists of classrooms, studios, photography darkrooms, video and computer facilities, art gallery, art library, and visual resources collection. The newly renovated Jewett sculpture court is used for exhibiting, gathering, and as a student workspace and lounge (enhanced by its wireless accessible capabilities). The music wing holds the music library, listening rooms, practice studios, classrooms, and a collection of musical instruments from various periods available for the student's use. Music performances, theatre events, lectures, and symposia can be held in the Jewett Auditorium, a 320-seat theatre. The arts facilities of Pendleton West include drawing and painting studios, a sculpture foundry, a printmaking facility, and a concert salon. A bridge links the Jewett Arts Center to the Davis Museum and Cultural Center.

The Knapp Social Science Center

The Knapp Social Science Center at Pendleton Hall East opened in January 2001. The new Center was created to integrate the social sciences and to provide instructional space that is varied in design and layout. The physical space includes case-study classrooms, computer classrooms with individual student workstations, seminar rooms, and a video-conferencing facility. In addition to research facilities for faculty and students, an archaeology laboratory and a media laboratory were added which function as extended teaching areas. Public spaces include a viewing room equipped with a large TV/VCR/DVD set-up, wireless computing capability and a two-story atrium with bleachers and informal seating. The Center was given by Betsy Wood Knapp '64 and her husband Cleon Knapp.

The Davis Museum and Cultural Center

The Davis Museum and Cultural Center is the art museum of Wellesley College. As a vital force in the intellectual and pedagogical life of the College, the museum collects, preserves, exhibits, and interprets art in the belief that contact with original works of art is an essential component of a liberal arts education and a key factor for understanding the world in which we live.

Located in the center of the campus, the museum offers innovative exhibitions, technology-based installations, lectures, symposia, films, concerts, performances, publications as well as interdisciplinary projects that are developed in collaboration with faculty. In addition, the museum provides a range of internships in the arts on campus, throughout the country and in Europe.

The four-story facility includes spacious galleries for the museum's permanent collection that spans the 3,000 years of art history, temporary exhibition galleries, cinema, and café.

For additional information, visit the DMCC Web site: www.davismuseum.wellesley.edu.

Margaret Clapp Library

Wellesley College Library received the first nation-wide "Excellence in Academic Libraries" award. The combined Clapp, Art, Astronomy, Music, and Science collections number over 1.5 million. The library's physical holdings are supplemented by a wealth of online materials and through resource-sharing with the Boston Library Consortium.

Among the Library's notable features are the College Archives, the Book Arts Lab, where typography and letterpress printing are taught, and the Special Collections, which contain rare books and manuscripts that support student research.

Research and Instruction specialists staff service desks, help with in-depth research, and schedule hands-on sessions for professors and their classes.

All of the libraries offer workstations with elbow room, quiet and comfortable study space, help from knowledgeable staff, and information to enhance life and learning. Visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/Library for details.

Residence Halls

Residence halls are grouped in three areas of the campus: Bates, Freeman, McAfee, Simpson West, Cedar Lodge, Dower, French House, Homestead, Instead, and Stone-Davis are near the Route 16 entrance to the campus; Tower Court, Severance, Cervantes, Lake, and Claflin are situated off College Road in the center of the campus; and Shafer, Pomeroy, Cazenove, Beebe, and Munger are located by the Route 135 entrance to the College. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/FirstYear/residence.html.

Continuing Education House

A "home on campus" for Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Scholars and Postbaccalaureate students, as well as for nonresident students of traditional age, the CE House is a place where students gather for programs, meetings, group study, or simply conversation. The Office of Continuing Education is located here. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/CE.

Child Study Center

The Child Study Center, a laboratory preschool under the direction of the psychology department, was originally designed in 1913 as a school for young children. Students and faculty from any discipline can study, observe, conduct approved research, volunteer, or assistant teach in classes with children ages two to five. In addition to the observation and testing booths in the historic Anne Page Building, there is a Developmental Laboratory at the Science Center.

Nannerl Overholser Keohane Sports Center

Classes for all indoor sports, aquatics, fitness, and dance are conducted in the Nannerl Overholser Keohane Sports Center, which includes an eight-lane competition swimming pool; badminton, squash, and racquetball courts; two weight rooms; exercise/dance/yoga studios; volleyball courts; and an athletic training area. The Field House has a basketball/volleyball arena, two cardiovascular machine areas, indoor tennis courts, and a 200-meter track. Outdoor water sports focus around the boathouse on Lake Waban, where the canoes, sailboats, and crew shells are kept. Wellesley maintains a nine-hole golf course; eight tennis courts; soccer fields; an artificial-turf field hockey/lacrosse field; a recreation field; a 10-lane track and a softball field. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/Athletics/main.html.

Alumnae Hall

The largest auditorium on the campus, Alumnae Hall seats more than 1,300 people and contains a large ballroom as well as the Ruth Nagel Jones Theatre. Wellesley alumnae gave this building to the College in 1923.

Chapel

Presented to Wellesley in 1897 by the son and daughter of William S. Houghton, a former College trustee, the Houghton Memorial Chapel hosts weekly religious and spiritual services, musical performances, lectures, and other College community gatherings. Stained glass windows commemorate the founders and a tablet by Daniel Chester French honors Alice Freeman Palmer, Wellesley's second president. A smaller multi-faith Chapel, Muslim prayer room, and Buddhist/Hindu meditation room are located on the ground floor level.

Schneider Center

Schneider Center houses the following offices: College Government; the Student Programming Board; Wellesley News; Legenda, the college yearbook; and WZLY. Several multicultural organizations have offices on the third and fourth floors. Other facilities and offices in Schneider include a Student Leadership Resource Center; a lounge and kosher kitchen for Hillel; Office of Religious and Spiritual Life; the Offices of the Asian Advisor and the Latina Advisor; the Advisor to Lesbian, Transsexual and Transgendered Students; the Office of Residential Life; and the Office of Student Activities.

Harambee House

The cultural and social center for Wellesley students of African descent, Harambee House offers programs to the entire College community that highlight various aspects of African, African American, and African Caribbean culture. Harambee has a growing library dedicated to the history and culture of African and African American peoples and a library of classical jazz by Black artists, which is located in the Jewett Music Library. Harambee House also houses various organizations for students of African descent, and Ethos Woman (a literary magazine), as well as meeting and function rooms. For more information, visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/Harambee/index.html.

Slater International Center

Headquarters for international activities, Slater International Center is dedicated to encouraging greater understanding among all cultures through personal association and cooperative endeavor. The Center serves campus organizations, academic and administrative departments that have an interest in international issues and helps sponsor seminars and speakers. The Office of the Advisor to International Students and Scholars is located in the Center. The advisor counsels international students, advises international organizations, and handles immigration matters for students and faculty. The Center also coordinates a peer advising group of international students to help newcomers adjust to the United States. International students can also use the Center to study and meet informally. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/SICISS/sic/sic.html.

Society Houses

Wellesley has three society houses: Shakespeare House, for students interested in Shakespearean drama; Tau Zeta Epsilon House, for students interested in art and music; and Zeta Alpha House, for students interested in literature. Each has kitchen and dining facilities, a living room, and other gathering areas. Phi Sigma is a society that promotes intelligent interest in cultural and public affairs.

Green Hall

The offices of the president, the board of admission, the deans, and others directly affecting the academic and business management of the College are located in Green Hall. Named for Hetty H.R. Green, the building was erected in 1931. The hall's Galen Stone Tower, a focal point of the campus, rises to 182 feet and houses the carillon which is played for major College events.

Infirmary

Simpson Infirmary, a licensed outpatient clinic and infirmary, is an institutional member of the American College Health Association.

President's House

Formerly the country estate of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fowle Durant, Wellesley's founders, the President's House is located on a hill bordering Lake Waban just south of the main campus. It is frequently the site of alumnae and trustee gatherings, and events for faculty, staff, and students throughout the year.

Wellesley College Club

A center for faculty, staff, and alumnae, the Wellesley College Club's reception and dining rooms are open for lunch and dinner to members, their guests, and parents of students. Overnight accommodations are available for all members, alumnae, and parents of current and prospective students. For more information visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/Collegeclub.

Wellesley Centers for Women

The Wellesley Centers for Women (WCW) has been a driving force, both behind the scenes and in the spotlight, promoting positive change for women and girls for more than 30 years. The world's largest women's research center, the WCW unites the Center for Research on Women and the Stone Center for Developmental Services and Studies in an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in research, training, analysis and action.

Sustained by private and public funding, WCW work focuses on the education, employment, family life, wellness, and rights of women and children from all walks of life. WCW has also published The Women's Review of Books. The WCW was instituted in 1974 under the name Center for Research on Women by a grant from the Carnegie Corporation. The Stone Center for Developmental Services and Studies, founded in 1981 with a gift from Grace W. and Robert S. Stone, is dedicated to the prevention of psychological problems, the enhancement of psychological well-being, and the search for a better understanding of human development. The Stone Center fulfills this mission through education, research, community outreach, and counseling with a particular focus on culturally diverse populations.

Student Life

Educating the whole person is key to the Wellesley experience. The College offers many opportunities for a student to develop socially, culturally, personally, and intellectually. Learning and living in a diverse community fosters self-confidence, communication and leadership skills, and a sense of social responsibility that extends beyond the classroom. Participation in student organizations, volunteer programs, and college governance creates solid friendships that support Wellesley students during their college years and throughout their lives.

Wellesley sponsors 160 student organizations that reflect many interests including ethnic, social, political, service, and religious interests. More than 20 multicultural organizations include the Slater International Association; Mezcla, an association for Latina students; Ethos, an organization of Black students; the Asian Student Union, composed of Asian and Asian American students; and the Korean American Student Association. Religious groups such as the Newman Club, the Wellesley Christian Fellowship, Hillel, Al-Muslimat, and Ministry to Black Women offer many programs throughout the year. Students produce a number of publications, including: Wellesley News, the weekly student newspaper; Ethos Woman, a literary magazine that represents women of African descent; GenerAsians, a magazine by and about the Asian/Asian American community; and Legenda, the College yearbook. An all-student staff operates WZLY, the campus radio station.

Students are encouraged to reach beyond the Wellesley community. The Center for Work and Service Internship Office lists many opportunities for public and community service in government agencies and nonprofit organizations in the greater Boston area. In addition, the Community Service Center coordinates student groups that work with youth services, the elderly, the Easter Seal Swim Program, the Boston Food Bank, Habitat for Humanity, and Rosie's Place, a shelter for homeless women.

Athletics has become a significant part of life at Wellesley. Students are frequent trophy winners in NCAA, Division III, and other intercollegiate events in the College's 11 programs including basketball, softball, cross-country running, fencing, field and water sports. For students interested in sports for recreation, there are opportunities in club sports such as softball, sailing, table tennis, skiing, and rugby as well as nontraditional athletics including yoga, dance, and scuba diving. The Nannerl Overholser Keohane Sports Center provides state-of-the-art facilities for competition sports (see The Campus for details). Lake Waban is used for water sports and Paramecium Pond for ice skating.

Traditionally the arts are an essential part of the Wellesley experience. Students with musical interests can explore the Wellesley College Orchestra, the Prism Jazz Ensemble, Yanvalou Dance and Drum Ensemble, the Tupelos, the Blue Notes, the Toons, the Widows, Graceful Harmony, the Guild of Carillonners, and the MIT Orchestra. Those with theatrical interests can choose from the Wellesley College Theatre and the Shakespeare Society. At the Jewett Arts Center's Student Gallery, students can exhibit their work or organize and curate shows. To take advantage of the extensive opportunities offered by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts whose collections accord it a world ranking, free entry has been purchased for all students thanks to the generosity of Marion Burr Sober '30.

An important extension of both social and academic life, technology is integral to the Wellesley experience. The entire College community exchanges ideas and information on Wellesley's electronic bulletin boards. Every student has access to the campus-wide network in her dorm room, which includes E-mail and electronic bulletin boards – as well as research opportunities on campus and via the Internet. In addition, clusters of PCs and Macintoshes are located in every residence hall and the Knapp Media and Technology Center in the main library. All students also have voice-mail boxes from which they can receive telephone messages.

A number of traditional social events have become part of life at Wellesley: Junior Show, Family and Friends Weekend, Spring Weekend, and International Week are supplemented by frequent informal parties.

There are a variety of social centers on campus. The new Lulu Wang Campus Center, scheduled to open the beginning of the fall semester, will be a focal point of community activities. Slater International Center is the frequent setting for international and multicultural events and celebrations. Harambee House, the social and cultural center of Wellesley's African American community, sponsors lectures and music and dance performances. Lectures and cultural programs are also presented by many other student organizations. The Davis Museum and Cultural Center, with its Collins Cinema and Café, is a place to relax with friends, view domestic and international films, and listen to lectures and live performances.

Residential Life

Wellesley's residential life system fosters a sense of community through student self-government and program planning. The majority of Wellesley students live in one of the 21 residence halls. The College provides counseling, religious, and health services to support the physical and mental well-being of residential and off-campus students. For the health and comfort of our students, employees, and guests, smoking is not permitted in any of the residence halls.

Residence Halls

Much of campus life and informal education revolves around the residence halls. Planned programs and daily interaction with students from diverse lifestyles and cultural backgrounds offer Wellesley students a rich learning environment outside the classroom. The residence experience usually includes lectures, group discussions, meals with faculty members, and social events with students from other colleges.

Each residence hall has a distinctive character and structure. Resident Directors, professionals trained in working with young women and issues that arise from living in a small community, staff 15 of the larger halls (most housing 120–140 students). Each Resident Director is a liaison to the College community, and supervises a residence staff that includes a Resident Assistant on each floor of the building and a House President. The Resident Assistants and House Presidents are trained in community programming and act as resources and referral agents for all students. The smaller halls each house fewer than 20 upperclass students and are staffed by student Resident Assistants and offer more independent government.

Many opportunities exist for students to assume leadership positions. Students in the larger residence halls elect a House

Council that administers the hall government. The Vice President of Programming and her committee in each hall plan a variety of social, cultural, and educational events throughout the year. Each residence hall also elects representatives to the College Government Senate. These students consult with members of the residence hall on campuswide issues and convey opinions of their constituencies to the student government.

The Residential Life office staff works to strengthen the involvement of faculty, staff, and alumnae in residence hall life.

Most of the residence halls contain single, double, and triple rooms, and some suites. All incoming first-year students and sophomores are placed in double or triple rooms. The cost of all rooms is the same, regardless of whether they are shared, and students are required to sign a residence agreement. Each large hall has a spacious living room, smaller common rooms, and a study room. All but three of the large halls have dining facilities open on a five- or seven-day basis. All dining rooms offer vegetarian entrees; Pomeroy serves kosher/vegetarian food at all meals, and Cazenove is a peanut-free dining area. There are limited kitchenette facilities in the halls for preparing snacks. Each building is equipped with coin-operated washers and dryers.

The College supplies a bed, a desk, a chair, a lamp (halogen lamps are not allowed), a bookcase, and a bureau for each resident student. Students furnish their own linen, blankets, quilts, curtains, pictures, rugs, and posters. Each student is required to contribute one to two hours a week monitoring the front door of her residence hall, otherwise known as "bells."

Student Parking and Transportation

Because of limited parking on campus, resident first-year students are not permitted to have cars on campus. The Chief of Campus Police, or designated representative, must approve any exemptions to this policy. The Director of Disability Services must approve any temporary or permanent exemptions to this policy due to medical or accessibility circumstances. The parking fee for sophomores, juniors, and seniors is currently $75 per semester or $135 per year, and for off-campus students $60 per semester or $100 per year. The College may further restrict normal parking procedures to accommodate campus construction projects, or other special events as needed.

There is hourly bus service from the campus to MIT in Cambridge (7:30 a.m. to 11:50 p.m. Monday–Friday) with subway connections to the Greater Boston area. On weekends the College provides bus service to Boston and Cambridge on an expanded schedule tailored to students' needs.

Services for Students with Disabilities

Wellesley College is committed to providing students with disabilities the access and support they need to achieve their academic potential and to participate fully in Wellesley's activities.

Each student is viewed as an individual with a unique set of strengths and abilities. Disability Services professionals, who report to the Dean of Students, are available to provide individualized assistance and information to students. The Director of Disability Services provides assistance to students with physical disabilities; the Director of Programs of the Pforzheimer Learning and Teaching Center works with students with learning disabilities and attention disorders; the Director of the Stone Center Counseling Services assists students with psychological and emotional disabilities; and the Directors of the Health Service help students who identify as having medical disabilities. These staff members work collaboratively with faculty and other campus members to coordinate services for students with disabilities.

Students with disabilities are encouraged to explore more information about services confidentially in-person or at www.wellesley.edu/DisabilityServices/DShome.html.

Stone Center Counseling Service

Many students benefit from talking with a professional about personal matters affecting their daily life or their basic sense of purpose and direction. Members of the College Counseling Service, part of the Stone Center for Developmental Services and Studies, provide short-term individual and group counseling for Wellesley College students who need or desire this support. The Center also provides preventive programs that address mental health and developmental issues.

Clinical staff members are trained in the disciplines of psychiatry, psychology, and social work. Long-term treatment is not provided, but students are referred to appropriate private clinical professionals and sliding-scale agencies. There is no fee for any counseling services provided to students by Stone Center staff and professional confidentiality is maintained at all times in accordance with the law.

The counseling division collaborates closely with the training and research branches of the Stone Center via the Clinical Training Program which includes advanced practicum training for social work and psychology students and a post-doctoral fellowship. The theoretical models developed by the Jean Baker Miller Training Institute are incorporated into the work of the Counseling Service.

Religious and Spiritual Life

Wellesley's Office of Religious and Spiritual Life fosters a sense of community by supporting the diverse religious traditions and spiritual perspectives represented in the Wellesley community.

The Religious Life Team, which includes a Buddhist Advisor, a Hindu Advisor, a Jewish Chaplain, a Muslim Advisor, a Roman Catholic Chaplain, a Protestant Christian Chaplain, and a Unitarian Universalist Chaplain, as well as advisors and student groups for the Baha'i, Jain, Native African, Native American, Pagan, Sikh, and Zoroastrian communities are available for religious and pastoral counseling. Students, faculty, and staff are invited to take part in one or more of these faith communities, for worship, meditation, practice, and discussion on a weekly basis and educational and social activities throughout the academic year. In addition, the Dean of Religious and Spiritual Life coordinates a program that examines the role of spirituality in the educational process at Wellesley and officiates at multi-faith community worship.

Many outlets are available for students to express their spirituality. Flower Sunday, one of Wellesley's oldest surviving traditions, is a multi-faith celebration held at the beginning of each academic year. Jewish students celebrate High Holiday services and have access to a kosher kitchen in Schneider Center. The Muslim Prayer Room, located in the lower level of the Chapel, is open for students to gather for daily prayers, and students may join Al-Muslimat, an organization for Muslim women at Wellesley, which meets for weekly Qur'anic study and discussion. A Buddhist/Hindu Meditation Room is available in the lower level of the Chapel. These are just a few of the observances and facilities available to Wellesley students.

For more information about religious and spiritual life at Wellesley, visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/RelLife.

College Health Service

The Health Service includes both an outpatient clinic and a state-licensed infirmary that is staffed 24 hours per day by registered nurses and on-call physicians while College is in session. During clinic hours, physicians, nurse practitioners, and nurses provide primary medical and gynecological care to all students. There is a small on-site laboratory. When required, consultation with specialists is available both locally and in Boston.

Emphasis on education and preventive measures to promote healthful lifestyles are integral to the Health Service philosophy. The Health Service collaborates with other College services such as Counseling Service, Residential Life, and Physical Education.

The confidentiality of the clinician-patient relationship is carefully maintained; medical information is not shared with College authorities or parents without the student's specific consent. When there is concern about a student's safety, however, that concern takes precedence over issues of confidentiality. Information may also be disclosed to meet insurance claims or legal requirements.

There is no charge for outpatient visits to a nurse, nurse practitioner, or physician at the Health Service. There are charges for laboratory tests, some procedures, and inpatient care. A College-sponsored Student Accident and Sickness Insurance Program is available to cover these charges. Please see that section for further details.

The Ruhlman Conference

Founded in 1997 as a forum for students to present their work in public, the Ruhlman Conference provides an opportunity for students, faculty, staff, friends, family, and alumnae to gather and celebrate student achievement.

Students submit presentation proposals for consideration at the end of the fall semester. Sensitive to the diversity of student interest and accomplishment, the conference allows a variety of presentation formats: talks, colloquia, panels, poster sessions, exhibitions, musical and theatrical performances, and readings of original work. By providing an opportunity for public presentation of what is often a private, isolated activity, the Ruhlman

Conference underscores the idea that research can be part of an ongoing conversation in a community of scholars.

Held each spring, the conference has been made possible by the Barbara Peterson Ruhlman Fund for Interdisciplinary Study.

The Tanner Conference

Established through the generosity of alumna Estelle “Nicki” Newman Tanner, the Tanner Conference celebrates the relationship between the liberal arts classroom and student participation in an increasingly diverse and interdependent world. The Tanner Conference provides a venue for students and alumnae to analyze and share their off-campus experiences with others in the College community.

Encompassing the diversity of off-campus experiences of students, the conference explores the learning that occurs through internships, service learning experiences, student teaching, study abroad, international Wintersession programs, experiential learning in courses, and independent study and research conducted away from Wellesley. Held each fall, the conference also presents an opportunity for alumnae to return to campus to discuss how their participation in these experiences as Wellesley students has enriched their lives.

Student Government

Honor Code

Inherent in Wellesley’s democratic system of government and its accompanying law is the Honor Code. As the vital foundation of government, the Honor Code rests on the assumption that individual integrity is of fundamental value to each member of the community. Within the philosophy of self-government, the personal honor and responsibility of each individual as he or she approaches both the regulated and nonregulated areas of academic, social, and residence hall life in the Wellesley community are of central importance.

The Honor Code covers all duly adopted rules of the College for the governance of academic work, for the use of College resources, and for the conduct of its members. Each student – degree candidate, exchange student, and postbaccalaureate student – is bound by all the rules.

Each student is expected to live up to the Honor Code, as a member of the student body of Wellesley College both on and off the campus. She/he should also remember that she/he is subject to federal, state, and local laws that are beyond the jurisdiction of Wellesley College.

The Honor Code can work only with full support of the entire College community. In addition to upholding the regulations and spirit of the Honor Code personally, both students and faculty are responsible for the success of the system. This includes guarding against and, if necessary, reporting any inadvertent or intentional abuses of the Honor Code by any member of the community.

College Government

Responsibilities of College Government include governance of all student organizations, appointment of students to College committees, and allocation of the student activity fund. Many of these responsibilities are assumed by Senate, the elected legislative body of College Government, which also provides the official representative voice of the student body. Violations of the Honor Code are adjudicated through General Judiciary.

Confidentiality of Student Records

Maintenance of the confidentiality of individual student educational records has always been important at Wellesley, as is a concern for the accuracy of each record. Under the provisions of the federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, every Wellesley student is assured the right to inspect and review all college records, files, and data directly related to her, with certain exceptions such as medical and psychiatric records, confidential recommendations submitted before January 1, 1975, records to which the student has waived her right of access, and financial records of the student’s parents. The student may also seek a correction or deletion where a record is felt to be inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the privacy or other rights of the student. The Privacy Act also protects the privacy of personally identifiable information maintained in student records by prohibiting the release of such information (other than those facts defined below as “Directory Information”) without the written consent of the student, except to persons such as officials or teachers within the College who have a legitimate educational interest in seeing the information, officials of other institutions in which the student seeks to enroll, the student’s parents if the student is a dependent for tax purposes, and certain other persons and organizations.

The final regulations for the Act make clear that, in the case of students who are dependents of their parents for Internal Revenue Service purposes, information from the education records of the student may be disclosed to the parents without the student’s prior consent. It will be assumed that every student is a dependent of her parents, as defined by the Internal Revenue Code, unless notification to the contrary with supporting evidence satisfactory to the College is filed in writing with the Registrar by October 1 of each academic year. All correspondence relating to a student’s undergraduate performance is removed from a student’s file and destroyed one year after graduation. All disciplinary records are destroyed when a student graduates from the College. Disciplinary records are never a part of a student’s permanent file while she is at Wellesley.

Copies of the Privacy Act, the regulations therein, and the “Wellesley College Guidelines on Student Records” are available on request from the Office of the Registrar. Students wishing to inspect a record should apply directly to the office involved. Complaints concerning alleged noncompliance with the Privacy Act by the College, which are not satisfactorily resolved by the College itself, may be addressed in writing to the Family Policy Compliance Office, Department of Education, 400 Maryland Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20202-4605.

Directory Information

The Privacy Act gives Wellesley the right to make public at its discretion, without prior authorization from the individual student, the following personally identifiable information: name; class year; home address and telephone number; college address and telephone number; college E-mail address; schedule of classes; major and minor field(s); date and place of birth; dates of attendance at Wellesley College; degrees, honors, and awards received; weight and height of student athletes; participation in officially recognized sports and activities; and previous educational institution most recently attended. In addition, student photographs are part of a College photograph directory that resides on the Campus-Wide Information System. It is accessible only on campus.

The Privacy Act also allows individual students to place limitations on the release of any of the above information. A student who wishes to do this must inform the Registrar, Green Hall, in writing each year by July 15 for the following academic year.

In practice, College policies discourage the indiscriminate release of any information about individual students. College directories and lists are for use within the College community.

Center for Work and Service

The Center for Work and Service offers comprehensive career preparation and resources for students and alumnae. A wide range of information and services to help students explore the world of work, participate in community service, and prepare for their futures is available. A staff of experienced professionals counsels students and alumnae at all stages of career exploration.

Students can explore various professions, educational options, and community service opportunities using the resources of the Center for Work and Service. Among the offerings are:

- career counseling and inventories
- internship search and funding resources
- community service events
- fellowship and graduate school advising
- administration of Wellesley College Graduate Fellowships and other fellowship programs
- prelaw and prehealth advising
- job and internship recruiting programs
- not-for-profit and public service job search track
- alumnae panel presentations
- workshops
- the Shadow Program (students spend a day with alumnae at their workplaces)
- online Alumnae Career Advisory Network (over 20,000 Wellesley graduates who have volunteered to serve as contacts for career exploration)
- online job, internship, and community service databases and directories
- an extensive career library
- an interactive Web site:
www.wellesley.edu/CWS

In recent years, the Center for Work and Service has undertaken programs that have aligned the Center more closely with the educational core of the College. Faculty and Center staff collaborate to help integrate the student's overall career decision-making process and to amplify the connection between her academic experience and life outside the classroom.

After graduation, the Center remains a resource for alumnae by offering career counseling, job listings, regional career programs, alumnae career Web pages, use of the Center for Work and Service library, and a reference file service.

For more information, please visit:
www.wellesley.edu/CWS.

Admission

The Board of Admission admits students who will benefit from the education Wellesley offers and who will be able to meet the graduation requirements. Consideration is given to creativity, high motivation, and strong academic potential.

Each application is evaluated on its own merits, without regard to race, religion, color, creed, national origin, or sexual orientation. Wellesley College encourages qualified applicants from a wide variety of cultural, economic, and ethnic backgrounds to join its diverse multicultural student population.

The Board of Admission includes faculty, administration, and students. In selecting candidates for admission, the Board considers several factors: high school records; rank in class; standardized test scores; letters of recommendation from teachers, guidance counselors, or principals; the student's own statements about herself and her activities; and interview reports when available from the staff or alumnae. The Board values evidence of unusual talent and involvement in all areas of academic and social concern. The admission decision is never based on a single factor. Each part of the application contributes to a well-rounded appraisal of a student's strengths and helps determine whether Wellesley would be the right place for her to continue her education.

Criteria for Admission

General Requirements for First-Year Student Applicants

Wellesley College does not require a fixed plan of secondary school course preparation. Entering students normally have completed four years of college preparatory studies in secondary school that includes training in clear and coherent writing and in interpreting literature; history; training in the principles of mathematics (typically four years); competence in at least one foreign language, ancient or modern (usually four years of study); and experience in at least two laboratory sciences.

Students planning to concentrate in mathematics, premedical studies, or natural sciences are urged to elect additional courses in mathematics and science in secondary school. Students planning to concentrate in language or literature are urged to study a modern foreign language and Latin or Greek.

There are often exceptions to the above, and the Board will consider an applicant whose educational background varies from this description. Wellesley's applicant pool has been consistently strong. As a result, not all applicants who are qualified are admitted. Visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/admission for more details about the admission process.

The Application

The Wellesley Application consists of the Common Application plus the Wellesley supplement. You may apply online at the Common Application Web site at www.commonapp.org or you may download the application from the Board of Admission Web site at www.wellesley.edu/admission.application.html. Please note the $50 application fee is waived if you apply electronically for the year 2005-06. If you mail your application, please include a $50 nonrefundable application fee. If the fee imposes a burden on the family's finances, a letter from the applicant's guidance counselor requesting a fee waiver should be sent to the Dean of Admission with the application.

The Interview

While Wellesley does not require a personal interview for the first-year application, applicants are strongly recommended to arrange one. An interview is required of transfer applicants, Accelerating Candidates and Davis Degree Candidates (see related sections). If a candidate cannot come to the College, and would like to request an off-campus interview with an alumna in her area, she should complete the off-campus interview request form at www.wellesley.edu/Admission/form6. A high school junior may arrange for an informal conversation with an alumna or member of the Board.

Campus Visit

Students who are seriously considering Wellesley will have a better understanding of student life here if they can arrange to spend a day on campus. Candidates at welcome to attend classes, have meals in the residence halls, and talk informally with Wellesley students. Prospective students who plan to visit are urged to notify the Board of Admission at least two weeks in advance so that tours, interviews, meals, and class attendance can be arranged.

Standard Tests

Applicants must take either the College Board Scholastic Assessment Tests (SATs) or the ACT Assessment. If an applicant is taking the SATs, she must take the SAT Reasoning Test and two SAT Subject Tests. Wellesley recommends one Subject Test to be quantitative (math or science). If she is taking the ACT, she must take the ACT with Writing Test.

The applicant may register online or obtain the registration form at school. Each applicant is responsible for arranging to take the tests and having the test results sent to Wellesley College. The College Board and ACT send the publications and the registration forms for the tests to all American secondary schools and many centers abroad.

Students should register six weeks before the College Board test dates. Limited walk-in registration may be available at some centers. For the ACT, students should register four to six weeks prior to the test date. No walk-in registration is available.

The latest test date from which scores can be used for September 2006 admission is December 2005.

The College Board Code Number for Wellesley College is 3957. The ACT Code Number for Wellesley College is 1926.

Admission Plans

Regular Decision

Candidates applying under the Regular Decision plan must file an application by January 15 of the year for which they are applying. Applicants will be notified of the Board of Admission's decisions in April. Applicants for Regular Decision may take SATs or the ACT any time through December of the senior year. Results of tests taken after December arrive too late for consideration.

Early Decision

Students with strong high school records who have selected Wellesley as their first-choice college by the fall of senior year should consider the Early Decision plan. Candidates may initiate applications at other colleges, but they agree to make only one Early Decision application. Once admitted under Early Decision, all other applications must be withdrawn.

Applications must be submitted by November 1 and indicate that they are intended for the Early Decision plan. Although College Board tests taken through the November test date or ACT tests taken through the October test date may be used, it is preferred that students complete the tests by the end of their junior year. Decisions on admission and financial aid will be mailed no later than mid-December.

Early Evaluation

Candidates whose credentials are complete by January 1, and who select this plan on the Wellesley Supplement form, will receive an Early Evaluation of their chances for admission. These evaluations will be sent by the end of February. Candidates will receive the final decision from the Board of Admission in April.

Accelerating Candidates

Candidates who have demonstrated academic strength and personal/social maturity may apply to enter college after completing their junior year of high school. These candidates are considered with other applicants in the Regular Decision plan, but are requested to identify themselves as Accelerating Candidates in their correspondence with the Board of Admission. An interview is required, preferably at the College. Accelerating candidates are not eligible for Early Decision or Early Evaluation. In all other respects they follow the same procedures as the Regular Decision plan.

Deferred Entrance

Some students who apply successfully to Wellesley may then desire to defer their entrance to the first-year class for one year. If so, they should accept the offer of admission by May 1, and submit their deposit. At that point, the request for deferral should be made to the Dean of Admission in writing. Students who attend another American college full-time during the year between high school and their entrance to Wellesley are not considered deferred students but must reapply for entrance as transfers. Ordinarily, transfer students may not defer entrance to the following semester or year. This also applies to international students.

International and Transfer Students

Through the years Wellesley has attracted a large international student population. The resulting cosmopolitan atmosphere has benefited the entire campus. The College also seeks highly qualified transfer students who believe that Wellesley's special opportunities will help them achieve specific goals. For international and transfer students there are some additional and different application procedures and deadlines.

International Students

All non-U.S. citizens attending secondary schools or universities outside of the United States should complete the Form for Applicants Currently Studying Overseas. U.S. citizens who have been educated in a school system abroad should also complete this form.

Admission is considered for September entrance only. The application and all required credentials must be received by January 15 in the year in which the student plans to enter. The application form should be returned with a nonrefundable $50 application fee drawn on a U.S. bank, or a fee waiver request from the secondary school. Please note that the application fee is waived if a student applies online.

Financial aid is available for only a limited number of non-U.S. citizens. Therefore, admission is highly competitive for students who apply for financial assistance. Wellesley's established policy is to accept only those international students for whom we can provide the necessary financial support.

The SAT Reasoning and Subject Tests or the ACT with Writing Test are required of all international students in addition to predicted or, if completed, final results of their own national examinations. The TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) is strongly recommended for all students for whom English is not their first language and who have been studying in English for less than five years. The TOEFL is not required if English is the candidate's first language. The official ACT or the official SAT Reasoning Test and SAT Subject Tests score reports must be forwarded directly to Wellesley College by the College Board, using Wellesley's Code Number 3957 on the College Board registration form. If the ACT or the SAT Reasoning and Subject Tests are not administered in an applicant's country, they may take only the TOEFL.

Interested students are encouraged to initiate the application process one full year in advance of the planned entrance date. Please contact the Board of Admission or complete the online form: www.wellesley.edu/admission/contactus.html to obtain the International Students information brochure and the application form. Students may also apply electronically at www.commonapp.org. Inquiries should include the student's country of citizenship, present school, academic level, and the year of planned college entrance. Our fax number is 781-283-3678.

International Students Applying from U.S. High Schools

Citizens of other countries who are currently in secondary school in the United States before entering college apply through the regular admission program. International citizens applying through the regular admission program who also wish to apply for the limited financial aid funds available are eligible to apply only under the Regular Decision plan (January 15 deadline).

Admission of Transfer Students

Wellesley College accepts transfer students from accredited four- and two-year colleges. They must offer an excellent academic record at the college level and strong recommendations from their dean and college instructors. Students wishing to transfer into Wellesley should apply by March 1 for entrance in the fall semester, and by November 1 for the spring semester. Notification is in mid-May and December, respectively. The application forms should be returned with a nonrefundable $50 application fee or a fee waiver request authorized by a financial aid officer or college dean. If a student applies electronically, the application fee is waived.

The College will accept for transfer credit only those courses that are comparable to the ones offered in the liberal arts curriculum at Wellesley. Candidates accepted for transfer will be given a tentative evaluation of their credit status at the time of admission. Transfer credit for studies completed outside of the United States will be granted only when the Registrar has given specific approval of the courses elected and the institutions granting the credit. To receive a Wellesley degree, a transfer student must complete a minimum of 16 units of work and two academic years at the College, so ordinarily only incoming sophomores and juniors are eligible to apply. A Wellesley unit is equivalent to four semester hours. Some transfer students may need to carry more than the usual four courses per semester in order to complete their degree requirements within four years. Incoming juniors, in particular, should be aware that Wellesley requires evidence of proficiency in one foreign language before the beginning of the senior year. In addition, all transfer students should note Wellesley's course distribution, quantitative reasoning and writing requirements, which must be fulfilled for graduation (see The Curriculum). Incoming junior transfer students may not take part in the Twelve College Exchange Program or Junior Year Abroad. All transfer students may elect to take courses through the cross-registration program with MIT.

For international transfer applicants

If you are a non-U.S. citizen attending a college or university outside the United States and you wish to transfer to Wellesley, you must apply for admission as a first-year student and for fall entrance only. The application deadline is January 15. After successfully completing one year of study at Wellesley, you may be eligible for transfer credit for courses from your previous institution. Please note that financial aid funding is available for a very limited number of international students studying outside the United States.

If you are a non-U.S. citizen attending a college within the United States, you may apply as a transfer candidate for entrance in the fall or spring. The deadline for fall entrance is March 1, and the deadline for spring entrance is November 1. Please note that because of limited financial aid funding for international students, competition is very keen.

Continuing Education

Wellesley College offers two programs for students beyond traditional college age. They are the Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program and the Postbaccalaureate Study Program. The Davis Degree Program is designed for women who seek the Bachelor of Arts degree. The Postbaccalaureate Study Program is available for men and women who already have a bachelor's degree and seek nondegree course work. Students enroll in the same courses as the traditional-age undergraduates and may enroll on a part-time or full-time basis.

Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program

Candidates for the Davis Degree Program are women, usually over the age of 24, whose education has been interrupted for at least two years or whose life experience makes enrollment through the Davis Degree Program the logical avenue of admission. These students, known as Davis Scholars, meet all degree requirements of the College, but the flexibility of the Davis Degree Program allows a woman to combine school with work and family responsibilities. A small number of Davis Scholars live on campus, some in small residence halls especially reserved for Davis Scholars and others in larger residence halls integrated with students of traditional college age. Davis Scholars in residence must carry a full academic course load of at least three courses a semester and should consult with their Class Deans to determine how many semesters they will have to complete their degrees. Nonresident Davis Scholars, other than international students, have no time limitation for completing their degrees and may choose whether to be full- or part-time students. International Davis Scholars must be full-time students whether or not they are in residence.

Many applicants to the Davis Degree Program have not experienced a traditional college-preparatory secondary school program, or their transcripts from the past are not an accurate reflection of current abilities. Such applicants are urged to complete at least four college-level courses for credit to strengthen their academic skills and credentials before applying to the program.

An applicant needs to show training in the principles of mathematics, including algebra and trigonometry, and she must demonstrate strong writing skills and the ability to think coherently. Students who have never pursued a foreign language should complete course work in a foreign language prior to applying.

The College will accept courses for transfer credit only if they are comparable to ones offered in the liberal arts curriculum at Wellesley, and if a grade of C or better was earned. Course work presented for transfer credit must be accompanied by an official transcript from an accredited college, descriptions of courses at the time they were taken, and the degree requirements of the institution. All information should be sent with the application for admission. Please visit our Web site at www.wellesley.edu/admission/admission/davis.html for more information about the program.

Postbaccalaureate Study Program

Candidates for the Postbaccalaureate Study Program are men and women who already have a bachelor's degree and wish to do further undergraduate work for a specific purpose. Students take courses to prepare for graduate school, enrich their personal lives, or make a career change. The Premedical Study program is a popular choice. A degree is not offered. For more information on the Postbaccalaureate Study Program, please contact the Board of Admission or visit the Web site at: www.wellesley.edu/admission.

Admission

Application forms for the Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program and Postbaccalaureate Study Program may be obtained from the Board of Admission. Official transcripts, essays, and letters of recommendation must be submitted before a candidate is considered. A personal interview is also required. The Board of Admission looks for evidence such as work, volunteer experience, and especially recent course work that demonstrates a candidate's intellectual ability and initiative.

Applications for the Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program are considered once a year for fall semester entrance only. The application deadline is February 15 for admission in the fall. The deadline for international applicants for this program is January 15. Candidates for the Davis Degree program may apply online at www.wellesley.edu/Admission/application. If a candidate applies electronically, the application fee is waived.

The application deadlines for postbaccalaureate applicants are November 15 for spring semester admission and March 1 for fall semester admission.

You are welcome to view or download our brochures at www.wellesley.edu/admission for more information about any of the programs described in this section.

Costs

Wellesley offers a variety of payment plans and financing options to assist all students and their families in meeting the costs of a Wellesley education. In addition, through financial aid, the College is able to offer its education to all students regardless of their financial circumstances (see the Financial Aid section for more information). For more information visit the Student Financial Services Web site: www.wellesley.edu/SFS.

The financial responsibilities to Wellesley College include meeting payment deadlines, meeting loan or grant requirements, and addressing outstanding balances.

It is important to understand that information and communications will be directed to the student, rather than a parent or guardian. If a parent or other individual handles the educational finances, it is the student's responsibility to make the information contained in this catalog available to the person who is responsible.

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA)

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) of 1974, commonly known as the "Buckley Amendment," helps protect the privacy of student education records. Among other provisions, FERPA protects the privacy of educational records, including the student account at Wellesley College. Students interested in placing limitations on the release of information should contact Student Financial Services.

Comprehensive Fees

As a part of the registration process, all students will be required to acknowledge the cost of tuition and relevant fees prior to online registration for each term.

Fees and Expenses

The Comprehensive Fee for 2005–06 resident students is $41,030. All fees are subject to change without prior notice. The breakdown is as follows:

	Resident Students	Off-Campus Students
Traditional-age Students & Resident Davis Scholars
Tuition	$30,696	$30,696
Room	4,906	N/A
Board	4,776	N/A
Facilities Fee	450	450
Student Activity Fee	202	202
Comprehensive Fee	$41,030	$31,348

Nonresident Davis, Postbaccalaureate, Special Student

Tuition – Per Credit/Course	$3,837
Facilities Fee – Per Credit/Course	57
Student Activity Fee – Per Credit/Course	26
Tuition – Per Half Credit/Course	1,919

All resident students must have a meal plan. Students who live in cooperative housing and choose a Co-op Meal Plan pay the College a kitchen usage fee of $764 instead of the board charge.

Students may be exempt from purchasing the food portion of the board charge only upon approval by the Dean of Students. Approved exemptions are required to pay the indirect costs of food service. This cost is determined by the Dean of Students.

Wintersession (January)

Tuition (Nonresident Davis Scholars only)	$3,837
Course Fee*	Variable
Wintersession Fee	$100

*Course fee varies depending on study away program.

Tuition for Wintersession is included in the regular yearly tuition for all students except for nonresident Davis Scholars who pay by the course. All students who activate their OneCards during Wintersession will be billed the $100 fee.

Summer School 2005 (per four-week session)

Room & Board (per four-week session)	690
Room & Board (six-week Chemistry course)	1,035

Student Activity Fee

The student activity fee is administered by the Student College Government. It provides resources from which student organizations can plan and implement extracurricular activities.

Facilities Fee

The Facilities Fee supports the infrastructure of the College's facilities.

General Deposit

The General Deposit of $300, paid by each entering student, will be credited to the student's account. The general deposit is nonrefundable.

Refund Policy

To be eligible for a refund the student must notify her Class Dean in writing that she is leaving Wellesley. The date the written notice is received by the Dean, or the date the College determines that she has gone on leave or withdrawn will be the effective date of leave or withdrawal.

Refunds are made for withdrawal or leave of absence prior to the ninth week of the semester. The comprehensive fee is prorated on a calendar week basis. No refund is made after the eighth week.

Refunds are prorated among the sources of original payment. Scholarships, grants, and educational loans are refunded to the grantor or lender.

Wellesley College maintains credit balances for returning students and applies the credit to future charges. A student may request a refund of a credit balance by submitting a written request to Student Financial Services.

A student who leaves Wellesley during her first semester at the College has her charges prorated based on the number of weeks in attendance until the tenth week. Students who complete ten weeks but do not complete the first full semester are not eligible for a refund.

An off-campus Davis Scholar or Post-baccalaureate student who drops a course during the add/drop period receives a full refund. Charges are prorated on a calendar basis thereafter until the eighth week.

All other students have charges refunded as follows:

If student leaves	Refund %
Prior to the first day of class	100
Before the end of the 1st week of classes	93
Before the end of the 2nd week of classes	87
Before the end of the 3rd week of classes	80
Before the end of the 4th week of classes	73
Before the end of the 5th week of classes	67
Before the end of the 6th week of classes	60
Before the end of the 7th week of classes	53
Before the end of the 8th week of classes	47

Please contact the appropriate department for the withdrawal/refund schedules for off-campus, summer, or Wintersession programs: www.wellesley.edu/SFS.

Tuition Refund Plan

The Tuition Refund Plan, sponsored by A.W.G. Dewar, Inc., is designed to protect the family from the loss of funds paid for tuition, fees, room and board should the student find it necessary to withdraw due to medical reasons. The Plan complements the Wellesley College refund policy and covers not only payments made by the student or parent, but also any loans and grants received.

The cost of the Plan is based on the amount of tuition and fees or tuition, fees, room and board.

Resident Student Option	$287
Off-Campus Option	$219

You must enroll in the plan before the first day of classes for the semester. For more information see A.W.G. Dewar's Web site: www.tuitionrefundplan.com.

Student Accident and Insurance Program

Students enrolled at least $\frac{3}{4}$ time are required by Massachusetts State law to be enrolled in an insurance program. The policy, provided through Security Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, is a comprehensive plan designed to meet the needs of Wellesley students. All students enrolled in courses at Wellesley College may see a physician, nurse practitioner, or nurse at the Health Services office without charge; however, charges are incurred for certain procedures, treatments, and laboratory tests. The Student Accident and Sickness Insurance Program covers most of these charges and all inpatient charges in the College infirmary. Insurance coverage is effective from August 23 to August 22 of the following year.

Information about the insurance program is mailed to students each year. Please refer to the insurance brochure for additional information.

All Davis Scholars are assessed insurance. A waiver must be completed to waive this charge.

The fee for 2005–06 remains $1,165. Please visit the Student Financial Services Web site for additional information. There is no separate plan for the fall semester. The fee for insurance appears on the first bill of the fall semester.

If a student is covered by other comparable insurance and does not wish to participate in the College plan, she may waive the coverage. A waiver form can be completed online. All fields of the form must be completed and it must be submitted by the end of the first week of classes to waive the College plan.

Financial responsibility for all medical and dental expenses rests with the student and her family. Wellesley College does not assume financial responsibility for injuries incurred in instructional, intercollegiate, intramural, or recreational programs. The College carries an NCAA policy to provide limited supplemental coverage for students injured while participating in intercollegiate athletics under the auspices of the Department of Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics.

Please visit the Student Financial Services Web site for billing and waiver information: www.wellesley.edu/SFS.

Billing and Payment

Fall semester billing statements will be mailed in early July. Wellesley College must receive payment by August 1.

Spring semester billing statements will be mailed in early December. Wellesley College must receive payment by January 2. Charges incurred after the payment deadline, including those as a result of add/drop, music charges, parking and library fines, etc., are due immediately and subject to late payment fees.

Bills are mailed in the student's name to the student's home address when classes are not in session or to her on-campus address during the school year. Students should retain the statements for their records.

Students will receive a billing statement any month in which there are new or outstanding charges.

Payment Procedures

Full payment and/or acceptable documentation demonstrating that the balance will be fully paid must be received prior to the published deadline. Acceptable documentation includes enrollment in the Tuition Management Systems (TMS) monthly payment plan, a copy of an award letter for an outside scholarship, or a copy of a billing authorization or sponsorship letter. Loans based on the credit worthiness of the borrower may not be deducted without approval from the lender. A copy of an approval notice or signed promissory note will be accepted as documentation for this type of loan.

The student's name and Wellesley College ID or social security number must be included on all payments and correspondence.

The student is responsible for monitoring her account balance and for keeping track of payment due dates even if someone else is handling the finances. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that loans, grants, and other payments are sent to the College by the payment due dates. As the student will be the only recipient of monthly statements, she needs to communicate her account status to anyone paying her charges.

Inquiries regarding late payment fees may be resolved after the account has been settled if a written petition has been received. The petition should include the student's name and ID number, the term the late fee was charged, and the circumstances to be reviewed.

There are potential consequences if payment responsibilities are not met. Monthly late fees may be assessed on any balance remaining unpaid after the payment deadline. Wellesley College also reserves the right to withhold services if the student has not fulfilled her financial obligation. The student may be prevented from participating in the housing process, registering, accepting a place in an associated leave program (i.e., Junior Year Abroad program), receiving transcripts, or receiving her diploma. In addition, the College reserves the right to place a student on leave and withdraw her if a balance continues to remain unpaid.

If any overdue obligation is referred to either the College Collection Department or to an outside agency or attorney for collection efforts and/or legal suit, the debt is increased to cover all reasonable costs of collection, including collection agency fees and court costs. By registering for any class in the College, each student accepts and agrees to be bound by the foregoing College policy as applied to any preexisting or future obligation to the College.

Outside Scholarships or Grants

If a student receives a scholarship or other outside award not previously considered in the determination of her financial aid award, federal regulations require her to notify Student Financial Services. These awards will not be reflected on a student's account or billing statement until the College has received the funds. Please note, unless specifically stated in the sponsorship letter, all outside scholarships will be evenly applied to the fall and spring semesters.

For security reasons, we urge students not to carry large sums of cash.

Wellesley College does not accept credit card payments; however, you may charge your semester bill on VISA, MasterCard, or Discover by visiting the Tuition Management Systems Web site at www.afford.com or by phone at 800-722-4867. Please note that a teleprocessing fee is assessed.

Wire Transfer

Wire transfer of funds electronically from a U.S. or international bank to Wellesley College's bank involve bank fees which are deducted from the funds wired to Wellesley College. The net amount applied to the student account will be the amount of the wire transfer less the bank fees. Please remember to reference the student's name and Wellesley College identification number. Please refer to our Web site for specific information on wire transfers.

Monthly Payment Plan

If you plan to use your savings and/or current income to cover all or part of your educational expenses, the Interest-Free Monthly Payment option offered through Tuition Management Systems (TMS) helps by providing more manageable cash flow and greater budgeting flexibility. Instead of lump-sum payments, the TMS plan allows you to pay all or part of your educational expenses in manageable monthly installments. You may use the TMS plan to pay your balance after financial aid or in combination with other loans. By enrolling in the TMS Monthly Payment Plan, your student account will receive a credit each semester representing $\frac{1}{2}$ of the full amount of your contract. We will credit your student account in advance of your making all of your payments to TMS. Although Student Financial Services can provide assistance, you are responsible for determining the contract amount. TMS is not responsible for this decision and will make changes only upon your request.

The toll free number is 800-722-4867 (if calling from outside of the United States, please use 401-849-1550) or you may visit their Web site at www.afford.com.

Tuition Stabilization Plan

This program provides a written contract guaranteeing that the cost of tuition will remain the same for each of four consecutive years at Wellesley College, provided the student pays by June 30 of the entering year an amount equal to four times the first year's tuition cost. Provisions are made for leaves of absence (up to two semesters), refunds, and withdrawals. This program only stabilizes the cost of tuition at Wellesley College; all other charges such as room and board will be billed at the rate for the applicable year, as will tuition for any exchange program or other college at which the student enrolls.

Please contact Student Financial Services for enrollment information.

High School Student Fees and Refunds

High school students taking courses at Wellesley pay the per course semester fees; for refunds, charges are prorated on a calendar week basis until the eighth week. High school students also pay the General Deposit, but are not eligible for Student Insurance.

Financing Options

To finance your Wellesley education, several options are available whether or not a student has been awarded financial aid, other scholarships, or loans. Detailed information can be obtained from the Office of Student Financial Services or by visiting www.wellesley.edu/SFS/EducationalFinancing.html.

Federal Parent Loan for Undergraduate Students (PLUS)

Under this federally guaranteed loan program, parents may borrow the cost of education, less financial aid and other education grants or loans, from participating banks and other lenders. The applicant and student must be U.S. citizens or U.S. permanent residents.

Monthly repayment begins immediately after the loan is disbursed; however, repayment of the loan principal and, under certain circumstances, interest, may be deferred while the borrower is a full-time student or experiencing economic hardship.

MEFA

This joint loan program of the Massachusetts Educational Financing Authority and Wellesley College provides fixed or variable low interest rate loans and convenient repayment terms. The full cost of education or tuition stabilization may be borrowed and a home equity option is available in most states.

Federal Unsubsidized Stafford Loan

Under this federally guaranteed loan program, a student with attendance costs not met by financial aid who is not eligible (based on federal rules for determining financial need) to borrow up to federal maximums under the Federal Subsidized Stafford Loan Program, may borrow the difference between her subsidized Stafford Loan (if any) and the Unsubsidized Stafford program limits.

An independent student or a dependent student whose parent does not qualify for a Federal PLUS Loan may also borrow up to additional federal maximums if she has costs of attendance not met by financial aid and she has already borrowed her basic Federal Stafford Loan maximum.

Interest starts to accrue immediately, but repayment may be deferred while the student is enrolled at least half-time or is experiencing economic hardship.

First-time Federal Stafford borrowers must complete an entrance interview and sign a promissory note before funds may be disbursed to her student account.

Alternative Educational Loans

Please visit www.wellesley.edu/SFS/EducationalFinancing.html to view borrower benefits, preferred lenders and loan application links or contact the Educational Financing Office for assistance.

Financial Aid

The Wellesley College financial aid program opens educational opportunities to able students of diverse backgrounds, regardless of their financial resources. Admission is need blind for U.S. citizens and permanent residents. Financial aid is also available for many international students. Over 50 percent of all Wellesley students receive financial aid, based on need, from the College.

At Wellesley College financial aid is based on demonstrated need as defined through the College's financial aid policies. Amounts vary in size according to the resources of the individual and her family and may equal or exceed the comprehensive College fee. Although aid is granted for one year at a time, the College expects to continue aid as needed throughout the student's four years, and the student continues to have need as defined by Wellesley's policies. Applicants to the College and continuing students must file the aid application on time to receive full consideration for grant aid.

Determining the amount of aid begins with the examination of family financial resources. Using both federal and institutional methodologies, the Financial Aid staff establishes the amount the parents can reasonably be expected to contribute. The staff also looks at the amount that the student can contribute from her earnings, assets, and benefits. Each year, the Financial Aid Committee determines a standard amount expected from the student's summer and vacation earnings. For 2005–2006 the summer/vacation amounts are: $1,250 for first year students, $1,900 for sophomores, $1,950 for juniors and seniors. The total of the parents' and the student's contributions is then subtracted from the student's cost of attendance. For the typical dependent student residing on campus, the cost of attendance is composed of the College fees, a standard amount for books and personal expenses, and a standard amount for travel based on the student's home state. The remainder equals the financial need of the student and is offered in aid. The financial aid is packaged in a combination of three types of aid: work, loan, and grant. The Financial Aid Committee sets yearly amounts of academic year work and loan.

Work

Generally, a portion of a student's financial aid is met through a job on or off campus, usually as part of the Federal Work Study Program. Students are expected to work up to ten hours a week. For 2005–2006, first-year students are expected to earn $2,000; sophomores, $2,000; juniors and seniors, $2,200. The Student Employment Office maintains listings of on- and off-campus part-time job opportunities.

Financial aid students receive priority for on-campus jobs. Students can work in academic and administrative offices, museums, libraries, and in a variety of off-campus nonprofit and community service agencies. Some off-campus jobs are restricted to students with federal Work-Study.

Loans

The next portion of a student's financial aid is met through low-interest educational loans. The 2005–2006 amounts are $2,625 for first-year students, $3,000 for sophomores, $3,500 for juniors, and $3,500 for seniors. There are several kinds of loans available with different interest rates and terms of repayment. The suggested loan amount and loan program are specified in the aid offer. Higher loan amounts are packaged in special circumstances, such as late filing of aid applications.

First-time borrowers must complete an entrance interview online and sign a promissory note before funds may be disbursed to her student account.

Repayment of Loans from the College

A student who has received a loan enters repayment if she enrolls less than half time, withdraws, graduates, or takes a leave of absence. Before she leaves the College she should make arrangements for an online exit interview by emailing edfinance@wellesley.edu or by visiting the Office of Student Financial Services. At that time she will be notified of her rights and responsibilities regarding the loan and will be given a repayment schedule.

Students with Students' Aid loans conduct entrance and exit interviews with the Students' Aid Society.

In order to be eligible for financial aid from the College, transfer students and Davis Scholars who have been enrolled elsewhere cannot be in default on prior educational loans. The College will not offer any federal, state, or institutional aid to students in default on prior educational loans.

Grants

The remaining portion of the student need is awarded in grants by the College from its own resources, from the federal government through the Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant and Pell Grant Programs, or from outside agencies.

Students who are eligible for other grants are required to apply for state and federal grants. If the student does not apply or fails to apply on time, the College will not replace the amount she would have received. In addition, whenever possible, students should seek grants from local programs, from educational foundations, and from other private sources. Students who qualify for nongovernmental outside scholarships usually benefit from loan and work reductions.

Applying for Financial Aid

Applicants for admission who intend to apply for financial aid must file five forms: the Wellesley College Application for Financial Aid, the Financial Aid Profile of the College Scholarship Service (CSS), the Free Application for Federal Student Assistance (FAFSA), and signed copies of all pages and schedules of both the parents' and the student's most recent federal income tax returns and W2s. Applicants may also be asked to have the IRS send a tax transcript directly to Student Financial Services. Additional documents are required if parents are separated/divorced or self-employed.

The College considers information from both parents regardless of their marital status. Students are expected to furnish information from parents in their initial year and all remaining years. Students in the Davis Degree Program who satisfy federal guidelines for self-supporting students and are not, in reality, dependent upon their parents for support are exempt from this requirement. Davis Scholars who are supported by their parents file the aid application with parental information.

Application Form

The Wellesley College Application for Financial Aid should be returned to the Director of Student Financial Services, Wellesley College, 106 Central Street,

Wellesley, MA 02481-8203, by November 1 for Early Decision applicants, January 15 for Regular Decision applicants and fall semester Transfer applicants, and November 15 for spring semester Transfer applicants.

Academic Requirements for Financial Aid

Evaluations of all students' academic records are made at the end of each semester by the Academic Review Board. Eligibility for financial aid is reviewed on a semester basis. Students must make satisfactory progress toward the degree and maintain a C average. No credit is associated with course incompleteness, course withdrawal, noncredit remedial courses or course repetition; therefore, these courses do not count in establishing satisfactory progress.

Ordinarily, a full-time undergraduate student completes the requirements for the B.A. degree in eight semesters. The Academic Review Board will consider special circumstances and may permit a student to have additional time to complete the degree. A student may request financial aid for additional semesters if the Academic Review Board has approved the extension. In matters concerning satisfactory progress, Students Financial Services works with the Class Deans.

Verification of Data in the Aid Application

Student Financial Services is required by federal law and Wellesley College policy to verify data on the financial aid application. Students must respond within 30 days of the request for information in order to insure that aid will be available and student accounts credited in time for registration and other College services.

Town Tuition Grants

Wellesley College funds ten Town Tuition Grants to residents of the town of Wellesley who qualify for admission and who meet the town's residency requirements. Application is made to the Board of Selectman. Recipients may live at home or on campus. Those who choose to live on campus may apply to the College for additional financial aid, and their applications will be reviewed in relation to the same financial aid policies applicable to all Wellesley students.

ROTC Scholarships

ROTC admission criteria conflict with the nondiscrimination policy of Wellesley College (see inside back cover). Students, however, may enroll in ROTC programs offered at MIT through the College's cross-registration program. Wellesley students may apply for scholarship aid from the Air Force and Army. Interested students should contact the appropriate service office at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, MA 02139, or call: Air Force, (617) 253-4475; Army, (617) 253-4471.

Financial Aid for International Students

Aid is available to international students, but its amount is limited. If an international student enters without aid, she will not be eligible for it in future years.

Financial Aid for Davis Scholars

Students in the Elisabeth Kaiser Davis Degree Program are admitted on a need-blind basis. They receive work and loans as the first components of the aid package, with a grant meeting the remaining need. The cost of education will vary for Davis Scholars living off campus in accordance with the number of courses for which they are enrolled during first and second semesters and during Wintersession. In order to be eligible for aid during a semester, students must take at least two units. Financial aid is not available to meet the full costs of living off campus, but staff will work with students to see if financing plans are applicable.

Wellesley Students' Aid Society

The Wellesley Students' Aid Society, Inc. is an organization of Wellesley College alumnae. In addition to providing funds for grants and long-term tuition loans, the organization also serves as a resource for short-term emergency loans and other student services.

Assistance for Families

Not Eligible for Aid

Wellesley has special concern for middle- and upper-income families who find it difficult to finance the cost of education through current income. The Office of Student Financial Services is available to assist all families, including families not qualifying for financial aid.

The College assists non-aided students and parents in several ways. Jobs on campus may be available to non-aided students. Student Financial Services will furnish information and advice on obtaining student and parent loans. Three payment programs are offered by the College: a Semester Plan, a Monthly Plan, and a Prepaid Tuition Stabilization Plan. Please visit the Student Financial Services Web site: www.wellesley.edu/SFS.

FAFSA/CSS Profile

The FAFSA and information about registration for the CSS Financial Aid Profile will be available from high school guidance offices for new students and from Wellesley College for returning students. Applicants should plan to register two weeks before the form is due to allow sufficient time for CSS to process the registration and for families to complete the Profile.

The Profile must be filed by February 1 for Regular Decision applicants and fall semester Transfer applicants, and by November 15 for spring semester Transfer applicants. Early Decision applicants must file the CSS Profile by November 15. All applicants, Regular Decision and Early Decision, should file for the FAFSA by February 1.

For Further Information

Please consult our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/SFS.

Graduate Fellowships

Wellesley College offers a number of fellowships for graduate study, independent research, and work that are open to graduating seniors and graduates of Wellesley. Two of these fellowships are open to women graduates of any American institution. Awards are usually made to applicants who plan full-time graduate study for the coming year. Please note that these fellowships are for study at institutions other than Wellesley College. Preference in all cases, except for the Peggy Howard Fellowship, will be given to applicants who have not held one of these awards previously. Decisions are based on merit and need, with the exception of the Knafel and Trustee awards, which are determined on merit alone. For more information about graduate fellowships and graduate school, visit our Web site: www.wellesley.edu/CWS.

For Wellesley College Graduating Seniors

Applications and supporting material for the Knafel awards must be received by February 6, 2006. Applications and supporting material for all other fellowships must be postmarked no later than January 6, 2006. If hand-delivered, the application must be received in the Center for Work and Service no later than January 6, 2006.

For Wellesley College Graduates: Opportunities in Asia

Elisabeth Luce Moore '24 Wellesley-Yenching Program. The Wellesley-Yenching Program is a lasting example of Wellesley College's long tradition of interest and involvement in China, dating from 1906. In 1999, Wellesley received a generous grant from the Henry Luce Foundation to honor Elisabeth Luce Moore '24 who was born in China and has been a strong supporter of the College's ties to Asia. Part of this grant was used to endow the Wellesley-Yenching Program and to strengthen these three opportunities to work in Asia:

Wellesley-Yenching Graduate Fellowship at Chung Chi College in Hong Kong. The fellow's time may be divided between helping to organize and promote English language activities at Chung Chi College as a whole, and serving as a teaching or research assistant for an academic department.

Wellesley-Yenching Graduate Fellowship at Ginling College in Nanjing, China. The fellows teach English in the classroom for approximately 12 to 14 hours each week with office hours three to four times a week.

Wellesley-Yenching Graduate Fellowship at the National Palace Museum in Taipei, Taiwan. Approximately one-half of the fellow's work will be with the NPM Secretariat where she will write, translate, and revise English documents for various departments. The other half of the fellow's work will be with one of the Museum's other departments.

Application information is available in the Center for Work and Service, 106 Central Street, Wellesley, MA 02481 or it can be found online at www.wellesley.edu/CWS. The deadline is February 27, 2006.

The Academic Program

The process of learning begins with the mind and motivation of the student herself. The most tempting array of courses and the most carefully planned requirements alone will not guarantee the growth of an educated mind. The academic experience is designed for the student who seeks a broad acquaintance with the many and diverse fields of human inquiry as well as the opportunity to explore her personal intellectual interests in depth. It provides for the acquisition of knowledge and the skills appropriate to the liberal arts but above all it is responsive to the student who genuinely wishes to acquire the habit of learning. It seeks to stimulate the mind, refine the eye, and enlarge the capacity for free, independent, and discriminating choice.

Online Course Information

Students may access Wellesley College course information and class schedules through the Internet via the Campus-Wide Information System: www.wellesley.edu.

The Curriculum

The curriculum at Wellesley is structured to provide strong guidance and to allow, at the same time, great personal choice. By the time a Wellesley student has earned the Bachelor of Arts degree, she should be acquainted with the main fields of human inquiry, capable of integrating knowledge from various fields, and prepared for continuous scholarly and personal growth. In her major field, the student is expected to demonstrate maturity of thought, acquaintance with recognized authorities in the field, and general competence in dealing with sources of research or analysis.

Requirements for Degree of Bachelor of Arts

Each student is responsible for meeting all degree requirements and for ensuring that the Registrar's Office has received all credentials. Each candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts is required to complete 32 units of academic work with a C average or better. With some exceptions, described below, each semester course is assigned one unit of credit. Specific courses, designated by their departments and approved by the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction, are assigned 1.25 units of credit. To be eligible for 1.25 units of credit, a course must meet for 300 minutes or more per week and involve, in addition, substantial time spent on course-related work outside scheduled class meetings. Departments may also request permission from the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction to offer courses for 0.5 units of credit. A student may earn no more than 2 units toward the degree as the result of the accumulation of fractional units through 1.25 unit courses taken at Wellesley; the same 2-unit limit applies to the accumulation of fractional units through 0.5 unit courses. A unit of credit is equivalent to four semester-hours or six quarter-hours. The normal period of time in which to earn the degree is four years and the average course load is four units per semester. First-year students are encouraged to carry a maximum of four units each semester, but upperclass students may take five. A minimum of three units is required of all students in residence.

Courses are classified as Grade I, II, or III. Introductory courses are numbered 100–199 (Grade I); intermediate courses, 200–299 (Grade II); advanced courses, 300–399 (Grade III). Each student must include in her program at least four units of Grade III work, at least two of which shall be in the major. At least two units of Grade III work must be taken in a student's last two years. Directions for election of the major vary with the department or program. Please see departmental or program listings for specific major requirements.

Distribution Requirements

In order to provide students with as much flexibility as possible, Wellesley requires no specific courses except Writing 125. However, to ensure that students gain insight and awareness in areas outside their major fields, the College requires that they elect nine units drawn from eight substantive and skill-based categories as part of the 32 units required for graduation. (Courses numbered 250/350, Research or Individual Study, or 360/370, Honors Research, do not satisfy this requirement.) Students who enter as first-year students must take six of these nine units at Wellesley, two units in each of the three groups of distribution areas described below. Transfer students and Davis Scholars who enter with eight units prior to Wellesley must take at least three units at Wellesley, and students entering with 16 prior units may take the distribution requirements at Wellesley or use their prior units.

Courses assigned to two distribution areas may not be used to fulfill two distribution requirements. This limitation does not apply to overlay requirements (the writing requirement, the multicultural requirement, and the Quantitative Reasoning requirement, described on p. 24).

Students must complete three units drawn from the following two distribution areas. At least one unit must come from each of these two areas:

Language and Literature

Courses in this group focus on: (1) the history, critical analysis, theory, and/or creation of literature, and (2) increasing mastery of the grammar, usage, and cultural context of languages studied beyond the elementary level. Courses in creative writing also fulfill this requirement.

Normally, only one course fulfilling the language requirement in a given department will be designated as satisfying the distribution requirement in Language and Literature. Courses in language instruction at the Grade One level may not be used to satisfy this distribution requirement.

Visual Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, and Video

Courses in this area focus on: (1) the history, critical analysis, and/or theory of the visual and performing arts, and (2) practice in the creation and performance of these arts.

Students must complete three units drawn from the following four distribution areas. One unit must come from the Social and Behavioral Analysis category; the two additional units must come from two of the three other categories:

Social and Behavioral Analysis

Courses fulfilling this requirement introduce students to different theoretical and methodological approaches to the study of human societies and behaviors. These courses examine how individuals interact with and are influenced by social groups and institutions, including those associated with politics, economics, religion, family, health, education, and the arts; how and why particular forms of social organization emerge within groups or societies; and the nature of social change and conflict.

Epistemology and Cognition

Courses in this area examine the nature, sources, and limits of human knowledge. Some of these courses consider the standards for justifying knowledge about human beings and the world in which they live, as well as philosophical debates, both contemporary and historical, about the nature of such standards. Other courses explore aspects of intelligence – among them language, memory, perception, and learning and the cognitive, computational, and neural processes that underlie them.

Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Courses meeting this requirement engage students in disciplined reflection on human conduct, the nature of values, the traditions of thought that have informed these values, and the religious traditions of the world. These courses will help students understand moral and political theory, ethical issues, and the role of religion in human life and society.

Historical Studies

Courses in this area develop students' understanding of history in one, or both, of two ways: (1) by illuminating the distinctiveness of one or another part of the past, with the goal of bringing students to an appreciation of political, social, economic, or cultural configurations different from their own, and (2) by exploring the processes of historical change, through which one configuration of institutions, ideas, and behaviors is replaced by another.

Students must complete three units from the following two distribution areas. At least one unit must come from each of these two areas, and at least one unit must be a laboratory course:

Natural and Physical Science

This requirement is designed to give students a basic knowledge of the capabilities and limitations of the scientific method of inquiry. Courses in this area focus on understanding scientific concepts and emphasize the methods used to gather, interpret, and evaluate scientific data.

Mathematical Modeling and Problem Solving in the Natural Sciences, Mathematics, and Computer Science

Courses in this group help students develop skills needed: (1) to formulate, understand, and analyze mathematical models of natural phenomena, and/or (2) to formulate and solve complex problems requiring a logical progression through multiple mathematical or computational steps.

Foreign Language Requirement

Students must exhibit a degree of proficiency in the use of one foreign language, either ancient or modern. Many students fulfill this requirement by passing one of the language tests offered by the College Board. Wellesley requires a score of 690 or better on the SAT II: Subject Test, or a score of at least 4 on the Advanced Placement Examination (AP) to fulfill the foreign language requirement for the classes of 2006, 2007, 2008, and 2009. Beginning with the class of 2010, a score of 690 on the SAT II subject test or a score of 5 on the AP exam is required. This requirement can also be met by the completion of two units of language study at the second-year college level or one unit of language study above the second-year college level.

Second-Year College Level Courses

Arabic	(See Middle Eastern Studies) Arabic 201–202
Chinese:	201 (1–2) or 203–204 (1–2)
French:	201–202 (1–2) or 203–204 (1–2)
German:	201–202 (1–2)
Greek:	201 (1), 202 (2) or Religion 298 (2)
Hebrew:	(see Jewish Studies), Hebrew 201–202
Italian:	201 (1), 202 (2)
Japanese:	201–202 (1–2)
Latin:	200 (1), 201 (2)
Russian:	201–202 (1–2)
Spanish:	201–202 (1–2)

Students may earn credit for introductory courses in no more than two modern foreign languages. Fulfillment of the foreign language requirement through work done at another institution must be approved by the appropriate department. A student whose native language is not English and who has studied that language and its literature through high school will be exempted from this requirement, subject to approval of the Class Dean and the Academic Review Board.

Writing Requirement

Each entering student is required to complete one semester of expository writing in her first year. Courses (numbered 125) are offered in the Writing Program. Transfer students and Davis Scholars who have not fulfilled a similar requirement must also complete one semester of expository writing, either a Writing 125 course or Writing 225. Students are expected to use acceptable standards of spoken and written English in their college work.

Multicultural Requirement

All students must complete one unit of course work that focuses on (1) African, Asian, Middle Eastern, Caribbean, Latin American, Native American, or Pacific Island peoples, cultures, or societies; and/or (2) a minority American culture, such as those defined by race, religion, ethnicity, sexual orientation, or physical ability; and/or (3) the processes of racism, social or ethnic bias, or cross-cultural interaction. Each student, in consultation with her first-year advisor, her major or minor advisor, or her Class Dean, will choose a course to meet this requirement. She will explain her choice in a written statement to be submitted to and signed by the advisor or dean with whom she has consulted.

The multicultural requirement may be satisfied with a course that also satisfies a distribution requirement. Writing 125 may not be used to satisfy the multicultural requirement.

Quantitative Reasoning Requirement

The ability to think clearly and critically about quantitative issues is imperative in contemporary society. Today, quantitative reasoning is required in virtually all academic fields, is used in almost every profession, and is necessary for decision-making in everyday life. The quantitative reasoning requirement is designed to ensure that all Wellesley College students are proficient in the use of mathematical, logical, and statistical problem-solving tools needed in today's increasingly quantitative world.

The quantitative reasoning requirement consists of two parts: (1) the basic skills component and (2) the overlay course component. The basic skills component is satisfied either by passing the Quantitative Reasoning Assessment given to all entering students or by passing QR 140, the basic skills course that builds mathematical skills in the context of real-world applications. Students are required to satisfy the basic skills component in their first year so that they may enroll in the many courses for which basic quantitative skills (including algebra, geometry, basic probability and statistics, graph theory, estimation, and combinatorics) are a prerequisite.

The overlay component is satisfied by passing a QR overlay course. Such courses emphasize statistical analysis and interpretation of data in a specific discipline. The Committee on Curriculum and Instruction has designated specific courses in fields from across the curriculum as ones that satisfy the QR overlay requirement. A QR overlay class may satisfy another distribution requirement as well. For more information about the Quantitative Reasoning Program, see Courses of Instruction.

The Major

Students may choose from over 50 departmental, interdepartmental, and structured individual majors or they may design an individual major. Of the 32 units required for graduation, at least eight are to be elected in the major. Many departments and programs require more than eight units, and Directions for Election of the major vary. (See departmental listings for specific requirements.) While a student must complete one major, she may choose to complete two majors or a major and a minor. No single course may be counted toward two majors or toward both a major and a minor.

Students who would like to elect an individual major should submit a plan of study to two faculty members from different departments. Normally, the plan should include eight units above the introductory level, four of which should be in one department. The program for the individual major is subject to the approval of the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction.

By the second semester of the sophomore year each student elects a major field and prepares for the Registrar a statement of the courses to be included in the major. Later revisions may be made with the approval of the chair of the major department, the director of the interdepartmental major, or in the case of the individual major, with the consent of the student's advisors and the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction.

Other Requirements

In order to ensure a broad exposure to the liberal arts curriculum and to avoid premature specialization, of the 32 units required for graduation, students must elect 18 units outside any one department. Of the last four semesters completed for the degree, a normal course load must be taken at Wellesley in two consecutive semesters.

In addition, all students must complete the physical education requirement described in the Courses of Instruction (see Department of Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics) for which no academic credit is given.

Additional Academic Programs

Research or Individual Study

Each academic department provides the opportunity for qualified students to undertake a program of individual study directed by a member of the faculty. Under this program, an eligible student may undertake a research project or a program of reading in a particular field. The results of this work normally are presented in a final report or in a series of short essays. Further conditions for such work are described (in departmental listings) under the courses 250, 250H, 350, and 350H. Students may do no more than two units of 350 work in any one department. Individual study courses may not be used to satisfy distribution requirements. For further opportunities for research and individual study see the Honors section under Academic Distinctions.

The Minor

Some departments and programs at Wellesley offer a minor. Normally, a minor consists of at least five units, with one of them at the Grade III level. Directions for Election of the minor are included in the departmental and program listings. Interested students should consult the chair of the department. A minor form must be filed in the Office of the Registrar. No student is required to complete a minor.

Preparation for Law School

The prelaw student should develop three basic competencies: skill in analysis and reasoning, effective writing and speaking, and breadth of understanding of the diverse factors that make up the community in which the legal system functions (see Legal Studies courses). These competencies can be developed in any field in which the student chooses to major, whether in the social sciences, the humanities, or the natural sciences. Law schools do not specify particular major fields or particular courses of study for admission. Law schools require applicants to submit transcripts from all institutions at which they have completed courses, including summer school and study abroad programs.

Preparation for Medical School

Medical, dental, and veterinary medical schools require special undergraduate preparation. Students should consult as early as possible with the Health Professions Advisory Committee to plan their academic preparation to meet their individual needs and interests. Appointments can be made with the Health Professions secretary in the Science Center.

In general, most health profession schools require two units of English and two units of each of the following science courses (with lab): Introductory Biology, Introductory Chemistry, Organic Chemistry, and Physics. Many schools also require mathematics, in some cases two units of calculus, and additional science courses. Veterinary schools frequently require courses such as speech, technical writing, animal nutrition, genetics, biochemistry, etc. Requirements vary and catalogues of individual schools should be consulted.

All science requirements should be completed before taking the Medical College Admission Test (MCAT) or the Dental Admission Test (DAT), which are taken approximately 16 months before entering medical or dental school. In order to receive the full support of the Health Professions Advisory Committee, undergraduate students should plan to complete at least six of the science and math course requirements at Wellesley and/or its exchange colleges.

Preparation for Engineering

Wellesley students interested in engineering can take advantage of the exchanges with MIT and Olin College. Those who would like to go on to graduate study in engineering can combine a set of engineering courses with a science major at Wellesley in a four-year program. They should consult with the relevant Wellesley advisor to develop a curricular plan. Students interested in an undergraduate engineering degree can apply to the Wellesley/MIT Double Degree Program (see Special Academic Programs).

Students interested in engineering should take mathematics and physics at Wellesley in preparation for courses at MIT and Olin. The Wellesley faculty advisors can provide information concerning engineering fields, prerequisites and contact persons at MIT and Olin.

Academic Advising

At Wellesley, academic advising is provided by the Class Deans and the faculty. The Class Dean is a central source of information about degree requirements, academic legislation, and resources available at the College to help students achieve their academic goals. She advises students about course selections and sequences, and she is available throughout a student's years at Wellesley for consultation about matters of more general intellectual and personal concern.

Starting during Orientation, the faculty serve as mentors about the liberal arts experience, helping first-year students discuss their academic interests, goals, and experiences during their first year at Wellesley and introducing them to areas of the curriculum about which they may lack knowledge. In addition, each first-year student is asked to select a faculty advisor, based on her first semester course choices, to ensure that she has an opportunity to explore her individual interests and concerns about the degree.

The advising of juniors and seniors is also shared by the faculty and the Class Deans. This arrangement provides for systematic and equitable supervision of each student's progress toward the B.A. degree. In addition, it has the double benefit of specialized advice from faculty in the major field and detailed examination of the student's overall program.

The Pforzheimer Learning and Teaching Center

The Pforzheimer Learning and Teaching Center, located in the Margaret Clapp Library, plays a significant role in supporting the intellectual life of both students and faculty on the Wellesley campus. The mission of the Center is twofold: (1) to help students realize their academic potential and (2) to provide opportunities for faculty members to explore different methods of teaching. Peer tutors are at the heart of the Center's academic services for students.

Tutors support students as they build on their academic strengths, overcome difficulties, and develop effective strategies for reading, writing, and thinking. Faculty members participate in programs that enable them to share insights, refine teaching skills, and implement pedagogical innovations.

Academic Policies and Procedures

The academic policies and procedures of the College have been subject to continuous change and examination throughout the College's history, responding to changes in student lifestyles and innovations in the curriculum. The policies and procedures that govern most routine aspects of academic life are described below.

Academic Standards

Academic standards at Wellesley are high, and students take full responsibility for attending classes, submitting required work on time, and appearing for examinations. If students have difficulties with course work, become ill, or have other problems that interfere with their academic work, they should consult with their Class Deans for assistance in making special arrangements for their studies. Tutoring and programs in study skills are offered through the Pforzheimer Learning and Teaching Center.

Students are expected to maintain at least a C average throughout their college career. At the end of each semester the records of those students who are not in good academic standing are examined by the Academic Review Board. The Board will recommend sources of help and may impose conditions for continuing at the College. The College tries to provide the appropriate support services to students in difficulty. Students who show consistent effort are rarely asked to leave the College.

Academic Review Board

The Academic Review Board is the principal body for overseeing each student's academic progress and for granting exceptions to degree requirements and academic policies. The Board researches and recommends changes in academic policy. Dates of Academic Review Board meetings are posted on the Campus-Wide Information System. A student who wishes to submit a petition to the Academic Review Board should do so in consultation with her Class Dean. She should deliver her petition, in writing, at least one week before the petition is to be considered by the Board.

Credit for Advanced Placement Examinations

Students matriculating prior to the fall of 2006 who have taken Advanced Placement Examinations and who make the scores specified by Wellesley College may receive up to eight units of credit toward the B.A. degree, provided they do not register in college for courses that cover substantially the same material as those for which they have received Advanced Placement credit. One unit of credit will be given for each AP examination to students who have received a grade of 4 or 5 with the following exceptions: one unit of credit will be given for a score of 3 and two units for a score of 4 or 5 on the Mathematics BC examination. For art history and studio art majors a score of 5 is required on the Art History examination for exemption from Art 100. No more than two units will be granted for credit in any one department. AP units may not be used to satisfy distribution requirements. Some departments or interdepartmental programs restrict the use of AP credits toward the major; consult the department or program or see Directions for Election under the departmental or program listings. Note: The taking of a course deemed equivalent to one for which AP credit has been granted will nullify the AP credit.

Students matriculating in the fall of 2006 or later who have taken Advanced Placement Examinations and who make the scores specified by Wellesley College may receive up to four units of credit toward the B.A. degree. Eligible students will be awarded credit upon application in the spring of the sophomore year, provided they do not register in college for courses that cover substantially the same material as those for which they have received Advanced Placement credit. One unit of credit will be given for each AP examination to students who have received a grade of 5 with the following exceptions: one unit will be given for a score of either 4 or 5 on the Mathematics AB (AP) examination or for an AB-subscore of 4 or 5 on the Mathematics BC (AP) exam. No more than two units will be granted for credit in any one department. AP units may not be used to satisfy distribution requirements. Some departments or interdepartmental programs restrict the use of AP credits toward the major; consult the department or program or see Directions for Election under the departmental or program listings.

Note: The taking of a course deemed equivalent to one for which AP credit has been granted will nullify the AP credit.

Wellesley College may grant credit for the International Baccalaureate (Higher Level) and other thirteenth-year programs outside the U.S. (e.g., A-levels). For more information, contact the Registrar's Office.

Summer School and Transfer Course Credit after Matriculation

Students who wish to take courses during the summer or while on a leave of absence must get their courses approved for credit toward the Wellesley degree. An approval form, available in the Registrar's Office, must be completed for each course taken outside the Twelve College Exchange Program or outside an approved foreign study program. On this form the Registrar's Office will evaluate the course for the amount of credit, and the department chair for course content. Certain academic departments will not approve outside credit from two-year colleges after a student has matriculated (see departmental Directions for Election). Students should have their courses evaluated and approved prior to enrolling, otherwise credit is not guaranteed. (A course must be equivalent to four semester-hours or six quarter-hours in order to earn one full unit of Wellesley credit.) Credit will be granted only for liberal arts courses taken at an accredited institution. Courses must be taken for a letter grade, and credit will be given only for an approved course in which a grade of C or better is earned. Students must request that an official transcript be sent to the Wellesley College Registrar's Office. Transcripts should be received by October 1 for summer and previous year course work and by March 1 for fall semester work.

Approved courses may be used toward the distribution requirement within the limitations outlined on pp. 22–24. Students must earn the equivalent of three full Wellesley units (12 semester-hours or 18 quarter-hours) in each distribution group. First-year students must fulfill the writing requirement by completing Writing 125.

Limitations on the Amount of Outside Credit Used Toward the Degree

Of the 32 units required for the B.A. degree, a student may earn a maximum of 16 units through a combination of the following: AP examinations (no more than eight for students matriculating prior to fall of 2006, no more than four for students matriculating in fall 2006 or later), courses taken at another institution during the summer (no more than four), courses at another institution not taken during the summer (no more than eight), college and university credit earned prior to graduation from secondary school and not included in the units of secondary school work presented for admission (no more than two for students matriculating prior to fall 2006, no more than four for students matriculating in fall 2006 or later). All students, including transfer students and Davis Scholars, must complete 16 units at Wellesley. There are limits on the number of outside credits that can be used to fulfill the distribution requirement. See pp. 22–24.

Exemption from Required Studies

Students may be exempted from any of the studies required for the degree, except Writing 125, provided they can demonstrate to the department concerned a reasonable competence in the elements of the course. Exemption from any of the studies required does not affect the general requirement for completion of 32 units of credit. It does, however, make it possible for some students to select more advanced courses earlier in their college careers.

Arrangements for exemption must be made with the chair of the department concerned. In addition to the examination, some departments may require the student to present a paper or an acceptable laboratory notebook. See department listing for specific policies.

Grading System

Wellesley uses the following letter grade system:

Grade A (4.00) is given to students who meet with conspicuous excellence every demand that can fairly be made by the course.

Grade A– (3.67)

Grade B+ (3.33)

Grade B (3.00) is given to those students who add to the minimum of satisfactory attainment excellence in not all, but some, of the following: organization, accuracy, originality, understanding, and insight.

Grade C+ (2.33)

Grade C (2.00) is given to those students who have attained a satisfactory familiarity with the content of a course and who have demonstrated ability to use this knowledge in a satisfactory manner.

Grade C- (1.67)

Grade D (1.00) is a passing grade. There is no grade of D+ or D-.

Grade F (0.00)

Students also have the option of electing courses on a credit/noncredit basis. By the end of the third week of a semester, students declare their decision to take a course credit/noncredit using the online registration system. Credit (CR) is given to students who have earned a grade of C or better in the work of the course, thereby indicating satisfactory familiarity with the content of the course. If a grade lower than C is earned, the course will appear on the permanent record with the notation, (NCR), meaning no credit is earned.

Students may take an unlimited number of courses on a credit/noncredit basis. In order to remain eligible for Academic Distinction at Commencement, however, a student may not exceed certain limits in the number of credit/noncredit courses she takes. Students who begin their degrees as first-year students at Wellesley may take no more than one-quarter of their Wellesley and MIT courses after the first year on a credit/noncredit basis. For students who begin their degrees somewhere other than at Wellesley (that is, for transfer students and Davis Scholars), the number of credit/noncredit courses is prorated in proportion to the number of Wellesley courses taken after the equivalent of the first year of college. Students can consult their Class Deans for further clarification.

Incomplete Work

If work for a course is not completed by the end of a semester, a student may ask her instructor for an incomplete. The instructor may decide not to grant an incomplete but rather to assign a grade, taking into account that not all requirements for the course have been met. If the instructor does agree to give the student an incomplete, the student must submit any missing written work to the Registrar's Office by a date determined by the instructor but no later than the first day of the succeeding semester. Make-up exams are arranged by the Registrar's Office, generally during the first week of classes. Once all work has been completed and graded, a final grade preceded by "I" will be recorded on the transcript. If a student does not finish her incomplete work by the deadline, the instructor may either submit a grade or ask the Registrar's Office to record a grade of permanent "INC."

Excused Incomplete Work

If illness or personal emergency prevents a student from completing her course work by the end of the semester, she may petition the Academic Review Board through her Class Dean to have an incomplete excused. If her petition is granted, the incomplete notation will be removed from her record once the work is completed and a final grade is submitted.

Examinations

An examination period occurs at the end of each semester. Within this period, students determine which of the ten exam periods they intend to use for courses with self-scheduled exams. Examinations are scheduled for some art, music, science, and foreign language courses that require audiovisual equipment. Make-up and special examinations are offered at the beginning of each semester for admission to advanced courses without the stated prerequisites and for exemption from required studies.

Transcripts and Grade Reports

Official transcripts may be ordered in writing from the Registrar's Office. The request for a transcript should include the name and address of the person to whom the transcript is to be sent, the name by which the person was known as a student at Wellesley, and the years of attendance at the College. There is a charge of $3 for each transcript, and this fee should accompany the request. Transcripts may not be issued if the student has an outstanding bill. Current students may view their grades online at the end of each semester.

Registration for Courses

All returning students must register in April for the courses they select for the fall semester and in November for the spring semester. The registration system remains open to accommodate changes, and students' schedules are available online. All changes to this schedule must be recorded in the Registrar's Office by the end of the second week of classes. A student will not receive credit for a course unless she has registered for it, and a student who has registered for a course will remain registered unless she takes formal action to drop it. Each student is responsible for maintaining the accuracy of her registration.

Any conflicts in scheduling must be reported to the Registrar's Office immediately. A student is not permitted to take a course if it conflicts with any other course on her schedule.

Adding or Dropping Courses

Students may add classes during the first two weeks of classes only. A course may be dropped at any time through the last day of classes. If a course is dropped before the beginning of the fifth week of classes, it will not appear on a student's record. Students are advised to consult their Class Dean when making any changes in their program.

Auditing Courses

A student who wishes to attend a class as a regular visitor must have the permission of the instructor. Auditors may not submit work to the instructor for criticism, and audited courses will not be considered for credit. An audited course does not appear on the transcript.

Acceleration

Some students complete all the requirements for the degree in less than the usual eight semesters. After one semester at Wellesley, students who wish to accelerate should consult their Class Deans and then write a letter to the Academic Review Board, petitioning to fulfill the requirements in less than the normal period of time.

The petition should include the month and year in which the degree requirements will be fulfilled, and all units that will be counted toward the degree.

An accelerating student must maintain at least a C average at all times.

Voluntary Departures from the College (Leave of Absence and Withdrawal)

Recognizing that students may benefit from interrupting the ordinary sequence of four continuous years at Wellesley, the College allows students to take leaves of absence for a variety of reasons that may include study at another institution, work, travel, health or family problems, or other personal needs. Application for a leave of absence may be made to the Class Dean after a student has completed at least one semester at Wellesley. The leave may be for as short a period as one semester or as long as four semesters. A student who goes on a leave of absence cannot remain in residence on campus more than 48 hours after the effective date of the leave. If a student's leave exceeds four semesters, she will be withdrawn from the College but will be welcome to apply for readmission if she so chooses.

Application for a voluntary leave of absence is due by December 1 for spring semester and by April 15 for fall semester. To obtain permission to attend another institution with the intention of transferring credit back to her Wellesley degree, a student must also submit a detailed plan to her major advisor and her Class Dean. A student on leave may transfer to her Wellesley degree up to eight units of credit taken during an academic year at another institution, four units per semester.

A student who plans to return to the College should take a leave of absence; a student who wishes to leave the College permanently should notify her Class Dean that she is withdrawing. A student who withdraws cannot remain in residence on campus more than 48 hours after the effective date of the withdrawal. If, after withdrawing, a student decides she does after all wish to rematriculate at Wellesley, she must apply for readmission.

Required Departures from the College (Conditional Leaves of Absence, Withdrawal, Suspension, and Expulsion)

The College reserves the right to require a student to leave. She may be suspended if she violates College rules and regulations or the rights of others, or she may be required to take a leave of absence for various reasons: if her continuing presence constitutes a risk to her health, safety or general well-being or to those of the College community; if she is not making adequate progress toward the degree; or if she fails to meet financial obligations to the College. If a student is suspended or required to go on leave, she will not be allowed to return to the College until she has met conditions set by the appropriate College official or board. These conditions will be related to the cause of the suspension or leave. A student on a medical conditional leave, for example, would be required to provide documentation of appropriate medical treatment; a student on an academic conditional leave would be required to meet conditions set by the Academic Review Board; a student on a financial conditional leave would be required to clear her balance. If the student does not meet the conditions of her leave within four semesters, she will be withdrawn from the College. If she later decides to apply for readmission, she must fulfill the conditions of the original leave.

The College also reserves the right to withdraw or expel a student who has egregiously or repeatedly failed to maintain academic or behavioral standards. A student who has been withdrawn may apply for readmission at some later date, whereas a student who has been expelled will not be considered for readmission.

Readmission

A student who has withdrawn from the College and wishes to return should contact the Office of the Dean of Students for the appropriate forms. Readmission will be considered in light of the reasons for withdrawal. A nonrefundable fee of $30 must accompany the application for readmission.

Special Academic Programs

The traditional four-year curriculum offered at Wellesley is enriched by many special academic programs. Some are administered by the College and some are programs run by other institutions in which Wellesley students may participate. Students may participate in some while in residence at the College; others involve living at other colleges or abroad for a semester or a year.

Wintersession

Wintersession is a time in January when students may choose to remain on campus to pursue internships or independent study, noncredit courses, or courses offered for academic credit. Wellesley offers a number of Wintersession courses for credit, including introductory and intermediate language courses, interdisciplinary courses not offered during the fall and spring terms, and immersion experiences involving travel abroad. Several credit-bearing courses are also available at MIT during Wintersession. Students taking Wintersession courses are subject to academic regulations as if they were taking the course during a regular semester.

Wellesley College Summer School

This program is open to undergraduates, postgraduates, and high school juniors and seniors in good academic standing. It offers a range of courses drawn from the Wellesley College curriculum and taught by Wellesley faculty. College students and college graduates may opt to live in the Summer School residence hall or off campus. High school students may not live in the residence hall. Tuition and other fees for summer school are not included in the regular-year tuition. Wellesley students may apply for limited financial aid from the Summer School Office; no financial aid is available to non-Wellesley students.

Wellesley Summer School courses carry full academic course credit; they count as regular units for Wellesley students and are included on the student's transcript and in the calculation of her grade point average; they do not count toward the limit of four Summer School units that Wellesley students can apply to their degrees. For more information, please contact the Summer School Office or consult your Class Dean.

Cross-Registration Program with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Wellesley operates a program of cross-registration with Massachusetts Institute of Technology. A Wellesley student interested in taking specific classes at MIT should consult with the faculty advisor for the relevant MIT department. Registration in MIT courses takes place each semester in both the Wellesley Registrar's Office and in the Exchange Office at MIT. Students electing to take courses at MIT must register at both institutions during an extended add/drop period of one week each semester. A student will not receive credit for an MIT course unless she has registered properly for it at both MIT and Wellesley. First-year students in their first semester may not take courses at MIT. The amount of Wellesley credit is determined by the total number of hours listed for a course in the MIT catalog as follows:

Total MIT Hours	Wellesley Units
<6	no Wellesley credit
6 to 8.99	.50 units
9 to 14.99	1.00 unit
15 to 17.99	1.25 units
18 to 24	2.00 units

Wellesley Double Degree Program

Wellesley offers a Double Degree Program that enables Wellesley students who are accepted to MIT as transfer students to earn a B.A. degree from Wellesley and an S.B. degree from MIT over the course of five years. Students fulfill degree and major requirements at both institutions.

Interested Wellesley students apply for transfer admission to MIT during the spring semester of their sophomore year. Students may only consider the MIT departments listed on the Double Degree Web site: <http://www.wellesley.edu/USStudy/mitdoubledegree.html>. Students should also be aware that access to a given department could at times be limited for transfer students. Wellesley applicants are subject to the same admissions criteria and financial aid policies used by MIT for all other college transfer applicants.

Accepted students do not enroll at MIT until they have completed their junior year at Wellesley. During this “bridge year” students are assigned major advisors at both institutions so that they can plan a program which will advance their work toward both degrees. During the fourth and fifth years students enroll at MIT. Our existing Wellesley/MIT Exchange permits cross-registration throughout the five-year period; this enables students to integrate their two courses of study more completely.

Wellesley/Brandeis BA/MAief 5-year Program

(or BA/MAief 5-year Program)

Brandeis University’s Master of Arts in International Economics and Finance (MAief) is a two-year graduate program in its International Business School. This program prepares students for careers in international finance, business, policymaking and other fields that require strong analytical skills in international economics and finance. Qualified Wellesley undergraduate economics majors who wish to earn the MAief may apply in their junior year to pursue a special track, the BA/MAief, beginning in the senior undergraduate year. The BA/MAief program allows a student to complete a Wellesley BA and then the MAief with only one year of post-BA study. Additional information on the BA/MAief program can be obtained from the Department of Economics.

Cooperative Programs with Babson College, Brandeis University, and Olin College of Engineering

Wellesley has established cooperative programs with Babson College, Brandeis University, and Olin College of Engineering. All courses must be approved individually for transfer credit and for the major by the relevant Wellesley department. Students interested in taking specific courses at Olin should consult with the Wellesley faculty advisor for the relevant Olin department.

The Twelve College Exchange Program

Wellesley belongs to a consortium that includes Amherst, Bowdoin, Connecticut College, Dartmouth, Mount Holyoke, Smith, Trinity, Vassar, Wesleyan, Wheaton, and Williams. Two one-semester programs associated with the Twelve College Exchange are the National Theater Institute in Waterford, Connecticut, and the Williams Mystic Seaport Program in American Maritime Studies. Students in good standing may apply for a semester or full academic year in residence at any of the member institutions with the following exception. Williams has announced that it will not be accepting exchange students until further notice. The number of places on all campuses is limited and admission is competitive. Preference is given to students planning to participate in their junior year.

Students must request that transcripts be sent to the Registrar’s Office to receive credit for work done away from Wellesley.

The Wellesley-Spelman Exchange Program

Wellesley maintains a student exchange program with Spelman College in Atlanta, Georgia, a Black liberal arts college for women. The program is open to students in their junior or senior year.

The Wellesley-Mills Exchange Program

Wellesley maintains an exchange program with Mills College, a women’s college in Oakland, California, which has a cross-registration program with the University of California at Berkeley.

Semester in Environmental Science at Woods Hole

Qualified Wellesley students may apply for the Semester in Environmental Science Program held each fall at the Marine Biological Laboratory in Woods Hole, Massachusetts. This 14-week program emphasizes the measurement and understanding of biogeochemical cycles and processes in terrestrial, freshwater, and marine ecosystems. Intended primarily for juniors, participation is limited to approximately two students per year. Interested students should contact the Department of Biological Sciences for additional information.

International Study

Approximately 40 percent of students elect to spend a semester or year abroad, normally during the junior year, in order to gain language proficiency, develop a new perspective on their majors, or to take courses that are not available on campus. Wellesley sponsors study abroad programs and exchanges in Argentina, Austria, England, France, Italy, Japan, Korea, Mexico and Spain. In addition, students may choose from a list of more than 100 approved externally-administered programs worldwide. For more information on the available study abroad programs, please visit the Office of International Study.

Students studying abroad during the 2005–06 academic year pay tuition and fees directly to the provider; regular Wellesley financial aid does not apply to study abroad programs sponsored by other institutions. Beginning in the 2006–07 academic year, students who enroll in any approved study abroad program will pay regular Wellesley tuition and fees and will remain eligible for Wellesley financial aid.

Students considering study abroad should consult their Class Dean and the Director of International Studies in the fall of their sophomore year in order to determine eligibility and application requirements. Upon successful completion of an approved program of study abroad, students may earn up to four Wellesley units per semester. All courses must be approved in advance by the Office of International Study, and official transcripts must be sent from the program provider to the Registrar’s Office.

Summer International Study

In lieu of or in addition to a semester or year abroad, many students participate in international summer programs, either for academic credit or personal enrichment. The Office of International Study can assist students in locating and applying to appropriate summer programs. Students wishing to earn credit for a summer program must have courses approved in advance both by the relevant academic department chair and by the Director of International Studies.

Washington Summer Internship Program

The College sponsors a summer public service internship program in Washington, D.C. The internships are for ten weeks and come with paid housing in local university dormitories and with stipends to help cover other living costs. Selection of participants is made each fall and is based on academic background, faculty recommendations, work experience, extracurricular activities, a writing sample, and an interview.

The Washington program offers an opportunity for 16–18 juniors to work in government agencies, political organizations, public interest groups, and research and cultural centers. Recent placements have included the White House Communications Office, the State Department, the Senate Judiciary Committee, the Sierra Club, the National Women's Health Network, and the National Gallery of Art. In addition to their full-time jobs, interns plan and participate in a weekly seminar program designed to broaden their understanding of government, politics, and public policy. Each intern is also assigned a mentor from the Washington Alumnae Club. For further information, contact the Department of Political Science.

Academic Distinctions

To give recognition for superior or advanced work, either upon graduation or during the student's career, the College confers a number of academic distinctions.

Honors in the Major Field

Students who have shown marked excellence in their major field may earn honors in the major. The usual route to honors, offered by all departments and programs, involves writing an honors thesis and successfully passing an oral examination by a thesis committee. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level. Some departments and programs require a higher average. Departments may petition on behalf of exceptional students whose averages fall between 3.0 and 3.5. Students enroll in Senior Thesis Research (360) in the first semester and carry out independent work under the supervision of a faculty member. If sufficient progress is made, students continue with Senior Thesis (370) in the second semester. Specific requirements vary with departments and program; see the relevant sections of the bulletin for details. Some departments and programs offer other routes to honors in the major; these are described in their Directions for Election.

Other Academic Distinctions

The College names to First-Year Distinction those students who maintain high academic standing during the first year. Wellesley College Scholars and Durant Scholars are named at Commencement, based on academic records after the first year. Students with an average of 3.60 or higher will be Wellesley College Scholars cum laude; those with an average of 3.75 or higher will be Durant Scholars magna cum laude; students with a 3.90 or higher average will be Durant Scholars summa cum laude.

For purposes of establishing honors, grade point averages are truncated to two decimal places. Students whose records contain more than three incompletes within the last 24 units or who have taken more than a stipulated number of credit/non-credit courses (see Grading System) shall not be eligible for these honors.

Juniors and seniors are elected to membership in the Eta of Massachusetts chapter of Phi Beta Kappa on the basis of their total academic achievement in college. Seniors who are majoring in the sciences may be elected to associate membership in the Wellesley chapter of Sigma Xi.

On recommendation of the faculty, the trustees award the title of Trustee Scholar to four seniors who intend to pursue graduate studies. The awards are made on a competitive basis; the title is honorary. In cases of financial need, stipends are awarded to the Scholars or, if not required by them, to alternates who need financial assistance. Applications and supporting credentials should be sent to the Secretary to the Committee on Graduate Fellowships by December 1.

Certain prizes have been established at the College for the recognition of excellence in a particular field. The selection of the recipient is made by the appropriate academic department; each award carries a small stipend or gift and usually bears the name of the donor or the person honored.

Courses of Instruction

A semester course that carries one unit of credit requires approximately eleven hours of work each week spent partly in class and partly in preparation. The amount of time scheduled for classes varies with the subject from two periods each week in many courses in the humanities and social sciences to three, four, or five scheduled periods in certain courses in foreign languages, in art and music, and in the sciences.

A semester course which carries 1.25 units of credit ordinarily includes at least 300 minutes per week of scheduled class time as well as significant work outside of class. Classes are scheduled from Monday morning through late Friday afternoon.

AFR 105 Introduction to the Black Experience Martin

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course serves as the introductory offering in Africana Studies. It explores in an interdisciplinary fashion salient aspects of the Black experience, both ancient and modern, at home and abroad.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

AFR 201 The African American Literary Tradition Cudjoe

A survey of the Afro-American experience as depicted in literature from the eighteenth century through the present. Study of various forms of literary expression including the short story, autobiography, literary criticism, poetry, drama, and essays as they have been used as vehicles of expression for Black writers during and since the slave experience.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

AFR 202/PHIL 202 Introduction to African Philosophy

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Initiation into basic African philosophical concepts and principles. The first part of the course deals with a systematic interpretation of such questions as the Bantu African philosophical concept of Muntu and related beliefs, as well as Bantu ontology, metaphysics, and ethics. The second part centers on the relationship between philosophy and ideologies and its implications in Black African social, political, religious, and economic institutions. The approach will be comparative. Students may register for either AFR 202 or PHIL 202 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: Open to seniors, juniors, and sophomores without prerequisite and to first-year students who have taken one other course in philosophy.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy or Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.
Unit: 1.0

AFR 203/SOC 203 Introduction to African American Sociology Rollins

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An introduction to the African American intellectual traditions within the discipline of sociology. Beginning with an examination of the contributions of the founders of these traditions (DuBois, Johnson, Frazier, Cox et al.), the course then focuses on some of the main contemporary discussions: the Black family, Afrocentric sociology, the class versus race debate, and feminist sociology. Throughout the semester, African American sociology will be discussed within the contexts of traditional Eurocentric sociology and the particular political-economic structure in which it exists. Students may register for either AFR 203 or SOC 203 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

AFR 204 Third World Urbanization Steady

Beginning with the origins and characteristics of cities in selected Third World countries, the course then focuses on the socioeconomic structure of preindustrial cities and the later impact of colonialism, concluding with an examination of contemporary issues of Third World cities.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

Unit: 1.0

AFR 207 Images of Africana People through the Cinema Obeng

An investigation of the social, political, and cultural aspects of development of Africana people through the viewing and analysis of films from Africa, Afro-America, Brazil, and the Caribbean. The class covers precolonial, colonial, and post-colonial experiences and responses of Africana people. Films shown will include Sugar Cane Alley, Zan Boko, and Sankofa.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall

AFR 208/SOC 206 Women in the Civil Rights Movement Rollins

An examination of the role of women in the classical Civil Rights Movement. Particular attention will be paid to the interplay between the social factors of the women (e.g., their class, religiosity, race, regional background, age) and their perspectives/behavior within the movement. Essentially, women's impact on the Civil Rights Movement and the effects of the Movement on the women involved are the foci of this course. Students may register for either AFR 208 or SOC 206 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall
Unit: 1.0

AFR 209/ARTH 209 Topics in West African Art Hyacinthe (Art)

Topic for 2005-06: West African Photography. This course will look at the emergence of West African photography in the mid-nineteenth century initially as a medium used by Europeans during the colonialist era and subsequently employed by West Africans themselves as a medium of self-definition and liberation. A wide range of examples will be examined including: nineteenth-century African studio photography in Sierra Leone, the mid-twentieth-century work of Malian, Seydou Keita, photographs in important visual cultural outlets like the Nigerian Drum Magazine, and works by contemporary African photographers such as Ousmane Ndiaye Dago of Senegal. The political and stylistic aspects of portraiture, documentary, ethnography, pop and abstraction will be important to our discussion of the medium. Students may register for either AFR 209 or ARTH 209 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: ARTH 101 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

AFR 217 The Black Family Adkins

This course is an overview of the African American family in economic, sociological, psychological, economic, anthropological, and historical perspectives. It is an examination of the complex interplay of self-definitions, societal, and community definitions among African American women, men, and children within the context of their families. The course is also an exploration of changing gender roles among African American women and men.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

AFR 222 Images of Women and Blacks in American CinemaObeng

A study of the creation of images and their power to influence the reality of race and gender in the American experience. Viewing and analysis of American cinema as an artistic genre and as a vehicle through which cultural and social history are depicted.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Spring

AFR 224/MUS 209 A History of JazzTBA

This course offers a listener's introduction to jazz, one of the greatest expressions of American artistic genius. Early jazz drew from several vibrant streams of indigenous musical art (including ragtime and blues), and subsequent stylistic phases have corresponded closely to significant developments in social history; knowledge of jazz is thus highly relevant to an understanding of American culture since 1900. Through a selection of recordings and readings, we will follow the progression of jazz styles from African roots to recent developments. A fundamental goal of the course is that students learn to listen to music critically: to discern and interpret form, texture, style, and expressive content in jazz of all periods. Students may register for either AFR 224 or MUS 209 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken AFR 233/MUS 233.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or

Historical Studies

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

AFR 225 Introduction to Black Psychology

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Issues and perspectives in the study of the psychological development of Black people in America, past and present. Special consideration is given to such issues as the Afrocentric and Eurocentric ethos, the nature of Black personality as affected by slavery and racism, psychological assessment, treatment and counseling techniques, and the relationships between psychological research and social policy in American research.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

AFR 226 Seminar. Environmental Justice, Race, and Sustainable DevelopmentSteady

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An investigation of the extent to which the causes and consequences of environmental degradation are influenced by social inequality and the devaluation of indigenous peoples. The course will examine how the poor, indigenous peoples and people of color are subjected to environmental hazards. Topics include the link between negative environmental trends and social inequality; the social ecology of slums, ghettos and shanty towns; the disproportionate exposure of some groups to pollutants, toxic chemicals, and carcinogens; dumping of hazardous waste in Africa and other Third World countries; and industrial threats to the ecology of small island states in the Caribbean. The course will evaluate Agenda 21, the international program of action from the Earth Summit designed to halt environmental degradation and promote sustainable development.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

AFR 227/MUS 208 The Blues in Historical and Cultural Context

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course offers a historical overview of the development of recorded blues music, a genre with a deep and lasting influence on the American musical and cultural landscape. Understanding the development of the blues entails considering the social conditions that informed twentieth-century African American life. Through related readings and class discussions, we will address these conditions as key issues in the study of the blues. We will develop a critical vocabulary for discussing blues music as a cultural phenomenon, and, through close listening and music analysis, we will learn how to discern the presence of blues influence in other musical genres. Students may register for either AFR 227 or MUS 208 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or

Historical Studies

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

AFR 229 Rap Music and the African American Poetical TraditionCudjoe

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course examines the African American poetical tradition from its roots in African oral literature to its contemporaneous manifestation in rapping, a showcase for African American braggadocio, and the art of verbal dexterity and storytelling. The connection of this literary tradition with American cultural values will also be explored. The course will examine the works of Phyllis Wheatley, Langston Hughes, James Weldon Johnson, Melvin Tolson, Gwendolyn Brooks, Robert Hayden, Derek Walcott, Gill Scott-Heron, the Last Poets, Nikki Giovanni, Public Enemy, Run-D.M.C., Tupac, and other artists.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

AFR 232/332/MUS 225/325 Topics in Ethnomusicology: Africa and the Caribbean
Washington (Music)

The course will focus on the traditional, folk, and popular musics of Africa and the Caribbean. Emphasis will be placed on issues of Africanism and marginal retention in the music of Brazil, Cuba, and Haiti. The musical repertoires of Candomble, Santeria, and Vodun, as well as the samba, rumba, and meringue will be discussed in terms of their respective influences on the modern musics of Africa. The musical "round trip" between Africa and the Caribbean, whereby genres like the rumba spawned new forms including the juju of Nigeria, the soukous of Zaire, and the highlife of Ghana will be closely examined. Musical analysis will be required of those students electing to enroll at the 300 level. Students may register for either AFR 232/332 or MUS 225/325 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: MUS 100, 111, 122 or permission of instructor. In addition, for MUS 325 or AFR 332, MUS 200 or 201 is required.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

AFR 234 Introduction to West Indian LiteratureCudjoe

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of contemporary prose and poetry from the English-speaking West Indies. Special attention is paid to the development of this literary tradition in a historical-cultural context and in light of the perspectives recent literary theories offer. Authors to include: V. S. Naipul, Derek Walcott, Wilson Harris, Jean Rhys, and others.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

AFR 235 Societies and Cultures of Africa
Steady

The objective of this course is to provide students with an introduction to the richness, diversity, and complexity of African societies and cultures while appreciating their unifying features. Topics to be discussed include forms of social organization, the importance to kinship and marriage systems, the centrality of religion, the position of women, urbanization and problems of development, democratization, and political transformation, political instability, and armed conflicts. In order to understand a people's view of themselves and of their relationship to the outside world, an in-depth case study will be made of one ethnic group - the Yoruba of southwestern Nigeria.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

AFR 242 New World Afro-Atlantic Religions
Obeng

With readings, documentary films, discussions, and lectures, this course will examine the complex spiritual beliefs and expressions of peoples of African descent in Brazil, Cuba, Haiti, Jamaica, and North America. The course surveys African diasporic religions such as Candomble, Santeria, Voodoo, Shango, and African American religions. Attention will be paid to how diasporic Africans practice religion for self-definition, community building, sociocultural critique, and for reshaping the religious and cultural landscapes of the Americas.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

Obeng

An examination of African experience and expression of religion. The course surveys African religions among the Akan of Ghana, Yoruba of Nigeria, Nuer of the Sudan, the Zulu of South Africa, and the Bemazava-Sakalava of Madagascar. The course will focus on how gender, age, status, and cultural competence influence Africans' use of architecture, ritual, myth, dance, and music to communicate, elaborate on the cosmos, and organize their lives. Special attention will be paid to the resiliency of African deities and indigenous cultural media during the encounter between African religions, Christianity, and Islam.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

AFR 266 Black Drama

Cudjoe
This course will examine twentieth-century Black drama, with a special emphasis on the period of its efflorescence during the Black Arts Movement of the 1960s and 1970s. We will also explore the Black theatre as a medium of aesthetic expression and communal ritual as well as an instrument of political consciousness and social change. Playwrights will include Douglass Turner Ward, Alice Childress, Ossie Davis, Lorraine Hansberry, James Baldwin, Ed Bullins, Adrienne Kennedy, LeRoi Jones (Amiri Baraka), Ntozake Shange, and others.

Semester: N/O Unit: 0.5

AFR 297 Medical Anthropology: A Comparative Study of Healing Systems

Steady

This course examines alternative healing systems that attempt to treat the whole person as a physical, social, and spiritual being and to promote community participation and healing. It offers new perspectives on the biomedical model as it examines the sociocultural context of the causation, diagnosis, prevention, and cure of disease. Examples of healing systems will be from Third World countries, particularly in Africa, the Caribbean, and Latin America, and from industrialized societies, particularly from African American and indigenous communities in the United States. Examination will be made of healing systems which include divination, herbal medicine, folk medicine, and faith healing.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

AFR 300 Heritage and Culture in Jamaica: A Wintersession Experience

Steady
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Jamaica is a country that provides a unique opportunity for the study of multiculturalism in action. Its national motto is "Out of many, one people." The study abroad wintersession course in Jamaica will explore the history, culture, and political economy of the country and promote an understanding of the Caribbean as a whole through seminars, participatory field research, and internships. The program will give students an opportunity for total immersion in the Jamaican environment and for participation in several community-based projects that will add experiential value to their classroom-based education. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.

Prerequisite: By permission of the department. Application required.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 0.5

AFR 301 Seminar. South Africa

Steady
An examination of the degree of success or failure in social transformation from a racist, centralized, and oppressive apartheid system to a nonracial, democratic and participatory system which seeks to promote social and economic justice for all its citizens. Topics include the structural challenges to social transformation, socioeconomic development and resource distribution, the persistence of de facto apartheid, the Truth and Reconciliation Commission, increasing poverty among the African population, the HIV/AIDS epidemic, the impact of globalization, and South Africa's place in Africa and the world at large.

Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

AFR 307 Modern African Political Thought

Boadi
This seminar course will examine the political ideas of major figures who have shaped African history in the last hundred years. It will explore the intellectual means they employed in grappling with European imperialism and the post-colonial period. It will look more specifically at the premises and implications of Negritude, Pan-Africanism, African Socialism, and new trends towards democratization. It will do so through an in-depth investigation of the works of such political thinkers as Frantz Fanon, W.E.B. DuBois, Marcus Garvey, Nkrumah, Kenyatta, Nyerere, Senghor, Cabral, Nassar, Gaddafi, and Mandela.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Cudjoe
This course examines six selected novelists from the African Diaspora and the continent. They include Frederick Douglass, The Narrative of Frederick Douglass; Booker T. Washington, Up From Slavery; Sembene Ousmane, God's Bits of Wood; Michel Maxwell Philip, Emmanuel Appadocca; Stephen Nathaniel Cobham, Rupert Gray; Ralph De Bossiere, Crown Jewel; Selwyn R. Cudjoe, Beyond Boundaries; Bernard Bell, The Afro-American Novel and Its Tradition; and Gregory Wilson, Between Piracy and Justice: Liminality in Maxwell Philip, Emmanuel Appadocca. The course concentrates on the commonality of themes and approaches to the explanation of similar phenomenon. The selected texts draw on and reflect the slave and colonial experiences.

AFR 316/ARTH 316 Contemporary African Exhibitions

Hyacinthe (Art)
The ground-breaking Short Century: Independence and Liberation Movements in Africa 1945-1994, curated by Okwui Enwezor and his team of African scholars, was influential in framing how modern/postmodern African art would be contextualized in museums and galleries in the new millennium. How might we view this exhibition in relation to preceding, contemporaneous and subsequent large-scale African exhibitions? Students will critique the important exhibits of the era, develop a familiarity with the primary artists on display, and formulate a curatorial strategy for their own contemporary African Art show. Students may register for either AFR 316 or ARTH 316 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: ARTH 101, 209, or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

AFR 318 Seminar. African Women, Social Transformation, and Empowerment

Steady

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Comparative analysis of the role of women in development with emphasis on the struggle within struggle - the movement to achieve political and economic progress for Africa and its people and the struggle within that movement to address problems and issues that directly affect women. We will explore women's participation in political movements and ways to improve the status of women.

Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

AFR 341 Topics in Africana Social Science

Obeng

Topic for 2005-06: Neglected Africans of the Diaspora. The seminar explores the nature and composition of the African Diaspora and its changing meanings. Focusing on Africans in India and Pakistan, Oman, Britain, Belize, Martinique, Ecuador, and Costa Rica, we will examine the sociocultural connections among diasporic Africans such as the forced migrations of enslaved Africans and voluntary emigration of free-skilled Africans out of continental Africa. The seminar also explores the geopolitical, religious, and cultural factors that foster distinctive diasporic African identities and how these people constitute and contribute to global citizenry. Attention will be paid to the permeable boundaries of global politics, religion, economics, culture, and citizenry.

Directions for Election

A major in Africana studies requires nine units. An Africana studies major will choose one of four possible concentrations: Africa, the Caribbean, the United States, or a general Africana studies concentration. All of the four concentrations encompass the interdisciplinary approach of the department, while allowing students to focus on a particular area and gain expertise in one discipline. The first three courses of study focus on geographic areas; the fourth, designed in consultation with the student's advisor, allows the student to create a concentration on a particular salient aspect (e.g., Africana women or Africana arts) or issue (e.g., comparative race relations) in the Africana world.

It is strongly recommended that majors and minors take 105 before undertaking specialized courses of study. This course provides an overview of the discipline of Africana studies, including its philosophical and historical foundations, and introduces students to its major fields of inquiry. Of the nine units required for an Africana studies major, at least two must be at the 300 level and, ordinarily, not more than two may be taken outside the department.

Africa: This program of study is designed to provide students with an interdisciplinary and integrated understanding of the peoples of the African continent, from its ancient foundation through its current geopolitical situation. However, to insure students' breadth of knowledge of the Africana world, two courses that focus on a geographic area other than Africa are required. Six courses that focus on Africa are the foundation of this concentration: one course must be in history; one must be in a social science (economics, political science, sociology, anthropology, or psychology); one must be chosen from the humanities (literature, art, music, philosophy, and religion); and two should be chosen from a specific discipline. The following courses are appropriate for the Africa concentration:

Humanities: AFR 202, 207, [211], 222, [231], 232, 251, ARTH 241, FREN 218, 330, HIST [319]

The Caribbean: This program of study also provides students with an interdisciplinary knowledge of a particular geographic area: the Caribbean - its history, peoples, culture, and significance in the world system. As with the other concentrations, students focusing on the Caribbean are expected also to acquire some breadth of knowledge about the Africana world; thus, two courses focused on other areas are required. Of the five courses on the Caribbean, one must be a humanities course; one must be a social science; one must be a history course; and two must be chosen from one discipline. (See the African track for the specific disciplines considered "humanities" and "social sciences.") The following courses are appropriate for the Caribbean concentration:

Humanities: AFR 207, [210], 232, 234, 310, [335], FREN 218, 330, SPAN 269

The United States: As with the other concentrations, students who choose the United States should approach their study of African America through many disciplines. The concentration requires five courses focusing on the United States: one in history, one in the humanities, one in social science, and two in the discipline in which the student chooses to concentrate. (See the Africa concentration for the specific disciplines considered "humanities" and "social sciences.") To ensure students' breadth of knowledge of the Africana world, however, this track also requires two courses focused on one or more geographic areas other than the United States. The following courses are appropriate for the United States concentration:

Humanities: AFR [150], 201, 212, 222, 233, [262], 310, ENG 320 (Topic for 2004-05), MUS 300 (Topic C in 2004-05)

General Africana studies: This concentration allows students to design a more eclectic focus in Africana studies or a focus which cuts across geographic and discipline boundaries (e.g. Africana women's studies) or a discipline-focused course of study that is cross-cultural (e.g., Africana arts). Students must have their programs of study approved by their advisors. This program should demonstrate the same geographic and disciplinary breadth as the previous three (i.e., at least two geographic regions must be represented in the courses chosen; and at least one history course, one humanities, and one social science are required). Of the seven courses to be elected, at least three must be in one discipline.

For all concentrations, students are encouraged to gain first-hand experiential insights in the Africana world. Students in the Africa and Caribbean concentrations are encouraged to consider the Wintersession courses in Ghana and Jamaica concentrations. Those in the Africa or the Caribbean concentrations, are also strongly encouraged to consider study abroad programs in these geographic areas. Those focusing on the United States should consider spending a semester or year at an historically Black college or in a relevant U.S. internship. Credit toward the major may be given for such experiences when appropriate.

A minor in Africana studies will consist of five units, including one 300-level course. AFR 105 is strongly recommended. (Students may be exempted from specific requirements by the department.) Minors are strongly encouraged to take courses in at least two geographic areas (e.g., the United States and the Caribbean) and in two or more disciplines. Minors are also encouraged to attend departmentally sponsored extracurricular lectures, especially those (required of majors) that focus on methodology.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100 level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

American Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Fisher (English)

American Studies Advisory Committee: Bedell (Art), Imber (Sociology), Kodera (Religion), Rosenwald (English), Siettner (Political Science)

The American studies major seeks to understand the American experience through a multi-disciplinary program of study. The requirements for the major are as follows. Nine units of course work are required for the major, at least six of which should be taken at Wellesley College. These courses include AMST 101, which should be completed before the end of the junior year; at least two courses in historical studies; one course in literature; one course in the arts; and one course from any one of the following three areas: social and behavioral analysis; or epistemology and cognition; or religion, ethics, and moral philosophy. Students are also expected to take at least two 300-level courses, one of which should be AMST 317 or 318, taken in the junior or senior year. AMST 350, 360 and 370 do not count towards this requirement. To ensure some concentration in a field of American society and culture, at least three courses should be elected in one department. In consultation with the director, a student may choose to focus her concentration in an area or field, such as law, women, or Asian America, assembling her group of three or more courses in this topic from two or more departments. American studies majors with an Asian American concentration are encouraged to take courses that specifically address Asian American issues, such as AMST 151, ENG 269, [HIST 267], WOST 248, WOST 249.

Within this structure, students are encouraged to explore the diversity of American culture and the many ways to interpret it. Most courses at the College that are primarily American in content may be applied to the American studies major. American studies majors are encouraged to take as part of, or in addition to, their major courses, surveys of American history, literature, and art (for example, HIST 203/204, ENG 262/266, ARTH 231/232) and a course on the American Constitution and political thought (for example, POL4 340). In addition, students are urged to take one or more courses outside the major that explore the theory and methods of knowledge creation and production (for example, ECON 103/SOC 190, PHIL 345, POL 199, QR 180, SOC 301).

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100 level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

AMST 101 Introduction to American Studies Fisher (English)

An interdisciplinary examination of some of the varieties of American experience, aimed at developing a functional vocabulary for further work in American Studies or related fields. After a brief, intense review of American history, the course will direct its focus towards important moments in that history, investigating each of them in relation to selected cultural, historical, artistic, and political events, figures, institutions, and texts.

Prerequisite: This course is required of American Studies majors and should be completed before the end of the junior year.

AMST 125/WRIT 125 Defining Asian American Literature

Iwanaga (The Writing Program)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The question we will pose at the outset, and which we will revisit frequently, is "What defines Asian American literature?" The writer's ethnicity? The topic? The intended audience? Authors studied may include Maxine Hong Kingston, Patti Kim, Jhumpa Lahiri, R.O. Butler, Peter Ho Davies, Sandra Tsing Loh, Monique T.D. Truong. Students will also read essays on the power of creativity and the imagination. As students refine their definitions of Asian American literature, spurred on by texts that challenge their initial ideas, they will work toward defining American identity itself. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards the Asian American Studies concentration within the American Studies major. Includes a third session each week.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: N/O

AMST 151 The Asian American Experience Lee (English)

An interdisciplinary introduction to the study of Asian Americans, the fastest-growing ethnic group in North America. Critical examination of different stages of their experience from the "coolie labor" and "yellow peril" to the "model minority" and struggles for identity; roots of Asian stereotypes; myth and reality of Asian women; prejudice against, among, and by Asians; and Asian contribution to a more pluralistic, tolerant, and just American society. Readings, films, lectures, and discussions.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Historical Studies or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

AMST 317 Seminar. Advanced Topics in American Studies

Bedell (Art History)

Topic for 2005-06 and 2006-07: Disneyland and American Culture. One of the most visited tourist attractions in the world, subject of thousands of books and articles, adored by millions yet reviled by many intellectuals, Disneyland has occupied a prominent place in American culture since it opened in 1955. This seminar will examine Disneyland as an expression of middle class American values, as a locus of corporatism and consumerism, as a postmodern venue, as a utopia, and as an influence upon architecture and urban design. In a broader sense, we will use Disney to explore the ideals, the desires, and the anxieties that have shaped post-World War II American culture.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. Enrollment is limited and preference is given to American studies majors. Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, and Video or Historical Studies

AMST 318 Seminar. Advanced Topics in American Studies

Shetley (English)

Topic for 2005-06: American Cinema of the 1970s. Between the breakdown of the studio system and the blockbuster era, American film-making enjoyed a decade of extraordinary achievement. We'll study the great films produced in this period, such as Taxi Driver, The Godfather, Nashville, Annie Hall, Shampoo, and Apocalypse Now, and connect those films to the national and cinematic contexts of their times.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. Enrollment is limited and preference is given to American studies majors. Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

Kodera (Religion)

Topic for 2006-07: Interning the "Enemy Race":

Japanese Americans in World War II. A close examination of the rationale and the aftermath of interning after Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor of American citizens of Japanese ancestry, together with Japanese nationals, living on the West Coast of the United States. The topics to be considered include: Japan's rise as a colonial power, starting in the late nineteenth century; the place of Asian migrant workers and the "Yellow Peril"; life in the camps; the formation of the Japanese American Citizens League; how the United States has since responded to its "enemies"; changing immigration laws; race and politics in America.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. Enrollment is limited and preference is given to American Studies majors. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis or Historical Studies
Semester: N/O. Offered 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

AMST 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open by permission of the director to juniors and seniors. Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

AMST 360 Senior Thesis Research

Prerequisite: By permission of director. Students eligible for honors work and considering doing a thesis during their senior year should plan to identify a thesis advisor, specify their project, and aim to begin work before the end of their junior year. See Academic Distinctions. Distribution: None

AMST 370 Senior Thesis

Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None

ANTH 104 Introduction to Cultural and Social Anthropology

Chu, Ruf, Karakasidou

A comparative approach to the concept of culture and an analysis of how culture structures the worlds we live in. The course examines human societies from their tribal beginnings to the postindustrial age. We will consider the development of various types of social organization and their significance based on family and kinship, economics, politics, and religion.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall, Spring

ANTH 203 Indigenous People, Global Development and Human Rights

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The course focuses on the processes and consequences of the encroachment of Western societies on indigenous peoples. We will examine the main issues raised by the colonial enterprise which continue to be crucial in the current situations of indigenous societies vis-à-vis nation-states: political power, economic development, gender relations, health, education and religion. We will study ethnographic cases drawn from different parts of the world and analyze these topics from a historical and comparative perspective. Embedded in these explorations will be the question of indigenous rights within human rights movements and international law.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

ANTH 204 Physical Anthropology

Kohl

The origin of humans as a sequence of events in the evolution of the primates. This theme is approached broadly from the perspectives of anatomy, paleontology, genetics, primatology, and ecology. Explanation of the interrelationship between biological and sociobehavioral aspects of human evolution, such as the changing social role of sex. Review of the human fossil record and the different biological adaptations of the polytypic species Homo sapiens.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ANTH 206 Archaeology

Kohl

A survey of the development of archaeology. The methods and techniques of archaeology are presented through an analysis of excavations and prehistoric remains. Materials studied range from early hominid sites in Africa to the Bronze Age civilizations of the Old World and the Aztec and Inca empires of the New World. Students are introduced to techniques for reconstructing the past from material remains. The course includes a field trip to a neighboring archaeological site.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ANTH 208 Archaeological Science

Lechtman (at MIT)

An introduction to scientific techniques used in contemporary archaeology. Using a case study format, faculty from the Boston-wide Center for Materials Research Archaeology and Ethnology (CMRAE) present different methods for studying such topics as reconstruction of ancient environments; dating techniques; assessing the diets of ancient populations; and sourcing artifacts through chemical and physical analyses.

Prerequisite: One year college-level physics or chemistry (or equivalent, by permission of instructor).
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

ANTH 211/RAST 211 Wintersession Program in the Republic of Georgia

Kohl

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Students travel to Tbilisi, Georgia for Wintersession. They will attend lectures in English at Tbilisi State University on Georgian history, language and culture and on contemporary political developments there and visit sites of historical interest in and around Tbilisi. They live with Georgian families and spend three weeks completing a self-designed internship with a local organization. Students may register for either ANTH 211 or RAST 211 and credit will be granted accordingly. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.

Prerequisite: One course in ANTH or RAST. Application required.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis or Historical Studies

ANTH 213 Racial and Ethnic Conflict

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course has three goals. The first is to address the history of the concept of race and its alleged biological underpinnings. We will explore the perspectives of evolutionary and population biology and trace the development of modern notions of racial difference. Secondly, we will apply a critical anthropological lens to various conceptions of otherness associated with race – notions of ethnicity, caste, nation, culture, and identity – and address their contemporary scholarly and political implications. Finally, we will compare systems of ethnoracial classification and social stratification in diverse societies of the Americas (U.S., Canada, Latin America, and the Caribbean) and examine patterns of conflict and social inequality.

ANTH 216 Culture, Knowledge, and Creativity

Lynch (Olin)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Anthropological theories and methods help us understand human behavior and values. Broadly speaking, anthropologists ask, "Why do people do what they do and believe what they believe?" Today anthropologists study a wide range of contemporary social topics, such as international development, garment manufacturing, the production of scientific knowledge, female "circumcision," and intellectual property. In this course, we will read about, debate, and discuss these and other issues related to these topics in order to probe into the meanings of culture, knowledge, and creativity.

ANTH 217 Peoples, Histories, and Cultures of the Balkans

Karakasidou

The Balkan region has been a major trade and cultural crossroads for millennia and encompasses a variety of landscapes, peoples, and cultures. We will read authoritative historical studies and ethnographies as well as short stories, poetry, books of travel and fiction. We will consider the legacy of the classical world, the impact of Islam, the emergence of European commercial empires, the impact of the European Enlightenment in national movements, the emergence of modernization, and the socialist experiments in the hinterlands. The course offers a critical overview of the politics of historical continuity and the resurgence of Balkan nationalisms during the last decade of the twentieth century.

ANTH 220 Race/Ethnicity in the United States: Asian American Identities and Communities in Comparative Perspective

Chu

This course offers analytic tools for grappling with the historical and contemporary complexities of Asian American identification and community formation. Each section of this course introduces students to different theoretical frames for exploring the meaningful contours of the term "Asian American" in relation to other racialized and ethnic groups in the U.S. We will pay particular attention to the historical conditions and ongoing processes for the social formation of persons and collectivities under the rubric of "Asian American" as well as examine multiplicities, contradictions, and gaps of Asian American identifications and politics. Students will learn to critically think about Asian American identification in the wider contexts of orientalism, U.S. imperialism and nationalism, racialization and racism, state governmentality, economic restructuring, transnationalism and other social processes.

Prerequisite: None

ANTH 223 Contemporary Chinese Society

Chu

This course draws from anthropological and cultural-historical frameworks to explore the contemporary terrain of China in relation to an emergent "New World (Dis)Order." While introducing students to key concepts and major historical developments in twentieth-century China, the course will focus largely on ethnographic studies of social change and everyday life betwixt and between the Mao (1949–1978) and Post-Mao (1978–present) eras. Topics examined include nation-building, Chinese modernities, capitalist development, gendered desires, class inequalities, religious revivalism and cosmopolitan identities. Students will be asked to critically and creatively think about change and continuity in contemporary China not only in terms of the organization of Chinese political institutions, but also in relation to the role of Chinese diasporic populations and other transnational and globalizing forces in producing spatial-temporal imaginaries.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ANTH 232 Anthropology of the Media

Chu

This course introduces students to key analytic frameworks through which media and the mediation of culture have been examined. Using an anthropological approach, students will explore how media as representation and as cultural practice have been fundamental to the (trans)formation of modern sensibilities and social relations. We will examine various technologies of mediation – from the Maussian body as "Man's first technical instrument" to print capitalism, radio and cassette cultures, cinematic and televisual publics, war journalism, the digital revolution and the political milieu of spin and PR. Themes in this course include 1) media in the transformation of the senses, 2) media in the production of cultural subjectivities and publics, and 3) the social worlds and cultural logics of media institutions and sites of production.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ANTH 234/ES 234 Cultural Ecology

Ruff

This course explores theoretical and methodological issues in the study of human culture and social activity in relation to ecological systems and the environment. Readings include both classic studies as well as contemporary research, with particular emphasis placed on the various dimensions and scales of social organization and activity, and on the role of cultural, religious, and political institutions in shaping ecological relationships as well as economic behavior. Students may register for either ANTH 234 or ES 234 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

ANTH 238 The Vulnerable Body: Anthropological Understandings

Karakasidou

This course begins with the assumption that the human body is a unit upon which collective categories are engraved. These categories can vary from social values, to religious beliefs, to feelings of national belonging, to standards of sexuality and beauty. Readings in this course will concentrate around the classic and recent attempts in the social and historical sciences to develop ways of understanding this phenomenon of "embodiment." We will begin with an overview of what is considered to be the "construction" of the human body in various societies and investigate how the body has been observed, experienced, classified, modified, and sacralized in different social formations.

Kohl

A review of the earliest emergence of state-stratified societies in the Old World (Pharaonic Egypt, Mesopotamia, the Indus Valley, and Shang China) and their integration through trade, conflict, migrations, and diffusions of technologies, particularly metalworking, with neighboring illiterate societies on their peripheries. The course concludes with a comparison with core-periphery relations in pre-Columbian Mesoamerica and Peru.

ANTH 244 Societies and Cultures of the Middle East

Kohl

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An anthropological overview of the contemporary Middle East with a focus on Islam and neotraditionalist movements; families, values and traditional social institutions, and the emergence of national identities. Contemporary ethnic and international conflicts from an anthropological perspective.

Prerequisite: None

ANTH 247 Societies and Cultures of Eurasia

Kohl

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of the non-Russian, largely non-European peoples of the former Soviet Union (particularly ethnic groups in Transcaucasia, Central Asia, and Siberia). The course will review how traditional cultures in these areas changed during the years of Soviet rule and will examine the problems they face today with newly gained independence or greatly increased autonomy. Nationality policies of the former Soviet Union will be discussed with a particular emphasis on how they affect the current territorial disputes and conflicts among different ethnic groups (e.g., the undeclared war between Armenia and Azerbaijan over the enclave of Nagorno-Karabagh).

ANTH 251 Cultures of Cancer

Karakasidou

This course critically examines cancer as a pervasive disease and a metaphor of global modern cultures. Students will be exposed to the ways cancer is perceived as a somatic and social standard within locally constructed cognitive frameworks. They will investigate the scientific and emotional responses to the disease and the ways cancer challenges our faith and spirituality, our ways of life, notions of pollution and cleanliness and our healing strategies. This approach to cancer is comparative and interdisciplinary and focuses on how specialists in different societies have described the disease, how its victims in different cultures have narrated their experiences, how causality has been perceived, and what interventions (sacred or secular) have been undertaken as therapy and prevention.

ANTH 269 Anthropology of Gender, Marriage, and the Family

Ruf

An examination of the variations in gender and family life globally. Comparisons of patterns of behavior and belief systems surrounding marriage, sexuality, parenthood, male and female power, and masculine and feminine temperament. Emphasis on the ways kinship and family life organize society and the ways gender is constructed in conjunction with other identities such as race, class, and nationality. Discussion of the cultural context of male violence against women and women's rights as human rights.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ANTH 300 Ethnographic Methods and Ethnographic Writing

Ruf

An exploration of anthropological research and writing through the analytical and practical study of "fieldwork" and "ethnography." Examines a variety of anthropological research methods and genres of representation paying particular attention to questions of knowledge, location, evidence, ethics, power, translation, experience, and the way theoretical problems can be framed in terms of ethnographic research. Students will be asked to apply critical knowledge in a fieldwork project of their own design.

Prerequisite: 301 or two 200-level units in any of the following: ANTH, ECON, HIST, POL, SOC, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ANTH 301 History and Theory in Anthropology

Ruf

This course introduces students to contemporary anthropology by tracing its historical development and its specific application in ethnographic writing. It examines the social context in which each selected model or "paradigm" took hold and the extent of cognitive sharing, by either intellectual borrowing or breakthrough. The development of contemporary theory will be examined both as internal to the discipline and as a response to changing intellectual climates and social milieu. The course will focus on each theory in action, as the theoretical principles and methods apply to ethnographic case studies.

ANTH 308 Seminar for Materials Research in Archaeology and Ethnology

Lechtman (at MIT)

Seminar-laboratory subject offered at MIT by the Center for Materials Research in Archaeology and Ethnology. Role of materials and technologies in the development of ancient societies; major focus on scientific analysis of archaeological artifacts and ecofacts.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

ANTH 319 Nationalism, Politics, and the Use of the Remote Past

Kohl

This seminar critically examines the use of pre-history and antiquity for the construction of accounts of national origins, historical claims to specific territories, or the biased assessment of specific peoples. The course begins with an examination of the phenomenon of nationalism and the historically recent emergence of contemporary nation-states. It then proceeds comparatively, selectively examining politically motivated appropriations of the remote past that either were popular earlier in this century or have ongoing relevance for some of the ethnic conflicts raging throughout the world today. The course will attempt to develop criteria for distinguishing credible and acceptable reconstructions of the past from those that are unbelievable and/or dangerous.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in any of the following: ANTH, ECON, POL, SOC, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ANTH 340 Gendered Violations

Merry, Stein (Center for Research on Women)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course joins an anthropological perspective on the construction of gender with an analysis of the forms of intervention which have developed to confront and change gendered violations of women. The course will focus on domestic violence, sexual assault, and sexual harassment and their relationship to the cultural construction of masculinity and femininity in various cultural contexts. The course is experimental in combining social science research and analysis with questions about policy making and intervention into this problem, focusing particularly on the use of law and education.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units in any of the following: ANTH, SOC, POL, ECON, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

ANTH 342 Anthropology, History, and Native Americans

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Anthropology has had considerable influence in shaping our contemporary understanding of the history of Native Americans from the time of contact. It is now well recognized that each society has its own history and in its own way coped with the challenges of directed and nondirected change. The field of ethnohistory, incorporating an interdisciplinary methodology, theory, and content, permits us to discover this history. The course will focus on some of the Iroquoian and Algonquian speaking peoples of northeast North America, giving us an opportunity to investigate particular themes such as: the impact of Christian missionaries, interpreting oral tradition, the role of women, changes to the land, and dependency. A final theme will be the legacy of this contact, looking at Native American rights today.

Directions for Election

A major in anthropology consists of a minimum of eight units (which may include courses from MIT's anthropology offerings), of which 104, 300 and 301 are required. Students may also elect other relevant statistics or calculus courses, depending on the particular need and interest of the student. Majors are encouraged to take other courses that have a cultural or multicultural focus, such as Cultural Psychology (PSYC 245).

A minor in anthropology consists of five units: 104, two 200-level courses, and two 300-level courses. Students minoring in anthropology are encouraged to choose at least one ethnographic area course and at least one course which focuses on a particular theoretical problem.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Human Rights Concentration in Anthropology

Directors: Anthropology Department Chair and Thomas Cushman (Sociology)

The Department of Anthropology offers a concentration in Human Rights. Students who major in Anthropology and wish to elect this concentration will take three specific courses that will be counted toward the major:

ANTH [202]/SOC 202 Introduction to Human Rights

SOC 259 The Sociology of International Justice

Open only to students in the classes of 2006, 2007 and 2008 majoring or planning to major in anthropology who have completed ANTH 340 before fall 2005. Other students should consult the Concentration in Human Rights listed under Sociology. Students electing this concentration are encouraged to take other courses in the college curriculum dealing with human rights, to engage in independent research (ANTH 350, 360 and 370), and to participate in internships in human rights organizations in the United States and abroad.

Architecture

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: McGibbon^{A2} (Studio Art), Friedman^{A1} (Art History), Irish-Spring only (Studio Art)

A major in architecture offers the opportunity for study of architectural history and practice through an interdisciplinary program. Following Vitruvius' advice on the education of the architect, the program encourages students to familiarize themselves with a broad range of subjects in the humanities, sciences, and social sciences. Students may also elect courses in studio art, mathematics, and physics which lead to appreciation of the principles of design and the fundamental techniques of architecture.

Although courses at MIT are not required for the major, the MIT-Wellesley exchange provides a unique opportunity for students to elect advanced courses in design and construction. Students are also encouraged to consider travel or study abroad as important aspects of their education in architecture, and to take advantage of the wide resources of the College and the Department of Art in pursuing their projects.

Each student designs her program of study individually in consultation with the directors. Majors are required to take ARTH 100-101 and ARTS 105. In addition, four units of course work above the 100 level and two 300-level units of course work must be taken in the Department of Art. At least three of these art units (including one at the 300 level) must be taken at Wellesley College. In extraordinary circumstances, students who meet the college's eligibility requirements for honors may, with the permission of the co-directors, elect 360/370 independent work as a path to honors. This is the program's only path to honors.

Students may include selections from the list below in their core programs.

History of Art

ARTH 100 Introduction to the History of Art Part I: Ancient and Medieval Art Staff

A broad multicultural survey of the art of the Ancient and Medieval worlds. The course focuses upon major monuments and masterpieces, including the Egyptian pyramids, the temples and sculptures of Greece and Rome, the Buddhist shrines of India, the painted scrolls of China and Japan, the mosques of the Islamic Near East, and the Gothic cathedrals of Europe. Two lectures and one conference per week. Conferences emphasize the interpretation of original works of art, and offer hands-on sampling of historical materials and techniques. Required course for all art history, architecture, and studio art majors, who should plan to elect both ARTH 100 and 101 in their first or second year at Wellesley.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

ARTH 100/WRIT 125 Introduction to the History of Art Part I: Ancient and Medieval Art Bedell, Rhodes

See description for ARTH 100 above. Students in this section of ARTH 100 will attend the same twice-weekly lectures as the other ARTH 100 students, but their assignments will be different, and they will attend two special WRIT 125 conferences each week instead of the regular ARTH 100 conferences. Through writing about art, students in 100/125 will develop skills in visual and critical analysis. Enrolling in this course automatically enrolls one in ARTH 100. There is no need to register separately for either ARTH

100 or an ARTH 100 conference. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in art history, architecture, or studio art.

ARTH 101 Introduction to the History of Art Part II: Renaissance to the Present

Staff
A foundation course in the history of art. From Michelangelo to media culture, this course introduces the visual cultures of Europe, Africa, and the Americas beginning with the Renaissance, using key issues and monuments as the focus of discussion. Two lectures and one conference per week. Weekly conferences emphasize observational and analytical skills and are normally given in the Davis Museum and Cultural Center. Required course for all art history, architecture, and studio art and media arts and sciences majors, who should plan to elect both ARTH 100 and 101 in their first or second year at Wellesley.

Prerequisite: ARTH 100 and 101 can be selected separately, but students are advised to elect 100 before 101.

ARTH 205 Breaking Boundaries: The Arts of Mexico and the United States

Bedell, Oles
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An artificial boundary has long divided the art histories of Mexico and the United States, placing them in separate textbooks, classes, and exhibitions. This lecture course breaks this model. We will compare and contrast the arts of these two nations, beginning with the independence movements of the eighteenth century and ending with the rise of modernism in the 1950s. Topics include representations of native peoples, responses to the machine age, and the battle of women artists like Frida Kahlo and Georgia O'Keeffe for a respected place in the art world.

ARTH 209/AFR 209 Topics in West African Art

Hyacinte
Topic for 2005-06: West African Photography. This course will look at the emergence of West African photography in the mid-nineteenth century initially as a medium used by Europeans during the colonialist era and subsequently employed by West Africans themselves as a medium of self-definition and liberation. A wide range of examples will be examined including: nineteenth-century African studio photography in Sierra Leone, the mid-twentieth century work of Malian, Seydou Keita, photographs in important visual cultural outlets like the Nigerian Drum Magazine, and works by contemporary African photographers such as Ousmane Ndiaye Dago of Senegal. The political and stylistic aspects of portraiture, documentary, ethnography, pop and abstraction will be important to our discussion of the medium. Students may register for either ARTH 209 or AFR 209 and credit will be granted accordingly.

ARTH 218 From van Eyck to Bruegel: Painting in the Netherlands in the Fifteenth and Sixteenth Centuries

Carroll
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Focusing on the works of Jan van Eyck, Hieronymus Bosch, and Peter Bruegel the Elder, this course surveys the development of devotional panel painting and the emergence of the independent genres of portraiture, landscape, and scenes from daily life. Of special interest will be the changing role of art in an era of momentous political and religious change, and the ways in which that change is registered in the works of these particularly "engaged" artists.

Prerequisite: None. ARTH 100 and 101 recommended.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video

ARTH 223 Arts of France

DeLorme
Topic for 2005-06. The Age of Marie-Antoinette. This course explores a pivotal period in world history, for it witnessed the last, terrible days of the French monarchy who built Versailles and established the rules of court etiquette. It will focus upon the life, personality, and taste of the central figure – the queen, Marie-Antoinette – who was tragically caught up in the events of the French Revolution and became its victim. We shall examine the personalities who ruled society, their splendid châteaux, unparalleled interiors, gardens, clothing, jewelry, Sèvres porcelain, silver, painting, sculpture, and the royal fêtes. Field trip to the Metropolitan Museum, New York. This course fulfills the requirement for French cultural studies.

Prerequisite: ARTH 100 and 101 recommended. No knowledge of French is required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ARTH 224 Modern Art to 1945

Berman
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of modern art from the 1880s to World War II, examining the major movements of the historical avant-garde (such as cubism, expressionism, dada, and surrealism) as well as alternate practices. Painting, sculpture, photography, cinema, and the functional arts will be discussed, and critical issues, including the art market, and gender, national, and cultural identities, will be examined. Offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: None. ARTH 100 and 101 recommended.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ARTH 225 Modern Art Since 1945

Berman
A survey of art since World War II, examining painting, sculpture, photography, performance, video, film, conceptual practices, and the mass media. Critical issues to be examined include the art market, feminist art practices, the politics of identity, and artistic freedom and censorship. Offered in alternate years.

ARTH 226 History of Photography: From Invention to Advertising Age

Berman
Photography is so much a part of our private and public lives, and it plays such an influential role in our environment, that we often forget to examine its aesthetics, meanings, and histories. This course provides an introduction to these analyses by examining the history of photography from the 1830s to the present. Considering fine arts and mass media practices, the class will examine the works of individual practitioners as well as the emergence of technologies, aesthetic directions, markets, and meanings.

Prerequisite: None. ARTH 100 and 101 strongly recommended.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

ARTH 236 Art, Architecture, and Culture in the Ancient Americas

Oles

Before the arrival of the Europeans in the late fifteenth century, several brilliant civilizations emerged in North and South America, including the Maya, Aztec, Moche, and Inca. Incorporating the tools of art history, cultural studies, and archaeology, this course explores the visual culture of these pre-Conquest peoples. Lectures that introduce the broader aspects of each civilization will be accompanied by workshops that explore cutting-edge issues. We will also work extensively with objects on display in the Davis Museum. Offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken this course as ARTH [238].

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTH 237 Art, Architecture, and Culture in Post-Conquest Mexico

Oles

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of visual culture in Mexico from the Spanish conquest in the 1520s to current developments in contemporary art. Against a rich spectrum of historical events, we will examine key works of art and architecture, from colonial manuscripts to Frida Kahlo's self-portraits to recent videos, focusing on how art has served to build a sense of cultural or national identity. Specific topics to be addressed include the construction of race and gender, official patronage of public art, and the myths that have shaped, and continue to shape, what it means to be "Mexican." Offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken this course as ARTH [238].

ARTH 240 Asian Art

Liu

This course surveys the major artistic traditions of Asia from prehistory to the turn of the twentieth century, including India, Southeast Asia, Tibet, China, Korea and Japan. It will study monuments with emphasis on the interaction of art and society, and especially how artistic creativity and style are tied to religious beliefs, philosophical/intellectual thoughts, social and political changes, geographical locations, and other historical contexts. Through lectures, discussions, workshops, and paper assignments, students and instructor will constantly explore the definition of Asian art. Trips to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and the Harvard Sackler Museum.

Prerequisite: None

Unit 1.0

ARTH 242 Life, Love, and Art in Ancient Greece

Marvin

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Greek art did more than just initiate the Western artistic tradition. It reflects a paradoxical society that prized freedom, inspired western democracy, invented philosophy, held slaves, degraded women, and institutionalized pedophilia. We will look at the historical development of Greek sculpture and painting – what they meant to the people who made them, and to the later centuries that prized them. Repeated trips to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

Prerequisite: One unit of ARTH or CLCV

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

ARTH 243 Roman Art

Marvin

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. From twisting alleys, bars, and brothels of the buried city of Pompeii to standing monuments like the Colosseum, the remains of Rome's cities disclose a world of extremes. Stretching from Britain to Egypt to southern Russia, the Roman Empire meant luxury and slavery, elegance and cruelty, portraits of individuals and monuments of mass propaganda. We will survey the art of that empire both public and private. Trips to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and perhaps other museums.

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors or by permission of instructor.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

ARTH 248 Chinese Painting

Liu

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Chinese painting is the only tradition in world art that can rival the European painting tradition in the quantity and diversity of its output, the number of recorded artists of note, the complexity of aesthetic issues attached to it, and the sophistication of the written literature that accompanies it through the centuries. This course will examine Chinese painting from early times to the turn of the twentieth century with an introduction to traditional connoisseurship. Issues of examination include major themes, styles, and functions of Chinese painting. Special attention will be given to imperial patronage; the relationship of painting, calligraphy, and poetry; amateurism vs. professionalism; gender in painting; and the tension between tradition and creativity. Trip to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

ARTH 251 Italian Renaissance Art, 1400–1520

Armstrong

Major artists of the Italian Renaissance are considered in their cultural context. Topics include the formation of the Renaissance style in Florence (Masaccio, Donatello); functions of religious art (Fra Angelico); the revival of Classical Antiquity (Mantegna, Botticelli); new forms of portraiture (Piero della Francesca, Leonardo da Vinci) and landscape (Bellini, Giorgione); and High Renaissance painting in Florence, Rome, and Venice (Raphael, Michelangelo, Titian).

Prerequisite: None. ARTH 100 or 101 recommended; or a course in Renaissance history or literature.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTH 252 Painting for Princes(ess): Late Medieval Painting and Manuscript Illumination in France and Italy

Armstrong

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Late Medieval Europe witnessed an extraordinary artistic flourishing, largely dependent on aristocratic patronage. Elegant French Gothic art and the new realism of Italian painters are twin elements of the period style. Religious and secular paintings by Giotto (Florence) and Duccio (Siena), and exquisite manuscripts illuminated for French royalty (such as the Très Riches Heures of the Duke of Berry) appear as documents of princely life and of the new attention to nature seen in late Medieval art. Sessions on illuminated manuscripts in Clapp Special Collections are planned.

Prerequisite: None. ARTH 100 recommended.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Unit: 1.0

ARTH 253 The Beautiful Book: Medieval and Renaissance Book Illumination

Armstrong

A survey of European illuminated manuscripts including sessions on selected Hiberno-Saxon and Carolingian manuscripts, but emphasizing the magnificent decoration of French and Italian books of the Gothic and Renaissance periods. Topics will include the construction of manuscripts; relation of text to images and decoration; aristocratic and religious patronage of illuminators; and the illustration of the earliest printed books with woodcuts. Original illuminated manuscripts and early printed books in Wellesley College Special Collections will be studied in several sessions.

Prerequisite: None. ARTH 100 or 101 recommended.

Unit: 1.0

ARTH 255 Twentieth-Century Chinese Art

Liu

This course examines Chinese art in the socially tumultuous twentieth century that witnessed the end of imperial China in 1911, the founding of the Republic, the rise of the People's Republic, the 1966–76 Cultural Revolution, the 1989 pro-democracy movement, and the open door and economic reform since the 1980s. Issues of examination include China's encounters with the West, the tensions of tradition and revolution, the burdens of cultural memory and historical trauma, the interpretations of modernism and avant-garde, and the problems of globalization and national identity. The course is designed to develop an understanding of the diverse threads of modern Chinese art in conjunction with the exhibition On the Edge: Contemporary Chinese Artists Encounter the West at the Davis Museum and Cultural Center.

Prerequisite: None.

ARTH 256 Nineteenth-Century Art

Bedell

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Lecture course on the arts of Europe and the United States from the upheavals of the French and American revolutions, through Impressionism's challenge to canonical art practices, concluding with the radical fin-de-siècle movements and their implications for the development of modern art. This course will consider painting, sculpture, prints, and photography in relation to notions of nationalism and history, the avant-garde and revolutionary politics, popular and elite culture, woman painters and the gendering of representation, as well as the rise of rebellions against artistic institutions. Artists studied will include J.L. David, Francisco Goya, John Constable, Mary Cassatt, Claude Monet, and Vincent van Gogh.

ARTH 291 Persuasive Images

Berman

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Visual images have always been enlisted to influence individual and collective decision-making, action, and identity. However, the rise of the mass media in the nineteenth century, and the multiplication of visual technologies in the twentieth century, have created unprecedented opportunities for the diffusion of persuasive images. This course examines the uses and functions of visual images in advertising and propaganda and considers, in particular, graphic arts, photography, film, and other reproductive media. It also considers the interplay between elite and popular arts. The goal of the course is to refine our critical understanding and reception of the visual world.

Unit: 1.0

ARTH 304 Seminar. Leonardo da Vinci, Michelangelo Buonarroti, and Raphael Sanzio

Armstrong

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Leonardo da Vinci, Michelangelo, and Raphael were critical in defining the style known as the "High Renaissance" in Italy, 1490 to 1520. Leonardo created supremely beautiful paintings (Virgin of the Rocks; Mona Lisa), and fascinating drawings of anatomy, architecture, and horses. Michelangelo was a sculptor (David; Pietà) and painter (Sistine Ceiling), and also an architect (Medici Chapel; St. Peter's) and poet, writing deeply moving poems. Raphael executed ambitious murals for the Popes (School of Athens) and many portraits and devotional panels (Madonna of the Goldfinch; Sistine Madonna). The seminar will investigate multiple facets of these geniuses' creations and some of the myths about their lives.

Prerequisites: Open to students who have taken one unit in Medieval, Renaissance, or Baroque art, history, or literature; or who have taken two units of art history at the 200-level. Medieval/Renaissance studies majors and architecture majors are encouraged to enroll. Permission of instructor required.

ARTH 316/AFR 316 Contemporary African Exhibitions

Hyacinthe

The ground-breaking Short Century: Independence and Liberation Movements in African 1945-1994, curated by Okwui Enwezor and his team of African scholars, was influential in framing how modern/postmodern African art would be contextualized in museums and galleries in the new millennium. How might we view this exhibition in relation to preceding, contemporaneous and subsequent large-scale African exhibitions? Students will critique the important exhibits of the era, develop a familiarity with the primary artists on display, and formulate a curatorial strategy for their own contemporary African art show. Students may register for either ARTH 316 or AFR 316 and credit will be granted accordingly.

ARTH 330 Seminar. Venetian Renaissance Art

Armstrong

Renaissance artists and architects glorified the Republic of Venice as the center of a cultural and political empire. The seminar will explore how painters and architects represented contemporary religious beliefs, portrayed political rulers and their wives, established new norms for depicting landscape, exploited the erotic appeal of the female form, participated in the revival of Classical themes in art, and refashioned the city's churches, palaces, and urban spaces, and created villas in the nearby Veneto region. The artists considered will include the Bellini brothers, Giorgione, Titian, Tintoretto, Sansovino, and Palladio.

Prerequisites: Open to students who have taken one unit in Medieval or Renaissance art, architecture, history or literature; or who have completed two units of Art History at the 200 level; or permission of instructor required. Architecture majors and Medieval/Renaissance studies majors are encouraged to enroll. Preference will be given to seniors.

ARTH 331 Seminar. The Art of Northern Europe

Carroll

Topic for 2005-06: The Crisis in Art Around 1500. Cultural transformations in Europe following the discovery of America and in the years leading up to the Reformation prompted a reconsideration of the value and function of the visual arts. This class will consider how such artists as Hieronymus Bosch and Albrecht Dürer, among others, created works that challenged and recast traditional views on faith and salvation, nature and the cosmos, the self and sexuality, and the artist and society.

ARTH 335 Seminar. Topics in Modern Art

Berman

Topic for 2005-06: The Bauhaus. This course explores all aspects of the Bauhaus, the school of architecture and design founded in Weimar, Germany in 1919 by the architect Walter Gropius. A magnet for some of the most remarkable artists of the interwar years, the Bauhaus was the preeminent training ground for modernist design and theory first in Germany, and then, following the institution's closure during the National Socialist period, in the U.S. Through discussions, seminar reports, and field trips, we will examine the institution itself, some of its leading artists and architects, including Laszlo Moholy-Nagy, Mies van der Rohe, Wassily

Kandinsky, Paul Klee, and Anni and Joseph Albers, and its legacy in contemporary art and design.

ARTH 336 Seminar. Museum Issues

Mickenberg

Topic for 2005-06: Museums: Power, Politics and Ethics. If museums were once considered cultural oases, their recent history indicates a very different identity. Changes in the history of art, redefinitions of community, new technologies, ethical controversies, a restructuring of global wealth, and a new generation of scholars, patrons, collectors, and directors have presented museums with exceptional challenges. In turn, the changing identities of museums have helped to shape these issues. This course will examine the history of museums in the light of these concerns, focusing on museum ethics, changing modes of interpreting the object, funding, and issues of political and personal identity and memory, all seen through an examination of case studies and a final project involving the acquisition of a work for the Davis Museum and Cultural Center collection.

Prerequisite: ARTH 100 or 101 or permission of instructor required. Preference given to junior and senior art majors.

ARTH 337 Seminar. Northern Song Imperial Patronage and Painting Academy

Liu

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Northern Song Painting Academy as an imperial institution was the first of its kind in the history of world art. This seminar investigates the nature of imperial patronage of painting and the achievements of the Painting Academy. It explores the relationship between emperors and academy painters through close reading of the painters' biographies written by Song contemporaries (in translation), examines the mobility of academy painters, and attempts to identify how exactly imperial commissions were initiated and carried out. Special attention is given to various interpretative modes of primary sources.

ARTH 338 Seminar. Topics in Latin American Art

Oles

Topic for 2005-06: Latin American Art on Display. This seminar will explore the invention of "Latin American art" as a separate discipline by critics, historians, and institutions in the United States. We will analyze museum collections and the art market, and study a wide range of books and exhibitions – ranging from a 1943 show at New York's MoMA to the recent "Inverted Utopias" at the MFA Houston. Our main goal will be to understand how shifting political and cultural contexts have shaped the meaning and content of Latin American art. An important component of this course will relate to acquisition strategies, exhibitions, and programs at the Davis Museum and Cultural Center.

ARTH 341 Seminar. The Landscape Painting of China, Korea, and Japan

Liu
The landscape painting of China, Korea, and Japan is among the great traditions of world art. What did it mean? How was it used? Why is landscape still a popular subject in modern Chinese, Korean, and Japanese art? Following the development of landscape painting from the early period to the twentieth century, the course will examine issues such as landscape and national development, ideology and power; landscape as representation of nature; landscape as images of the mind; and the tension of tradition and creativity in painting landscape. Comparisons will be made with Dutch, English, and American landscape painting to provide a global perspective.

ARTH 381 Boston Museum of Fine Arts Seminars

A limited number of qualified students may elect for credit seminars offered by the curators of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts to students in Boston-area colleges and universities. These are held in the museum and use objects from the collections for study. Admission to museum seminars is by permission of the instructor at the museum only. Call the instructor for information about the day and time of classes and application procedures as the class size is limited. Normally, students may enroll for a maximum of two BMFA seminars.

Topic A. Modern Printmaking: Gauguin to Rauschenberg

Clifford S. Ackley, Ruth and Carl Shapiro Curator of Prints and Drawings

Through study and comparison of original prints in the Museum collection and from private collections, this seminar will explore creative printmaking in Europe and America from about 1890, the age of Gauguin and Munch, to today, the age of Johns and Rauschenberg. Among the stylistic movements discussed will be Symbolism, Cubism, Expressionism, Pop, Minimalism, and Neo-Expressionism. Issues will include hand-made and sensuous versus fabricated and deliberately impersonal; the dialogue between high and low cultural sources of inspiration; the use of photographic imagery; and the edition print and the unique print. The course may include an excursion to a contemporary print workshop. Students will be graded on class participation and an original paper on a topic approved by the instructor.

Prerequisite: Admission to Museum Seminars is by permission of the instructor. Clifford Ackley (617-369-3425 or cackley@mfa.org). Limited to four Wellesley students. Tuesdays 2-4 p.m. beginning September 13, 2005.

Topic B. Italian Renaissance Sculpture

Marietta Cambareri, Assistant Curator of Decorative Arts and Sculpture, Art of Europe
The only securely attributed work in America by Italian Renaissance sculptor Donatello is in the collection of the Museum of Fine Arts. But this is only the most famous sculpture in a strong collection that comprises works in marble, bronze, terracotta, stucco, wood, and even paper maché. Exploring this collection, this seminar will address a wide variety of topics including the original context, function, and meaning of sculptures; working methods; relationships among Renaissance sculpture, painting, and other works of art; the formation of the MFA's collection and the collecting of Renaissance sculpture in America; and how museums present and interpret Renaissance sculpture. Classes will include sessions that consider the conservation and scientific analysis of Renaissance sculptures as ways of understanding the works and the artists who made them. Students will gain a sense of the challenges and joys of studying and working with sculpture in a museum setting. Survey course recommended; art history majors preferred. Reading knowledge of Italian useful but not required.

Prerequisite: Admission to Museum Seminars is by permission of the instructor. Marietta Cambareri, (617-369-3338 or mcambareri@mfa.org). Limited to four Wellesley students. Thursdays 2-4 p.m. beginning January 26, 2006.

Studio Art

A student registered for a studio art course must attend the first class meeting in order to retain her spot in the course. Due to the hands-on nature of studio-based instruction, enrollments must be limited. Note that some courses require students to file an application with the art department before preregistration.

ARTS 105 Drawing I

Staff

An introduction to the fundamentals of drawing with attention to the articulation of line, shape, form, gesture, perspective, and value. Studio work introduces a range of traditional drawing tools and observational methods while exploring a variety of approaches to image making and visual expression. In-class drawing exercises and weekly homework assignments address a range of subjects with brief attention given to the human figure.

Prerequisite: None. Open to all nonseniors. Seniors must obtain permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 106 Introduction to Chinese Painting

Meng

This course introduces the basic concepts and techniques of traditional Chinese painting. Class activities will emphasize the theoretical and aesthetic principles associated with the use of brushstroke, composition, ink, and color. Subjects include Chinese calligraphy as well as the three major categories of traditional Chinese painting: flower and bird, mountain and river, and figure painting. Weekly studio assignments introduce a range of techniques, and by the end of the term students compose their own paintings in a traditional Chinese manner.

Prerequisite: None. Open to all nonseniors. Seniors must obtain permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 107 Book Arts Studio

Rogers and Ruffin (Clapp Library)

In an interactive setting, students will survey the history of the book and gain hands-on experience in bookmaking, with an emphasis on the creative possibilities of historical craft and contemporary art. Part of each class session will focus on examples from Wellesley's Special Collections. In the library's Book Arts Lab, students will learn to set type by hand and print on hand presses. Students will create limited edition broadsides and artists' books that may involve use of the Knapp Media and Technology Center.

Prerequisite: None. Permission of instructors required. File application in department before preregistration.

Distribution: None. Mandatory credit/non only.

Semester: Spring

Unit: 0.5

ARTS 108 Photography I

Black, TBA

This introductory course explores photography as a means of visual communication by producing and analyzing photographic images. Emphasis is on acquiring basic black-and-white technical skills with 35mm cameras and traditional darkroom practices. Class discussions and studio projects address a range of technical, compositional, and aesthetic issues fundamental to imagemaking. Strong emphasis is on the development of both a technical grasp of the tools and a critical awareness of the medium through assignments and critiques.

Prerequisite: None. Permission of instructor required. File application in the department before preregistration.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Fall, Spring, Summer

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 109 Basic Two-Dimensional Design

Slavick, Spatz-Rabinowitz

This studio course focuses on the issue of composition in two-dimensional imagery. It introduces the fundamental elements of design (e.g. line, shape, value, space, color) and their function in the process of composition. Studio projects emphasize formal problem-solving skills as a means of achieving more effective visual communication. Weekly assignments given in a variety of media. This course is not digitally based, but students will have the opportunity to use digital media to solve certain problems.

Recommended for those interested in pursuing any type of two-dimensional work, including painting, or photography, or Web design.

Prerequisite: None. Open to all nonseniors. Seniors must obtain permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Fall, Spring, Summer

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 113 Basic Three-Dimensional Design

Irish, TBA

This introductory course explores the basic formal and spatial considerations when working with three-dimensional structure and form. Studio projects incorporate a range of materials and methods of visualization. Outside assignments and class discussions are aimed towards helping students enhance their creativity and spatial awareness while acquiring sensitivity for placement, process, and materials. Strongly recommended for those interested in sculpture, architecture, installation art, and/or product design.

Prerequisite: None. Open to all nonseniors. Seniors must obtain permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 165 Introduction to Video Production

Mekuria, Steuernagel

Introduction to the principles of video production with emphasis on developing basic skills of recording with a video camera, scripting, directing, and editing short videos.

Prerequisite: None. Permission of instructor required. File application in the department before preregistration.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 204 Painting Techniques

Spatz-Rabinowitz

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of significant techniques and materials related to the history of Western painting. Students will do projects in gold leaf, egg tempera, Venetian oil technique (the indirect method), and the direct oil technique. They will also experiment with acrylic, encaustic, and pastel. This course gives a broad overview of the technical aspects of these media and their role in stylistic changes throughout the course of Western painting. Studio art majors are encouraged to enroll; art history and architecture majors are also welcome. Most materials provided. Studio fee $50.

Prerequisite: None. Permission of instructor required. File application in the department before preregistration.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 206 Chinese Painting II

Meng

This course offers students advanced training in traditional and nontraditional methods of Chinese painting. Students may choose to focus on a specific area of subject matter, such as landscape, flowers and birds, or figurative studies, and students will be encouraged to develop a personal vision using the media of Chinese painting techniques. In addition to field trips to museums and galleries, there will be lectures and demonstrations by visiting artists.

Prerequisites: ARTS 106 or permission of instructor required.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 207 Sculpture I

Dorrien

An exploration of sculptural concepts through the completion of projects dealing with a variety of materials including clay, wood, plaster, stone, and metals, with an introduction to basic foundry processes. Emphasis on working from direct observation of the model. Studio fee of $50.

Prerequisite: ARTS 105 or 113 or permission of instructor required.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 208 Photography II

Black

This course builds upon technical and aesthetic background acquired in Photography I. Students explore the medium format camera while expanding their use of the 35mm camera. Other topics include lighting equipment, advanced developing and printing processes, and initial digital photographic work. Continued strong emphasis is on the development of a personal photographic vision and a critical awareness of the medium and its history through assignments and critiques.

Prerequisite: ARTS 108 or by permission of instructor required.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 217 Life Drawing

Harvey

Understanding the human figure by direct observation of and drawing from the model. A highly structured approach with emphasis on finding a balance between gestural response and careful measurement. Rigorous in-class drawings as well as homework assignments. Dry and wet media as well as work on a variety of scales. Recommended for architecture majors as well as studio art students who intend to do further work from the figure.

Prerequisite: ARTS 105

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 218 Introductory Painting

Janowitz

An introduction to the fundamental issues of painting, emphasizing color, composition, and paint manipulation through direct observation. Outside assignments, slide presentations, and class discussions aimed towards helping students gain technical skills, visual sophistication, and critical awareness. Students paint from a variety of subjects, including the self-portrait and still life.

Prerequisite: ARTS 105 or 109 or permission of instructor required.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 219 Introductory Print Methods: Lithography/Monotype

TBA

An introduction to the central concepts of print-making, using planographic printing methods such as stone and plate lithography, image transfers, and monotype. Students develop visual and creative flexibility through hands-on work with image sequences, text, and multiples. Several assignments explore color layering and some incorporate digital methods. Students participate in a collaborative print exchange in addition to completing individual projects.

ARTS 219 and 220 are complementary courses addressing similar concepts but different printing techniques and may be elected in either order. Studio fee of $35.

Prerequisite: ARTS 105 or 109 or permission of instructor required.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 220 Introductory Print Methods: Intaglio/Relief

TBA

An introduction to the central concepts of print-making using intaglio and relief methods such as copper-plate etching and woodcut. Students develop visual and creative flexibility through hands-on work with image sequences, text, and multiples. Several projects explore color layering and some incorporate digital methods. Students participate in a collaborative print exchange in addition to completing individual projects.

ARTS 219 and 220 are complementary courses addressing similar concepts but different printing techniques and may be elected in either order. Studio fee of $35.

Prerequisite: ARTS 105 or 109 or permission of instructor required.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 221 Digital Imaging

Irish

Introduction to artistic production through electronic imaging, manipulation and output. Emphasis on expression, continuity, and sequential structuring of visuals through the integration of image, type and motion. Image output for print, screen, and adaptive surfaces are explored in conjunction with production techniques of image capture, lighting and processing. Lectures and screenings of historic and contemporary uses of technology for artistic and social application of electronic imaging.

Prerequisite: ARTS 108 or 109

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 250 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open to qualified students by permission of instructor and department chair.

Distribution: None

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 250H Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open to qualified students by permission of instructor and department chair.

Distribution: None

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 0.5

ARTS 255 Dynamic Interface Design

Irish

Critical examination of the expanding field of information and interface design for interactive media. Emphasis will be on effective visual communication, information design and creative content within online media. Hands-on production will focus on design methods, multimedia web, vector-based media, and dynamic audio. Screenings and discussions on contemporary practices, theoretical, artistic and cultural issues.

Prerequisite: ARTS 108 or 109, and CS 110 or 111

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 260 Moving Image Studio

Irish

Creative exploration of the moving image as it relates to digital methods of animation, video, and motion graphics. Hands-on production of audio, image, text, and time-based media synthesis, with a conceptual emphasis on nonlinear narrative, communication design and visual expression. Screenings and lectures on historical and contemporary practices, coupled with readings and discussions of the theoretical, artistic, and cultural issues in the moving image.

Prerequisite: ARTS 108 or 165 or 221

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 265 Intermediate Video Production

Steuernagel

An exploration of the techniques and styles of producing documentary videos. We will survey current issues surrounding objectivity and representation as it concerns the documentary form. Strong emphasis on storytelling. Special focus on lighting, sound recording, and editing. We will screen and analyze various styles of documentary films. Final projects will be short documentaries.

Prerequisite: ARTS 165 or permission of instructor required.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 307 Sculpture II

Dorrien

Continuation on a more advanced level of sculptural issues raised in Sculpture I. Projects include working from the figure, metal welding or wood construction, and metal casting in the foundry as well as stone carving. Studio fee of $50.

Prerequisite: ARTS 207 or permission of instructor required.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 308 Photography III

Black

Advanced explorations of aesthetic and content issues through the use of the camera and light sensitive materials are the focus of this course. More advanced photographic techniques and equipment will be presented to solve visual problems arising from each student's work. Both traditional darkroom practices and digital printing solutions will be taught. Continued emphasis on research into the content and context of the photographic image in contemporary practice through gallery visits, guest lecturers, and library work.

Prerequisite: ARTS 108, 208, and either 109 or another 200-level studio course, or permission of instructor required.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 313 Virtual Form

Irish

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Introduction to the design and production of three-dimensional objects and spaces using industry-standard modeling software. Overview of basic modeling, surface design and camera techniques. Emphasis on creative application of the media, in relation to architectural, experimental and time-based forms. Screenings and lectures on traditional and contemporary practices, coupled with readings and discussions of the theoretical, artistic and cultural issues in the virtual world.

Prerequisites: ARTS 113 or MIT 4.101. Strong computer familiarity needed. Not open to students who have taken ARTS [264].

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 314 Advanced Drawing

McGibbon

Aimed towards studio art and architecture majors wishing to strengthen their visual, conceptual and spatial flexibility in drawing. Building upon methods introduced in previous courses, this studio reconsiders drawing as a process of visual thinking as well as an art form. Class work includes observational exercises (including various systems of visual perspective), technical experimentation (including work in color), sketchbooks, critiques, and field trips. Following a period of interactive studio research, exploration and dialogue, each student completes a body of self-directed work.

Prerequisite: ARTS 105 and either 109, 217 or MIT 4.101 or permission of instructor required.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 315 Advanced Painting

Spatz-Rabinowitz

Each student will spend time exploring further the issues of color, composition, paint handling, and subject matter. In addition, students will be required to establish and develop personal imagery and an individual vocabulary. ARTS 315 may be repeated, ordinarily for a maximum of two semesters.

Prerequisite: ARTS 218 or permission of instructor required.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARTS 317 Seminar. Topics in the Visual Arts

Harvey

Topic for 2005-06: Art's Dialogue with Nature. Each student will work towards developing an understanding of her personal connections to the natural world as she develops a visual language that allows her to investigate and express those connections. This course emphasizes close observation and active interpretation of personally selected natural elements (ranging from miniature insects to geological formations to the night sky, for example). In addition to ongoing critiques of classroom assignments in a variety of media there will be readings, field trips and guest lectures. Each student will also pursue a self-directed final project for inclusion in a group exhibition.

Prerequisite: ARTH 101, ARTS 105 and 3 other studio courses (one at the 200-level) required. Permission of instructor required based on presentation of portfolio of previous work in Studio Art.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ARTS 320 Architectonics and Installation Irish

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Creative inter-media collaboration within the practice in architecture, art, and design. Studio projects will emphasize the synthesis and interrelation of imaging and time-based media to spatial art forms and structures. Materials, techniques, and issues in the creation of hybrid forms, architectonics and the solution of problems. Lectures on the historic and contemporary practices of inter-media artists, designers, thinkers and scientists, coupled with readings and discussions.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level courses in ARTS. Permission of instructor required. File application in department before preregistration.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ARTS 322 Advanced Print Concepts McGibbon

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07.

Prerequisite: ARTS 219 or 220 or permission of instructor required.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video
Semester: N/O. Offered 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

ARTS 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: 200-level work in the field and permission of instructor required.
Distribution: None

ARTS 360 Senior Thesis Research

Prerequisite: By permission of department. See Academic Distinctions.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

ARTS 365 Advanced Video Production Mekuria

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An intensive course in story development, writing screenplay, directing actors and technical crew, and producing short, dramatic or mixed-genre videos. Rigorous work on advanced camera operation, lighting, sound recording, and editing techniques. We will screen and analyze short films and sample screenplays. Course requires strong organizational and directorial aptitude. The final projects will be short narrative, or mixed-genre videos.

Prerequisite: ARTS 165, 265, and permission of instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ARTS 370 Senior Thesis

Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None

Applied Arts Program

In addition to the regular studio art curriculum, a separately funded program allows the art department to offer a series of short, noncredit workshops with visiting artist instructors. These workshops vary throughout the year but address a variety of studio topics, which have included ceramics, book arts, woodworking, pinhole photography and graphic design. These workshops are noncredit and open to all students without prerequisite. Upcoming workshops are announced throughout the year through art department electronic distribution lists and by posting on "Community," "Art" and other FirstClass Conferences. Sign-up sheets are posted in the art department.

Directions for Election

Note: For the purposes of meeting the "18 units" requirement (Articles of Legislation, Book II, Article I, Section 8, A), art history and studio art are considered separate departments. Courses in studio art are counted as units "outside the department" for art history majors. Courses in art history are counted as courses "outside the department" for studio art majors.

History of Art

A major in the history of art must elect:

A. ARTH 100 and 101. AP credit will not be accepted in fulfillment of this requirement.

B. One of the following courses in studio art: ARTS 105, 106, 108, 109, 113, 165, 204, 206.

C. A minimum of six further units in history of art to make a total of nine units, which must include distribution requirements. At least two of these must be 300-level courses.

For distribution, a student must elect at least one unit in four of the following six areas of specialization: Ancient, Medieval, Renaissance, Baroque (seventeenth and eighteenth centuries), Modern (nineteenth and twentieth centuries), non-Western art. Among the four areas elected, one must be either before 1400 AD/CE or outside the tradition of Western art. ARTH 223 and 229 may count as Renaissance or Baroque. Normally, ARTH 233, 235, and 345 may not be used to meet this distribution requirement.

If approved by the department chair, courses elected at other institutions may be used to meet the distribution requirement. Courses from two-year colleges will not be credited to the major.

Although the department does not encourage over-specialization, by careful choice of related courses a student may plan a field of concentration emphasizing one period or area. Students interested in such a plan should consult the department as early as possible. Art majors are also encouraged to take courses in the language, culture, and history of the areas associated with their specific fields of interest.

Graduate Study

For students considering graduate study in the history of art, ARTH 345 is strongly recommended. Graduate programs in the history of Western art require students to pass exams in French and German. Graduate programs in the history of Asian art require Chinese and/or Japanese.

Art Conservation

Students interested in graduate study in the field of art conservation should consult with the department chair regarding requirements for entrance into conservation programs. Ordinarily college-level chemistry through organic should be elected, and a strong studio art background is required.

360/370 Honors Thesis

The only path towards departmental honors is the 360/370 Honors Thesis. Art history majors who meet the following requirements are encouraged to apply to the department to do an honors thesis: 3.6 GPA in the major; at least five Art History units above the 100-level, four of which must be taken at Wellesley and one of which must be at the 300-level. Contact the department in the spring semester prior to the proposed honors year for information about deadlines, honors eligibility, and the selection of a thesis advisor. For further information, please consult the art department's FirstClass art conference.

History of Art Minimum Major

Only one cross-listed course may be counted toward the minimum major. No more than one unit of 350 credit may be counted towards the minimum major. Ordinarily, no more than three units of transfer credit (one studio, two art history) may be counted toward the minimum major.

History of Art Minor

A history of art minor must elect a minimum of six units:

A. ARTH 100 and 101

B. Four additional units above the 100-level with at least two at the 300-level; maximum one unit of 350. Of the four units above the 100-level, three shall, in the opinion of the student's faculty advisor, represent a coherent and integrated field of interest. The fourth unit shall, in the case of students whose primary field is Western European or American art, be a course in non-Western or ancient art. In the case of students whose primary field of interest is ancient or non-Western art, the fourth unit shall be Western European or American art.

Four units for credit in art history must be taken in the art department, and only one cross-listed course may be counted towards the minor.

Interdepartmental Majors

The attention of students is called to the interdepartmental majors in architecture, in classical and Near Eastern archaeology, in Medieval/Renaissance studies, and in American studies.

Studio Art

A studio art major must elect a minimum of eleven units:

A. ARTH 100 and 101. There is no exemption from this requirement by Advanced Placement, or by IB, or by an exemption examination.

B. One additional art history course in Twentieth Century or Contemporary art

C. ARTS 105.

D. Any two of the following: ARTS 106, 108, 109, 113, or 165.

E. Five additional studio courses must be taken above the 100 level. At least two of these studio courses must be at the 300 level.

Some 300 level studio art courses may be repeated for credit in the major.

A studio art minor must elect a minimum of six units consisting of ARTS 105, one unit of either 106, 108, 109, 113, 165, plus four additional units in studio art, one of which is at the 300 level (250s and 350s excluded).

Prospective studio art majors and minors are strongly encouraged to elect 100-level art courses (including ARTH 100 and 101) during their first two years at Wellesley in order to establish a solid visual foundation and a broad understanding of the field. Studio art majors intending to study abroad should make a special effort to complete all 100-level requirements for the major prior to leaving campus during the junior year. Normally, no more than three units of transfer credit (two in studio art, one in art history) may be applied towards the minimum requirements of the major or minor. Students interested in pursuing graduate or professional work in the studio arts should elect additional course work in art history and cultural studies as well as studio art whenever possible, especially in courses that address twentieth-century art and visual culture. Since contemporary art often addresses interdisciplinary issues, students are encouraged to discuss the breadth of their overall course selections (including non-art courses) with their studio art advisor. All prospective majors and minors should obtain a copy of the art department course guide from the art office for a more comprehensive discussion of the major as well as special opportunities within the arts at Wellesley.

In tandem with the Davis Museum and Cultural Center, the art department offers numerous opportunities for students to deepen their experiential knowledge of the arts through special exhibitions, visiting artist lectures and projects, work-study positions and internships. Studio art majors and minors are strongly encouraged to exhibit their work, and to gain practical experience organizing exhibitions and installing art, in the Jewett Arts Center student galleries and Collins Café, and other venues on campus. Each year a number of professional artists visit the campus and studio art students are encouraged to take advantage of these opportunities for interaction.

360/370 Honors Thesis Project. Seniors who qualify for honors and have completed all 100-level requirements in the major may propose a senior thesis project for honors. If approved by the studio faculty as a whole, this year-long project culminates in a spring exhibition. A student interested in thesis work should discuss her ideas with a potential thesis advisor and take at least some advanced work in her proposed media concentration before the senior year.

A list of requirements for honors eligibility is available from the director of studio art. A proposal must be written and accepted. Contact the department in the spring semester prior to the proposed honors year for deadlines and information. Information is also available on the department Web page.

To waive prerequisites for such courses as ARTS 105, 108, or 109, students may present a portfolio of work to the director of studio art for assessment and placement.

History of art/studio art double major. In the case of a double major in art history and studio art, ARTH 100-101 will count in the art history major. Students must also elect one additional course at the 200 or 300 level in both art history and studio art for a total of eight (8) units of art history and eight (8) units of studio art.

Teacher Certification. Students interested in obtaining certification to teach art in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the director of studio art and the chair of the Department of Education.

Department of Astronomy

Professor: Bauer, French (Chair)

Associate Professor: McLeod^A

Visiting Assistant Professor: Slivan

Instructor in Astronomy Laboratory: Curran

The astronomy department offers two introductory survey courses geared to nonscience majors: 100 and 101wL. These courses are taught at a similar level and both fulfill the mathematical modeling distribution requirement. Students who elect to take both may do so in either order. Students who have a strong background in science and/or are considering a major in astronomy or astrophysics should elect ASTR 110. ASTR 109 and 206 fulfill the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

ASTR 100 Life in the Universe

Bauer

This course will cover the origin of life on the earth and the prospects for finding life elsewhere in the cosmos. We will begin with an overview of earth's place in the solar system and the universe. Among the topics we will explore: the early history of the earth and the development of life, changes in the sun that affect the earth, characteristics of the other objects in our solar system and their potential for supporting life, the detection of planets around stars other than the sun, and the search for extraterrestrial life. Some nighttime observing will be required. This course does not count toward a major in astronomy or astrophysics.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

ASTR 101wL Introduction to Stars, Galaxies, and Cosmology with Laboratory

Bauer, French

A survey of stars, galaxies, and cosmology. This course examines the life stories of stars, from birth in clouds of gas and dust, through placid middle age, to violent explosive demise, leaving white dwarfs, neutron stars, or black holes. It also explores the makeup and structure of galaxies, which contain billions of stars and are racing away from each other as part of the overall expansion of the universe. Finally, it presents theories for the origin and ultimate fate of the universe. The course will stress the interaction of observations and the mathematical models developed from these data. Evening laboratory at the observatory.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.25

ASTR 109 Our Place in Space and Time

Slivan

This course traces the story of the quest to determine our place in space and time. Using hands-on experiments and key astronomical observations, we will measure the size and age of the earth, its distance from the sun and other stars, the location of our solar system within our galaxy, the distance to far-away galaxies, and the age and eventual fate of the expanding universe. The emphasis will be on applying quantitative reasoning skills to measure both what we know and how well we know it. Some nighttime observing will be required. This course does not count toward a major in astronomy or astrophysics.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ASTR 110wL Fundamentals of Astronomy with Laboratory

French

This course serves as an introduction to astronomy for students with a strong science background. The emphasis is on the physical principles that shape the universe and on the tools we exploit to learn about stars, galaxies, and cosmology. Laboratory one evening per week offers hands-on access to the telescopes. Some assignments require daytime observing outside of class.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

ASTR 201 Motions in the Sky: Archaeoastronomy and the Copernican Revolution

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. This course will cover the motions of the sun, moon, and planets in the sky and how humans have interpreted them through time. Archaeoastronomy is the study of astronomical knowledge in a culture as revealed through the archaeological record, written records, and ethnography. We will discuss the archaeoastronomy of several cultures, including the Mayans, native North Americans, and the Chinese. We will follow the beginnings of modern astronomy from the ancient Greeks through the Copernican revolution and Newton's formulation of the laws of motion. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: Any 100-level astronomy course, and familiarity with trigonometric functions.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.

Unit: 1.0

ASTR 203/GEOS 213 Planetary Geology

Bauer

Spacecraft observations have shown us a breathtaking diversity of geologic features in the solar system, from ancient river valleys on Mars and violent eruptions on Io to the icy surface of Halley's comet. From a comparative point of view, we will discuss the formation and evolution of the planets and small bodies in the solar system. Topics will include: volcanism, tectonic activity, impacts, and tides. Students may register for either ASTR 203 or GEOS 213 and credit will be granted accordingly. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement and any 100-level ASTR or GEOS course.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ASTR 205 Relativity and Cosmology

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Einstein's theories of space and time have brought about a fundamental change in our conceptual understanding of the universe. Using trigonometry and algebra, we will explore special and general relativity, space travel, black holes, gravitational lensing, galaxy evolution, dark matter, and the expanding universe. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: 101 or 110

Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.

Unit: 1.0

ASTR 206wL Basic Astronomical Techniques with Laboratory

Slivan

Students will learn to use our 24-inch research telescope. Topics include: planning observations, modern instrumentation, and the acquisition and quantitative analysis of astronomical images. This course requires substantial nighttime telescope use and culminates with an independent observing project.

Prerequisite: 101 or 110, and familiarity with trigonometric functions and logarithms.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

ASTR 301 Seminar. Multiwavelength Astronomy

French

Topic for 2005-06: The Cassini Mission. Much of our knowledge of the universe comes from radiation outside of the visible spectrum, from low-energy radio waves that enable us to probe stellar nurseries to high-energy gamma rays that reveal the death throes of exploding stars. In between, microwaves provide decisive evidence for the Big Bang, infrared light enables us to take the temperature of distant comets, and X-rays map out seething hot gas in clusters of galaxies. We will discuss current research in fields of astronomy that rely heavily on wavelengths outside of the visible range. We will survey what has been learned about Saturn from a host of instruments operating at radio, infrared, visible, and ultraviolet wavelengths. Course may be elected more than once.

Prerequisite: Any 200-level astronomy course.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ASTR 311 Elements of Astrophysics

French

Astrophysics is the application of physics to the study of the universe. We will use elements of mechanics, thermodynamics, electromagnetism, quantum mechanics, special relativity, and nuclear physics to investigate selected topics such as planets, the life stories of stars and galaxies, dark matter, and the origin of the universe. Our goals will be to develop insight into the physical underpinnings of the natural world, and to develop a 'universal toolkit' of practical astrophysical techniques that can be applied to the entire celestial menagerie. These tools include scaling analysis, numerical solutions to complex problems, and other research approaches advanced in professional literature. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: PHYS 202 and 203

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ASTR 315 Seminar. Topics in Astrophysics

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: PHYS 202 and 203 (or permission of instructor for students who are taking this as a corequisite with PHYS 202).

The astronomy major consists of a minimum of nine courses: ASTR 101wL or 110wL; 206wL; 311; at least one of 301 or 315; PHYS 202; PHYS 203; MATH 216/PHYS 216; any additional two courses in astronomy above the 100 level.

Students intending to major in astronomy are encouraged to begin physics as soon as possible, and to take ASTR 110wL rather than 101wL. PHYS 219 is strongly recommended. In planning a major program, students should note that some of these courses have prerequisites in mathematics and/or physics.

A substantial background in physics and mathematics is required for graduate study in astronomy. Students planning graduate work in astronomy should elect the astrophysics major.

A minor in astronomy (five units) consists of: 101 or 110, 301, and three additional units in astronomy.

Honors

To earn honors in the major, students must have a minimum grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100 level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. The student must complete a significant research project culminating in a paper and an oral examination. The research component might be satisfied by a thesis, a summer internship, or a 350 project. See Academic Distinctions.

See description of Whitin Observatory and its equipment.

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Stark (Physics)

The Departments of Astronomy and Physics offer an interdepartmental major in astrophysics, which combines the physics major with a foundation of course work in astronomy. This major should be considered by students interested in graduate study in astronomy or astrophysics, and by those who would like a coordinated astronomy extension to the physics major.

In addition to the nine courses required for the physics major, the student takes four astronomy courses. An astrophysics major consists of: PHYS 107, 108, 202, 203, 302, 305, 306, 314; and MATH 216/PHYS 216 as well as ASTR 101wL or 110wL, 206wL, 311, and either 315 or a 350 in either astronomy or astrophysics, or ASPH 370. PHYS 219 is strongly recommended. In planning the major, students should note that some of the courses have prerequisites in mathematics.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100 level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Biological Chemistry

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Allen (Biological Sciences)

Biological Chemistry Advisory Committee:
*Allen (Biological Sciences), Elmore (Chemistry), Peterman (Biological Sciences), Wolfson
(Chemistry)*

The Departments of Biological Sciences and Chemistry offer an interdepartmental major in biological chemistry which provides opportunities for advanced study of the chemistry of biological systems.

In addition to two courses in biochemistry (CHEM 221 (or 222) and 328), the area of concentration must include the following courses: CHEM (a) both 105 [110] and 205 [111], or 120; (b) 211; (c) either 232 or 231; BISC (a) 110 or 110X; (b) 219; (c) 220; (d) two 300-level courses from among the following: 303, 310, 313, 316, 319, 320 or a seminar course if relevant to the major and approved by the director, excluding 350, 360, 370. At least one of these two courses must be a laboratory course; PHYS 104 or 107; MATH 116, 116Z, 120 or equivalent. Senior majors are encouraged to take BIOC 340 as a capstone experience.

Students should be sure to satisfy the prerequisites for the 300-level courses in biological sciences and chemistry. Although CHEM 222 may be used to satisfy the requirement for the first semester of biochemistry, CHEM 221 is the preferred course for biological chemistry majors.

Students planning graduate work in biochemistry should consider taking additional courses in chemistry, such as analytical, inorganic, and the second semesters of organic and physical chemistry. Students planning graduate work in molecular or cell biology should consider taking additional advanced biological sciences courses in those areas. Independent research (350 and/or 360/370) is highly recommended, especially for those considering graduate study.

A recommended sequence of required courses would be:

Year I, CHEM 105 and math or physics; either CHEM 205 or 211 and BISC 110

Year II, either CHEM 211 or 205 and BISC 219; BISC 220 and math or physics

Year III, CHEM 221 and math; CHEM 328 and 232

Year IV, 300-level biological sciences courses and independent study

Please discuss your program with the director as soon as possible.

BIOC 250, 250H, 350, 360 and 370 work can be advised by any faculty member of the Departments of Biological Sciences or Chemistry. Advisors for honors work can be members of either department and students should enroll in BIOC 360/370. The honors program will follow the guidelines of the appropriate department.

Unless otherwise noted, all courses meet for two periods of lecture each week. If indicated, there will also be one three-and-one-half hour laboratory session weekly. Seminars normally meet for one double period each week.

BISC 107 Biotechnology

Smith

This course focuses on applications of recently developed biological techniques, including recombinant DNA, antibody techniques and reproductive technology. The social and ethical issues surrounding these techniques are also discussed. No prior knowledge of biology is expected, as all necessary background information will be discussed. Two lectures weekly. Not to be counted toward the minimum major in biological sciences.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall, Summer

BISC 108 Horticulture with Laboratory

Jones, McDonough, Thomas

This course will emphasize plant structure, growth and function. Topics will include plant adaptations, reproduction, environmentally sound landscape practices, urban horticulture, and the use of medicinal plants. The laboratory involves extensive use of the greenhouses, experimental design, data collection and analysis, and field trips. Not to be counted towards the minimum major in biological sciences.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.25

BISC 109 Human Biology with Laboratory

Ellerby, McDonough

In this class, we will explore human physiology through case studies, lectures, and laboratories. The lectures and case studies will focus on nutrition, genetics, the nervous system, and endocrinology. There will be an emphasis on how different organ systems work together in integrated functions such as exercise and in reproduction. Laboratories involve data collection using computers, physiological test equipment, limited animal dissection, a personal nutrition study and field trips. Not to be counted toward the minimum major in biological sciences.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

BISC 110 Introductory Cell Biology with Laboratory

Staff

Introduction to eukaryotic and prokaryotic cell structure, chemistry and function. Topics include: cell metabolism, genetics, cellular interactions and mechanisms of growth and differentiation. Laboratories focus on experimental approaches to these topics. Either 110 or 111 may be taken first. Students with a strong background in biology and chemistry should consider 110X.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall, Spring, Summer

Unit: 1.25

BISC 110X Introductory Cell Biology with Laboratory

Staff

One section of 110 will be taught for first-year students with exceptional high school backgrounds in biology and chemistry, and for upper-level students who have similarly strong backgrounds in the sciences. A more in-depth coverage of the topics typically covered in 110 will be possible because students entering this course will have some science experience. See BISC 110 for a description of topics.

Prerequisite: Students with lab experience and who have received a score of 4 or 5 on the Biology AP test may enroll. Students who have not taken the Biology AP or with a score lower than 4 must obtain permission from the instructor. All students must have fulfilled the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. The successful completion of an AP course in chemistry, or its equivalent, is strongly recommended.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

BISC 111 Introductory Organismal Biology with Laboratory

Staff

Introduction to the central questions, concepts, and methods of experimental analysis in selected areas of organismal biology. Topics include: evolution, ecology, and plant and animal structure and physiology. Either 110 or 111 may be taken first. Students with a strong background in biology should consider 111X.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

Semester: Fall, Spring, Summer

BISC 111X Introductory Organismal Biology with Laboratory

Rodenhouse, Paul

This section of 111 will be taught for first-year students with exceptional high school backgrounds in biology and for upper class students who have taken another science course at Wellesley. Because students entering this course will have some science experience, coverage of the topics included in BISC 111X will be more in depth than BISC 111. See BISC 111 for a description of the topics covered.

Prerequisite: Students with lab experience and who have received a score of 4 or 5 on the Biology AP test may enroll. Students who have not taken the Biology AP or with a score lower than 4 must obtain permission from the instructor. All students must have fulfilled the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Sciences. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.25

BISC 201 Ecology with Laboratory

Rodenhouse

An introduction to the scientific study of interactions between organisms and their environments. Topics include evolutionary adaptations to environmental constraints, foraging behavior, sexual reproduction and mate selection, population growth and regulation, species interactions, and the structure and function of biological communities and ecosystems. Emphasis is placed on experimental ecology and its uses in addressing environmental issues such as biological control of pests, conservation of endangered species and global climate change. Laboratories occur primarily in the field where exercises introduce students to local habitats including meadows, forests, alpine tundra, bogs, dunes, marshes, lakes, and streams.

Prerequisite: 111, or ES 100, or by permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

BISC 202 Evolution with Laboratory

Buchholtz

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Examination of evolution, the central paradigm of biology, at the level of populations, species, and lineages. Topics include the genetics of populations, the definition of species, the roles of natural selection and chance in evolution, the reconstruction of phylogeny using molecular and morphological evidence, and patterns in the origination, diversity, and extinction of species over time.

Prerequisites: 110 and 111

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.25

BISC 203 Comparative Physiology and Anatomy of Vertebrates with Laboratory

Cameron, Buchholtz, Helluy

The physiology and functional anatomy of vertebrate animals, with an emphasis on comparisons among representative groups. The course covers topics in thermoregulatory, osmoregulatory, reproductive, cardiovascular, respiratory, digestive, neural and ecological physiology. The laboratories incorporate the study of preserved materials and physiological experiments.

Prerequisite: 109 or 111, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

BISC 206 Histology I: Human Microscopic Anatomy with Laboratory

Smith

The structure and function of human tissues, and their cells, using light microscopic, histochemical and electron microscopic techniques. Topics covered include the connective tissues, epithelia, nervous tissue, blood, lymphoid tissue and immunology, as well as others. Laboratory study includes direct experience with selected techniques.

Prerequisite: 110

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

BISC 207 The Biology of Plants with Laboratory

Peterman, Königler

An introduction to experimental plant biology. Topics will include growth and development, stress physiology, plant defense, applications of genetic engineering to the study and improvement of plants and the properties of medicinal plants. The project-oriented laboratory sessions will provide an introduction to some of the techniques currently employed in answering research questions ranging from the organismal to the cellular level.

Prerequisite: 110 or 111

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.25

BISC 209 Microbiology with Laboratory

Allen, Leavitt

Introduction to the microbial world, with emphasis on bacteria and viruses and their activities in nature, using examples of how these microbes influence human activity. Both medical and nonmedical applications, and useful (food production, genetic engineering) as well as harmful (disease, bioterrorism) consequences of microbes will be discussed along with consideration of biological principles and techniques characterizing the organisms.

Prerequisite: 110 and one unit of college chemistry

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.25

BISC 210 Marine Biology with Laboratory

Moore, Hughes

Oceans cover more than 70% of the earth's surface and are our planet's primary life support system. This course examines adaptations and interactions of plants, animals and their environments in marine habitats. Focal habitats include the photic zone of the open ocean, the deep-sea, subtidal and intertidal zones, estuaries, and coral reefs. Emphasis is placed on the dominant organisms, food webs, and experimental studies conducted within each habitat. Laboratories will emphasize primarily field work outdoors in marine habitats where students will gather data for the testing of student-originated hypotheses.

Prerequisite: 111, or ES 100, or by permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

BISC 213/NEUR 213 The Biology of Brain and Behavior with Laboratory

Beltz, Goldman (Physics), Helluy, Paul

An introduction to the study of the nervous system and behavior with particular emphasis on the structure and function of the nervous system. In the first half of the semester, basic neuroanatomy, neurochemistry and neurophysiology are covered. In the second half of the semester, brain mechanisms involved in sensation, language, addiction, memory, and cognition are emphasized. The laboratory is designed to expose the student to basic neuroanatomy, neurochemistry, physiology and behavior. Students may register for either BISC 213 or NEUR 213 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: 110 and either 111 or 109

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.25

BISC 216 Mechanisms of Animal Development with Laboratory

O'Donnell

In this course, we will explore animal development beginning with the process of fertilization. We will consider how a single cell gives rise to the many specialized cell types of the adult. The mechanisms that determine cell fate as the multicellular embryo differentiates will be discussed. Topics will include: embryonic induction, pattern formation, organogenesis (organ development), regeneration, and stem cells. Laboratories will focus on experimental approaches to development.

Prerequisite: 110 and 111 or permission of instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.25

BISC 219 Genetics with Laboratory

Webb, Sequeira, Crum, Leavitt

The course will be devoted to an understanding of the molecular and biochemical basis of genetics and the interactions between cells that provide the basis for tissue and organismal development. The course will establish a link between the generation of genetic variants through mutation, their patterns of inheritance and their maintenance in natural populations. Topics will include: organization of the eukaryotic genome, gene structure and function, differential gene expression, cellular and tissue differentiation including aspects of both animal and plant development, and genetics of pattern formation, inheritance of gene differences and aspects of population and evolutionary genetics. Laboratory experiments will expose students to the fundamentals of genetics including modern molecular techniques for genetic analysis.

Prerequisite: 110 and one unit of college chemistry. Not open to first-year students.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.25

BISC 220 Cellular Physiology with Laboratory

Harris, Königer, Crum

This course will focus on structure/function relationships in eukaryotic cells. Topics will include: dynamic imaging of living cells, an introduction to protein structure and enzyme kinetics, membrane and membrane-bound organelle structure and function, cytoskeleton, transport mechanisms, cell communication, and signaling. The laboratory consists of three projects: enzyme purification and characterization, investigation of cellular transport pathways in yeast, and an analysis of the cytoskeleton in cultured mammalian cells using fluorescence microscopy.

Prerequisite: 110 and two units of college chemistry. One semester of organic chemistry is recommended. Not open to first-year students.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

BISC 302 Animal Physiology with Laboratory

Ellerby, Paul

This course takes an integrated approach to the study of organ system function in animals, with an emphasis on human physiology. We will examine control mechanisms that allow the human body to maintain a constant balance in the face of environmental challenges such as exercise, temperature change and high altitude. Our particular focus will be recent findings in the areas of neural, cardiovascular, respiratory, renal and muscle physiology. In the laboratory, students gain experience with tools of modern physiological research at both the cellular and organismal levels.

Prerequisite: 111 and one of the following – 203, 206, 213, 220, 222
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.25

BISC 303/CS 303 Bioinformatics

Sequeira, Tjaden (Computer Science)

A multidisciplinary seminar exploring the origins, present and future applications and challenges of the intersection of biological and computer sciences. The field of bioinformatics, generated in response to the era of genomics, encompasses all aspects of biological data acquisition, storage, processing, analysis and interpretation with a view to generating in silico models of cellular function. Students may register for either BISC 303 or CS 303 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisites: 219 or 220 or CS 231
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

BISC 304 Histology II: Microscopic Anatomy of Human Systems with Laboratory

Smith

Analysis of structure-function relationships of human systems, based principally on microscopic techniques. Examination of selected pathological states in each system, as well as discussion of recent literature. Laboratory study includes tissue preparation for microscopy, as well as hands-on experience at the transmission electron microscope and participation in a group research project.

Prerequisite: 206
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.25

BISC 305 Seminar. Evolution

Buchholtz

A brief history of life. Origin of life from nonlife, evolution of replicatory molecules, origin of eukaryotic cellular structure, diversification of organic domains, kingdoms and animal phyla, development of strategies for life in terrestrial environments, patterns of extinction. The course will emphasize student participation and make extensive use of the primary literature.

Prerequisite: Two units in Biological Sciences at the 200 level or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

BISC 306 Principles of Neural Development with Laboratory

O'Donnell, Paul

Aspects of nervous system development and how they relate to the development of the organism as a whole. Topics such as neural induction, neurogenesis, programmed cell death, axon guidance, synaptogenesis, and the development of behavior are discussed. Laboratory sessions focus on a variety of methods used to define developing neural systems.

Prerequisite: 213 or 216, or permission of instructor
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.25

BISC 307/ES 307 Advanced Topics in Ecology with Laboratory

Moore

Topic for 2005-06: Ecology of Freshwaters with Laboratory. Rivers, lakes, and wetlands are among our richest ecosystems, yet their physical integrity and biotic diversity are the most imperiled. This course examines the biological, physical, and chemical processes that occur in flowing waters, wetlands, lakes and vernal pools. Lectures and discussions address key concepts for understanding, conserving and restoring freshwater ecosystems. Lab work will include field work in a variety of freshwater habitats, mathematical modeling, and an independent project carried out by student groups. Students may register for either BISC 307 or ES 307 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: 201, 210 or by permission of the instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.25

BISC 308 Tropical Ecology with Wintersession Laboratory

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The ecology of coral reefs and rain forests is the focus of the course. Lectures and discussions during the fall prepare students for the field portion in Belize and Costa Rica. The first half of the laboratory takes place on an island bordering the world's second longest barrier reef; the second half is taught in an intact lowland rain forest. Laboratory work is carried out primarily out-of-doors and includes introductions to the flora and fauna, as well as testing of student-generated hypotheses. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.

Prerequisite: 201, 207, or 210, and permission of instructor.
Application required.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.25

BISC 310 Advanced Topics in Cellular Regulation with Laboratory

Hood-DeGrenier

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Eukaryotic cells possess a diverse array of molecular circuits that regulate their normal activities and respond to external signals. Common modes of regulation include modulation of protein expression or localization, covalent protein modifications, and protein-protein interactions. This course will examine the molecular mechanisms that regulate processes such as cell division, cell differentiation, stress responses, and others, in a format that combines lectures and student presentations of current literature articles. A semester-long laboratory project will investigate a particular regulatory pathway using the budding yeast Saccharomyces cerevisiae as a model organism.

Prerequisite: 219 or 220 (both recommended)
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.25

BISC 313 Seminar. Microbial Physiology and Biochemistry

Allen

Topic for 2005-06: Microbial Communication and Development. Many bacteria are social creatures, interacting and communicating with each other. Quorum sensing, where population density alters gene expression, controls a diverse range of behaviors such as virulence factor production, genetic competence, sporulation, biofilm production, and programmed cell death. Signaling pathways and the molecules that regulate them will be studied, as well as the molecular mechanisms that regulate and produce developmental change in prokaryotes. Student participation and discussion of original literature will be emphasized.

Prerequisite: 209 or 219 or 220, and CHEM 211, or permission of instructor

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

BISC 315/NEUR 315 Advanced Topics in Neurobiology with Laboratory

Topic for 2005-06: Neuroendocrinology.

Hormones act throughout the body to coordinate basic biological functions such as development, differentiation and reproduction. This course will investigate how hormones act in the brain to regulate physiology and behavior. We will study how the major neuroendocrine axes regulate a variety of functions, including brain development, reproductive physiology and behavior, homeostasis and stress. The regulation of these functions by hormones will be investigated at the molecular, cellular and systems levels. Laboratory experiments will explore various approaches to neuroendocrine research, including the detection of hormone receptors in the brain and analysis of behavior. Students may register for either BISC 315 or NEUR 315 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: BISC 213/NEUR 213

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

BISC 316 Molecular Biology with Laboratory

Peterman

Molecular techniques, which allow us to isolate, analyze and manipulate genes, have revolutionized our understanding of living things as well as our ability to alter them genetically. This course focuses on the use of molecular methods to dissect and manipulate complex biological systems. A case study approach will be used to analyze the application of molecular biology to genetic diseases (e.g. cystic fibrosis and muscular dystrophy), genetically modified organisms, cancer, stem cells, human cloning, aging and environmental protection. Student participation and critical analysis of the primary literature will be emphasized. In the laboratory students will pursue an original research project using current molecular techniques (e.g. molecular cloning, PCR, DNA sequencing, mutagenesis, protein expression, bioinformatics). Emphasis will be on experimental design and data analysis and interpretation.

Prerequisite: 219 or permission of the instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

BISC 318 From Genes to Populations: Evolution on Islands

Sequeira

In this course we will focus on patterns of formation of species with emphasis on the particular and fascinating case of differentiation of populations on oceanic archipelagos (Hawaii, Canaries, and Galapagos). Little is known about the ecological and historical forces responsible for the formation and extinction of species, although these are key for the generation of biodiversity. By looking at genealogical relationships among organisms, populations, and species, we can interpret how historical processes can leave evolutionary footprints on the geographic distribution of traits. We will explore computational tools for analysis of DNA sequences, and discuss methods of phylogeny, phylogeography reconstruction and population demographics. The course includes student presentations and discussions of the primary literature.

Prerequisite: 201 or 202 or 219 or by permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken 319.

BISC 319 Population Genetics and Systematics with Laboratory

Sequeira

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In this course we will focus on patterns of population differentiation and speciation in oceanic islands. Little is known about the ecological and historical forces responsible for speciation although these are key for the generation of biological diversity. By looking at relationships between organisms, populations and species, we can interpret how historical processes can leave evolutionary footprints on the geographic distribution of traits. After a series of introductory lectures, the course will involve student presentations and discussion of primary literature examining cases in archipelagos (Hawaii, Canaries and Galapagos). In the laboratory we will explore computational biology tools for analysis of DNA sequences, and apply methods of phylogeny, phylogeography reconstruction and population demographics. We will also explore the growing field of molecular dating of evolutionary events.

Prerequisite: 202 or 219 or by permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken 318.

BISC 320 The Proteomics of Eukaryotic Cells with Laboratory

Harris

The Human Genome Project and the sequencing of the genomes of several other organisms have provided biologists with vast storehouses of information. However, it is important to remember that DNA sequences are only a blueprint for life. To a great extent the living condition arises from the complex interactions of thousands of cellular proteins. Research that focuses on the large-scale study of proteins is called proteomics. This course introduces students to the techniques utilized and the scientific questions being addressed in this newly emerging discipline. Student participation and the use of original literature will be emphasized. In the laboratory students will perform two-dimensional gel electrophoresis, peptide mass fingerprinting using MALDI-TOF mass spectrometry, and DNA microarrays.

Prerequisite: 220 and CHEM 211, or by permission of the instructor. 219 is strongly recommended.

BISC 331 Seminar

Webb

Topic for 2005-06: Cancer Genomics. Cancer can be attributed to disruption of gene structure and function. Functional genomics has contributed more to the understanding and treatment of cancer in the last five years than the previous half century of oncology research. This course will provide a comprehensive study of the biological basis of malignancy from pathophysiology to the genetics of the transformed phenotype by examining the use of genomics in diagnosis, prognosis and treatment directed at specific molecular targets. Topics to be discussed include pharmacogenomics, RNAi, biomarkers, oncolytic viruses and the role of bioinformatics in analysis of SNPs, transcriptional profiling, proteomics, and rational drug design. Class discussion and student presentation of recent original literature will be an integral part of the course.

BISC 332/NEUR 332 Advanced Topics in Neuroscience

Tetel

Topic for 2005-06: Frontiers in Neuroscience: Neurogenesis and Neurodegeneration. This course will explore two critical issues in neuroscience today: the birth of new neurons (neurogenesis) in the adult brain, and mechanisms of cell death in the brain (neurodegeneration). In addition to lectures, students will review current literature, give group presentations, and write a paper on their chosen topic. We will begin by exploring the controversy surrounding, and the implications of, neurogenesis in the adult brain. The second part of the course will investigate mechanisms of neurodegeneration in disorders such as Alzheimer's, Huntington's and Parkinson's Disease. Students will develop skills in critically reading research papers and giving presentations. Students may register for either BISC 332 or NEUR 332 and credit will be granted accordingly.

BISC 335/NEUR 335/PHYS 335 Computational Neuroscience with Laboratory

Goldman (Physics)

Computations by networks of neurons in the brain underlie all of our thoughts, perceptions, and memories. However, direct experimental observation of neural computations is extremely difficult. Mathematical models are increasingly used to bridge the gap between experimental measurements and hypothesized network functions. This course will focus on the use of mathematical models to describe computations performed in the nervous systems of a variety of animals. Topics will range from single neuron biophysics to the analysis of circuits thought to underlie sensory perception and memory. Each topic will be introduced by background lectures, followed by student-led presentations of primary literature and construction of a computer model of the system studied. Lab will introduce students to computer programming of mathematical models in MATLAB and the neuron-simulator NEURON. Students may register for either BISC 335, NEUR 335, or PHYS 335 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: PHYS 104/107 and either PHYS 106/108 or NEUR/BISC 213; or by permission of instructor. No programming experience is required. Not open to first-year students.

A major in biological sciences includes eight biological sciences courses, at least six of which must be taken at Wellesley, plus two units of college chemistry. BISC 110 and 111 or their equivalent are required for the major. Four 200-level courses are required, with at least one course from each of the following three groups: cell biology – 206, 216, 219, 220; systems biology – 203, 207, 213, 222; and community biology – 201, 202, 209, 210. A minimum of two 300-level courses are also required for the major. One of these courses, exclusive of 350, 360, or 370, must include laboratory and must be taken at Wellesley. Additional chemistry beyond the two required units is strongly recommended or required for certain 300-level courses. CHEM 221 and 328, and BISC 350, 360, and 370 do not count toward the minimum major.

BISC 107, 108, and 109, which do not count toward the minimum major in biological sciences, do fulfill the College distribution requirements; 108 and 109 as laboratory sciences; 107 as a nonlaboratory science course. BISC 109, 111 (and 111X), and 201 fulfill the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

Within the major, students may design a program in general biology or one which emphasizes subjects dealing with animals, plants, microbes, or cellular/molecular mechanisms. A broad training in the various aspects of biology is recommended.

A minor in biological sciences (five units) consists of: (A) BISC 110 and 111 (B) two 200-level units, each of which must be in a different group as described in the first paragraph above under major requirements, and (C) one 300-level unit, excluding 350, which must be taken at Wellesley. Four of the five courses for a minor must be taken at Wellesley. Chemistry is recommended. Students planning a minor should consult the chair.

Students interested in the interdepartmental major in biological chemistry are referred to that section of the catalog where the program is described. They should consult with Professor Allen, director of the biological chemistry program.

Students interested in the interdepartmental major in neuroscience are referred to the section of the catalog where this program is described. They should consult with the director of the neuroscience program.

Students interested in the interdepartmental major in environmental studies are referred to this listing in the catalog where the program is described. They should consult with the co-directors of this program. Students interested in concentrating in community biology may wish to supplement and enrich their work at Wellesley by taking extradepartmental courses offered through the Marine Studies Consortium or the Semester in Environmental Science (SES) offered each fall at the Ecosystems Center of the Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole, Mass. Students are referred to the sections of the catalog titled Extradepartmental and Special Academic Programs where these opportunities are described.

AP credit does not replace any course offered in the Department of Biological Sciences and does not count toward a major or a minor in biological sciences, biological chemistry, or neuroscience. Students with an AP score of 4 or 5, or those with exceptional preparation that includes a strong laboratory experience, should consider enrolling in BISC 110X and/or BISC 111X. The successful completion of an AP course in chemistry, or its equivalent, is strongly recommended. No exemption exams will be given for BISC 110 or 111. All biology courses require the fulfillment of the Quantitative Reasoning basic skills requirement as a prerequisite.

In order to obtain Wellesley credit for any biology course taken at another institution during the summer or the academic year, preliminary approval must be obtained from the chair of the department prior to enrolling in the course. Once the student has enrolled at Wellesley, courses from two-year colleges will not be accepted at any level. Transfer students wishing to obtain credit for biology courses taken prior to enrollment at Wellesley should consult the chair of the department.

Honors

Honors in biological sciences is earned by the demonstration of excellence in both coursework and a thesis research project. All junior majors are invited to apply for the honors program. Final acceptance into the program is contingent on a vote of the department faculty and, typically, a grade point of 3.5 or higher in courses in the major above the 100 level. The primary goal of the thesis project is the development of independent research capabilities, culminating in the writing of a research paper. Honors candidates present the results of their thesis research to an examination committee in the thesis oral discussion, which takes place during reading period. After the oral examination, the thesis committee evaluates the candidate's performance and may recommend approval of the degree with honors. For more information, please see the bulletin "Guidelines for Research Students and Advisors" and the biological sciences department Web site for honors and theses: www.wellesley.edu/Biology/honors_theses.html.

Students planning graduate work are advised to take calculus, statistics, organic chemistry, two units of physics, and to have a reading knowledge of a second language. They should consult the catalogs of the schools of their choice for specific requirements. Premedical students are referred to the requirements given in the Academic Program section.

Professor: Kolodny, Coleman (Chair), Hearn^A, Wolfson, Fuller-Stanley^A, Arumainayagam

Associate Professor: Haines, Miwa

Assistant Professor: Reisberg, Verschoor, Flynn, Elmore

Senior Instructor in Chemistry Laboratory: Turnbull, Doe, Hall, McCarthy

Unless otherwise noted, all courses meet for three periods of lecture/discussion and one 3.5 hour laboratory appointment weekly. CHEM 101, 306, and the selected topics courses will generally be taught without laboratory, but may include laboratory for some topics.

The chemistry department reviews elections of introductory chemistry students and places them in 105, 205, or 120 according to their previous preparation, and Advanced Placement (AP) scores, International Baccalaureate (IB) scores and department placement exams. Students with a 5 on the Chemistry AP exam (or the equivalent on the IB exam) typically elect CHEM 120. They may elect CHEM 211 if they demonstrate sufficient mastery of material from CHEM 105 and CHEM 205 on the department's placement exam. All other students wishing to elect a first course other than CHEM 105 must demonstrate proficiency in the relevant material on the placement exam. Details of the AP/IB policy and the placement exam are on the department's Web site – www.wellesley.edu/Chemistry/chem.html. Students who have taken one year of high school chemistry, and those with an AP score of 4 or less, should elect CHEM 105 followed by either CHEM 205 or 211.

CHEM 101 Contemporary Problems in Chemistry

Reisberg

Topic for 2005-06: Understanding Drugs. A study of a wide variety of drugs, both legal and illegal. The focus will be on how these molecules affect our minds and bodies based on an understanding of their biochemistry. Topics will include antibiotics, steroids, stimulants, intoxicants, narcotics, and hallucinogens. The history, discovery, development, testing, regulation and prohibition of these substances will also be considered.

Prerequisite: Open to all students except those who have taken any other chemistry course.

CHEM 105 Fundamentals of Chemistry with Laboratory

Staff

This course is designed for students majoring in the physical and biological sciences as well as those wishing an introduction to modern molecular science. Core principles and interesting applications of chemistry will be combined to provide students with a conceptual understanding of chemistry that will help them in both their professional and everyday lives. Topics will include principles of atomic and molecular structure including nuclear chemistry, molecular energetics, an introduction to chemical equilibrium, chemical kinetics and classes of chemical reactions. The laboratory work introduces students to synthesis and structural determination by IR and other spectroscopic techniques, molecular modeling, periodic properties, statistical analysis and various quantitative methods of analysis.

Prerequisite: 105 is designed for students who have completed one year of high school chemistry and mathematics equivalent to two years of algebra. Students who do not meet these prerequisites and who wish to take 105 should contact the department chair. The department offers a Winternession review of important topics from high school chemistry for students with minimal background in chemistry. Students must have fulfilled the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have taken [110].

CHEM 120 Intensive Introductory Chemistry with Laboratory

Kolodny

A one-semester course for students who have completed more than one year of high school chemistry, replacing CHEM [110] 105 and [111] 205 as a prerequisite for more advanced chemistry courses. It presents the topics of nuclear chemistry, atomic structure and bonding, periodicity, kinetics, thermodynamics, electrochemistry, equilibrium, acid/base chemistry, solubility and transition metal chemistry. All of these topics are presented in the context of both historical and contemporary applications. The laboratory includes experiments directly related to topics covered in lecture, an introduction of statistical analysis of data, molecular modeling and computational chemistry, instrumental and classical methods of analysis, thermochemistry and solution equilibria.

Prerequisite: Open only to students who have taken more than one year of high school chemistry and have fulfilled the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have completed [110] 105 and/or [111] 205. Students who have AP or IB credit in Chemistry, and who elect CHEM 120, forfeit the AP or IB credit.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

CHEM 205 Chemical Analysis and Equilibrium with Laboratory

Staff

This course builds on the principles introduced in CHEM 105, with an emphasis on chemical equilibrium and analysis, and their role in the chemistry of the environment. Topics will include chemical reactions in aqueous solution with particular emphasis on acids and bases, solubility and complexation, electrochemistry, atmospheric chemistry, photochemistry and smog, global warming and acid deposition, sampling and separations, modeling of complex equilibrium and kinetic systems, statistical analysis of data, and solid state chemistry of ceramics, zeolites and new novel materials. The laboratory work includes additional experience with instrumental and noninstrumental methods of analysis, sampling, computational chemistry and solution equilibria.

Prerequisites: 105 and fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement or permission of the department. Not open to students who have taken [111] or 120.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

CHEM 231 Physical Chemistry I with Laboratory

Arumainayagam

This course establishes and develops the principles that are used to explain and interpret the observations made in other branches of chemistry. Two major topics, chemical thermodynamics and kinetics, are introduced. Properties of solutions and gases are examined using these principles. Applications to other areas of chemistry will be discussed. The laboratory segment of the course incorporates statistical analysis of measured data.

Prerequisite: [111], 205 or 120, or by permission of the department, and MATH 116, 116Z, or 120 and PHYS 104 or 107.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

CHEM 232 Physical Chemistry for the Life Sciences with Laboratory

Kolodny

An examination of several topics in physical chemistry, with an emphasis on their applications to the life sciences. Topics include quantum chemistry and spectroscopy, electrochemistry, chemical thermodynamics and kinetics.

Prerequisite: [111], 205 or 120, or permission of the department, and MATH 116, 116Z, or 120 and PHYS 104 or 107.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

CHEM 306 Seminar

Topic for 2005-06: HIV/AIDS Therapeutics.

This seminar will focus on the design, development, production, and distribution of drugs for the treatment of AIDS. There are currently 26 different drugs approved by the FDA for the treatment of HIV. Most of these drugs work by inhibiting one of three key enzymes: reverse transcriptase, HIV protease, and integrase. We will explore the basic biochemical mechanism of each enzyme and the methods by which inhibitors have been designed and tested. The study of HIV therapeutics will include an examination of some of the economic and political factors that influence pharmaceutical R&D. We will look at the process chemistry involved in producing drugs on a large scale, at issues related to patents, including Brazil's free HIV drug policy.

CHEM 308/ES 308 Green Chemistry

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Green chemistry can be defined as the design of chemicals, chemical syntheses, and chemical processes that are environmentally benign and economically feasible. This course will serve to introduce students to the 12 Principles of Green Chemistry and explore how these principles are put into use through real world examples. The subject matter to be discussed will include aspects of analytical, biological, inorganic, organic, and polymer chemistry from an environmental or green perspective. This course is designed for students interested in chemistry, biochemistry, engineering, environmental studies, materials science and related fields. Students may register for either CHEM 308 or ES 308 and credit will be granted accordingly.

CHEM 349 Topics in Inorganic Chemistry

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Organometallic compounds are broadly defined as molecules that possess an organic group bonded to a transition metal through a direct carbon-metal bond. Organotransition metal chemistry is a rapidly growing interdisciplinary subject with applications in organic synthesis, industrial processes and materials science. Initially, this course will serve to introduce the concepts of structure, bonding, synthesis, and characterization of organometallic molecules. The emphasis of the course will be on reactions and reaction mechanisms with particular attention paid to applications in organic synthesis and homogeneous catalysis.

Directions for Election

Any student who plans to take chemistry beyond [111], 205, or 120 should consult one or more members of the chemistry department faculty. The department handbook, available at the department office, Science Center 147, and on the department Web site (www.wellesley.edu/Chemistry/chem.html), contains specific suggestions about programs and deals with a variety of topics including preparation in mathematics and physics, graduate programs, and careers of former majors.

The chemistry core curriculum was revised in academic year 2002-03. For students in the class of 2007 and beyond and those who wish to major in chemistry but have taken fewer than three chemistry courses the major will consist of: 105 [110] and 205 [111], or 120; 211 and 212 [313]; 231 or 232; three from among: 221 or 222, 333, 341, 361; and two additional courses in chemistry at the 200 or 300 level, at least one of which must include laboratory. A lab-based 350 or 351 can count as one of the additional courses. Students who plan to major in chemistry should complete PHYS 108 or PHYS 106. Students must also complete MATH 116 or MATH 120. All students who plan to major in chemistry must complete a minimum of one unit of research/independent study. The research requirement may be earned during the academic year by completing a 251, 351, 355, or 360. To obtain research credit toward the major, the project must culminate in the writing of a substantive paper and a presentation in the department. The research requirement may also be fulfilled by participating in a summer research program and meeting the stipulations regarding the paper and presentation. Students must arrange to have the summer research project approved by a faculty member in the chemistry department before starting the program. The research may be conducted on or off campus and must be for a minimum of 8 weeks.

The mathematics and physics courses may be counted toward a major or a minor in those departments. Early completion of the mathematics and physics requirements is encouraged.

Students planning graduate work in most areas of chemistry or closely allied fields should strongly consider taking CHEM 333 and additional mathematics and physics courses. MATH 216/PHYS 216 (Mathematics for the Sciences II) is particularly appropriate for students with interest in physical or inorganic chemistry. Normally no more than three units of chemistry taken from another institution may be counted towards the major.

Students interested in the interdepartmental major in biological chemistry are referred to the section of the catalog where that major is described. They should also consult with the director of the biological chemistry program.

A minor in chemistry includes: 105 [110] and 205 [111] or 120; 211; 231 or 232; a choice of 221 or 222 or 341 or 361; one additional 200- or 300-level unit, excluding 350/351. The mathematics and physics prerequisites for 231 or 232 must also be satisfied. Normally no more than one unit in chemistry from another institution may be counted toward the minor.

The American Chemical Society has established a set of requirements in various areas which it considers essential for the training of chemists. Students wishing to meet the standard of an accredited chemist as defined by this society should consult the chair of the chemistry department.

Teacher Certification

Students interested in obtaining certification to teach chemistry in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the chair of the education department.

Placement and Exemption Examinations

The department conducts a placement exam at the beginning of the fall semester. Students with an AP score of 4 or less (or the equivalent IB score) who wish to elect a course other than CHEM 105 must take this exam and consult with the chair of the department.

Credit for Courses Taken at Other Institutions

In order to obtain Wellesley credit for any chemistry course taken at another institution, during the summer or the academic year, approval must be obtained from the chair of the department prior to enrolling in the course. In general, courses from two-year colleges will not be accepted at any level. These restrictions normally apply only to courses taken after enrollment at Wellesley. Transfer students wishing to obtain credit for chemistry courses taken prior to enrollment at Wellesley should consult the chair of the department.

Withdrawal from Courses with Laboratory

Students who withdraw from a course which includes laboratory, and then elect that course in another semester, must complete both the lecture and laboratory portions of the course the second time.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100 level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Viano (Italian Studies)

Advisory Committee: Obeng (Africana Studies), Karakasidou (Anthropology), Mekuria^A (Art), Huss (East Asian Languages and Literatures), Ford (English), Shetley^{AI} (English), Gillain (French), Ward (German), Zimmerman (East Asian Languages and Literatures), Bishop (Russian), Cushman (Sociology), Gascón-Vera (Spanish), Creef (Women's Studies), Wood (The Writing Program)

The cinema and media studies (CAMS) major is multicultural in scope and interdisciplinary in method. Its chief objective is to provide students with the skills to understand and interpret the various forms of the moving image. Audio-visual media have played a dominant role in the cultural life of the century recently ended, and promise to figure even more prominently in the current century. The cinema and media studies program equips students to reflect critically on the prevalence and power of audio-visual media, to analyze in an informed and judicious way specific audio-visual texts, and to appreciate the power of outstanding works of cinematic art. The program aims to substitute active viewing for passive absorption, and to offer students a context and a set of tools with which to assess the media texts that shape the world we all inhabit.

Students majoring in cinema and media studies must take a minimum of nine units, including CAMS 175, CAMS 231, and CAMS 233, one unit in the art department, and one unit in the sociology department, chosen from among the courses listed below. Two units must be at the 300 level, and only one of them can be a 350. To ensure some concentration, at least four units at the 200 level or above should either be elected from within one department or should center around a particular field within the major, such as cinema and video as art, media and identity, media and the culture industry. (For some examples of suitable field concentrations and associated courses, please consult the cinema and media studies Web page at www.wellesley.edu/Film/homePage/home.html.) Students primarily interested in the computing aspects of arts and multimedia should consider the interdepartmental media arts and sciences program.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

CAMS 120/WRIT 125 Women in Film Wood (The Writing Program)

To a large extent, film is about watching, and much film is about watching women. This course provides basic instruction in film analysis, and then makes a foray into theories of cinema. How does the camera work, not only to display its characters, but also to direct the gaze upon them? What are the relationships between the visual spectacle and the progress of the film's story? Writing assignments ask students to observe, analyze, interpret, and explain. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in cinema and media studies. Includes a third session each week.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

CAMS 175 Introduction to Cinema and Media Studies

Viano

An introduction to media analysis with strong emphasis on the critical study of motion pictures. Through repeated viewings of a successful mainstream film, and a selection of audio-visual and written texts, the course aims to impart a methodology for textual and contextual criticism. While exploring key terms such as modernity, intertextuality, and ideology, the readings will also expose students to different theories of culture.

Prerequisite: Preference given to cinema and media studies majors, first-year students and sophomores.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

CAMS 210 Cinema in the 1960s

Viano

This course aims to investigate the "turmoil" in the cinema in the 1960s: the birth of ubiquitous New Waves, the interest in avant-garde cinema, and the rise of political filmmaking. We will watch films made in developed as well as developing countries. We will read historical accounts of the cinematic output, together with interviews and manifestoes. Finally, we will briefly analyze cinema's critical role as collective memory: films that re-visited the 1960s a few decades later, thus constituting images of history.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

CAMS 231 Film as Art

Shetley

Study of the aesthetic aspect of film through the critical viewing of classic films. Screenings and discussion of outstanding works of cinematic art drawn from various styles and traditions of filmmaking, including the Hollywood studio system, independent film, the French new wave, neorealism, surrealism, and the avant-garde. Readings from prominent filmmakers and critics chosen to offer a sense of the development of film aesthetics and of the range of critical opinion on the artistic potential of the medium.

Prerequisite: None. Preference given to CAMS majors.

Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

CAMS 233 History of Motion Pictures

Viano

The study of film history is perhaps the best gateway to a critical investigation of modernity and globalization. After an examination of film's roots in the nineteenth century, the course offers a panoramic, chronological overview of world cinema's development, from Lumière to the so-called "death of cinema." Students will learn about the various film movements in the context of the other arts. By means of socio-historical analysis, we will investigate the links between cinema, technology, and power.

Prerequisite: CAMS 175 and CAMS 231, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

CAMS 250H Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open by permission of instructor.

CAMS 313 Seminar. Who's Afraid of Film Theory? Viano

Only twenty years after Louis Lumière ironically said of his technical marvel Le Cinématographe (1895), that "cinematography is an invention without a future" his quip had already become a laughing matter. Not only had cinema spawned a global business and an art, but had also begun to attract thinkers from various disciplines. The American Hugo Münsterberg's 1916 psychological study of how this "invention without a future" affected people's perceptions, feelings, and cognitive patterns was just the beginning of an international debate that would evolve into an academic discipline with a strong future. Through a balanced selection of (mostly written) materials, this seminar retraces film theory's trajectory and significance.

Department of Classical Studies

Professor: Marvin, Starr, Rogers, Dougherty (Chair)

Visiting Associate Professor: Davidson, Warrior

Assistant Professor: Reay^{AI}, Gillhuly

The Department of Classical Studies offers three closely related major programs: Greek, Latin, classical civilization. Majors in Greek and Latin are based entirely on courses in the original languages while the classical civilization major combines work in the original languages with courses taught in English on the history, literature, society, and material culture of the ancient world. A related, interdepartmental major, classical and Near Eastern archaeology, brings together courses in classical studies with course work in other departments. Classes in Greek and Latin are conducted in English and encourage close analysis of the ancient texts, with emphasis on their literary and historical values.

The department reserves the right to place a new student in the course for which she seems best prepared regardless of the number of units she has offered for admission. The department requires its own placement test for students interested in enrolling in Latin courses other than LAT 101/102.

Qualified students are encouraged to spend a semester, usually in the junior year, on study abroad. Limited departmental funds are available for foreign study. Excellent programs are available in Rome and Athens.

Classical Civilization

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

The major in classical civilization offers the opportunity to explore the ancient world through an integrated, cohesive program of courses worked out by the student and her advisor. Individual programs are tailored to meet students' specific interests, such as classical literature, ancient theater, ancient philosophy and political theory, ancient religion, and the classical tradition. A brochure listing of suggested courses for these and other options is available in the Department of Classical Studies and on the Web site www.wellesley.edu/ClassicalStudies/CLSTWWW/CLSTHome.html.

CLCV 102 Uncovering the Ancient World: An Introduction to the Worlds of Greece and Rome

Starr

Instead of excavating an entire site, archaeologists often start by digging exploratory trenches, an approach this course will take to exploring both what we know about Greece and Rome and, as important, how we know what we know. Through specific investigative projects, we'll explore major topics in the ancient world, such as Homeric Greece, culture and empire in the Athens of Pericles, the founding of Rome, and the interplay of cultures in the Roman empire. We'll probe the various kinds of evidence we have, including literature, art, architecture, religious artifacts, historical documents, and legal cases, and discuss the advantages and disadvantages each type of evidence presents.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: Spring, Summer Unit: 1.0

CLCV 104 Classical Mythology

Dougherty

Achilles' heel, the Trojan Horse, Pandora's Box, an Oedipal complex, a Herculean task – themes and figures from Classical mythology continue to play an important role in our everyday life. We will read the original tales of Classical heroes and heroines together with more modern treatments in film and literature. Why do these stories continue to engage, entertain, and even shock us? What is the nature and power of myth? Readings from ancient sources in English translation.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

CLCV 209 Mirrors of Princes: Stories of Heroes

Davidson

One of the functions of the heroic narratives of the ancient oral poetry of Europe and the Middle East was to teach values and right conduct to young nobles. In the tales of the glorious heroes (and heroines) of old, moral lessons for the present were quietly embedded, often taught by older figures of low social status to the high-bred young. Our focus will be the comparative investigation of this "poetic ethics" across multiple linguistic and geographical contexts: the ancient Greek poems of Homer and Hesiod, the classical Persian Shāhnāma or Book of Kings, the Old Irish saga of the Cattle Raid of Cooley, the Old Norse Sigurd Cycle, the Middle High German Nibelungenlied, the Old English Beowulf, and the Old French Song of Roland.

CLCV 210/310 Greek Tragedy: Plays, Politics, Performance

Gilhuly

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The fifth-century Athenian playwrights, Aeschylus, Sophocles, and Euripides, produced brilliant tragedies that continue to haunt us today and to define our notion of drama. At the same time, the Athenian people forged the democratic principles that form the basis for our own political institutions. The element of performance, common to both drama and democracy, provides an important key to understanding this interesting confluence of theater and politics, and this class will combine the close reading (in English) of ancient Greek tragedies with the viewing of a selection of contemporary dramatic performances such as modern Italian cinema, Black Gospel traditions, and contemporary productions of Greek drama. This course may be taken as either 210 or, with additional assignments, 310.

Prerequisite: 210 open to all students; 310 by permission of instructor.

CLCV 212/312 On the Road: Travel in Literature and Film from Homer's Odyssey to Thelma and Louise

Dougherty

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. If you can't travel yourself, you can always read about it. This course will focus on the lure of travel, the companionship of the road, and the complicated issues of return. We will also consider the impact of gender on the construction of travel, the connection between travel and romance, and the association of travel and knowledge. How do these (and other) themes laid out so forcefully in the Odyssey continue to dominate works of literature and film? Readings will include Homer's Odyssey, Twain's The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, and Kerouac's On the Road; films will include The Return of Martin Guerre, and Thelma and Louise. This course may be taken as either 212 or, with additional assignments, 312.

Prerequisite: 212 open to all students; 312 by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

CLCV 213/313 Gender in Antiquity

Gilhuly

Do notions of gender change over time? In this course, we will explore how gender was constructed in antiquity and how it functioned as an organizational principle. Through close readings of selections from Greek and Roman epic, lyric poetry and drama, as well as philosophical and historical texts, we will analyze ancient gender norms, exploring how they were bent, dressed up, and used. This course may be taken as either 213 or, with additional assignments, 313.

Prerequisite: 213 open to all students; 313 by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Historical Studies

CLCV 215/315 Women's Life in Greece and Rome

Gilhuly

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Were the ancient Greeks and Romans misogynists? Did their attitudes set the pattern for discrimination against women in modern European literature and life? Does modern feminist theory help or hinder the investigation of these questions? Reading from ancient historical, religious, medical, and legal documents in English translation. This course may be taken as either 215 or, with additional assignments, 315.

Prerequisite: 215 open to all students; 315 by permission of instructor.

CLCV 219/319 Roman Literature in Translation

Starr

Love poetry, history, epic, the novel, oratory, comedy, philosophy, satire, biography, tragedy, epigram, autobiography: ancient Rome was rich in all of these genres, and it profoundly influenced later literature. We'll survey great works of Roman literature and explore the historical and cultural contexts in which it developed. What does Roman literature tell us it meant to be Roman? What were the functions of literature in society? We'll also look back in time: How do Roman authors build on the works of the ancient Greeks to create an independent Roman literature? We'll also examine some modern texts influenced by Roman literature. Selections in translation from such authors as Catullus, Horace, Livy, Tacitus, Vergil, Petronius, Apuleius, Cicero, Plautus, Seneca, Juvenal, Suetonius, and Martial. This course may be taken as either 219 or, with additional assignments, 319.

Prerequisite: 219 open to all students; 319, by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

CLCV 230/330 War: From Troy to Baghdad

Rogers

War is undoubtedly bad. But human beings have always practiced war. Indeed war preceded history itself by tens of thousands of years – if by history we mean the written inquiry into the past. But what causes wars? How have wars been justified historically? How are wars won and lost? What are their effects? In this class we examine a series of case studies in warfare, including the Trojan War, the Peloponnesian War, and the Roman Punic Wars. We will read classic accounts of warfare, theoretical literature about tactics, strategy and logistics, and also will analyze how war is represented in other media, such as art and film. This course may be taken as either 230 or, with additional assignments, 330.

Prerequisite: 230 open to all students; 330 by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

CLCV 234 Roads to Rome: Leading the Roman Life

Marvin

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. For Roman families the year was shaped by the agricultural calendar, the day by alternations of work and leisure, and society by hierarchies of class and gender. This course will examine what it meant to lead a Roman life, using textual evidence (historical and literary) and the physical remains of Roman cities and towns. It will investigate how civic and religious institutions, public spectacles, and domestic social rituals shaped the lives of individual Romans.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Historical Studies
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

CLCV 236/336 Greek and Roman Religion

Rogers

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The founders of Western civilization were not monotheists. Rather, from 1750 BC until AD 500 the ancient Greeks and Romans sacrificed daily to a pantheon of immortal gods and goddesses who were expected to help mortals to achieve their earthly goals. How did this system of belief develop? Why did it capture the imaginations of so many millions for over 2000 years? What impact did the religion of the Greeks and Romans have upon the other religions of the Mediterranean, including Judaism and Christianity? Why did the religion of the Greeks and Romans ultimately disappear? This course may be taken as either 236 or, with additional assignments, 336.

Prerequisite: 236 open to all students; 336 by permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken REL [236].

CLCV 240/REL 240 Romans, Jews, and Christians in the Roman Empire

Rogers and Geller (Religion)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. At the birth of the Roman Empire virtually all of its inhabitants were practicing polytheists. Three centuries later, the Roman Emperor Constantine was baptized as a Christian and his successors eventually banned public sacrifices to the gods and goddesses who had been traditionally worshipped around the Mediterranean. This course will examine Roman era Judaism, Graeco-Roman polytheism, and the growth of the Jesus movement into the dominant religion of the late antique world. Students may register for either CLCV 240 or REL 240 and credit will be granted accordingly.

CLCV 345 Slavery and Society in the Graeco-Roman World

Rogers

Some historians have argued that the development of democracy in ancient Athens depended upon the existence of slave labor in Athens. In Republican Rome, where the children of freed slaves could become Roman citizens, scholars have claimed that the majority of Roman citizens were the descendants of slaves by the end of the first century B.C.E. How was slavery defined in the ancient Near East and the Graeco-Roman world? What were the political, social, and economic effects of slavery upon the Greek city-states and Rome? How did the Romans incorporate ex-slaves into Roman society? Was there any opposition to slavery? In this seminar we will briefly examine slavery in the ancient Near East and then trace the development of slavery in Greece and Rome from the middle of the second millennium B.C.E. until the fourth century C.E.

Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Marvin

The purpose of a major in classical and Near Eastern archaeology is to acquaint the student with the complex societies of the Old World in antiquity. The program for each student will be planned individually from courses in the Departments of Anthropology, Art, Classical Studies, History, Philosophy, and Religion as well as from the architecture and anthropology programs at MIT. The introductory course in archaeology (ANTH 206) or its equivalent is required for all archaeology majors.

Students who concentrate in classical archaeology must normally have at least an elementary knowledge of both Greek and Latin, and take both Greek and Roman history as well as Greek and Roman art. Students who concentrate on the ancient Near East must have at least an elementary knowledge of one ancient Near Eastern language. Attention is called to Hebrew 101-102 and 201-202 and to the Brandeis exchange program.

Students should plan for at least one summer of excavation and/or travel.

LAT 200 Intermediate Latin I: Petronius: Loud Bash at the Mansion

Staff
Tacitus called him Nero's "czar of cool" (arbiter elegantiae). His Satyricon was Europe's first novel, full of low life and hijinx – both a parody of epic poetry and a pattern for romance novels. Petronius offers a series of comic episodes in Southern Italy involving dubious encounters with gluttons, witches, werewolves, acrobats, singers, party-crashers, and even professors, many of whom gather to hear poetry, eat exotic foods, and drink too much with Trimalchio, the crude millionaire (and former slave). Our selected readings will serve as a review of Latin grammar and an introduction to Latin literature.

LAT 306 Horace's Lyric Poetry

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. We will read the Odes and Epodes of Horace, considering such topics as Greek models, Roman topics, and the politics of Augustan Rome.

Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

LAT 308 Imperial Latin Literature

Staff
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Latin literature flourished in the Imperial period, even though it is referred to as "Silver" instead of "Golden" Latin literature. We'll explore various authors and genres, including such authors as Seneca (philosophy and drama), Lucan (epic), Tacitus (history), Pliny (letters), Juvenal (satire), and Martial (epigrams). We'll also examine the impact of rhetoric on the writing of Latin prose and poetry.

Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

LAT 310 Roman Historical Myths

Staff
Romans based their history in myth and made their history into myths. This course includes reading from major authors such as Livy, Vergil,

Horace, Ovid, Propertius, and Tacitus, focusing on historical myths such as Romulus and Remus, the Rape of the Sabine Women, Tarquinius Superbus, and Hercules and Cacus. We will then examine how later Romans reworked those myths to serve current political purposes, and how they transformed historical events into powerful myths.

Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Historical Studies
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

LAT 319 Selected Topics

Reay
Topic for 2005-06: The Age of Nero. An investigation of Roman literature under the reign of the (artistic and monstrous) emperor Nero. Central to our study will be questions of dissimulation, spectacle, and theatricality; the emperor as cultural rival, author, and actor; how the elite reckoned with autocracy; Rome's relationship to its cultural and literary pasts – Trojan, Augustan, Republican, Greek; empire and civil war; the significance of encyclopedism; stoicism. Readings drawn from the epics of Lucan and Silius Italicus, the philosophy and drama of Seneca, the satire of Persius, the fiction of Petronius, and the encyclopedic projects of the elder Pliny and Columella.

Prerequisite: 201 or a 300-level Latin course or by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

LAT 350 Research or Individual Study

Directions for Election

Greek and Latin: Students majoring in Greek must complete four units of 300-level work in the Greek language. Students majoring in Latin are required to complete four units of 300-level work in the Latin language, and study of Vergil, either in 201 or at the 300 level, is strongly recommended. Eight units are required for each major.

Students majoring in Greek or Latin are advised to elect some work in the other language. It should be noted that work in both Greek and Latin is essential for graduate studies in the classics.

Advanced Placement Policies and Language Requirement: A student entering Wellesley must have an Advanced Placement score of 4 or 5 to satisfy the foreign language requirement. All students who wish to elect a 200-level or higher Latin course must take Wellesley's Latin placement examination. Although AP Latin Literature will be counted as a 200-level course for the major, credit will not be given for AP Vergil if the student elects LAT 201.

Classical Civilization: A student who wishes to major in classical civilization should plan with her major advisor an appropriate sequence of courses, which should include one unit each in at least two of the following three areas: (1) literature (2) history, society, religion and philosophy (3) art and archaeology. The major program requires nine units ordinarily including at least four units of work (or two units of 300-level work) in either Greek or Latin, and either CLCV 102 or CLCV 104 and two units at the 300 level, one of which must be classical civilization or Greek or Latin. Programs proposed for the major must be approved by the major advisor and the department chair. Courses in ancient history, ancient art, ancient philosophy, and classical civilization are recommended as valuable related work. Students are strongly encouraged to elect at least one course involving the material culture of the ancient world.

Honors Program: The department of classical studies offers honors programs in Greek, Latin, classical civilization, and classical and Near Eastern archaeology. The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Teacher Certification: Students interested in obtaining certification to teach Latin and classical humanities in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the department chair and the chair of the Department of Education.

Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Lucas (Psychology)

Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences Advisory Committee: Levitt (Linguistics and French), McIntyre (Philosophy), Hildreth (Computer Science)

Visiting Instructor: Carpenter

A major in cognitive and linguistic sciences is designed to provide students with the breadth necessary for an interdisciplinary approach to the study of language and mind, as well as with substantive training in one of the component disciplines (linguistics, psychology, philosophy, or computer science).

Students majoring in cognitive and linguistic sciences must take a minimum of nine units for the major, including four core units, one from each of the categories below, and a minimum of four electives in a concentration. It is recommended but not required that the ninth course be in a different concentration. Courses eligible for the major are listed below. Students are encouraged to consult the MIT catalog for additional offerings in the major.

Core Courses

Students must fulfill the following four core requirements:

- 1) Linguistics*: LING 114, MIT 24.9, or PSYC 216
- 2) Formal Systems Requirement*: CS 111, LING 240 or LING 244 or PHIL 216
- 3) PHIL 215
- 4) CLSC 300: Seminar. Topics in Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences

*Where there is a choice, students should choose the course that fits most clearly with their chosen concentration. For example, students concentrating in linguistics should choose LING 114 or MIT 24.9 rather than PSYC 216 and students concentrating in psychology should choose PSYC 216 rather than LING 114. Where a choice is not clear, the student should consult with her major advisor.

Concentrations

In designing a concentration, students need to demonstrate the intellectual coherence of their choices. Therefore, concentrations must be designed in close collaboration with the director. Students must take at least one 300-level course in their concentration.

Linguistics

Students concentrating in linguistics must elect at least four courses from the following list. Three of these courses must be linguistics courses, including one 300-level course: LING 240, 244, 312 or 322; CS 235, EDUC 308 or 310; FREN 211 or 308; PHIL 207, 216, or 349; PSYC 216 or 316. SOC 216 and RUSS 301 may be taken after consultation with the student's advisor.

Students will also be expected to demonstrate proficiency in a foreign language above the College's foreign language requirement (at an intermediate level or above).

Psychology

Students concentrating in psychology must take PSYC 205 and 314R. In addition students must elect at least two courses from the following list: PSYC 215, 217, 218, 219 or BISC 213, NEUR 213, NEUR 315, PSYC 316, 318, 319, 345, LING 322, or BISC 315.

Philosophy

Students concentrating in philosophy must elect at least four of any of the following courses: PHIL 207, 208, 209, 216, 217, 221, 313, 340, or 349. PHIL 345 may be taken after consultation with the student's advisor.

Computer Science

Students concentrating in computer science must take CS 230 and 232. In addition, students must elect at least two courses from the following list: CS 231, 235, 251, 303, 310, 331, 332, or 349 (when the topic for CS 349 is approved by the director).

Honors

CLSC 300/PSYC 300 Seminar. Topics in Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences

Lucas

Topic for 2005-06: Cooperation and Competition.

According to traditional models of rationality, rational agents should act in ways that will maximize their self-interest. And the study of evolution teaches us that individuals are in competition for survival. Nonetheless, we have all experienced acts of apparent selflessness and societies could not function without cooperation among their members. How, then, can cooperative and selfless behaviors be explained? In this course, an interdisciplinary approach to the problem will be taken. Evidence and theories from the psychological, economic, and neurobiological literatures will be examined. Cross-cultural, developmental, and cross-species differences will be explored as will the evolutionary origins of cooperation and competition and the role of cooperation in language.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken one of PSYC 215-219, LING 114, PHIL 215, CS 111 or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis or Epistemology and Cognition

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

Students in any concentration may also elect independent studies and honors projects:

CLSC 350 Research or Independent Study

Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors.

Distribution: None

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

CLSC 360 Senior Thesis Research

Prerequisite: By permission of the director. See Academic Distinctions.

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

LING 114 Introduction to Linguistics

Levitt

Designed to familiarize students with some of the essential concepts of linguistic analysis. Suitable problem sets in English and in other languages will provide opportunities to study the basic systems of language organization – phonology, morphology, syntax, and semantics. Additional topics include introductions to language organization in the brain, child language acquisition, language change, and writing systems.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken [LANG 114].

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

LING 240 The Sounds of Language

Carpenter

What are all the possible linguistically-relevant sounds of the human vocal tract? How does each language organize a subset of those sounds into a coherent system? Examination of the sounds of language from the perspective of phonetics and of phonology. Each student will choose a foreign language for intensive study of its phonetic, phonologic, and prosodic characteristics. Includes extensive use of speech analysis and phonetics software.

Prerequisite: LING 114, PSYC 216, or by permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken [LANG 240].

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

LING 244 Language: Form and Meaning

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will consider some basic questions about language: What do we actually know when we know a language? How is the structure of language best described? Are there properties which all languages share, and what do those properties tell us about language itself? We will look at a number of specific problems in morphology, syntax, and semantics, and the strengths and weaknesses of a number of different linguistic theories will be considered. While many of the problems considered in this class will involve English, we will also be looking at a number of other languages, both European and non-European.

Prerequisite: LING 114. Not open to students who have taken [LANG 244].

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

LING 312 Bilingualism: An Exploration of Language, Mind, and Culture

Levitt

Exploration of the relationship of language to mind and culture through the study of bilingualism. The bilingual individual will be the focus for questions concerning language and mind: The detection of “foreign” accent, the relationship of words to concepts, the organization of the mental lexicon, language specialization of the brain, and the effects of early bilingualism on cognitive functioning. The bilingual nation will be the focus for questions dealing with language and culture: societal conventions governing use of one language over another, effects of extended bilingualism on language development and change, and political and educational impact of a government's establishing official bilingualism.

Prerequisite: Related 200-level course in linguistics, psychology, anthropology, philosophy, or permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken [LANG 312].

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

LING 322 Child Language Acquisition

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Language acquisition in young children. Examination of children's developing linguistic abilities and evaluation of current theories of language learning. Topics include infant speech perception and production and the development of phonology, morphology, the lexicon, syntax, and semantics in the young child. Data from studies of children learning languages other than English will also be considered.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken LING 114 or PSYC 216, or permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken [LANG 322].

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

LING 350 Research or Individual Study

Comparative Literature

A STRUCTURED INDIVIDUAL MAJOR

Director: Nolden (German)

Advisory Board: Respault^A (French), Rosenwald^A (English), deWarren (Philosophy), Chen (Chinese), Ward^{A2} (ex officio: Language Chairs)

The comparative literature major is a structured individual major for students seeking to study literature across departmental, national, and linguistic boundaries. Students in comparative literature devise their own programs in careful consultation with two advisors, one in each of two departments, and with the director of the program.

Students who major in comparative literature should, in putting their major together, be aware of the many and diverse courses that pertain to the study of literature.

These include, but are not limited to:

- 1) courses in literary history;
- 2) courses in particular literary genres;
- 3) courses in the theory of literature;
- 4) courses in linguistics;
- 5) courses on the theory and practice of translation.

Many courses combine or fall between these categories. Students should also consult the Courses in Literature in Translation section at the back of the catalog.

Directions for Election

1. Ten units. Majors in comparative literature shall complete a minimum of ten units. All courses must count towards the major in the departments in which they are offered.
2. Comparative literature seminar. All majors shall take CPLT 330, the comparative literature seminar.
3. Advanced literature courses. In addition to CPLT 330, majors shall take at least two more literature courses at the 300 level. These two advanced literature courses shall be in at least two languages, of which English may be one, and in at least two departments, and majors shall meet departmental prerequisites for these courses.
4. Premodern literature. Majors shall take at least one course outside of the modern period in at least one of the literatures they are studying; what "the modern period" means for a particular literature will depend on the literature, and will be determined by the major's advisors.
5. Theory of literature. Majors shall take at least one course offering a theoretical perspective helpful to their particular course of study. Sometimes this will be ENG 382 (Criticism), but other courses, too, can meet this requirement.
6. Independent research. Majors shall do a substantial piece of independent work in comparative literature. They may supplement CPLT 330 or a course in a pertinent department with extra independent work or enroll in CPLT 350, CPLT 360 and/or CPLT 370. They may also enroll in a 350 in a pertinent department chosen by the student in consultation with her advisors.

In general, programs will be worked out in relation to the major's particular languages and interests. Examples of possible interests would include poetry, the novel, women's writing, and the relations between politics and literature.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

CPLT 254 Imaginary Crimes and Courts: The Law in Literature

Kruse (German)

Both in literature and in law, language shapes rhetorical worlds which seek to represent, constitute, interpret, and criticize the world created and inhabited by human beings. Since its beginnings through the twentieth century, imaginative literature, in turn, has embodied critical depictions of the law in the lives of individuals and societies. The course will examine texts from Sophocles to Doctorow and include works by Shakespeare, Kleist, Dickens, Melville, and Kafka. Two periods.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken [EXTD 254].

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

CPLT 284 Magical Realism: Russia and Beyond

Weiner (Russian)

This course examines fictions whose basic reality would be familiar if not for the introduction of a magical element that undermines commonplace notions about what constitutes reality in the first place. The magical element can be a demon, talisman, physical transformation, miraculous transition in space or time, appearance of a second plane of existence, revelation of the unreality of the primary plane of existence, etc. Students will read Sologub's The Petty Demon, Bely's Petersburg, Bulgakov's The Master and Margarita, Kafka's Metamorphosis, Queneau's The Blue Flowers, Marquez's One Hundred Years of Solitude, Pynchon's The Crying of Lot 49, Sokolov's School for Fools, Murakami's Wild Sheep Chase, and short stories by Borges, Cortazar, and Nabokov. Two periods.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken [RUSS 284].

CPLT 330 Seminar. Comparative Literature

Nolden (German)

Topic for 2005-06: Narrating the Self. Focusing on memoirs which represent the extremes of the human condition, the seminar will address generic problems of autobiographical writing: the tension between fact and fiction, the (un)reliability of memory, the problems of representing history and the complicated relationship between text and reader. Texts by Augustine, Rousseau, Benjamin, P. Levi, Plath, C. Yang, and others. One seminar meeting per week.

Prerequisite: One 200-level course in literature or by permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

CPLT 334 Literature and Medicine

Respaut (French)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Drawing on texts from different countries, this interdisciplinary course will investigate literature's obsession with medicine. Literary representations of doctors and patients, disability, insanity, AIDS, birth, death and grief, the search for healing and the redemptive power of art. Attention will be given to the links between medical diagnosis and literary interpretation. Differences between the treatment of medical issues in fiction and in autobiographies will be explored. Selected visual representations, in film and photography, will also be introduced.

Prerequisite: One 200-level course in literature or by permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken [EXTD 334].

CS 100 Introduction to Internet Research and Resources

Orr (Office for Information Services)

OFFERED IN 2005-06 only as part of

Pathways. CS 100 is a half-credit course designed for students with limited computing experience. Students learn to search, access, and critically evaluate information available on the Internet. Topics include copyright, privacy, and security issues of digital data and electronic communications, together with the basic computer science underpinning of these issues. Students learn to use many different search engines and full-text databases to do complex searches. Students will also use HTML and other authoring tools, such as Dreamweaver and Fireworks, to maintain a Web-published portfolio of their Internet research. Students who have already designed a basic Web site might find it more useful to take CS 110 or CS 111. Students must take CS 100 as credit/noncredit.

Prerequisite: None. No prior background with computers is expected.

Distribution: None

Semester: Offered only as part of Pathways program. Unit: 0.5

CS 110 Computer Science and the Internet

Anderson, Kakavouli, Metaxas, Stephan

This course explains the basics of how the Internet works and how to build a Web site. Topics include client-server architecture, structuring Web pages with HTML, the representation of colors, images, and sound on the computer, file compression, encryption, cookies, and copyright, intellectual property issues, and critical thinking in the context of the Internet. The required project also models most phases of the standard software lifecycle. Students are introduced to programming by building an interactive Web site using JavaScript. Students are required to attend an additional discussion section each week. Students considering additional computer science courses should take 111, not 110. Students can receive Mathematical Modeling distribution credit for only one of 110, 111, and 199. Consult "Choosing an Introductory CS Course" online at cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/whichCS1xx.html.

Prerequisite: None. No prior background with computers is expected.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

CS 111 Computer Programming and Problem Solving

Hildreth, Sheldon

An introduction to problem solving through computer programming. Using the Java programming language, students learn how to read, modify, design, debug, and test algorithms that solve problems. Programming concepts include control structures, data structures, abstraction, recursion, modularity, and object-oriented design. Students explore these concepts in the context of interactive programs involving graphics and user interfaces. Students are required to attend an additional two-hour laboratory section each week. Required for students who wish to major or minor in computer science or elect more advanced courses in the field. Students can receive Mathematical Modeling distribution credit for only one of 110, 111, and 199. Consult "Choosing an Introductory CS Course" online at cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/whichCS1xx.html.

Prerequisite: None. No prior background with computers is expected.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling. Does not satisfy the laboratory requirement.

Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

CS 115/PHYS 115 Robotic Design Studio (Wintersession)

Berg (Physics), Turbak

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In this intensive course, students are introduced to engineering principles while designing and assembling robots out of LEGO[®] parts, sensors, motors, and tiny computers. Fundamental robotics skills are learned in the context of studying and modifying a simple robot known as SciBorg. Then, working in small teams, students design and build their own robots for display at a robot exhibition. These projects tie together aspects of a surprisingly wide range of disciplines, including computer science, physics, math, biology, psychology, engineering, and art. Students may register for either CS 115 or PHYS 115 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: N/O Unit: 0.5

CS 199 Simulation: An Interdisciplinary Tool

Anderson

Computer simulations play an increasingly important role in decision-making and public policy. In this course, we learn to use a commercial simulation package that allows us to build simulation models via a convenient graphical interface where we place and connect blocks that process information. We also learn how to use important tools of probability and statistics in the implementation and evaluation of simulations. Students are required to attend an additional laboratory section each week. This course is open to all students, including those who have taken upper-level CS courses. Students who take CS 199 as their first CS class must still take CS 111 before taking upper-level CS classes. Students can receive mathematical modeling distribution credit for only one of 110, 111, and 199. Consult "Choosing an Introductory CS Course" online at cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/whichCS1xx.html.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement. Does not satisfy the laboratory requirement.

Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

CS 215 Multimedia Design and Programming

Metaxas

The purpose of this course is to give students a broad foundation in issues related to creating multimedia and hypermedia applications. Topics to be covered include history and philosophy of hypermedia; principles of human-computer interaction; multimedia programming; optimizing for CD-ROMs and the World Wide Web; digital representation and editing of media (audio, graphics, video); media compression and transmission; and delivery of multimedia applications.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor. File application on line before preregistration. At least 111 (preferred) or 110 is required. At least one of ARTS 105, ARTS 108 or ARTS 109 is recommended.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

CS 230 Data Structures

Metaxas, Tjaden

An introduction to techniques and building blocks for organizing large programs. Topics include: modules, abstract data types, recursion, algorithmic efficiency, and the use and implementation of standard data structures and algorithms such as lists, trees, graphs, stacks, queues, priority queues, tables, sorting, and searching. Students become familiar with these concepts through weekly programming assignments using the Java programming language.

Prerequisite: 111 or permission of the instructor. Students who received a grade of C+ or lower in 111 must contact the instructor before enrolling.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

CS 231 Fundamental Algorithms

Shull, Tjaden

An introduction to the design and analysis of fundamental algorithms. General techniques covered: divide-and-conquer algorithms, dynamic programming, greediness, probabilistic algorithms. Topics include: sorting, searching, graph algorithms, compression, cryptography, computational geometry, and NP-completeness.

Prerequisite: 230 or either MATH 225 or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

CS 232 Artificial Intelligence

Hildreth

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. An introduction to artificial intelligence (AI), the design of computer systems that possess and acquire knowledge and can reason with that knowledge. Topics include knowledge representation, problem solving and search, planning, vision, language comprehension and production, learning, common sense reasoning, and expert systems. To attain a realistic and concrete understanding of these problems, CommonLisp, an AI programming language, will be taught and used to implement the algorithms of the course. Alternate year course.

Prerequisite: 230 or by permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

CS 235 Languages and Automata

Shull

An introduction to the concepts of languages and automata. Topics include languages, regular expressions, finite automata, grammars, push-down automata, and Turing machines. The first half of the semester covers the Chomsky hierarchy of languages and their associated computational models. The second half of the semester focuses on decidability issues and unsolvable problems and the course closes with a brief introduction to complexity theory. The course includes a programming component investigating the application of automata theory to the scanning and parsing of programming languages.

Prerequisite: 230 and either MATH 225 or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

CS 240 Introduction to Machine Organization with Laboratory

Stephan

An introduction to machine organization and assembly language programming. Topics include an overview of computer organization, introduction to digital logic and microprogramming, the conventional machine level and assembly language programming, and introduction to operating systems. Students are required to attend one three-hour laboratory weekly.

Prerequisite: 111

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling. This course satisfies the laboratory requirement.

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.25

CS 242 Computer Networks

Shull

A systems-oriented approach to data networks, including a theoretical discussion of common networking problems and an examination of modern networks and protocols. Topics include point-to-point links, packet switching, internet networking, end-to-end protocols, congestion control, and security. Projects may include client-server applications and network measurement tools. Alternate year course.

Prerequisite: 230 or permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken this course as 249 in Fall 2003.

CS 251 Theory of Programming Languages

Sheldon

An introduction to the dimensions of modern programming languages. Covers major programming paradigms: function-oriented, imperative, object-oriented, and logic-oriented.

Dimensions include syntax, naming, state, data, control, concurrency, nondeterminism, and types. These dimensions are explored via mini-language interpreters written in OCaml, Scheme, and Haskell that students experiment with and extend.

Prerequisite: 230 and either 235 or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

CS 301 Compiler Design and Implementation

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of the techniques used in the implementation of programming language translators. Topics include lexical analysis, the theory of parsing and automatic parser generators, semantic analysis, code generation, and optimization techniques. These topics are explored in the context of implementing a working compiler.

Prerequisite: 240, 251

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

CS 303/BISC 303 Bioinformatics

Sequeira (Biology) and Tjaden

A multidisciplinary course exploring the origins, present and future applications, and challenges of the intersection of biological and computer sciences. The field of bioinformatics, generated in response to the era of genomics, encompasses all aspects of biological data acquisition, storage, processing, analysis and interpretation with a view to generating in silico models of cellular function. Students may register for either CS 303 or BISC 303 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisites: 231, BISC 219 or BISC 220

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

CS 304 Databases with Web Interfaces

Anderson

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07.

A study of the design of file systems and databases, including file organization and access methods, concepts of database management, and database querying using SQL. We will look at the entity-relationship model as a way of structuring data, and we will use relational algebra and relational calculus as a formal system for operating on data. We will investigate how databases are represented, including B+ trees and hash indexes. We will briefly discuss sorting methods for databases. Finally, we will create dynamic Web documents driven by database entries. Alternate year course.

Prerequisite: 230. Not open to students who have taken this course as 349 in Spring 2003.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.

Unit: 1.0

CS 307 Computer Graphics

Anderson

A survey of topics in computer graphics with an emphasis on fundamental techniques. Topics include: graphics hardware, fundamentals of three-dimensional graphics including projection, coordinate transformation, synthetic camera specification, color, shading, hidden surface removal, animation, and texture-mapping. We also cover the mathematical representation and programming specification of lines, planes, curves, and surfaces.

Prerequisite: 230

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

CS 310 Theoretical Foundations of Cryptology

Shull

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. When is a cryptographic system secure and how will we ever know? This course introduces the computational models and theory computer scientists use to address these issues. Topics include one-way functions, trapdoor functions, probabilistic complexity classes, pseudorandom generators, interactive proof systems, zero-knowledge proofs, and the application of these theories to modern cryptology.

Prerequisite: 231 or 235 or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

CS 331 Parallel Machines and Their Algorithms

Metaxas

This course is a broad introduction to parallelism that studies problem solving using a large number of cooperating processing elements. It is divided into three parts. First, it introduces the need for parallel computation and describes some of the fundamental algorithmic techniques. The second part surveys some of the more popular interconnection networks employed in today's parallel computers. In the third part, several parallel algorithms are designed and implemented on a cluster of communicating computers. Alternate year course.

Prerequisite: 231 or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

CS 332 Visual Processing by Computer and Biological Vision Systems

Hildreth

An introduction to algorithms for deriving symbolic information about the three-dimensional environment from visual images. Aspects of models for computer vision systems will be related to perceptual and physiological observations on biological vision systems. Computer vision software will be used to implement and test models. Topics include: edge detection, stereopsis, motion analysis, shape from shading, color, visual reasoning, object recognition. Alternate year course.

Prerequisite: 230 or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

CS 341 Operating Systems

Stephan

This course is designed to provide a solid understanding of the key mechanisms of modern operating systems, the types of design trade-offs and decisions involved in operating system design, and the context within which the operating system functions (hardware, other system programs, application programs, interactive users). The key concepts of study are: introduction to operating systems, the operating system from the programmer's point of view, review of computer organization, process management, scheduling, process synchronization, deadlock, and device and memory management. Alternate year course.

Prerequisite: 240 or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

CS 342 Computer Security

Turbak

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07.

An introduction to computer security. Topics include ethics, privacy, authentication, access control, information flow, operating system security (with a focus on Linux), cryptography, security protocols, intrusion prevention and detection, firewalls, viruses, network security,

Web security, programming language security. Assignments include hands-on exercises with security exploits and tools in a Linux environment. Participants will independently research, present, and lead discussions on security-related topics. Alternate year course.

Prerequisite: 242 or permission of the instructor. Not open to students who have taken this topic as CS 349.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.

Unit: 1.0

CS 343 Advanced Computer Organization and Design with Laboratory

Stephan

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. This course explores advanced computer organization and design. The interaction of hardware and software at a variety of levels is studied to provide a framework for how to design a computer. These ideas will also be applied to understand how a computer system works and why it performs as it does. Examples and measurements based on commercial systems are used to create realistic design experiences. In addition, RISC architectures for current desktop, server, and embedded computers will also be surveyed. Integral to the course is a three-hour required weekly laboratory. In the laboratory, students will engage in an intensive, semester-long project in which they design a simple RISC-style microprocessor. The lectures complement the labs. Alternate year course.

Prerequisite: 240. Not open to students who have taken this course as a topic of CS 349.

Directions for Election

Students majoring in computer science must complete CS 111, 230, 231, 235, 240, 251, two 300-level courses other than 350, 360 or 370, and at least one additional computer science course at the 200 or 300 level. Students who do not take CS 111 must replace this requirement with one additional one-unit computer science course except 110. Computer science courses at MIT or other institutions used to meet the nine-course requirement must be approved in advance by the department chair on an individual basis. In addition, all majors in computer science are expected to complete (1) MATH 225 (Combinatorics and Graph Theory) and (2) at least one additional course in mathematics at the 200 or 300 level. Particularly relevant mathematics courses are MATH 206 (Linear Algebra), MATH 220 (Probability and Elementary Statistics), MATH 223 (Number Theory), MATH 305 (Modern Abstract Algebra I), MATH 309 (Foundations of Mathematics), and sometimes MATH 349 (Graph Theory). Students should consult a CS faculty member for advice in choosing mathematics courses best suited to their interests. Students are strongly encouraged to complete the 200-level CS and mathematics requirements, especially CS 230, 240, and MATH 225, as early in the major as possible. Students are encouraged to consult the computer science student handbook (cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/handbook-05.pdf) for suggestions of possible course schedules for completing the major. Students considering a junior year abroad should consult a faculty member in the department as soon as possible in their sophomore year to plan a schedule of courses to complete the major.

All computer science majors are required to participate in the computer science student seminar held throughout the academic year. In this seminar, students have the opportunity to explore topics of interest through reading and discussion, field trips, invited speakers, independent research projects, or software development projects.

The computer science five-course minimum minor is recommended for students whose primary interests lie elsewhere, but who wish to obtain a fundamental understanding of computer science. The minor consists of CS 111, 230, 240, either 231 or 235, and at least one 300-level computer science course other than 350. Note that since MATH 225 is a prerequisite for 231 and 235, students considering minoring in computer science are encouraged to complete MATH 225 as soon as possible. Students who do not take CS 111 must replace this requirement with one additional one-unit computer science course except 110.

Students may receive a maximum of one unit of college credit for a score of 5 on the Computer Science A or AB Advanced Placement exam. This unit does not count towards the computer science major or minor. Students receiving AP credit for computer science should consult with the department regarding enrollment in 230 or 240.

CS majors and minors should consult with a CS faculty advisor before electing to take a CS course as credit/non.

Students can earn honors in computer science by successfully completing an honors-quality senior thesis. A detailed description of the senior thesis project in computer science can be found in the document Independent Studies in Computer Science (cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/Research/independent.pdf). Majors who are interested in undertaking a senior thesis project are urged to discuss their plans with either their advisor or the department chair as early as possible in their junior year.

Students who plan to pursue graduate work in computer science are strongly encouraged to develop their background in mathematics, particularly in the areas of linear algebra, probability and statistics, and graph theory. Such students should elect one or more of 310 or MATH 305. In addition, students who are planning either graduate work or advanced technical research or development work are strongly encouraged to (1) obtain laboratory experience by electing one or more of 301, 340, or appropriate courses at MIT and (2) pursue at least one independent study or research project before graduating, in the form of a Wellesley course (250/350/360), an MIT UROP, or a summer internship; consult cs.wellesley.edu/~cs/Research for more details.

Students interested in an interdepartmental major (or minor, if applicable) in cognitive and linguistic sciences, media arts and sciences, or neuroscience are referred to these listings in the catalog.

Department of East Asian Languages and Literatures

Professor: Lam, Ma, Morley^A

Associate Professor: Zimmerman

Assistant Professor: J. Chen, Huss

Visiting Assistant Professor: Goff, Lee

Lecturer: Macno, Torii

Lecturer in Chinese Language: D. Chen, Zhao

Lecturer in Japanese Language: Hatano, Ozawa

The Department of East Asian Languages and Literatures offers two distinct programs: Chinese language and literature and Japanese language and literature. The goal of each major is to provide students with a solid foundation in the disciplines of language and literature through intensive language training and broad exposure to the literary and cultural traditions of the culture under study.

The department reserves the right to place a new student in the language course for which she seems best prepared regardless of the number of units she has offered for admission.

Major in Chinese Language and Literature

CHIN 101-102 Beginning Chinese

D. Chen, Zhao

An introductory course that teaches the skills of listening comprehension, speaking, reading, and writing in Mandarin Chinese. Emphasis is on pronunciation, vocabulary, grammar, and communication. Computer programs for pronunciation, listening comprehension, grammar, and writing Chinese characters will be used extensively. Four 70-minute classes plus one 30-minute small group session. Each semester earns 1.25 units of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to students with no Chinese language background.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.25

CHIN 103-104 Advanced Beginning Chinese

Ma
An introductory course that teaches the skills of listening comprehension, speaking, reading, and writing in Mandarin Chinese. Emphasis is on pronunciation, vocabulary, grammar, and communication. Computer programs for pronunciation, listening comprehension, grammar, and writing Chinese characters will be used extensively. Three 70-minute classes. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: Open to students who can speak some Chinese (Mandarin or other Chinese dialect), or who have some knowledge about reading and writing Chinese characters. Department placement test is required.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

CHIN 110 Introduction to Cultural Traditions of China (in English)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. China is one of the world's most enduring civilizations, with a history that spans over three thousand years. This course will provide a broad introduction to much of this tradition from its archaic beginnings to the twentieth century. Through careful readings of primary texts (translated into English), we will explore the development and interactions of diverse aspects of Chinese culture, including language and script, literature and the arts, philosophy and religion, politics, history and technology. No prior background in Chinese language or Chinese culture is assumed.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

CHIN 201-202 Intermediate Chinese

D. Chen, Zhao

Further training in listening comprehension, oral expression, reading and writing. Four 70-minute classes plus one 30-minute small group session. Each semester earns 1.25 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: 101-102 or permission of instructor
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.25

CHIN 203-204 Advanced Intermediate Chinese

Lam

Further training in listening comprehension, oral expression, reading and writing. Three 70-minute classes. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: 103-104 or permission of instructor
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

CHIN 206 The Chinese Literary Imagination I: Beginnings to the Northern Song Dynasty (in English)

J. Chen

This is a thematic introduction to Chinese literature in translation, tracing the development of poetry, narrative, and criticism up through the Northern Song dynasty (960-1127). We will focus on the representation of the self in literary texts – its authenticity and/or theatricality – with particular attention to historical contexts, issues of genre and gender, and the pressures exerted by political and religious ideologies. Where it is relevant, we will also take up some concerns of recent theoretical approaches to literary and cultural studies.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

CHIN 207 The Chinese Literary Imagination II: The Song Dynasty to the Fall of Imperial China (in English)

J. Chen

This is the second half of a thematic introduction to Chinese literature in translation, focusing on the vernacular genres of the Song, Yuan, Ming, and Qing dynasties. We will explore the ways in which the self is constructed in the late imperial period, across genres such as diaries and informal prose, drama, short fiction and novels, and poetry. Questions of gender and sexuality, urban culture, and historical context will also be addressed.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

CHIN 208 The Chinese Literary Imagination III: Late Qing to the Present Day (in English)

Huss

This is a thematic introduction to modern Chinese literature which travels from the Late Qing period through the twentieth century to the present day. We will explore how the individual and the nation are constructed in short fiction, poetry, essays and novels. Topics such as revolution and censorship, exile and the foreign, urban and rural identity, and gender and sexuality will guide discussions. We will view the cinematic versions of several contemporary novels as well.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

CHIN 230/330 Writing Women in Traditional China (in English)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Who were the major women writers in traditional China? How did they represent themselves and how were they represented-in literary, historical, religious, and philosophical texts? This course will serve as an introduction to women's writings over the last two thousand years in China. We will examine the construction of gender, voice, and identity through close readings of poetry, fiction, essays, letters and biographical texts. We will also discuss the historical and social contexts so that we may better understand the conditions under which female authors lived and wrote. This course may be taken as 230 or with additional assignments, as 330.

Prerequisites: 230 open to all students; for 330, one of the following: 110, 206, 207, or 208, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Historical Studies or Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

CHIN 243 Chinese Cinema (in English)

Huss

Contemporary film from Hong Kong, Taiwan, and the People's Republic of China. This course investigates the history of the Chinese film industry, the issue of cultural hegemony (the power Hollywood is thought to exert over film industries of the "Third World"); cinematic constructions of Chinese gender, family, nationhood, and individuality; and applications of contemporary Western film theory.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature

CHIN 301 Advanced Chinese I

Lam

This course is designed to further expand students' comprehension, speaking, reading, and writing skills. Reading materials will be selected from newspapers, short stories, essays, and films. Three 70-minute classes conducted in Chinese.

Prerequisite: 201-202 or permission of instructor

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

CHIN 302 Advanced Chinese II

Ma

Advanced language skills are further developed through reading and writing. Reading materials will be selected from a variety of authentic Chinese texts. Audio and video tapes will be used as study aids. Three 70-minute classes conducted in Chinese.

Prerequisite: 301 or permission of instructor

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

CHIN 303 Advanced Chinese Conversation

Staff

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course is designed for students who wish to refine their proficiency in Chinese, enhancing it with specialized functional terminology and modes of expression for specific contexts and situations. The emphasis is placed on listening comprehension, speaking skills, and cultural understanding. Not offered every year.

Prerequisite: At least two years of Chinese or permission of instructor

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

CHIN 306 Advanced Reading in Twentieth-Century Literature and Culture

Ma

This course is designed to further expand and refine grammatical proficiency and communicative skills through intensive reading of authentic Chinese materials, such as short stories, newspapers, and essays and viewing of films and television broadcasts. Particular emphasis also given to increasing level of literary appreciation and critical awareness of the sociocultural contexts that shape readings. Three 70-minute classes conducted in Chinese.

Prerequisite: 203-204

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

CHIN 307 Advanced Readings in Contemporary Issues

Lam

A variety of authentic materials including literary essays and documentary films, will be selected to cover the study period from 1949 to the beginning of the twenty-first century. Three 70-minute classes.

Prerequisite: 306 or permission of instructor

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

CHIN 310 Introduction to Classical Chinese

J. Chen

Basic grammar and vocabulary of Classical Chinese, explored through readings selected from canonical sources in literature, philosophy, history and law. Special attention will be paid to grammatical differences between classical and modern Chinese. Students with an interest in art history, history and/or literature are encouraged to take this course to improve their reading skills. Three 70-minute classes.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

CHIN 317 The Art of Translation

Huss

The art of translation and its techniques are studied through analysis of the major linguistic and cultural differences between Chinese and English. Students will work on guided translations of contemporary literary, cinematic, and press texts. Additional readings in English on techniques and theories of translation will be discussed. Students must have strong Chinese and English skills. Two 70-minute classes conducted in Chinese.

Prerequisite: 302, 306, 307, 310 or permission of instructor

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

CHIN 325 Philosophical Approaches to Chinese Literature

J. Chen

This course will examine the complicated relationship between philosophy and literature in China, as well as explore the possibility of cross-cultural interpretation and understanding. Our discussions will draw upon a wide range of topics, including the ethical character of literature, the problem of rhetoric, the relationship of writing to the state, the idea of aesthetic autonomy, metaphysics and language, commentary as philosophical critique, the imagination of China by Western philosophers and theorists, and Marxist and postmodern critiques of tradition. Readings will be drawn from philosophical texts (Analects, Zhuangzi), literary and historical works (Sima Qian's Historical Records, Du Fu's poetry), selected Western thinkers (Plato, Hegel, Stanley Cavell), as well as contemporary philosophers and critics (Li Zehou, Jacques Derrida, Fredric Jameson).

Prerequisites: Appropriate prior coursework at the 200-level in East Asian Languages and Literatures, East Asian Studies, Philosophy, or Religion.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Epistemology and Cognition

CHIN 340 Literature of the Chinese Diaspora (in English)

Huss

The idea of "Zuguo/Woguo", the motherland, has been central to Chinese literary writing throughout the past century. Novelists and poets in China are politicians by default and bear witness, in their lives and deaths, to the tremendous economic, political and cultural transformation that has occurred in twentieth-century mainland China. But what does China mean to writers of the Chinese diaspora? Writers in Taiwan, Hong Kong, Japan, North America, Europe? We will probe representations of the self, the martial hero, exile, gender, sexuality, colonialism, nation and how all of these are (or are not) tied to the concept of a motherland. All of the novels read for this course were written in Chinese outside of mainland China and are available in English translation.

CHIN 349 Mind, Place, and Landscape in Traditional China (in English)NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. What is a place?

How do writers and painters depict places? What does it mean to describe places one has never visited, or to create places that do not actually exist? In this course, we will examine the representation of places and landscapes across a variety of traditional Chinese media, including historical texts, poetry, fiction, drama, tomb art, paintings, literary and art criticism, travel diaries, and pilgrimage accounts. Topics will include spiritual and mental journeys, the imagination of the afterworld, landscape as portraiture, the mapping of empire, and dream narratives.

JPN 111 Gender and Popular Culture of Japan (in English)

Zimmerman

Our study of Japanese popular culture focuses on gender issues, particularly on how girls are represented in Japanese comic books, magazines, fiction, television, animation, and film. We ask why the girl sparks such intense interest in Japan and explore how she both challenges and reaffirms existing gender norms. A lightning rod for social change in Japan, even for modernity itself, representations of the girl illuminate the status of women, the changing role of the family, issues of ethnic and national identity, sexual orientation, and even Japan's relation to the outside world. No previous knowledge of Japan or Japanese language required.

JPN 130 Japanese Animation (in English)

Morley
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. What makes Japan tick? New visitors to Japan are always struck by the persistence of traditional esthetics, arts, and values in a highly industrialized society entranced by novelty. Through animation films (English subtitles) and readings on animation we will explore this phenomenon from the inside. Focus is on the works of Tezuka Osamu, Hayao Miyazaki, and others. No Japanese language required.

JPN 251 Japanese Writers and Their Worlds (in English)

Morley
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A study of the emerging voice of the writer in Japan from the tenth through the eighteenth centuries. Texts will include the early poetic diaries of the Heian Court ladies, The Tale of Genji, the Noh plays, puppet plays and the haiku poetry of Matsuo Basho. Emphasis is on the changing world of the Japanese writer, the influence of Buddhism and Confucianism, and the role of the texts in shaping Japanese aesthetic principles. Selected films shown throughout course.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

JPN 256 Japanese Film: The Restaging of a Culture (in English)

Zimmerman
From stalwart warriors to runaway lovers, we trace the complex strands of Japan's modern identity through its national cinema. Japanese directors have used film to examine and rearrange narrative and aesthetic conventions. At the same time, they have fashioned a unique language of film that counters the conventions of Hollywood. We will explore these concepts and their broader cultural context through an analysis of film clips and the use of literary and historical texts.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

JPN 309 Readings in Contemporary Japanese Social Science

Maeno, Torii
Readings in Japanese with selections from current newspapers and journals. Areas of student interest will help to determine the texts for the course. Two periods with discussion section.

Prerequisite: 232 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

JPN 310 Directed Readings in Modern Japanese Prose

Morley
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Students will select independent projects to pursue throughout the semester. In addition to independent work, students will read together as a class twice a week from a variety of postwar literary texts. Independent readings will be presented to the class to form part of the class assignments. Focus is on reading comprehension and translation skills. Writing skills will be addressed through short weekly writing assignments. Two periods with one independent tutorial weekly.

Prerequisite: 232 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

JPN 312 Readings in Classical Japanese Prose

Morley
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Reading and discussion in Japanese of selections from classical Japanese literature: focus on translation skills. Students will have the opportunity to sample The Tale of Genji and The Pillow Book, among others in the original and to familiarize themselves with the classical language. Two periods with discussion section.

Prerequisite: 232 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

JPN 314 Contemporary Japanese Narrative

Zimmerman
The many forms of contemporary Japanese writing – fiction, commentary, autobiography, humor, the immigrant narrative, and children's literature. We read carefully, translate, and discuss the 'knotty' problems of the Japanese language, including the disappearing subject, sentences that never seem to end, and cases of the untranslatable. Additional readings in English on issues of translation specific to Asian languages. Taught in Japanese. Two periods with individual meetings.

JPN 351 Seminar. Theaters of Japan (in English)

Goff
This course provides an in-depth study of Japanese traditional theater forms and performance theories. Students will be reading plays from the Noh, Kyogen comedies, Kabuki, and Bunraku (puppet theater) traditions. Videos of the plays for study will be viewed by the class. Comparisons will be made with Western and other Eastern theater forms where appropriate. The influence of classical theater on contemporary Japanese drama will also be examined. Taught in English.

Prerequisite: One unit on Japan or by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theater, Film, Video
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

JPN 352 Seminar. Modern Japanese Writers (in English)

Zimmerman
Topic for 2005-06: Love and Liberation in Postwar Japanese Fiction. With the lifting of state censorship, postwar Japanese writers began to explore themes of romantic love, sexual liberation, familial dysfunction, and deep alienation in the aftermath of a draining war. In their celebration of the personal, however, Japanese writers also wrestle with questions of Japan's responsibility for the war, with Japanese identity, and with the social changes occurring around them. We embed literary texts in their historical and social contexts as we listen for the "hum of the times." At the same time, through close reading and analysis, we let literature speak for itself, assessing the aesthetic accomplishments of six writers from the late 1940s to the present. No Japanese language required.

JPN 353 Lady Murasaki and The Tale of Genji (in English)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Shortly after 1000 AD in the imperial court of Japan, Murasaki Shikibu, a court lady of middle rank, completed what is arguably the first novel in the history of world literature, The Tale of Genji. Who was she? How did she come to write a novel of such surprising psychological subtlety? Who is the hero? Why is he still appealing a millennium later? Focusing on The Genji and Murasaki's diary, we examine the culture of the Heian court, Buddhist beliefs, the esthetic of mono no aware (a beauty evocative of longing), and the literature (poetry, prose, and ladies' diaries) of the court salons. Films, plays, animation, and modern novels modeled on The Genji will also be discussed in class. No Japanese language required.

Directions for Election

Chinese language and literature: The goal of this major is to provide students with a solid foundation in the disciplines of Chinese language and literature through intensive language training and broad exposure to Chinese literary and cultural traditions through literature/culture courses taught in both English and Chinese. Students are strongly encouraged to begin their Chinese language study during their first year at Wellesley. Students with a Chinese language background must take a placement test to determine their proper courses. In addition, the EALL department strongly recommends that all majors spend a summer and/or a semester of their junior year studying Mandarin in an approved program in China, Taiwan, or Hong Kong.

The Chinese language and literature major consists of a minimum of ten courses. The following three sets of guidelines for the Chinese language and literature major have been devised to meet the needs of students who come to Wellesley with differing Chinese language backgrounds.

A. Students beginning their Chinese language study at Wellesley in CHIN 101-102, 103-104 or 201-202 shall complete the ten-course Chinese major as follows: (1) Five language courses from among CHIN 101-102* or 103-104*; 201-202* or 203-204*; 301, 302, or 306, 307; (2) 310 or 317; (3) two literary courses from 206, 207, 208; (4) two additional literature/culture courses taught in English from among 110, 230, 243, 325, 330, 340, 349. At least one of these courses must be at the 300 level.

B. Students beginning their Chinese language study at Wellesley in CHIN 203-204 shall complete the ten-course Chinese major as follows: (1) Three language courses consisting of CHIN 203-204*, 306 or 307; (2) 310 or 317; (3) two literary courses from 206, 207, 208; (4) four additional literature/culture courses taught in English from among 110, 230, 243, 325, 330, 340, 349.

C. Majors beginning their Chinese language study at Wellesley in third-year Chinese shall complete the ten-course Chinese major as follows: (1) Two language courses from among CHIN 301, 302, 306, 307; (2) 310 or 317; (3) two literary courses from 206, 207, 208; (4) five additional literature/culture courses taught in English from among 110, 230, 243, 325, 330, 340, 349.

*Both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Japanese language and literature: Japanese language and literature majors are strongly urged to begin language study in their first year. A junior year or summer of intensive language study in Japan is encouraged. The major consists of a minimum of eight units and normally includes JPN 202, 231, 232, and five additional units. At least two must be nonlanguage units, and at least two must come from the 300 level (to be taken within the department). Students entering with advanced language preparation may substitute alternate language units as necessary with departmental permission. JPN 101-102 and 201 may be counted toward the degree but not toward the major. Students who have completed 309, 310, 312, 314, or the equivalent may choose to do an independent study using the Japanese language (350). Those who wish to do an independent study that does not require the Japanese language should register for 250. An advisor should be chosen from within the department.

Teacher Certification

Students interested in seeking certification in teaching Chinese or Japanese should speak with the chair of the EALL department and education department early in their college career.

Study Abroad

A maximum of three courses taken abroad may be counted toward the Chinese language and literature major; and a maximum of four courses toward the Japanese language and literature major. Students should note that more credit may be counted toward the Wellesley degree. In order to obtain credit for study abroad, students must obtain prior consent from the Registrar's Office and the EALL department chair and must pass a placement test administered by the EALL department upon return to Wellesley. In addition, it is essential that proof of course content and performance in the form of syllabi, written work, examinations, and grades be presented to the EALL department chair.

Advanced Placement Policies and Language Requirement

A student entering Wellesley must pass the Chinese exemption examination or the Japanese exemption examination to satisfy the foreign language requirement.

Transfer Credits

The transfer of credit (either from another American institution or from a language program abroad) is not automatic. A maximum of three units may be transferred toward the major in Chinese language and literature and a maximum of four toward the major in Japanese language and literature. Work at the 300-level must be taken within the department for credit towards the majors in Chinese and Japanese. Students wishing to transfer credit should be advised that a minimum of six units of course work must be completed in the EALL department at Wellesley. Transfer students from other institutions are required to take a placement test administered by the EALL department. It is essential that proof of course content and performance in the form of syllabi, written work, examinations, and grades be presented to the EALL department chair.

Honors

The only route to honors in the Chinese language and literature and Japanese language and literature major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

East Asian Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Kodera (Religion), Zimmerman (East Asian Languages and Literatures)

Affiliated Faculty: Bong (Political Science), D. Chen (EALL-Chinese), J. Chen (EALL-Chinese), Cheng (Women's Studies), Chu (Anthropology), Giersch (History), Huss (EALL-Chinese), Joseph (Political Science), Kodera (Religion), Lam (EALL-Chinese), Liu (Art History), Maeno (EALL-Japanese), Matsusaka (History), Meng (Studio Art), Moon (Political Science), Morley (EALL-Japanese), Ozawa (EALL-Japanese), Torii-Williams (EALL-Japanese), Yun (Music), Zhao (EALL-Chinese), Zimmerman (EALL-Japanese).

East Asian studies is an interdisciplinary major offered jointly by the East Asian languages and literatures department (EALL) and faculty from other departments at the College whose research and teaching interests include East Asia. The major is designed for students with a broad interest in East Asia. Students interested primarily in the language and literature of a single East Asian culture should consider the East Asian language and literature major. While the department encourages students to familiarize themselves with several East Asian cultures, all students must have an area of concentration. This area of concentration may be geographic or disciplinary.

Prospective majors should consult with a member of East Asian studies faculty as early as possible to discuss their academic plans. Majors devise their own programs of study in consultation with an advisor from the student's area of concentration. Both the major advisor and the EALL chair must approve proposals for the major. Transfer credits to be counted towards the major must be approved by one of the program directors.

Ten units are required for the major, consisting of the following:

Language courses: four units. Students must complete at least four language courses above the 100-level in the language most appropriate to their area of concentration. No credit towards the major is given for the first year of language study. Those who begin their language study at Wellesley in a 300-level language class must still complete four language courses. Students with native or near-native fluency in an East Asian language must also complete at least ten units for the major.

Language study beyond that required for the major is strongly recommended. All majors are also encouraged to spend at least a summer or a semester studying abroad in China, Taiwan, Japan, or Korea. The EALL chair must approve plans for language study taken away from Wellesley and to be applied towards the major.

Non-language courses: six units. Of the six non-language units required for the major, a minimum of three must constitute the concentration (see below) and two must be at the 300 level. A minimum of three of the non-language courses must be taken at Wellesley, including both of the 300-level courses. Only one of the two required 300-level courses may be fulfilled by a 350, 360, or 370.

In order to gain a comparative perspective, majors must take at least one non-language course that deals primarily with an East Asian culture or society other than the one where the language she is using to fulfill the major is spoken.

All majors must also take at least one non-language course on East Asia in each of the following two categories: (1) humanities, including art history, literature, cinema, music, philosophy, religion; and (2) social sciences, including anthropology, history, economics, political science, sociology, women's studies.

One course in Asian American studies may be counted towards the major, provided that the course addresses a significant aspect of East Asian traditions, culture, or society in its global, cross-cultural contexts. MIT has strong offerings in East Asian studies, and Wellesley students should consider taking at least one course there.

Concentrations. At least three of the non-language courses to be counted towards the major must constitute either a geographic or a disciplinary concentration in East Asian studies. Majors will normally declare their concentration no later than the spring semester of the junior year when preparing to undertake advanced work in East Asian studies.

Geographic concentrations may focus on China, Japan, or Korea. Disciplinary concentrations include: arts and visual studies; culture and society; gender studies; historical studies; international relations; literary studies; political economy; and religion. Under unusual circumstances, and with the approval of her advisor and a program director, a student may design her own disciplinary concentration.

Honors. The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

EAS 300 Contemporary East Asian Cinemas
Huss (EALL-Chinese), Zimmerman (EALL-Japanese)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. East Asian societies underwent massive transformation during the second half of the twentieth century. The film industries in these nations changed dramatically in response. This course analyzes contemporary film from China, Japan, Korea, Taiwan, and Hong Kong. Themes explored in contemporary East Asian films of the last decade (the urban-rural divide, nationalism, military service, class, domestic abuse, gender and sexuality, ethnic identity) transcend geographic boundaries and illustrate how transnational East Asian cinemas are. As Hollywood once dictated how film was to be made, East Asian cinemas are now making their mark on Hollywood. Discussed together, Chinese, Japanese, and Korean cinema provide a fascinating, cohesive illustration of contemporary East Asian societies in flux.

ECON 101 Principles of Microeconomics Staff

This first course in economics introduces students to the market system. Microeconomics considers the decisions of households and firms about what to consume and what to produce, and the efficiency and equity of market outcomes. Supply and demand analysis is developed and applied. Policy issues include price floors and ceilings, competition and monopoly, income distribution, and the role of government in a market economy.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall, Spring, Summer Unit: 1.0

ECON 102 Principles of Macroeconomics Staff

This course follows 101 and analyzes the aggregate dimensions of a market-based economy. Topics include the measurement of national income, economic growth, unemployment, inflation, business cycles, the balance of payments, and exchange rates. The impact of government monetary and fiscal policies is considered.

Prerequisite: 101. Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall, Spring, Summer Unit: 1.0

ECON 103/SOC 190 Introduction to Probability and Statistical Methods Levine, Swingle (Sociology)

An introduction to the collection, analysis, interpretation, and presentation of quantitative data as used to understand problems in economics and sociology. Using examples drawn from these fields, this course focuses on basic concepts in probability and statistics, such as measures of central tendency and dispersion, hypothesis testing, and parameter estimation. Data analysis exercises are drawn from both academic and everyday applications. Students must register for a laboratory section which meets an additional 70 minutes each week. Students may register for either ECON 103 or SOC 190 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: 101 or 102 or one course in Sociology and fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning Requirement. Not open to students who have taken [QR 199]. Not open to students who have taken or are taking MATH 220 or PSYC 205 or POL 199.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement. Does not satisfy the laboratory requirement.

ECON 222 Games of Strategy

Skeath

Should you sell your house at an auction where the highest bidder gets the house, but only pays the second-highest bid? Should the U.S. government institute a policy of never negotiating with terrorists? The effects of decisions in such situations often depend on how others react to them. This course introduces some basic concepts and insights from the theory of games that can be used to understand any situation in which strategic decisions are made. The course will emphasize applications rather than formal theory. Extensive use is made of in-class experiments, examples, and cases drawn from business, economics, politics, movies, and current events.

ECON 266 Long Run Economic Change in Africa

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course traces the development of African economies from before colonialization to the present day. The course considers why economic development in Africa has been so slow compared to other regions of the world, how European intervention on the continent affected economic dynamics in the twentieth century, and how HIV/AIDS is affecting labor markets and economic performance in the twenty-first century. Throughout the course we will try to understand the economic and social factors behind Africa's perennial economic malaise and why there are seemingly constant impediments to successful economic growth on the continent.

ECON 300 Mathematics for Economics*Weerapana*

In this course, students will apply mathematical techniques in economic analysis. Students are expected to have a good knowledge of calculus and will be introduced to topics in linear algebra, differential equations, and static and dynamic optimization. Emphasis will be placed on economic applications including maximization decisions of consumers and producers, comparative statistics, phase diagram analysis of dynamic systems, and basic features of dynamic optimization.

Prerequisites: 201 and 202, MATH 205. MATH 206 recommended. Not open to students who have taken ECON 303 Mathematics for Economics.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ECON 303 Advanced Econometrics

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course builds upon 203 (Econometrics) by allowing students to examine more advanced topics, including techniques of model specification, estimation, and evaluation. Both cross-sectional and time series models are considered.

Prerequisite: 201, 202, and 203 (or [200]). Open to students who have taken ECON 303 Mathematics for Economics.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

ECON 304 Seminar. New Institutional Economic History*Dupont*

This course will investigate the evolution of economic institutions throughout the world over the past 1,000 years. We will consider a broad range of institutional questions and use evidence from historical episodes in their analysis. How are effective trading rules created (evidence from the eleventh-century Maghribi traders)? How does a government become "credible" (evidence from seventeenth-century England)? Why have Blacks consistently earned less than Whites (evidence from nineteenth- and twentieth-century America)? What are the effects of governmental tampering with housing prices (evidence from early twentieth-century Hong Kong)?

Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200])

Distribution: Historical Studies or Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ECON 305 Industrial Organization

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A course in applied microeconomics, focusing on the performance of real world markets. Emphasis on the welfare costs of market power as well as public policy responses. Topics include analysis of imperfectly competitive markets (e.g., monopolistic competition, oligopoly, imperfect and asymmetric information), firm and industry strategic conduct, and antitrust policy attempts to improve industrial performance.

Prerequisite: 201

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

ECON 310 Public Economics*Coile*

This course explores the reasons for government intervention in the economy and the responses of households and firms to the government's actions. Economic models and empirical research are used to analyze tax policies and spending programs. Topics include the effect of taxes on savings and labor supply, externalities and public goods, and social insurance programs such as social security and unemployment insurance.

Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ECON 313 Seminar. International Macroeconomics

Joyce

Theory and policy of macroeconomic adjustment in the open economy. Topics to be covered include models of exchange rate determination, the choice between fixed and floating exchange rates, monetary union, policy effectiveness in open economies under different exchange rate regimes, and adjustment to balance of payments disequilibria.

Prerequisite: 202 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ECON 314 International Trade Theory

Mazumdar

Theoretical analysis of international trade. Emphasis on models of comparative advantage, determination of gains from trade and the effects of trade restrictions such as tariffs and quotas. Further topics include the role of scale economies, the political economy of protectionism, and strategic trade policy.

Prerequisite: 201
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ECON 318 Economic Analysis of Social Policy

Levine

This course uses economic analysis to evaluate important social policy issues in the U.S., focusing on the role of government in shaping social policy and its impact on individuals. Does welfare make people work less or have more children? Why is the teenage birthrate so high and how might it be lowered? How do fertility patterns respond to changes in abortion policy? Theoretical models and econometric evidence will be used to investigate these and other issues.

Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ECON 320 Seminar. Economic Development

Velenchik

Theoretical and empirical exploration of microeconomic issues of concern to developing countries. Specific topics may include land tenure regimes and the structure of agricultural markets, the behavior of rural households in the production of output and the management of risk, the functioning of rural and urban labor markets, human capital formation and the education system, intra-household resource allocation, and the measurement and policy responses to inequality and poverty.

Prerequisite: 201, 202, and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ECON 323 Finance Theory and Applications

Watson

This course provides a rigorous treatment of financing and capital budgeting decisions within firms. Topics include: financial statement analysis; strategies and analytical methods for the evaluation of investment projects; capital structure and dividend policy decisions; risk, return, and the valuation of financial instruments; and management incentive structures. Risk management and the use of derivatives will also be considered.

Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200]). Not open to students who have taken [330 Topic A].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ECON 325 Law and Economics

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Economic analysis of legal rules and institutions. Application of economic theory and empirical methods to the central institutions of the legal system including the common law doctrines of negligence, contract, and property as well as civil, criminal, administrative procedure and family law. The course will contrast economic and noneconomic theories of law and will address the strengths and limitations of the economic approach to law.

Prerequisite: 201 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

ECON 326 Seminar. Methods of Education Policy Analysis

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course applies modern econometric methods and evaluation design to the analysis of contemporary issues in education policy. Methods include randomized experiments, regression-discontinuity analysis, and the use of panel data. Issues include school accountability, private school vouchers, and policies toward teacher labor markets. Students will conduct extensive empirical analysis of education data.

Prerequisite: 201 and 203 [200]
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

ECON 331 Seminar. Monetary Theory and Policy

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The formulation of monetary policy and its theoretical foundations. This includes discussion of the latest developments in monetary theory, the money supply process, monetary autonomy in an open economy, and current procedures in the U.S. and other nations.

Prerequisite: 202 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

ECON 333 Economic Growth and Fiscal Policy

Nabar

The first part of the course analyzes cross-country income differences, addressing questions like: why are some countries so rich and others so poor?; and why has per capita income in Argentina declined significantly relative to the level in France? We explain countries' different growth performance, studying the role of physical and human capital accumulation, economic institutions, and economic policies. In the second part, we concentrate on the effects of fiscal policy on economic growth and on the macroeconomy in general. Topics include: the economic theory and political economy of public debt and budget deficits, the current debate on the US budget, and the macroeconomic effects of large fiscal stabilizations.

Prerequisite: 202 and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ECON 335 Seminar. Economic Journalism

Lindauer

Students will combine their knowledge of economics, including macro, micro and econometrics, with their skills at exposition, in order to address current economic issues in a journalistic format. Students will conduct independent research to produce weekly articles. Assignments may include coverage of economic addresses, book reviews, recent journal articles, and interviews with academic economists. Class sessions will be organized as workshops devoted to critiquing the economic content of student work. Enrollment limited to 10.

Prerequisite: 201, 202, and 203 (or [200])
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ECON 343 Seminar. Feminist Economics

Matthaei

An exploration of the diverse field of feminist economics, which critically analyzes both economic theory and economic life through the lens of gender and advocates various forms of feminist economic transformation. Areas of focus include economic analysis of gender differences and inequality in the family and in the labor market; feminist critiques of current economic institutions and policies, and suggested alternatives; and feminist critiques of economic theory and methodology.

Prerequisite: 201, 202, or permission of instructor
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ECON 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors who have taken 201 and 202; 203 strongly recommended; one 300-level elective recommended. 350 students will be expected to participate in the economic research seminar (see 360).

Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

ECON 360 Senior Thesis Research

Students writing a senior honors thesis will be expected to participate regularly throughout 360 and 370 in the economic research seminar. This weekly seminar provides a forum for students conducting independent research to present their work to fellow students and faculty.

Prerequisite: One 300-level course strongly recommended. By permission of department. See Academic Distinctions.

MATH 115 Calculus I

MATH 203 Mathematical Tools for Economics and Finance (Summer School only)

Directions for Election

Economics is the study of the universal problems of scarcity, choice, and human behavior. It contains elements of formal theory, history, philosophy, and mathematics. Unlike business administration, which deals with specific procedures by which business enterprises are managed, economics examines a broad range of institutions and focuses on their interactions within a structured analytical framework. The complete survey of economics consists of both 101 and 102. Any student who plans to take economics after 101 and 102 should consult a department advisor.

The Major in Economics

The economics major consists of a minimum of nine units. The major must include core coursework in microeconomics (ECON 101 and 201), macroeconomics (102 and 202), and statistics (103 and 203), as well as at least two 300-level units (ordinarily not counting 350, 360 or 370). A minimum of two 300-level courses must be taken at Wellesley unless a student has completed 300-level work in economics at MIT; in such a case, only one 300-level course needs to be taken at Wellesley.

Students who have completed MATH 220 or PSYC 205 need not complete ECON 103 but must take an additional economics elective to complete the major.

Choosing courses to complete the major requires careful thought. All majors should choose an advisor and consult him/her regularly. Students are also advised to consult the department handbook, which deals with a variety of topics including preparation in mathematics, desirable courses for those interested in graduate study in economics, and complementary courses outside economics. Calculus, along with several other mathematical tools, is central to the discipline. MATH 115 or its equivalent is required for all ECON 201, 202 and 203 sections. We encourage students to consult a departmental advisor about whether additional mathematics courses might be desirable.

Students interested in economics and its applications in international relations might want to consider the interdepartmental major in International Relations-Economics listed under International Relations in this Bulletin.

Honors in the Major

The department offers majors two programs for pursuing departmental honors. Under program I, students complete two semesters of independent research (360 and 370) culminating in an honors thesis. Under program II, a student completes one semester of independent research (350) related to previous 300-level coursework, and then submits to an examination in economics that includes the topic covered in her research project. Ordinarily, a student is expected to complete all of the core coursework and one 300-level course before enrolling in the honors program. Admission to the honors program requires students to have a GPA of 3.5 or higher in their economics courses above the 100 level. All honors candidates are expected to participate in the economics research seminar.

The Minor in Economics

The economics minor is recommended for students wishing to develop competence in economics in preparation for work or graduate study in area studies, business, international relations, law, public administration, public health, or other such professions. The minor consists of 101, 102 and 103, plus two additional 200-level units, ordinarily excluding 201, 202 and 203. A student wishing to add the economics minor to the major in another field should consult a faculty advisor in economics. Students who have completed MATH 220 or PSYC 205 need not complete ECON 103 but must take an additional economics elective to complete the minor.

Students are urged to supplement their major or minor program in economics with related courses from other disciplines in the liberal arts, such as history, mathematics, philosophy, political science, and sociology.

Credit for Other Courses

In order to obtain credit for any economics course taken at another institution during the summer or academic year, approval must be obtained in advance from the department's transfer credit advisor. In general, courses from two-year colleges will not be accepted at any level. Courses taken elsewhere normally will not be transferred at the 300 level. ECON 201, 202, and 203 ordinarily should be taken at Wellesley. Transfer students wishing to obtain transfer credit for economics courses taken prior to enrollment at Wellesley should contact the department's transfer credit advisor.

Advanced Placement and Exemption Examinations

Students who enter with Advanced Placement credit in microeconomics or macroeconomics may choose to repeat the courses covered by the AP credit (in which case the credit is forfeited) or proceed to the remaining half of the introductory sequence (for those with one unit of AP credit) or to a 200-level elective (for those with two units of AP credit). Students who have AP or IB credit in statistics should consult the department chair regarding enrollment in 103. We recommend seeking advice from the department on how to proceed, particularly for students contemplating a 200-level course in their first semester. AP credits do not count toward the minimum major or minor in economics.

EDUC 102/WRIT 125 Education in Philosophical Perspective

Hawes

This course is guided by questions such as: What is education? How do an individual's own efforts to make sense of the world and to guide her life, relate to schools and academic work? To the diversity of experiences and cultures? What should the aims of education be? The focus will be on perspectives and processes of learning and teaching. We will use the works of earlier writers (for example, Confucius, Plato, and Dewey) and contemporary writers as starting points in our investigations. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward the education minor. Includes a third session each week.

EDUC 212 Seminar. History of American Education

Beatty

An intensive study of the role that education has played in American society and of the evolution of support and expectations for public schools. We will examine how schools have served the needs of girls, immigrants, and students from different racial, ethnic, social class, and religious backgrounds. We will focus on the education of teachers, the organization of urban school systems, the growth of high schools and preschools, and attempts to reform schools and the curriculum.

Unit: 1.0

EDUC 215 Understanding and Improving Schools

Hawes

Study of what goes into the making of good schools in a variety of settings, including urban public schools. Examination of what we mean by "a good school" in terms of both aims and practices of how a school and its curriculum are experienced by its students, and of how a school's culture and social relationships are created. We will use case studies of different kinds of people working to improve schools, including teachers, principals, education advocates, and researchers. Fieldwork will be an integral part of the course.

EDUC 216 Education and Social Policy

Beatty

An examination of education policy and of how it is formulated, implemented, and evaluated. We will study the development and interaction of policies at the federal, state, and local level, and trace the trend from law-driven to accountability-based school reforms. We will discuss major topics of debate in American education, including equal educational opportunity, school desegregation, school choice, school finance reform, bilingual education, special education, preschool education, and education standards and testing. Relevant field placement may be arranged as part of this course, especially for students wishing to fulfill requirements for teacher certification.

EDUC 219 Social Dimensions of Teaching and Learning in the Classroom

Gehlbach

Teachers face a myriad of decisions regarding the social dimensions of the classroom every time they teach. In aggregate, these decisions exert a powerful impact on the classroom climate. This course exposes students to a body of social and educational psychology research that educators rarely encounter. However, the findings from this research can make classrooms substantially more effective learning environments. Topics include social perspective taking (figuring out what others are thinking and feeling), social motivation, influence/persuasion, group dynamics, and liking/attraction. EDUC 307 Classroom Ethnography and Discourse Analysis

Darer (Spanish)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Classroom culture is made up of interactions among teachers and students. These interactions can be analyzed through data collection and coding of different types of incidents and behaviors. In this course, students will learn ethnographic methods, including the use of video and audio recording, transcription, domain analysis, and other research techniques to construct and present a portrait of the teaching and learning opportunities in individual classrooms. We will take a close look at how ethnicity, gender, and socioeconomic status are reflected in patterns of classroom talk and how these variables influence student learning.

How do children learn to read? How do we acquire reading, writing, and oral language skills, and how does this relate to cognition? We will examine current research and practice in literacy development for elementary-aged children. Oral language, reading processes, assessment using a variety of techniques, phonemic awareness, phonics, and comprehension strategies will all be addressed through lectures, readings, study of literacy materials, and a weekly field placement experience. We will focus on reading instruction across content areas and the transition from learning to read to reading to learn. Emphasis will be placed on understanding the application of this information for developing teaching strategies that address the needs of a diverse population of learners, including students at-risk, second-language learners, and students with special needs. Directions for Election

The education department offers two minors (but no major), one in teacher education and one in education studies. Both minors offer opportunities to explore teaching and education, from the perspective of a classroom teacher or as a field of study.

Teacher Education

We prepare teachers to teach in a variety of schools with diverse students. Grounded in the liberal arts, each Wellesley or MIT student in our program receives careful individual attention in the process of discovering how her/his own special gifts can be used in the challenging work of teaching. Our students take introductory courses in educational philosophy, history, or policy, and then do course work in curriculum, instruction, and assessment, and specific methods for teaching reading and elementary school subjects or middle and high school subjects, along with doing fieldwork and student teaching.

The teacher education minor consists of:

(A) 102 or 212 or 215 or 216 or 217 or 218, or 219 or 301 or PSYC 248, or MIT 11.124 or other approved course; (B) PSYC 207 or 208, and (C) 300, 302, and 303. For students seeking elementary certification, 304, 305, and 310 or Brandeis Education 107A (spring only), are also required.

Students who wish to be certified as high school (grades 8-12), middle school (grades 5-8), or elementary (grades 1-6) teachers should obtain the department's description of the requirements. Generally, the program requires students to take specific subject-matter courses within their teaching fields along with four to seven education and psychology courses, two of which are the student teaching practicum (303) and accompanying seminar (302). If students are not able to register for required introductory courses, they should consult with the department about alternatives.

In addition, teacher certification requires fieldwork prior to student teaching. Students enrolled in EDUC 303 (Practicum) may register for EDUC 320, but are not required to do so.

Students are encouraged to apply at least a week before spring pre-registration, but may apply any time up to the beginning of classes in the fall. Applications are available in the education department. Students should plan their program of studies to fulfill the requirements and are encouraged to consult with a member of the department as early as possible, but are welcome to do so at any point. Students may register for a minor beginning in the spring of the sophomore year, but a minor is not required for teacher certification. With the exception of 300, 302, 303, 304, 305, and 320 the department's courses are designed for all students, not simply those planning a career in public or private school teaching.

Education Studies

We also offer courses that extend students' general knowledge of education as a field of study. Students may focus on the origins of education and child rearing practices, on urban education and the role of schools in society, on race and education, on multicultural education, on school reform, and on the various ways that ideas and policies in education have been applied to social problems.

The education studies minor consists of five courses chosen from:

EDUC 102, 212, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 301, 307, 309, 312, and EDUC 339/POL1 339S. However, AMST 101, PSYC 248, ECON 226, or QR 180 may be substituted for two of these courses. At least one 300-level education course must be included.

Title II Information

As required by Title II of the Higher Education Act of the United States, we provide the following information. The number of students enrolled in our state-approved teacher education program during academic year 2003–2004 was 27. The number of these students who continued into student teaching was 21. The number who completed all requirements of the program was 21. The student/faculty ratio for supervised student teaching was 4.5. The average number of required hours of student teaching is 360 (12 weeks of at least 30 hours per week). The minimum required is 300.

The pass rates for our students on the Massachusetts Tests for Education Licensure are: 1.) Basic skills: a.) Reading 100% (compared to a statewide average of 100%) b.) Writing 100% (state average 99%); Basic skills aggregate (a & b. combined) 100% (state average 99%); 2.) Academic content areas: Aggregate 100% (compared to state average of 96%). Summary (1. & 2. Combined) pass rate 100% (compared to state average of 95%). Please note that these tests are not required for completion of our program, because many candidates seek licensure only in other states.

Unit: 1.0

ENG 113 Studies in Fiction

Topic A: Modern and Postmodern Love in the Novel

Lackey

Modernists and postmodernists are famous for casting an ironic glance on God and Truth. But are they as cynical and skeptical about love? In this course, we will work through the writings of prominent twentieth-century novelists who struggled to define love. In addition to reading a variety of novels, we will view a number of the film versions (interpretations) of the works to see if the contemporary adaptations raise new and different questions about love. Readings will include: James Joyce's "The Dead," Virginia Woolf's Mrs. Dalloway, Kazuo Ishiguro's Remains of the Day, Alice Walker's The Color Purple, Michael Cunningham's The Hours, Milan Kundera's The Unbearable Lightness of Being, and A.S. Byatt's Morpho Eugenia.

Prerequisite: None. Especially recommended to non-majors.

Unit: 1.0

Topic B: Fantastic Fictions

Sides

When fiction blurs or crosses the line between our "real" world and "other worlds," the reader (as well as the narrator or main character) has entered the realm of "the fantastic," a genre (which broadly interpreted) contains "the uncanny," "the supernatural or ghost story," and "science fiction." We will read "fantastic" novels and short fiction by nineteenth-century and twentieth-century masters such as Edgar Allan Poe, Honoré de Balzac, Charles Dickens, Nikolai Gogol, Henry James, Franz Kafka, Mikhail Bulgakov, Bruno Schulz, Jorge Luis Borges, Leonora Carrington, Cynthia Ozick, Izumi Kyōka, and Junichiro Tanizaki. We will also discuss the appearance of "the fantastic" in contemporary feature and Japanese animé films. Taught primarily in lecture, this course will not be writing-intensive.

ENG 114 Masterworks of American Literature

Ford

American literature contains an astonishing myriad of voices and forms. This course introduces students to highlights and countercurrents of the American tradition. Featuring guest lectures from faculty members in the English Department, the course will span the colonial period to the present. We will read fiction, essays, drama, poetry, and autobiography, devoting time to the "greats" whom students may have already encountered, and to lesser known and more recent authors. The reading list likely will include: Rowlandson, Native American stories and myths, Emerson, Melville, Douglass, Whitman, Dickinson, Twain, Fitzgerald, Hughes, Hurston, Wharton, Faulkner, Williams, Ginsberg and the Beats, Plath, contemporary Asian-American and Hispanic poets, and Morrison—and creative writers on Wellesley's own faculty. Films, music, and visual arts will also figure prominently in the course.

Prerequisite: None. Especially recommended to non-majors.

Unit: 1.0

ENG 121/WRIT 125 The Novels of Jane Austen

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Students will read a selection of the great novels of Jane Austen and use her work to learn skills for the close reading of fiction in general. We will study the details of Austen's fictional technique. From what perspective are the novels told? How does the author reveal her attitudes toward her characters? At the same time we will consider the broader questions raised by the novels. What values motivate Austen's fiction? How does she comment on the larger social and historical scene? What are her views on such issues as slavery or the proper role of women? This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in English. Includes a third session each week.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.

ENG 127/WRIT 125 Modern European and American Drama

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Study of some distinguished late nineteenth- and twentieth-century European and American plays, and of the history and ideas connected with those plays. Among the likely dramatists: Ibsen, Shaw, Brecht, Artaud, Ionesco, Weiss (Europeans); Lorraine Hansberry, Maria Irene Fornés, the Bread and Puppet Theater, the Living Theater, Holly Hughes, Adrienne Kennedy, Tony Kushner, and Anna Devere Smith (Americans). Among the likely kinds of theater: realistic theater, epic theater, the theater of cruelty, and the theater of the absurd. Discussion of at least one Wellesley College theater production, and perhaps of some off-campus theater. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in English. Includes a third session each week.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.

ENG 213 Chaucer

Kelly
When we look back on the Middle Ages, we are faced with two equally alluring but mutually exclusive temptations: to see medieval people as being very much like us, or to see them as radically different. We will keep these temptations (and pleasures) in mind as we read the works of Geoffrey Chaucer, focusing on texts representing romantic and carnal love across genres: the dream vision, the fabliau, the lai, and, of course, the romance itself. Our task will be to work out an understanding of Chaucer's works within their late medieval setting and against our contemporary experiences. Critical issues include the relationship of author to text; the self-conscious and self-reflective narrator; problems of influence and genre; and medieval constructions of race, class, and gender.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ENG 222 Renaissance Literature

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of sixteenth-century literature with an emphasis on poetry. In addition to lyric poems spanning the century, epic poetry by Spenser (Book 3 of The Faerie Queene) and Marlowe, and a play, the course will include early prose fiction about continental travel and London's criminal underworld.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ENG 223 Shakespeare Part I: The Elizabethan Period

Wall-Randell, Benson
The formative period of Shakespeare's genius: comedies such as A Midsummer Night's Dream, As You Like It, Merchant of Venice, and Twelfth Night; histories such as Richard III, Richard II, Henry IV (Parts 1 and 2); tragedies such as Romeo and Juliet, Titus Andronicus, and Hamlet. Discussion of thematic concerns (ranging from gender relations and identities to national self-consciousness) will proceed from detailed analysis of not only the poetic language but also the dramatic form of the plays and the performance practices of Shakespeare's time. The viewing and analysis of contemporary performances will be integrated into the work of the course.

Prerequisite: 120
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video or Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ENG 224 Shakespeare Part II: The Jacobean Period

Peltason, Benson
The great tragedies and the redemptive romances from the end of Shakespeare's career, chosen from among Troilus and Cressida, Measure for Measure, Othello, King Lear, Macbeth, Coriolanus, Antony and Cleopatra, Cymbeline, The Winter's Tale, and The Tempest. While considering thematic concerns ranging from gender relations to the meaning of heroism, particular focus will fall on tragic form and its transformation in the romances. Extensive attention will be paid to theatrical practices, Shakespearean and contemporary, aided by the viewing of stage performances and film adaptations.

Prerequisite: 120

ENG 225 Seventeenth-Century Literature

Benson
Authors of the seventeenth century, one of the most inventive periods of English literature, are known for their ability to link the religious and the erotic, the speculative and the political, the stately and the passionate in exhilarating, complex, and innovative works of poetry and prose. Authors will include John Donne, Ben Jonson, Amelia Lanyer, George Herbert, Francis Bacon, Robert Herrick, Andrew Marvell, Katherine Philips, and Margaret Cavendish. Close reading of their texts will produce understanding of them and of the early modern period in which they were written and will raise questions that continue to haunt us today about our relation to the divine, to our bodies, to our past (personal and cultural), to the natural world, to the state, and to each other.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ENG 227 Milton

Wall-Randell
At the heart of this course will be a study of Milton's great epic poem, Paradise Lost, and some of its encyclopedic concerns: the place of humankind in the universe, the idea of obedience, the subjectivity of women, even the issue of literary adaptation itself. But Milton was a keen student of the whole spectrum of Renaissance forms, mastering and redefining them in virtuosic turns: as we'll see, his work includes religious psalms, lyric poetry, elegy, courtly entertainment, tragedy, and polemic. We'll also consider Milton's "afterlives," as an inspiration to the American Puritans and revolutionaries, as an influence on the Romantic poets, and as a continuing presence for modern writers such as the fantasy novelist Philip Pullman.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ENG 234 Restoration and Eighteenth-Century British Literature

Sides
The poetry, prose, and drama of this period are exhilarating in their ability to unite the elegant with the grotesque, the pious with the lewd, the hope for an enlightened society with the fear of madness. We will read prose and prose fiction by John Bunyan (Pilgrim's Progress), Samuel Johnson (selections from The Lives of the Poets), and Laurence Sterne (A Sentimental Journey through France and Italy). We will read plays by George Etherege (Man of Mode) and Richard Brinsley Sheridan (The Rivals). Finally, we will read the sublime and satiric poetry of two of the greatest English poets: John Dryden and Alexander Pope.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ENG 241 Romantic Poetry

Hickey
Emphasis on the great poems of six fascinating and influential poets: Blake, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Shelley, Byron, and Keats. As time allows, we'll read women poets of the period: Anna Barbauld, Mary Robinson, Dorothy Wordsworth, and Felicia Hemans. We'll consider such Romantic ideas and themes as imagination, feeling, originality, the process of cognition and creativity, the correspondence between self and nature, the dark passages of the psyche, encounters with otherness, altered states of being, mortality and immortality, poetry and revolution, Romanticism as revolt, the exiled hero, love, sexuality, gender, the meaning of art, and the importance of history. Open to students at all levels of familiarity with poetry.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

ENG 245 Victorian Poetry: Eminence and Decadence

Hickey

Victorian poems stand among the most memorable and best-loved in all of English verse: they're evocative, emotionally powerful, idiosyncratic, psychologically loaded, intellectually engaged, daring, inspiring, and bizarre. We'll study Tennyson, the Brownings, Emily Brontë, the Rossettis, Arnold, Hopkins, and Hardy, with attention to their technique and place in literary history. Themes will include the power and limits of language, tradition and originality, love and sexuality, gender roles, the literary expression of personal crisis, religious faith and doubt, evolution, industrialism, and the role of art. Supplementary prose readings and forays into art history will illuminate literary, aesthetic, and social contexts, particularly those surrounding the Woman Question, female authorship, and representations of female figures. Pre-Raphaelite slides, Special Collections visit, viewing of Wilde's Importance of Being Earnest.

Prerequisite: None

ENG 251 Modern Poetry

Brogan

A study of the modernist revolution and its aftermath, emphasizing its stunning achievements and deep divisions. Examination of the different versions of modernism that emerged in the beginning of the twentieth century, exploration of lines of influence that link poets, and consideration of the trajectories of individual careers. Close attention to how the work of the period's leading poets – William Butler Yeats, T.S. Eliot, Wallace Stevens, William Carlos Williams, Marianne Moore, Langston Hughes, among others – reflects and responds to a period of extraordinary political and social turbulence.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature

ENG 253 Contemporary American Poetry

Chiasson

Beginning with four seminal volumes published in the mid-twentieth century (Robert Lowell's Life Studies, Allen Ginsberg's Howl, Frank O'Hara's Lunch Poems, and Elizabeth Bishop's North and South) we will explore the aesthetic opportunities these volumes make available to other, later poets (and to these poets at later stages of their careers) as well as those they seem to foreclose. Additional reading in books by John Ashbery, Sylvia Plath, Rita Dove, Robert Pinsky, James Schuyler, Louise Glück and Frank Bidart.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ENG 262 American Literature to 1865

Fisher

A study of American fiction, poetry, and autobiography from the early nineteenth century through the Civil War, focusing on the diverse and original voices that emerged during the period in New England and elsewhere. The course will explore the first major flowering of American literary art, focusing on such themes as constructions of the self, gendered domesticity, literary visions of nature, and the abolition of slavery. Authors will include Frederick Douglass, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry David Thoreau, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Harriet Jacobs, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Emily Dickinson, Walt Whitman, and Herman Melville.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ENG 263 American Literature and Social Justice

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A study of some American literature dealing with questions of justice and injustice in the relations between races, ethnic groups, genders, and classes. Among the possible authors and works: Harriet Beecher Stowe, Uncle Tom's Cabin; Edward Bellamy, Looking Backward; Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Herland; Upton Sinclair, The Jungle; Jane Addams's autobiography; Marc Blitzstein, The Cradle Will Rock; poems about the Sacco and Vanzetti case; poems by Stirling Brown, Langston Hughes and Gwendolyn Brooks; John Steinbeck, The Grapes of Wrath; works from the Japanese internment camps; plays by the Teatro Campesino; essays by James Baldwin; Arthur Miller, The Crucible; poems and essays by Adrienne Rich; Lorraine Hansberry, Raisin in the Sun; Anna Devereare Smith, Twilight; Spike Lee, Do the Right Thing; current science fiction and utopian writing.

ENG 264 Hispanic Literature in the U.S.

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will highlight the intricacy, diversity, and growing prominence of Latina/o literature in the United States, concentrating especially on the twentieth century. Organizing our readings by genre, we will study Latina/o texts written in English, using Latina/o cultural identity as the context for the literary works. Theoretical readings will help to locate the writings within the historical, philosophical, artistic, and performative traditions of this literature. All readings and discussion in English.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ENG 266 American Literature from the Civil War to the 1930s

Meyer, Cain

A selection of literature from the period between the Civil War and the Great Depression, tracing the trajectory of American fiction from realism to high modernism. Emphasis on the ways that these texts invite and respond to questions about economics, social justice, sexual politics, and the role of literature in society. Attending closely to nuances of authorial style, classroom discussion will also consider each work in light of the ongoing debate between realism and formalism in art. Authors read will be drawn from the following: Twain, James, Roth, Chesnutt, Chopin, Dreiser, Wharton, Gilman, Stein, Toomer, Yeziarska, Fitzgerald, Hemingway, Faulkner, and Hurston.

Prerequisite: None

ENG 267 American Literature from the 1940s to the Present

Ford, Brogan

American literature from World War II to the present. Consideration of fiction, poetry, memoirs, essays, and films that reflect and inspire the cultural upheavals of the period. Possible writers to be studied include: Mailer, Morrison, Pynchon, Lowell, Bishop, Ginsberg, Burroughs, Nabokov, Ellison, Carver, Kingston, Roth, O'Connor, DeLillo, Salinger, Morrison, Schwartz, DeRosa, Smiley, Keller, McDermott, Lahiri, and Spark.

ENG 269 Asian American Literature

Lee

We'll be reading novels and short stories by Asian American writers, including Maxine Hong Kingston, Joy Kogawa, Ha Jin, Susan Choi, Wang Ping, Fae Ng and Jhumpa Lahiri. Looking at works from the 1930s to the present moment, we will focus on themes of travel, mobility, arrivals and departures. What defines homelessness? What constitutes a home? When and where does a feeling of ordinariness or the everyday arise? And how do the experiences of male and female immigrants compare with each other? These are only some of the questions that we'll consider as we explore this rich and exciting body of literature.

ENG 270 Experiencing London Then and Now

Lee

This Wintersession course examines how people self-consciously experienced the city of London in the eighteenth century, and how we experience it today. Walking, watching, getting lost in crowds and experimenting with identity were crucial then, as we see in writers ranging from James Boswell to Frances Burney, and remain important today, despite obvious changes in London's scale and organization. We will read works by Addison, Boswell, Gay, Burney, and others, and then spend around 12 days in London, visiting some of the same sites (theaters, parks, churches) and following some of the same itineraries. What continuities and discontinuities are there between eighteenth-century and post-modern urban experiences? Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.

Prerequisite: None. Application required.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Wintersession Unit: 0.5

ENG 271 The Rise of the Novel

Lee

A study of how the genre of the novel begins in forgeries, poses as real documents and letters, and eventually reveals itself as a kind of literature uniquely suited to modern society. There will be a particular emphasis on the novel's enduring fascination with women and criminals, the choices they make and the rewards and punishments they receive. Authors include Behn, Defoe, Richardson, Fielding, Edgeworth, and Austen.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

ENG 272 The Victorian Novel

Meyer

An exploration of the changing relationships of persons to social worlds in some of the great novels of the Victorian period. The impact on the novel of industrialization, the debate about women's roles, the enfranchisement of the middle and the working classes, the effect on ordinary persons of life in the great cities, the commodification of culture – these and other themes will be traced in the works of some of the following: Charlotte Brontë, Emily Brontë, Charles Dickens, George Eliot, Elizabeth Gaskell, George Gissing, Thomas Hardy.

Unit: 1.0

ENG 273 The Modern British Novel

Lackey

A consideration of the ways in which modernist writers reimagine the interests of the novel as they experiment with and reshape its traditional subjects and forms. From the frank exploration of sexuality in Lawrence, to the radical subordination of plot in Woolf, modernist writers reconceive our notion of the writer, of story, of the very content of what can be said. A selection of works by E.M. Forster, D.H. Lawrence, James Joyce, Virginia Woolf, Jean Rhys, and Joseph Conrad.

Prerequisite: None

Unit: 1.0

ENG 277 English-Language Fiction in Global Perspective

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Focus on novels, memoirs, and nonfiction writing – mostly contemporary, with some earlier examples of what now begins to make up a tradition of modern Indian literature in English. Controversial questions to be addressed include: what is “authentically” Indian? What is the writer's responsibility to solve social and political problems? What roles do women play in this literature? Introduction to important religious and political contexts will be provided, but primary attention will go to the literature itself, with some attention to films. Authors will likely include Gandhi, R.K. Narayan, Raja Rao, Anita Desai, Salman Rushdie, Bapsi Sidhwa, Rohinton Mistry, Jhumpa Lahiri, plus films directed by Satyajit Ray and Deepa Mehta.

Prerequisite: None

ENG 285 Irish Literature

Sabin

Topic for 2005-06: Modern and Contemporary Irish Writing. A study of two great periods of Irish literary creativity in this past century: first, a brief but intense immersion in the great early “modern” Irish masters: Yeats, Synge, and Joyce. Then a leap to some of the post-1970 works of poetry, drama, fiction, and film that show the legacy of and the breakings away from these powerful predecessors. Recent and contemporary writers to be assigned will likely include: Seamus Heaney, Paul Muldoon, Eavan Boland, Roddy Doyle, Brian Friel, Martin McDonagh, and selected women authors of short stories from the anthology, Territories of the Voice.

ENG 320 Literary Cross Currents

Tyler

Topic for 2005-06: Poe and Coleridge. This course will study in detail Coleridge's “mystery poems” (“Rime of the Ancient Mariner,” “Kubla Khan,” and “Christabel”) and Poe's great stories, culminating with Poe's “Rime”-work, “The Narrative of Arthur Gordon Pym.” Comparative study will elucidate both the way that Coleridge's poems serve as sources for the Gothic magic and uncanniness of Poe's stories, and the way that Coleridge's literary theory provides a source for Poe's counter-Gothic American formalism. We'll explore the critical reception of both writers, particularly those notable essays by twentieth-century formalists like Eliot, Tate, and Warren, who claimed both Coleridge and Poe as precursors.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students.

ENG 324 Advanced Studies in Shakespeare

Cain

Topic for 2005-06: Hamlet. The topic for this course will be Shakespeare's Hamlet. We will approach the play extrinsically and intrinsically: extrinsically, as a confluence of the historical, ideational, and aesthetic forces known as the “Renaissance;” intrinsically, as a towering artistic achievement, still alive, still open to inquiry. We'll also study a number of film adaptations, examine theories of tragedy from Aristotle to Heidegger, and explore treatments of the play by contemporary critics and literary theorists (e.g., René Girard, Jacqueline Rose, Stephen Greenblatt).

ENG 325 Advanced Studies in Sixteenth- and Seventeenth-Century Literature

Benson

Topic for 2005-06: Women Writers of the Renaissance. Until recently, most people would have found this course topic absurd because they thought there were no English women writers during the Renaissance. As great a writer as Virginia Woolf made excuses for what she saw as Renaissance women's failure to write. This course will explore how unnecessary these excuses were. Renaissance women wrote poetry, plays, diaries, letters, religious meditations, and even a romance that was so hot with gossip that it had to be withdrawn from the market. Authors will include Isabella Whitney, Mary Sidney, Queen Elizabeth I, Aemilia Lanyer, Lady Mary Wroth, and others. We will also discuss some works by English men and Italian women (Vittoria Colonna, Gaspara Stampa).

This course will study a number of Henry James's novels and stories alongside the work of the great French writers who influenced him: Balzac, Flaubert, and de Maupassant.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students.

Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

Topic B for 2005-06: Love, Sex, and Imagination in Romantic Poetry

Hickey

Study of Romantic poems, focusing on the role of eros in Romantic conceptions of imagination. Romantic subjects and objects; sympathy and sensibility; gendering the sublime and the beautiful; sexual/textual ambiguity; androgyny; gender and genius; unutterable or unspeakable love as a trope for the sublime (and vice versa); the love object as muse; enchantresses and demon lovers as figures of imagination; the attractions, dangers, excesses, and failures of idealizing erotic imagination (sentimentalism, narcissism, solipsism, disenchantment); desire and the Romantic quest; sexual politics; marriage tropes; non-normative or transgressive sex (free love, homosexuality, incest, hypersexuality, adultery);

(homo)erotics of Romantic literary friendship, rivalry, and collaboration; women writers and the specter of literary prostitution. Blake, Coleridge, the Wordsworths, Mary Robinson, "Sapphic" poets, Byron, Caroline Lamb, Shelley, Keats, Letitia Elizabeth Landon, John Clare, and others.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be at the 200-level, or by permission of the instructor to other qualified students.

ENG 355 Advanced Studies in Twentieth-Century Literature

Bidart

Topic for 2005-06: Elizabeth Bishop and Robert Lowell: Developments in Postmodern Poetry.

Robert Lowell once said, "I don't know the value of what I've done, but I know that I changed the game." How did the development of each poet, and the complex friendship between them, contribute to how both Bishop and Lowell "changed the game"? We will look, in other words, at the connection between genre, poetic development, and biography.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students.

ENG 363 Advanced Studies in American Literature

Brogan

Topic for 2005-06: Gotham: New York City in Literature and Art. This course examines that icon of modernity, New York City, as it appears in American literature from the 1850's to the present.

In our readings of novels, short stories, poetry, and essays, we'll think about how depictions of urban life express the city's social geography and help to shape the cultural meaning of the metropolis. We will consider how richly varied interpretations of New York contribute to a national discussion about American identity, modernity, immigration, and the commercial. Authors will include: Whitman, Melville, Dreiser, James, Wharton, Yeziarska, Fitzgerald, Langston Hughes, and Chang-rae Lee. We'll also look at the way visual artists have depicted New York City in painting, photography, and film.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students. Not open to students who have taken AMST 318, Spring 2005.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

ENG 364 Race and Ethnicity in American Literature

Ford

Topic for 2005-06: The American Novel in Black and White. This course examines the American novel from the Civil War period onwards by pairing works by black and white writers, each pair concerning the same theme or historical moment. We will use these oppositions to examine the ways in which the American literary imagination has always depended on a (often invisible) Other to crystallize its ideas about national identity. By focusing on subjects, such as slavery and miscegenation, that have been bitterly divisive in American history, we will also try to think through the role that literature takes on in defining contentious historical developments both at the time of their unfolding and after the fact. Authors to be read may include Herman Melville, Harriet Beecher Stowe, William Faulkner, Charles Chesnut, Octavia Butler, and Charles Johnson.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students.

ENG 382 Criticism

Lee

A survey of major developments in literary theory and criticism. Discussion will focus on important perspectives including structuralism, poststructuralism, Marxism, feminism, and crucial individual theorists including Bakhtin, Empson, Barthes, Derrida, Foucault, Jameson, and Zizek.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students.

ENG 383 Women in Literature, Culture, and Society

Meyer

Topic for 2005-06: The Brontë Family. A study both of the imaginary world Charlotte, Emily, and Anne Brontë created along with their brother Branwell in their childhood stories and poems, and of the novels they wrote in close contact as adults.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students.

ENG 384 Outside England

Cezair-Thompson

Topic for 2005-06: Heart of Darkness. An examination of written texts, news coverage, films, photography, and museum pieces that have shaped Western perceptions of Africa throughout the century. The central text will be Conrad's Heart of Darkness, written a hundred years ago and based on the atrocities witnessed by the author in the Congo. We will also examine works by Gordimer, and the writings of prominent Western journalists. Among the questions to be discussed are: How did the myth of "the dark continent" originate, and does that view of Africa persist today? How does contemporary journalism's images of genocide and other crises in Africa reconfigure earlier images of African "darkness" and "horror"? How do African writers and filmmakers influence Western perceptions of Africa and perhaps subvert the old myths and stereotypes? There will be close analysis of the language, structure, and style of these written and visual "texts," and of the historical background of colonialist and postcolonial literatures.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, or by permission of instructor to other qualified students.

ENG 385 Advanced Studies in a Genre

Peltason

Topic A for 2005-06: Dickens and Trollope Studies in the Victorian Comic Novel. A close study of six novels – three each by two of the most popular and most representative of Victorian writers. We'll follow the progress of two great novelists as they take the essentially comic form of their earlier novels and turn it to darker, deeper, and richer purposes in the course of their careers. From Trollope's Chronicles of Barsetshire: Barchester Towers (1855), Framley Parsonage (1861), and The Last Chronicle of Barset (1867); from early and late in Dickens's career, Martin Chuzzlewit (1843-44), Bleak House (1853-54), and Great Expectations (1860-61).

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, and by permission of instructor to other qualified students.

Topic B for 2005-06: Origins of Lyric Poetry.

This is a course in the origins of lyric poetry: its origins in Western culture (the earliest lyric poems of Hesiod, Sappho, Archilochus, and others) and the origins of individual poems (in the inspiration of a muse, in devotion, in nature, in pain, in "the imagination.") Beginning a poem is an action with an immensely rich and complex history, and yet that action often feels radically new. Conversely, often the most startlingly "original" poems are heavily indebted to predecessors. Poems by classical poets and by Caedmon, Wyatt, Shakespeare, Milton, Smart, Keats, Dickinson, Whitman, Rilke, Moore, Cavafy, Stevens, Mandelstam, Celan, Bishop, Plath, Heaney and others. The course aims to derive a theory of the lyric that works for reading even the most obdurate poems.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be at the 200-level, or by permission of the instructor to other qualified students.

ENG 387 Authors

Tyler

Topic for 2005-06: William Faulkner. Faulkner will be the sublime central figure, an unaccountable creator of such power and plenty that two rival Southern tempers claim him as a legitimating authority for their kind of work. Faulkner does have this double life (at least) within Southern literature: (1) as a patriarch of a masculinist, moralist tradition which has itself produced major work in fiction (Robert Penn Warren, Walker Percy), in poetry (T.S. Eliot, John Crowe Ransom, Allen Tate, Warren), and most enduringly, in the New Criticism and the Eliotic procedures of "close-reading" still practiced, variously, in our classrooms; but also (2) as a liberating influence upon wayward and fabulously unbalanced writers like Tennessee Williams, Truman Capote, Carson McCullers, all of whom could be considered Faulkner's gay and otherwise abstaining, non-"heterosexualist" (to borrow Gore Vidal's word) literary descendants.

Courses at the 100 level are open to all students and presume no previous college experience in literary study. They provide good introductions to such study because of their subject matter or their focus on the skills of critical reading. ENG 120 (Critical Interpretation) is open to all students, but is primarily designed for prospective English majors. The course trains students in the skills of critical reading and writing. 200-level literature courses, with the exception of Shakespeare (223 and 224), are open to all students without prerequisite. They treat major writers and historical periods, and provide training in making comparisons and connections among different works, writers, and ideas. 300-level literature courses encourage both students and instructors to pursue their special interests. They presume a greater overall competence, together with some previous experience in the study of major writers, periods, and ideas in English or American literature. They are open to all those who have taken two literature courses in the department, at least one of which must be 200 level, and by permission of the instructor or chair to other qualified students. For admission to seminars and for independent work (350), students with at least a 3.33 GPA in the work of the department will have first consideration. Students are encouraged to confer with the instructors of courses in which they are interested. Students should consult the more complete descriptions of all courses, composed by their instructors, posted on bulletin boards in Founders Hall, and available from the department administrative assistant.

Advanced Placement. The English department does not grant credit toward the major for AP or IB courses taken in high school. Because no course in the English department is considered the equivalent of a high school AP course, students may take any course in the department without losing any degree credits that they may have received for their performance on AP or IB examinations. First-year students and other undeclared majors contemplating further study in English are encouraged to consult the department chair or the department pre-major advisor in relation to their course selection. Students majoring in English should discuss their programs with their major advisors, and should consult with them about any changes they wish to make in the course of their junior and senior years.

The English major consists of a minimum of ten units, at least eight of which must be in areas other than creative writing. At least seven units must be above 100 level, and of these at least two units must be earned in 300-level literature, film, or literary theory courses. At least six of the units for the major must be taken in the department, including the two required units in 300-level courses.

WRIT 125 does not count toward the major. Courses designated 125/120 satisfy both the ENG 120 requirement and the WRIT 125 requirement, and count as a unit toward the fulfillment of the major. Other combined sections, such as WRIT 125/ENG 127, count toward the major as well. Independent work (350, 360, or 370) does not count toward the minimum requirement of two 300-level courses for the major.

All students majoring in English must take ENG 120 (Critical Interpretation), at least one course in Shakespeare (200 level), and two courses focused on literature written before 1900, of which at least one must focus on writing before 1800.

Courses taken in other departments at Wellesley College may not be used to satisfy any of the above distribution requirements, with the exception of ME/R 246, which satisfies the pre-1800 distribution requirement. With the Chair's permission, courses taken abroad during junior year or on twelve-college exchange may satisfy certain distribution requirements. English 112, ENG 223, and 224 do not satisfy the pre-1800 distribution requirement. Transfer students or Davis Scholars who have had work equivalent to 120 at another institution may apply to the chair for exemption from the critical interpretation requirement.

The English minor consists of five units: (A) 120 and (B) at least one unit on literature written before 1900 and (C) at least one 300-level unit, excluding 350 and (D) at least four units, including the 300-level course, taken in the department; a maximum of two creative writing units may be included.

Honors. The department offers a choice of two programs for honors. Under program I the honors candidate does two units of independent research culminating in a thesis or a project in creative writing. Program II offers an opportunity to receive honors on the basis of work done for regular courses but carries no additional course credit. A candidate electing program II presents a dossier of essays written for several courses with a statement of connections among them and critical questions raised by them. Applicants for honors should have a minimum 3.5 GPA in the major (in courses above 100 level) and must apply to the chair for admission to the program. A more detailed description of the department's application procedure is available from the department's administrative assistant.

Creative Writing. The English department offers beginning and advanced courses in poetry (English 201 and 302), in fiction (English 203 and 301), and in screenwriting (English 204). A literary non-fiction writing course (Writing 225) that covers different genres (for example, travel writing, personal essay, and memoir) is offered through The Writing Program and counts towards the English major. These courses are open to all Wellesley College students.

The Creative Writing Concentration in the English Major. The creative writing concentration within the English major is designed for majors with a strong commitment to developing their own creative work. Students electing the creative writing concentration take a series of workshops in one or more creative genres (fiction, poetry, screenwriting, and creative non-fiction) and select, in consultation with their advisor, courses in literary study that provide the background in and knowledge of literary tradition necessary to make a contribution to that tradition.

Students interested in the creative writing concentration are urged to begin planning their programs early in their careers at Wellesley. It is expected that they will have taken at least one writing workshop by the time for election of the English major (spring semester sophomore year or fall semester sophomore year, for students going abroad), and have been in touch with a member of the creative writing faculty to plan the major. English majors electing the creative writing concentration must choose a member of the creative writing faculty as their advisor. Students who are interested in the creative writing concentration but who do not feel confident that they have had sufficient experience in writing to choose the concentration at the time of the election of the major should elect the English major; they may add the creative writing concentration later.

Students electing the creative writing concentration must fulfill all the requirements of the English major, including English 120, a course on Shakespeare, the period distribution requirements, and two 300-level literature courses. It is expected that creative writing students will take a focused program of critical study in the genre or genres in which they specialize.

In addition to eight courses in the critical study of literature, majors in the creative writing concentration take a minimum of four units of creative writing work. Creative writing courses may be repeated for additional credit. A student who is extremely motivated and capable of independent work and who has the permission of a faculty advisor may take an independent study (English 350); however, it is recommended that students take full advantage of the workshop experience provided by the creative writing courses. A student qualifying for Honors in English and whose proposal has been approved by the Creative Writing Committee may pursue a creative writing thesis; the thesis option, although it includes two course units (English 360 and English 370), can only count as one of the four creative writing courses required by the concentration. Creative writing faculty generally direct creative theses; however, other English department faculty may direct creative theses.

Graduate Study in English. Students expecting to do graduate work in English should ordinarily plan to acquire a reading knowledge of two foreign languages. They should take ENG 382 (Criticism) or an equivalent course in literary theory. They should also consult with the department's graduate school advisor, and with their departmental advisor, about courses that are appropriate for those considering graduate work in English.

Teacher Certification. Students interested in obtaining certification to teach English in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult with the chair of the education department and the English department liaison to the education department.

Environmental Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR WITH CONCENTRATIONS IN ENVIRONMENTAL JUSTICE AND PHILOSOPHY, ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY AND ECONOMICS, OR ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE

Director: Coleman (Chemistry)

Advisory Faculty: Karakasidou, Steady, Winkler (Environmental Justice and Philosophy); DeSombre, Paarlberg, (Environmental Policy and Economics); Andrews, Besancon, Brabander, Coleman, Moore, Rodenhouse, Sequeira, Thomas, Thompson, Stark (Environmental Science).

Lecturer: Goldoftas

Environmental issues are complex and involve disciplines across the sciences, social sciences, and humanities. The environmental studies major provides students with the knowledge and skills needed to study, understand, and address these pressing issues, which range from biological diversity and natural resource use; to energy use, industrial waste, and other concerns of industrial societies; to the relationship between the environment and economic development. Because of the interdisciplinary nature of environmental issues, the major draws upon courses from multiple departments; however, each student will focus her studies within one area of concentration in order to obtain the depth of knowledge needed for advanced study and critical analyses.

Students will choose an advisor from among the advisory faculty in her area of concentration. A minor is not offered in any area of concentration.

There are three components to the 11-course major:

1. Two core courses (ES 100 and ES 300)
2. Five courses in an area of concentration (at least one of which must be at the 300 level)
3. Four complementary elective courses from outside the area of concentration

Students may count no more than three courses taken away from Wellesley towards the environmental studies major. These courses should be approved by a co-director prior to enrollment.

1. Core courses (two courses required)

ES 100 Humans and Nature

Goldoftas, Rodenhouse, and Thomas (Biological Sciences)

An introduction to social, political, economic, and scientific aspects of various environmental issues including acid deposition, stratospheric ozone depletion, global warming, energy resource management, soil depletion and population dynamics. Emphasis will be placed on the interrelatedness of these issues and on the interdisciplinary nature of the approaches that must be taken to deal with them. Laboratories will explore computer modeling as a tool for understanding environmental questions, monitoring of various environmental markers on the Wellesley campus, and will make use of other resources in the Boston area. Because this course is an interdisciplinary introduction to environmental studies, AP credit in Environmental Science cannot be used to replace ES 100.

Prerequisite: None.

Distribution: None. Does not satisfy the laboratory requirement.

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

ES 300 Environmental Issues

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An interdisciplinary seminar in which students work together in small groups to understand and develop solutions for current environmental problems. Each year, we focus on a given environmental issue of concern to our community, e.g. climate change, water pollution. In particular, we work to understand its scientific background, the political processes that lead to potential solutions, and the ethical and environmental justice implications. Student-led research provides the bulk of the information about the issue and its role in our local environment; lectures and readings provide supplementary information about the local situation and the global context.

Prerequisite: A declared major in environmental studies, ES 100 and at least four other courses in the student's area of concentration, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: None
Semester: N/O
Unit: 1.0

Additional environmental studies courses that may count (as indicated) towards areas of concentration or towards electives:

ES 201/GEOS 201 Methods and Problems in Environmental Science with Laboratory
Brabander (Geosciences)

Problems in environmental science are inherently multidisciplinary and often require a diverse skill set to analyze and solve. This course will focus on developing a toolbox of skills including field methods, geochemical analysis (natural waters, soils and other environmental materials), and modeling with a goal of being able to frame and solve environmental problems. Students will conduct semester-long research projects and will present their results in a final poster session. Laboratory. Students may register for either ES 201 or GEOS 201 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: One of the following – ES 100, GEOS 100, [GEOL 100], 101, 102 [GEOL 102] or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

ES 212/RAST 212 Lake Baikal: The Soul of Siberia

Hodge (Russian) and Moore (Biological Sciences)
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. The ecological and cultural values of Lake Baikal – the oldest, deepest, and most biotically rich lake on the planet – are examined. Lectures and discussion in spring prepare students for the three-week field laboratory taught at Lake Baikal in eastern Siberia in August. Lectures address the fundamentals of aquatic ecology and the role of Lake Baikal in Russian literature, history, art, music, and the country's environmental movement. Laboratory work is conducted primarily out-of-doors and includes introductions to the flora and fauna, field tests of student-generated hypotheses, meetings with the lake's stakeholders, and tours of ecological and cultural sites surrounding the lake. This course can count towards a concentration in environmental science or as an elective for the other concentrations. This course does not count toward the minimum major in biological sciences. Students may register for either ES 212 or RAST 212 and credit will be granted accordingly. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.

Prerequisite: BISC 111, RUSS 101, and permission of the instructors. Preference will be given to students who have also taken HIST 211, formerly [105].
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.
Unit: 1.25

ES 222 Dynamic Modeling of Environmental Issues

Coleman (Chemistry)

A hands-on introduction to the application of systems dynamics to developing computer-based models for complex problems, with an emphasis on the environment. Starting with simple closed systems, students will develop models of increasing sophistication and complexity for issues such as population dynamics, air and water pollution, energy production and usage, waste management and sustainable development. Emphasis will be placed on the principles of problem solving and systems dynamics and on developing models that reflect, as closely as possible, real-world situations and the interrelatedness of various environmental concerns. This course can count towards a concentration in environmental science or as an elective for the other concentrations.

Prerequisite: ES 100 and successful completion of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Spring
Unit: 0.5

ES 234/ANTH 234 Cultural Ecology

Ruf (Anthropology)

This course explores theoretical and methodological issues in the study of human culture and social activity in relation to ecological systems and the environment. Readings include both classic studies as well as contemporary research, with particular emphasis placed on the various dimensions and scales of social organization and activity, and on the role of cultural, religious, and political institutions in shaping ecological relationships as well as economic behavior. Students may register for either ES 234 or ANTH 234 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

ES 307/BISC 307 Advanced Topics in Ecology with Laboratory

Moore (Biological Sciences)

Topic for 2005-06: Ecology of Freshwaters with Laboratory. Rivers, lakes, and wetlands are among our richest ecosystems, yet their physical integrity and biotic diversity are the most imperiled. This course examines the biological, physical, and chemical processes that occur in flowing waters, wetlands, lakes and vernal pools. Lectures and discussions address key concepts for understanding, conserving and restoring freshwater ecosystems. Lab work will include field work in a variety of freshwater habitats, mathematical modeling, and an independent project carried out by each student. Students may register for either ES 307 or BISC 307 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: BISC 201, BISC 210, or permission of instructor
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.25

ES 308/CHEM 308 Green Chemistry

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Green chemistry can be defined as the design of chemicals, chemical syntheses, and chemical processes that are environmentally benign and economically feasible. This course will serve to introduce students to the 12 Principles of Green Chemistry and explore how these principles are put into use by through real world examples. The subject matter to be discussed will include aspects of analytical, biological, inorganic, organic, and polymer chemistry from an environmental or green perspective. This course is designed for students interested in chemistry, biochemistry, engineering, environmental studies, materials science and related fields. Students may register for either ES 308 or CHEM 308 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: CHEM 211
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O
Unit: 0.5

ES 315/GEOS 315 Environmental Geochemistry with Laboratory

Brabander (Geosciences)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Accurately predicting the fate and transport of naturally occurring toxic elements and anthropogenic compounds in the environment requires a broad set of multidisciplinary skills. This course introduces geochemical approaches including mass balance, residence time, isotope fractionation, and thermodynamic and kinetic modeling necessary to fingerprint sources of pollutants and track them in water, soil, and plants. These fundamentals will be explored in several classic case studies and in semester-long geochemical research projects conducted by small groups. Laboratory. Normally offered in alternate years. Students may register for either GEOS 315 or ES 315 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: One course above the 100-level in two of the following disciplines: geosciences, chemistry, biological sciences or environmental studies, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.
Unit: 1.25

Individual Study

ES 250 or 350 (Research or Individual Study) can be advised by any member of the advisory faculty in environmental studies. They may count towards the area of concentration. A half-unit course may only count as credit towards the major when combined with another half-unit course. Only three units of independent study may be counted towards the major.

ES 250 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor, ordinarily limited to students who have completed at least three units toward their major.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

ES 250H Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor, ordinarily limited to students who have completed at least three units toward their major.

Honors in Environmental Studies

A student whose GPA in courses in her environmental studies major is 3.5 or higher may apply to write an honors thesis. The application, which is available from the directors, should be submitted in April of the student's junior year. Students should have identified a topic and an advisor before applying. The applications are evaluated by the advisory faculty. Students planning to study abroad should discuss their interest in honors with potential advisors during their sophomore year, and plan to submit their application in April of their junior year abroad.

ES 360 Senior Thesis Research

Prerequisite: By permission of the advisory faculty. See Honors in Environmental Studies.

II. Areas of concentration (five courses required from one of the following areas)

(Note that most 200- and 300-level courses have one or more 100-level prerequisites)

A. Environmental justice and philosophy provides students with the background needed to understand and address the philosophical and ethical issues raised by human activity in the natural world, including the causes and consequences of environmental degradation as they are influenced by social inequality.

A student choosing to concentrate in this area would, with the approval of her advisor, choose five from among the following courses:

AFR 226 Seminar. Environmental Justice, Race, and Sustainable Development

PEAC 259 Peace and Conflict Resolution

PHIL 206 Normative Ethics

PHIL 217 Philosophy of Science: Traditional and Feminist Perspectives

PHIL 233 Environmental Philosophy

POL2 312S Seminar. Environmental Policy

POL3 348S Seminar. Problems in North-South Relations

SOC 235 Business and Social Responsibility

Alternative courses in this area of concentration can be chosen from the following list; however, students should do so only after a conversation with their faculty advisor.

ANTH 238 The Vulnerable Body: Anthropological Understandings

ANTH 251 Cultures of Cancer

PHIL 213 Social and Political Philosophy

PHIL 340 Seminar. Contemporary Ethical Theory

POL2 302 Globalization and the Nation-State

POL3 325 International Environmental Law

REL 230 Ethics

REL 257 Contemplation and Action

REL 326 Seminar. Contemporary Theology

SOC 209 Social Inequality

SOC 221 Globalization

B. Environmental Policy and Economics – provides students with the background needed to understand how policy is developed, how specific policy decisions affect environmental quality, and how economic factors structure the opportunities and constraints of environmental policy and the use of natural resources.

A student choosing to concentrate in this area would, with the approval of her advisor, choose five from among the following courses:

ECON 228 Environmental and Resource Economics

EXTD 123 Water Resources Planning and Management

EXTD 128 Coastal Zone Management

POL2 204 Political Economy of Development and Underdevelopment

POL2 312S Seminar. Environmental Policy

POL3 323 International Economic Policy

POL3 325 International Environmental Law

POL3 332S Seminar. People, Agriculture, and the Environment

POL3 351S Seminar. Global Governance

Alternative courses in this area of concentration can be chosen from the following list; however, students should do so only after a conversation with their faculty advisor.

AFR 226 Seminar. Environmental Justice, Race, and Sustainable Development

ECON 214 Trade and Immigration

ECON 220 Development Economics

ECON 222 Games of Strategy

ECON 320 Seminar. Economic Development

POL2 202 Comparative Politics

POL2 302 Globalization and the Nation-State

POL3 327 International Organization

POL3 329 International Law

SOC 221 Globalization

SOC 235 Business and Social Responsibility

C. Environmental Science – offers an interdisciplinary approach for viewing the Earth and its inhabitants from more than one scientific perspective. Courses that are strongly recommended to strengthen the quantitative skills of all students concentrating in environmental science include introductory calculus (e.g., MATH 116 or 116Z) or statistics (e.g., MATH 101, ECON 103/SOC 190, and POL 199).

A student choosing to concentrate in this area would, with the approval of her advisor, choose five of the following courses, not all from the same department.

Biological Sciences

BISC 201 Ecology with Laboratory

BISC 202 Evolution with Laboratory

BISC 203 Comparative Physiology and Anatomy of Vertebrates with Laboratory

BISC 207 The Biology of Plants with Laboratory

BISC 209 Microbiology with Laboratory

BISC 210 Marine Biology with Laboratory

BISC 302 Animal Physiology with Laboratory

BISC 307/ES 307 Advanced Topics in Ecology with Laboratory

BISC 308 Tropical Ecology with Wintersession Laboratory

EXTD 225 Biology of Fishes

EXTD 226 Biology of Whales

EXTD 227 Wetlands: Ecology, Hydrology, Restoration

Chemistry

CHEM 205 Chemical Analysis and Equilibrium with Laboratory

CHEM 211 Organic Chemistry I with Laboratory

CHEM 221 Biochemistry I: Structure and Function of Macromolecules with Laboratory

CHEM 222 Introduction to Biochemistry with Laboratory

CHEM 231 Physical Chemistry I with Laboratory

CHEM 232 Physical Chemistry for the Life Sciences with Laboratory

CHEM 308/ES 308 Green Chemistry

Geosciences

GEOS 201/ES 201 Methods and Problems in Environmental Science with Laboratory

GEOS 203 Earth Materials with Laboratory

GEOS 211 Geology and Human Affairs

GEOS 220 Volcanoes: Agents of Global and Regional Change with Wintersession Laboratory

GEOS 230 Earth from Above: Maps, Remote Sensing, and GIS

GEOS 240 Climate Past and Future

GEOS 304 Sedimentary Rocks and Sequences with Laboratory

GEOS 311 Hydrogeology with Laboratory

GEOS 315/ES 315 Environmental Geochemistry with Laboratory

Physics

PHYS 202 Introduction to Quantum Mechanics and Thermodynamics with Laboratory

PHYS 203 Vibrations, Waves, and Special Relativity with Laboratory

PHYS 215/MATH 215 Mathematics for the Sciences I

PHYS 216/MATH 216 Mathematics for the Sciences II

PHYS 302 Quantum Mechanics

PHYS 305 Statistical Mechanics and Thermodynamics

PHYS 306 Advanced Classical Mechanics

Students wishing to investigate the environment further via a single scientific discipline should also consider course programs in the Departments of Biological Sciences, Chemistry, Geosciences, and Physics.

III. Electives complementing the area of concentration (four courses required, at least two above the 100 level)

For those concentrating in environmental justice and philosophy or environmental policy and economics, complementary electives should be selected, in consultation with their advisors, to enhance quantitative reasoning skills or breadth of knowledge in the sciences. These should primarily be chosen from courses listed for the environmental science concentration.

For those concentrating in environmental science, complementary electives should be selected in consultation with their advisors, to enhance understanding of how political processes, economic considerations and ethical choices compose and constrain understanding and action on environmental issues. These should primarily be chosen from courses listed for the concentrations in environmental justice and philosophy and environmental policy and economics.

Off-Campus Programs

By special arrangement with the Ecosystems Center of the Marine Biological Laboratory and the Marine Studies Consortium (see EXTD courses in concentration listings), Wellesley College students in good standing may apply for courses in these off-campus programs. The number of participants in each program is limited (see Special Academic Programs). Students should also consider courses at MIT. Both MIT and EXTD courses count as Wellesley courses, rather than as courses taken off campus, for the purposes of the environmental studies major. For courses offered during the Semester in Environmental Studies, Ecosystems Center of the Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole, Mass., see www.mbl.edu/SES.

Extrdepartmental

The following section includes courses of interest to students in various disciplines.

EXTD 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors.

Distribution: None

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

Marine Studies Consortium Courses

The Marine Studies Consortium offers courses focusing on a variety of marine topics. These courses are taught at neighboring institutions and are open to a limited number of Wellesley students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, Geosciences Department.

EXTD 123 Water Resources Planning and Management

A comprehensive introduction to the economics and ecology of water supply and water pollution control. Topics include watershed management, groundwater and wetlands protection, and wastewater treatment. The inherent difficulty in applying static laws and regulations to a dynamic natural resource such as water is a recurring theme. Offered by the Marine Studies Consortium.

Prerequisite: None. Open to students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, Geosciences Department.

Distribution: None

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

EXTD 126 Maritime History

This course is an introduction to New England's maritime history, with secondary emphasis on its relationship to the coastal ecosystem. The course will survey the sea's legacy from the earliest seventeenth-century fishing settlements to the shipbuilding and commerce of today. Course themes will include historical, political, and economic developments. Field trips will explore the rich resources of the Peabody Museum, Salem, Mass.; the USS Constitution, Boston, Mass.; and Mystic Seaport, Conn. Offered by the Marine Studies Consortium.

Prerequisite: None. Open to students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, Geosciences Department.

Distribution: None

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

EXTD 128 Coastal Zone Management

This course presents a survey of the coastal environment, its physical characteristics, natural systems, economic uses, and development pressures. Lectures examine strategies formulated in the U.S. for land and water resource management in the coastal zone. The roles of federal, state, and local government, environmental groups, and resource users are also explored. Finally, by comparing coastal zone management problems in the U.S. to those elsewhere in the world, students gain a global perspective. Offered by the Marine Studies Consortium.

Prerequisite: None. Open to students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, Geosciences Department.

Distribution: None

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

EXTD 225 Biology of Fishes

This upper-level survey course covers the evolution, systematics, anatomy, physiology, and behavior of freshwater, marine, and anadromous fishes from temperate to tropical environments. The course also examines the diversity of fish interactions in aquatic communities: predator/prey relationships, host/symbiont interactions, and the various roles of fishes as herbivores. Study of inter- and intra-specific predator-prey relationships among fish populations in aquatic communities integrates principles of ecology. Offered by the Marine Studies Consortium.

Prerequisite: One year of general biology and two upper-level biology courses. Open to students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, geosciences department.
Distribution: None
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

EXTD 226 Biology of Whales

This upper-level course examines the biology and conservation of cetaceans: whales, dolphins, and porpoises. Topics include physiology, population biology, life history analysis, molecular genetics, morphology, distributional ecology, and social behavior. Lectures first focus on the biology of cetaceans and how they are adapted to the marine environment. Subsequent lectures use case studies to review how biological principles can be applied to the conservation of a wide range of cetacean species. Offered by the Marine Studies Consortium.

Prerequisite: One year of general biology and two upper-level biology courses. Open to students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, geosciences department.
Distribution: None
Semester: Spring
Unit: 1.0

EXTD 227 Wetlands: Ecology, Hydrology, Restoration

This course examines the vital role of wetlands in the hydrology and ecology of global landscapes. The function of inland and coastal marshes, swamps and bogs and their role in water and nutrient cycles will be examined. We will also survey the biodiversity of wetlands habitats, from microbes to vertebrates. The biological links between wetlands and human activities, such as agriculture, coastal development, and fisheries will be considered, as well as the legal framework for the protection and restoration of endangered wetlands. Offered by the Marine Studies Consortium.

Prerequisite: One year of introductory geology or chemistry or biology or physics or engineering or economics; and two semesters of upper level (elective) science courses. Open to students by permission of the consortium representative, Harold Andrews, geosciences department.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall

Department of French

Professor: Mistacco, Gillain^{A2}, Lydgate, Respaut^A, Levitt, Masson^{A2}

Associate Professor: Datta^A, Ritchey (Chair), Petterson^A, Prabhu

Assistant Professor: Tranvouez, Grêlé^{A2}, Gunther

Visiting Assistant Professor: McQuillan, Schipa

Senior Lecturer: Egron-Sparrow

All courses are conducted in French. Oral expression and composition are stressed.

The Wellesley College language requirement is normally met with the completion of either FREN 201-202, FREN 202, or FREN 203 and one of the following courses: 205, 206, 207, or 208. Students who present an AP score of 3 or an SAT II score between 650–680 can satisfy the requirement by taking FREN 205. Students who present an AP score of 4 or an SAT II score between 690–730 can satisfy the requirement by taking one of the following courses: FREN 206, 207, or 208. All incoming students are required to take the placement test. Any discrepancy between a student's AP score and her score on the departmental placement test will be resolved by the placement committee. After 211, the numbering of 200-level courses does not denote increasing levels of difficulty; 200-level courses above 211 may be taken in any sequence. Please see Directions for Election at the end of this section for information about the major.

Qualified students are highly encouraged to live at the Maison Française and to spend their junior year or semester in France in the Wellesley-in-Aix program or another approved program. They are also encouraged to participate in the French department's Wintersession course in Paris and to inquire about summer internship possibilities in France or another Francophone country.

FREN 101-102 Beginning French I and II

Egron-Sparrow, McQuillan

Systematic training in all the language skills, with special emphasis on communication, self-expression, and cultural insights. A multimedia course, based on the video series French in Action. Classes are supplemented by regular assignments in a variety of video, audio, print and Web-based materials to give students practice using authentic French accurately and expressively. Three periods. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: Open to students who do not present French for admission or by permission of the instructor.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring
Unit: 1.0

FREN 103 Intensive French I

Lydgate

Intensive training in French. The course covers the material of French 101-102 in a single semester. Five class periods. For students with little or no previous study of French. This is a demanding course designed for students interested in taking a junior year or semester abroad. Not recommended for students seeking to fulfill the foreign language requirement in French.

Prerequisite: Open to students who do not present French for admission or by permission of the instructor.

Distribution: None

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

FREN 201-202 French Language, Literatures, and Cultures

Gunther, Grêlé, Tranvouez, Schipa

Reading, writing, and speaking skills are developed through analysis and discussions of short stories, plays, poems, films, and newspaper articles from France and the Francophone world. Three periods. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course. Students beginning with 202 must take one of the following courses: 205, 206, 207, or 208, in order to complete the requirement. The 201-202 sequence should be completed within three consecutive semesters.

Prerequisite for 201: 102 or 103, SAT II score of 500 or an equivalent departmental placement score, or permission of instructor.

Prerequisite for 202: 201, SAT II score of 600, an AP score of 1 or 2, or an equivalent departmental placement score, or by permission of instructor.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall, Spring, Wintersession (202 only) Unit: 1.0

FREN 203 Intensive French II

Lydgate

The continuation of French 103. Systematic training in all the language skills. Five class periods. The course is equivalent to French 201-202, and is designed to prepare students to qualify for study abroad after two further courses in French: a unit of French 206, 207 or 208 and a unit of French 210 or 211.

Prerequisite: Open only to students who have completed French 103 or 102.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.25

FREN 205 Literature and Film in Cultural Contexts

Mistacco

Discussion of modern literature and film in their cultural contexts. Training in techniques of literary and cultural analysis. Materials include novels, short stories, poetry, films, screenplays, and videos from France and the Francophone world. Vocabulary building and review of key points of grammar. Frequent written practice. Attention to oral skills and listening comprehension as needed.

Prerequisite: 202, an SAT II score of 650-680, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 3.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

FREN 206 Intermediate Spoken French

Egron-Sparrow, Tranvouez

Practice in conversation, using a variety of materials including newspaper articles, radio and television broadcasts, advertisements, and films.

This course is designed to develop oral proficiency with necessary attention to the other skills – listening comprehension, reading, and writing. Regular use of the language laboratory.

Prerequisite: 202, an SAT II score of 690-730, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 4.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

FREN 207 Perspectives on French Culture and Society: French Identity in the Age of Globalization

Tranvouez

In this introduction to French society and culture, we will examine France's identity crisis as it enters a new century. From its historical position of political, economic, and intellectual leadership in Europe and the world, France is searching to maintain its difference as a defender of quality over mass appeal and the proud values of its national tradition in the face of increasing globalization. Topics covered include Franco-American relations, the European Union, immigration, the family, and the role of women in French society. Readings are drawn from a variety of sources: historical, sociological, and ethnographic. Magazine and newspaper articles, along with television programs and films will provide supplementary information.

Prerequisite: 202, an SAT II score of 690-730, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 4.
Distribution: Language and Literature or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

FREN 208 Women and Literary Tradition
Mistacco

An introduction to women's writing from Marie de France to Marguerite Duras, from the Middle Ages to the twentieth century. The course is designed to develop an appreciation of women's place in French literary history. Special attention is given to the continuities among women writers and to the impact of their minority status upon their writing.

Prerequisite: 202, an SAT II score of 690-730, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 4.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

FREN 210 French Literature and Culture through the Centuries: From Classicism to the Present

Tranvouez, Preblu

A study of major authors in their cultural contexts from the seventeenth century to the twentieth with emphasis on textual analysis and essay writing in French. Readings will be drawn from the following authors: Corneille, Molière, Montesquieu, Voltaire, Diderot, Beaumarchais, Balzac, Flaubert, Gide, Sartre, Camus, Duras and Bâ.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, or an SAT II score of 740-800, an AP score of 5, or an equivalent departmental placement score. By permission of instructor only.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

FREN 211 Studies in Language
Mistacco, Masson, Prabhu

Comprehensive review of French grammar, enrichment of vocabulary, and introduction to French techniques of composition and the organization of ideas.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an AP score of 5, an equivalent departmental placement score. By permission of instructor only.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

FREN 213 From Myth to the Absurd: French Drama in the Twentieth Century

Masson

An investigation of the major trends in modern French drama: the reinterpretation of myths, the influence of existentialism, and the theater of the absurd. Special attention is given to the nature of dramatic conflict and to the relationship between text and performance. Study of plays by Anouilh, Cocteau, Giraudoux, Sartre, Camus, Ionesco, Beckett, and Genet.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

FREN 214 Desire, Power, and Language in the Nineteenth-Century Novel

Ritchey

Ambition, passion, and transgression in major works by Balzac, Stendhal, Flaubert, and Zola. Analysis of narrative techniques that organize the interplay of desire and power against which individual destinies are played out in post-Revolutionary France. Realism and the representation of reality in the context of a society in turmoil.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

FREN 215 Baudelaire, Verlaine, Rimbaud
Respaut

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Close study of a body of poetry which ranks among the most influential in literature, and initiates modern poetics. Baudelaire: romanticism and the modern; Verlaine: free verse and the liberation of poetic form; Rimbaud: the visionary and the surreal. Analysis of texts and their historical context, through a variety of theoretical approaches.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

FREN 217 Books of the Self

Lydgate

This course focuses on texts that seek to reveal the reality of the self in the space of a book, including readings of confessional and autobiographical works by the twentieth-century writers Camus, Annie Ernaux, Roland Barthes, and Maryse Condé, and by their literary ancestors Augustine, Abélard, Montaigne, and Rousseau. Themes examined include: the compulsion to confess; secret sharing vs. public self-disclosure; love, desire, and language; the search for authenticity; dominant discourse and minority voices; the role of the reader as accomplice, witness, judge, confessor.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Religion, Ethics and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

FREN 218 Négritude, Independences, Women's Issues: Francophone Literature in Context

Prabhu

This course seeks to understand the key concerns of writers during the Négritude movement in order to address important questions that became crucial during the ensuing period of the various independence movements. We will discuss issues which arose at this time and continue to be of interest concerning the role of women in these movements and thereafter in the newly independent nation. The impact of colonialism and independence on different indigenous societal institutions, polygamy in particular, will be central to the later readings.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

FREN 219 Love/Death

Respaut

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course investigates the connection between fiction and film and our fundamental preoccupation with the issues of love and death. Texts ranging from the Middle Ages to the twentieth century are studied, with an eye toward understanding how the thematics of love and death are related to story structure, narration, and the dynamics of reading.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

FREN 221 Voices of French Poetry from Marie de France to Surrealism

Pettersson

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The voices, forms, and innovations of the French poetic tradition. The goals of this course are to examine and appreciate the place of song, love, laughter, and madness in the best works of French poets, from the twelfth-century poems of Marie de France to Baudelaire's poèmes en prose, Rimbaud's délires, and surrealism's explosive écriture automatique.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an AP score of 5, or an equivalent departmental placement score.

Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

FREN 222 French Cinema

Gillain

A survey of French cinema with a focus on three key periods: the 30s, the 60s and the 90s. Starting with classics by Jean Renoir, Marcel Carné, and Julien Duvivier, the course will study the stylistic revolution brought about by the New Wave and the mark it has left on recent French cinema. The films will be analyzed from a variety of perspectives: political and socio-economic contexts, gender representations, narrative patterns, and visual metaphors of subjectivity.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an AP score of 5, or an equivalent departmental placement score.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

After 211, the numbering of 200-level courses does not denote increasing levels of difficulty; 200-level courses above 211 may be taken in any sequence.

FREN 224 Versailles and the Age of Louis XIV
Grélé

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Versailles will be used as a focal point for the study of the aesthetic and literary trends prevalent in seventeenth-century France, as well as the social and historical trends that accompanied them. Works from a wide range of genres (including films, plays, and memoirs) will be chosen to examine the state of the arts in France under the Sun King.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an AP score of 5, or an equivalent departmental placement score.

Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

FREN 225 The French Press

Gunther

This course is designed for students who want to become more familiar with the French media, to keep up with current events and to know more about the differences between the perspectives of French and American news sources with regard to current issues. The course is also intended to improve students' reading, writing, and speaking skills in French.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an AP score of 5, or an equivalent departmental placement score.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

FREN 228 Wintersession in Paris

Lydgate

Topic for 2006: Paris in the Age of Existentialism. The existentialism of the late 1940s and 50s in France encompassed both a bleak philosophical ideology and an exuberant popular fad. It reflected a tension in the culture between a sense of release from the immediate past and a growing anxiety over the Cold War. This course will examine the response of writers and artists to the currents and conflicts of the post-Liberation decade, including collaboration, political engagement, and the discovery of American jazz and popular culture. Writings by Beauvoir, Sartre, Camus, Boris Vian; films by Becker and Tati; popular songs. Excursions to museums, the Left Bank and Saint-Germain-des-Prés. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent department placement score, or an AP score of 5. Application required.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Wintersession

Unit: 1.0

FREN 229 America through French Eyes: Perceptions and Realities

Datta

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The French have long been fascinated by the United States, especially since the end of the Second World War. At times, the U.S. has been seen as a model to be emulated in France; more often, it has stood out as the antithesis of French culture and values. This course examines French representations of the United States and of Americans through an examination of key historical and literary texts – essays, autobiographies, and fiction – as well as films. Topics to be explored include: representations of African-Americans in French films (Josephine Baker), French views of Tayloriza-tion, the Coca-Cola wars of the 1950s, French-American tensions during the Cold War, especially under de Gaulle, as well as more recent debates about EuroDisney, McDonald's, Hollywood, globalization, and multiculturalism.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Historical Studies
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

FREN 237 Saint-Germain-des-Prés

Lydgate

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The legendary sixth arrondissement neighborhood as a cultural crucible in post-Liberation Paris. Saint-Germain-des-Prés as the locus of an unprecedented concentration of literary and artistic talent after 1945: existentialists, writers, artists, café intellectuals, and nonconformists. The discovery of jazz and American popular culture. Saint-Germain and the myth of the Left Bank. Study of texts by Sartre, Camus, Simone de Beauvoir, Boris Vian, Raymond Queneau; songs by Juliette Gréco and others; newsreel, film and audio documents of the period.

Prerequisite: At least one unit of 206, 207, or 208, an SAT II score of 740-800, an equivalent departmental placement score, or an AP score of 5. Not open to students who have taken FREN 223, Topic B in Spring 2003.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

FREN 301 Books and Voices in Renaissance France

Lydgate

Innovative writers in sixteenth-century France and the ideas and forms of expression they explored in the early decades of printing. The persistence of oral culture and the search for a voice in print; the triumph of French over Latin as a literary language of subtlety and power; the collisions of propaganda and censorship in a century torn by religious strife; the emergence of new audiences and new strategies of narration and reading. Readings in prose works by Rabelais, Montaigne, Calvin, Marguerite de Navarre; poetry by du Bellay, Ronsard, and Louise Labé. Periodic reference to resources of The Rare Books Collection in the Wellesley library.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

FREN 303 Advanced Studies in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries

Grélé

Topic for 2005-06: Honor, Passion, and the Social Order in Seventeenth-Century Theater: Corneille, Molière, Racine. Love and duty, appearance and reality, freedom and destiny: seventeenth-century theater expresses major oppositional themes that both shaped and undermined the political order of the time. Corneille, Molière and Racine, the leading playwrights from the Golden Age of French literature, articulate the causes of economic crisis, social unrest and religious conflict that plagued the reign of Louis XIV and too often led to bloody consequences. The course will concentrate on the tragedies and comedies of these writers as keys to understanding the forces at work in a changing society, as outstanding achievements in theatrical art, and as illustrations of critical developments in theatrical style.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

FREN 304 Male and Female Perspectives in the Eighteenth-Century Novel

Mistacco

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Drawing from recent feminist inquiries into the politics of exclusion and inclusion in literary history, the course examines, in dialogue with masterpieces authored by men, novels by major women writers of the period. These novels, though much admired in their time, were subsequently erased from the pages of literary history, and have only recently been rediscovered. Works by Prévost, Claudine-Alexandrine de Tencin, Françoise de Graffigny, Marie-Jeanne Riccoboni, Rousseau, Diderot, Laclot, and Isabelle de Charrière.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

FREN 306 Literature and Inhumanity: Novel, Poetry, and Film in Interwar France

Petterson

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will examine the confrontation between literature and inhumanity through the French literature, poetry, and film of the early twentieth century. Poetry by Guillaume Apollinaire, Robert Desnos, André Breton, Francis Ponge, and René Char, films by Luis Buñuel, and novels by André Gide, Jean-Paul Sartre, and André Malraux all serve to illustrate the profound crisis in human values that defined and shaped the twentieth century.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

FREN 307 The Contemporary French Novel and the Pleasure of the Text

Petterson

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In mental landscapes ranging from the excruciatingly personal to the desperately impersonal, and in geographical settings that vary from high-paced urbanism to plodding ruralism, the contemporary French novel invites us to reassess the formal, political, cultural and historical stakes of writing and reading fiction in the twenty-first century. This course explores in depth the subtle pleasure of the text in works by some of France's more brilliant and intriguing contemporary authors: Jean-Philippe Toussaint, Danièle Sallenave, Jean Echenoz, Lydie Salvayre, Marie Redonnet, François Bon, Patrick Modiano, Iégor Gran.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

Unit: 1.0

FREN 308 Advanced Studies in Language*Ritchey*

The art of translation and its techniques are studied through analysis of the major linguistic and cultural differences between French and English. Translations from both languages will serve to explore past and present-day practices and theories of translation.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above. Open to juniors and seniors only, or by permission of instructor.

FREN 313 George Sand and the Romantic Theater*Masson*

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. George Sand, multifaceted woman and influential writer, allows us to explore the romantic theater as well as the overall theater production of the nineteenth century. The fact that Sand's theater was overlooked in her time and subsequently forgotten raises important questions of public recognition and literary posterity that we will examine.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

FREN 314 Cinema*Gillain*

François Truffaut: An in-depth review of Truffaut's overall contribution to cinema.

Includes readings from his articles as a film critic, a study of influences on his directorial work (Renoir, Hitchcock) and a close analysis of twelve of his films using a variety of critical approaches: biographical, historical, formal, and psychoanalytical.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

Distribution: Language and Literature or Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

FREN 316 Duras*Mistacco*

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A study of Marguerite Duras's literary and film production centering on her poetics of the Other and her practice of écriture féminine. Figures of difference and marginality (including social outcasts, colonized people, madwomen, children, criminals, Jews, and women) will be examined in connection with Duras's subversion of sexual, familial, social, political, literary, and cinematic conventions. Analysis of representative novels, films, short stories, and plays. Readings from interviews, autobiographical texts, and articles, as well as from Duras's final reflections on her life and the experience of writing. New critical perspectives on her work.

FREN 318 Narrative in the Twentieth Century*Mistacco*

This course explores innovative fiction by major novelists spanning the twentieth century, from André Gide at the threshold of "the age of suspicion" (Sarraute) on. Challenges to canonical narratives, discourses of mastery and authoritative modes of storytelling in a wide variety of revolutionary works, including absurdist, avant-garde, and feminist texts are examined. Literary, historical, and cultural perspectives will be brought to bear on these narrative which chart vital developments in the twentieth-century novel. Authors include André Gide, Marcel Proust, Nathalie Sarraute, Albert Camus, Samuel Beckett, Marguerite Duras, and Alain Robbe-Grillet.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

FREN 319 Women, Language, and Literary Expression*Mistacco*

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Fiction by twentieth-century women writers in France. Challenges to literary conventions, patriarchal thinking and dominant discourse by Beauvoir, Colette, Chawaf, Wittig, Duras, and Djébar. Attention to gender as a site of dissidence and to the creative possibilities as well as the risks involved in equating the feminine with difference. Perspectives on women, writing, and difference in colonial and postcolonial contexts. Readings from foundational and recent works by feminist theoreticians including Cixous, Kristeva, and Irigaray.

FREN 321 Selected TopicsTopic A: Women of Ill Repute: Prostitution in Nineteenth-Century FranceRitchey*

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Women of loose morals in French fiction from the Revolution to the end of the nineteenth century. This course will trace the figure of the prostitute – from the innocuous fallen woman with a heart of gold to the threatening incarnation of feminine perversity – in literary texts and in the paintings of prominent artists of the period. Readings in contemporary treatises on hygiene, public policy, and the legal status of prostitutes will situate the theme in the socio-cultural context of the time. Fiction by Balzac, Dumas, Hugo, Baudelaire, Maupassant, Barbey d'Aureville, Zola. Paintings by Degas, Manet, Toulouse-Lautrec.

FREN 327 A Fascination with Bodies: The Doctor's Malady*Respaud*

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The addictive interplay between doctors and patients as reflected in a variety of nineteenth- and twentieth-century writings, and in photography and film. The course will investigate the effect of sickness on family structure and the struggle with illness as a desperate "dancing with the beast", touching on mental and physical suffering of various kinds – hysteria and alcoholism, childbirth and abortion, tuberculosis, cancer, AIDS – represented in novels and short stories from Barbey d'Aureville to Gide, in the reflections of historians and psychologists (Michelet, Charcot), and in biographies, personal accounts and autofictions by Duras, Guibert and Ernaux.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level units, one of which must be 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 or above.

FREN 349 Studies in Culture and CriticismTopic A: La Belle Époque: Politics, Society, and Culture in France: 1880–1914Datta*

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In the aftermath of World War I, French men and women viewed the preceding years as a tranquil and stable period in French history. Yet during the era, subsequently known as la belle époque, the French experienced changes of enormous magnitude: the emergence of both consumer culture and a working class, the development of a national press, and the expansion of an overseas colonial empire. Such ebullience was reflected in the emergence of Paris as the capital of the European avant-garde. Drawing on literary texts and historical documents, as well as on films, posters, and songs, this interdisciplinary course examines French society, politics, and culture during the era which ushered France into the modern age.

Topic C: France and Europe: Ambiguities, Obstacles, and Triumphs

Gunther

After an introduction to various social, cultural and political aspects of contemporary France and the French, we will turn our attention to issues surrounding France's role in the project to unify Europe. We will examine how France's anxieties and hopes for the Union are shared by other European nations, and how France is experiencing membership in the European Union differently from its neighbors, in ways that reflect its unique history and culture. Readings will be drawn from a variety of disciplines, including texts by historians, political scientists, sociologists and economists.

One-hundred level courses. FREN 101-102 and 103 count toward the degree but not toward the major. Students who begin with 101-102 in college and who plan to study abroad should consult the chair of the department during the second semester of their first year.

Majors. Majors are required to complete a minimum of eight units, including the following courses or their equivalents: FREN 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later), or 211 and 308. The goals of a coherent program are: (a) oral and written linguistic competence; (b) acquisition of basic techniques of reading and interpreting texts; and (c) a general understanding of the history of French literature and culture. All majors must take two 300-level French courses at Wellesley College. No more than two courses taken credit/noncredit at Wellesley College may be applied to the French major. Students planning to major in French should consult with the chair of the French department.

Honors. The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. Students must complete a 300-level course or its equivalent before the fall of senior year. In addition, a 300-level course is to be taken concurrently with 360-370. See Academic Distinctions.

Students interested in an interdepartmental major in French cultural studies are referred to the listing for this interdepartmental program.

Graduate Studies. Students planning graduate work in French or comparative literature are encouraged to write an honors thesis and study a second modern language and/or Latin.

Advanced Placement Policies and Language Requirement. A student entering Wellesley must have an Advanced Placement score of 5 or an SAT II score of 740 to satisfy the foreign language requirement. All incoming students are required to take the departmental placement test. Any discrepancy between a student's AP score and her score on the departmental placement test will be resolved by the placement committee. Any student who intends to fulfill her language requirement by taking a course at another institution must upon her return take the French placement test and attain the required level.

Teacher Certification. Students interested in obtaining certification to teach French in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the chair of the education department.

French Cultural Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Gunther (French)

Wellesley offers an interdepartmental major in French cultural studies which combines courses from the Department of French with those in Africana studies, art, history, music, political science, or any other department offering courses on France or Francophone countries. French cultural studies majors ordinarily work closely with two advisors, one from the French department and one from the other area of concentration.

The major in French cultural studies consists of a minimum of eight units. At least four units in the French department above the 100 level are required including 207 and 210 (if taken Fall 2004 or later) or 211. In special cases, an upper-level culture course in French approved by the program director may be substituted for FREN 207. At least one unit in French at the 300 (advanced) level is required. All majors must take two 300-level courses at Wellesley College. No more than two courses taken credit/noncredit at Wellesley College may be applied to the French cultural studies major.

FRST 350 Research or Individual Study

FRST 370 Senior Thesis

Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

For courses not exclusively on France or a Francophone topic, students are expected to write their main paper(s) on a French theme. In addition, and in consultation with the director, research and individual study (350) may be approved. The procedure to be followed for Honors is identical to that for the French major.

Teacher Certification

Students interested in obtaining certification to teach French in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the chair of the education department.

Department of Geosciences

Professor: Andrews, Thompson (Chair)

Associate Professor: Besancon^{A2}

Assistant Professor: Brabander

Instructor in Geosciences Laboratory: Gilbert, Mattison

The geosciences department offers courses that can lead to either a more traditional geology major that emphasizes earth materials and history or an environmental geoscience major that emphasizes an understanding of and solution to environmental problems. A student will consult with her department advisor to design a major that best meets her interests and goals.

All courses with laboratory meet for two periods of lecture and one three-hour laboratory session weekly.

GEOS 100 Oceanography

Andrews

Covering over 70% of the Earth's surface, the oceans are one of the most distinctive features of our planet. Oceans evolve through time, control our climate, are home to a myriad of marine life forms and are floored by distinctive geologic features including huge volcanoes and giant rift valleys. We will explore such topics as ocean basin sediments, submarine volcanism, shoreline processes, tsunamis, ocean currents, el niño events, coral reefs, deep-sea life and marine food, and mineral resources.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 100].

GEOS 101 Earth Processes and the Environment with Laboratory

Brabander

The Earth is home to more than six billion people and millions of kinds of animals and plants. Geologic processes both rapid (earthquakes and landslides) and slow (mountain building and sea level rise) are intimately linked with sustaining this diversity of life. This course will examine many of the physical processes that are responsible for shaping our environment and will introduce skills essential for detailed observation of these processes. Laboratory and field trips.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 102] or GEOS 102.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

GEOS 102 The Dynamic Earth with Laboratory

Andrews

Introduction to geologic processes ranging from microscopic growth of mineral crystals to regional erosion and deposition by water, wind, and ice to volcanism and earthquakes associated with global plate motions. A particular focus of the course will be to better understand the interactions between human activities and the geologic environment. Laboratory and field trips.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have taken GEOS 101 or [GEOL 102].

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

GEOS 200 The Earth and Life through Time with Laboratory

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. The Earth and life have been continually changing throughout the 4.6 billion years of Earth history. We will explore these changes, including the tectonic evolution of mountain ranges, the changing landscapes and environments across the North American continent, and the origin, evolution, and extinction of the various life forms that have inhabited our planet. Laboratory will provide the students with the opportunity to examine Wellesley's extensive fossil collection. A field trip to fossil sites in New York State will be offered.

Prerequisite: GEOS 100 [GEOL 100], GEOS 101, GEOS 102 [GEOL 102] or ES 100. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 200].

GEOS 201/ES 201 Methods and Problems in Environmental Science with Laboratory

Brabander

Problems in environmental science are inherently multidisciplinary and often require a diverse skill set to analyze and solve. This course will focus on developing a toolbox of skills including field methods, geochemical analysis (natural waters, soils, and other environmental materials), and modeling with a goal of being able to frame and solve environmental problems. Students will conduct semester-long research projects and will present their results in a final poster session. Laboratory. Students may register for either GEOS 201 or ES 201 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Brabander

The solid Earth is composed of a wide range of materials including minerals, rocks and soils. Some of these are as familiar as building stone or bathroom cleanser in everyday life, while others must be sought in natural settings like mountain ranges or flood plains. This course will examine both the physical and chemical properties of earth materials and the processes that lead to their formation. Identification and interpretation of earth materials in the field and in the laboratory (via X-ray and microscopic analysis) will also be emphasized. Laboratory and field trips.

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. The Earth has not always been a safe place on which to live, as mass extinctions have punctuated the history of life and dramatically altered the course of evolution. Among the topics we will explore are the process of evolution and the nature of the fossil record, gradual change versus catastrophic events, dinosaurs and their extinction, periodicity of mass extinctions, the prospect of future extinctions, and an evaluation of the possible causes of extinctions, including sea-level changes, climate changes, volcanism, and meteorite impacts. Normally offered in alternate years.

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. This course will focus on interactions between people and their physical environment. Geological component to emphasize coastal, fluvial and glacial processes, evaluation of bedrock for engineering projects, and groundwater. Human impacts will be examined in terms of adverse effects on geological systems and in terms of protective environmental regulation and remediation. New England case studies including evolution of Nauset Spit (Chatham, Mass.), groundwater contamination at Cape Cod Military Reservation, and management approaches in the Charles River watershed will be highlighted during the semester. Students will present their own case studies as final poster projects. Normally offered in alternate years.

Besancon

From Mount Saint Helens to Vesuvius to Krakatau, volcanoes affect global climate, change landscape evolution, and are sometimes the cause of tremendous disasters. Understanding the wide variety of phenomena associated with volcanoes provides a broad perspective on how science can be used to protect lives and further human needs and interests. Using geologic literature, Internet search, and a general text, we will study case histories of volcanoes on earth and through the solar system. Written papers and oral presentations will be important parts of the course. Required laboratory will be two weeks in and near Hawaii Volcanoes National Park during Wintersession, with a final project due after return. Normally offered in alternate years. Subject to Dean's Office Approval.

GEOS 240 Climate Past and Future

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. The documented phenomenon of global warming raises pressing questions about future climate trends and what the world's population might expect if temperatures continue to rise. The science of this problem spans many spheres of Earth activity from present-day oceanic and atmospheric circulation to the geologic record of Pleistocene ice sheets and more extreme climatic events in the far distant past. Even plate motions have climatic impacts as increased volcanism associated with rapid sea floor spreading increases atmospheric carbon dioxide. This course will explore the dynamics of the modern climate system as well as multiple factors influencing climate history. All of these approaches are important for geoscientists and nonscientists alike who must promote intelligent action on global initiatives addressing problems such as anthropogenic carbon dioxide emissions. Normally offered in alternate years.

GEOS 304 Sedimentary Rocks and Sequences with Laboratory

Thompson

Sedimentary rocks cover most of the Earth's present surface and contain evidence for past environments throughout billions of years of geologic time. Studying sequences of such rocks is important both for understanding recurrent environmental fluctuations like sea level change and for maximizing resources from coal and petroleum to salt and aluminum ore. Sedimentary processes take on further significance because they take place in popular human habitats including coastlines and flood plains. Lectures will cover production of sediment via weathering, principles of sediment transport, characteristics of sedimentary environments, and interpretation of sedimentary sequences. Laboratory will emphasize identification of sedimentary rocks and minerals based on hand specimens, microscope and x-ray methods, and include field trips in the Boston area. Normally offered in alternate years.

GEOS 306 Structural Geology with Laboratory

Thompson

Introduction to geometry and origin of rock structure ranging from microtextures and fabrics to large-scale folding and faulting. Emphasis on processes of rock deformation in terms of theoretical prediction and experimental findings. Laboratory will include field trips in the Boston area. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: GEOS 203 or permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 306].

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

GEOS 309 Petrology with Laboratory

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Study of the origin and occurrence of igneous and metamorphic rocks which make up most of the earth's crust. The earth generates magmas, primarily along plate boundaries, and they carry heat upward as they rise into the crust or onto the surface, forming igneous rocks. Heat, pressure, and deformation generate new minerals and textures in rocks. Students will decipher the sources and history of rocks using chemical and physical models and tools. Laboratory includes study of rocks in thin section and a project study of rocks collected on Boston area field trips. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: GEOS 203 or permission of the instructor.

Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 309].

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science or Mathematical Modeling

Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.

Unit: 1.25

GEOS 311 Hydrogeology with Laboratory

Staff

Investigation of water supply and use. Principles of surface and groundwater movement and water chemistry are applied to the hydrologic cycle in order to understand sources of water for human use. Quantity and quality of water and the limitations they impose are considered. Laboratory. Normally offered in alternate years.

Prerequisite: A 200-level course in Geosciences or permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken [GEOL 311].

GEOS 315/ES 315 Environmental Geochemistry with Laboratory

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Accurately predicting the fate and transport of naturally-occurring toxic elements and anthropogenic compounds in the environment requires a broad set of multidisciplinary skills. This course introduces geochemical approaches including mass balance, residence time, isotope fractionation, and thermodynamic and kinetic modeling necessary to fingerprint sources of pollutants and track them in water, soil, and plants. These fundamentals will be explored in several classic case studies and in semester-long geochemical research projects conducted by small groups. Laboratory. Normally offered in alternate years. Students may register for either GEOS 315 or ES 315 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: One course above the 100-level in two of the following disciplines: geosciences, chemistry, biological sciences or environmental studies, or permission of the instructor.

Directions for Election

A major in geosciences includes eight geosciences courses (a minimum of 8 units of course work), at least six of which must be taken at Wellesley, and four units of allied science including two from the same discipline. Entry into the major may be through GEOS 100, GEOS 101, GEOS 102 or ES 100. Four 200-level courses are required, two of which must come from the group GEOS 200, GEOS 201 and GEOS 203. Three 300-level courses are also required, one of which may be GEOS 350, GEOS 360 or GEOS 370.

The department recommends that students majoring in geosciences take a geology field course, either the MIT 12.114-12.115 sequence offered in alternate years by MIT or a summer geology field course offered by another college.

A minor in geosciences consists of five courses, including one course at the 100-level and at least one course at the 300-level.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Department of German

Professor: Hansen, Kruse (Chair), Nolden, Ward^{A2}

Visiting Instructor: Meder

Director of Study Abroad Program: Hansen

Resident Director of Wellesley-in-Vienna: Harmack

The language of instruction above the 100 level is almost exclusively German unless otherwise noted. Students thus have constant practice in hearing, reading, speaking, and writing the language.

The department reserves the right to place a new student in the course for which she seems best prepared, regardless of background and number of units she offers for admission.

Students in GER 201 who wish to accelerate at the intermediate level may apply to the January-in-Vienna program. Participants travel to Vienna for three weeks in January where they study with a professor from the German department. During their stay they complete GER 202W and receive credit as they would for a course taken on campus (Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's office approval.). Upon returning for the second semester at Wellesley, students are encouraged to continue with GER 231.

Qualified students are encouraged to spend the junior year in Austria in the Wellesley-in-Vienna program or another program approved by the College.

GER 101-102 Beginning German

Staff

An introduction to contemporary German with emphasis on communicative fluency. Extensive practice in all four skills: listening, speaking, reading, and writing. Videos and Web-based activities introduce the student to topics from contemporary culture in German-speaking countries. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course. Three meetings per week.

GER 120/WRIT 125 Berlin and Cinema

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. As the brilliant metropolis of 1920s cultural modernity, the epicenter of Cold War conflict, and the locus of divisive German unity after the fall of the Berlin Wall, Berlin has proven a rich site of inquiry for some of the world's greatest filmmakers. We will view this fascinating city from the multiple and complex standpoints offered in a range of documentary and fiction films, from the experimental silent film, Symphony of a Great City, to Rossellini's Germany Year Zero to Wilder's raucous 1947 comedy, A Foreign Affair. Wim Wenders' Wings of Desire and films from the post-wall period will also be featured. The course emphasizes development of the requisite vocabulary to analyze film art and provides an overview of nine decades of German history.

This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward the German studies major. Includes a third session each week. Students enrolled in German courses, particularly 202, are encouraged to fulfill the Writing 125 requirement with this class. Knowledge of German is not required for this course.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.

GER 121/WRIT 125 Turn-of-the-Century Vienna: The Birth of Modernism

Hansen

The brilliant culture of fin-de-siècle Vienna reveals the early concerns of the twentieth century. While the 600-year-old Habsburg monarchy preserved continuity in Austria, a nervous sense of finality pervaded the period. Nostalgia clashed with social change to produce a remarkable tension in the music, art, literature, and science of the period. These disciplines reached breakthroughs that are the roots of the modern temperament: Sigmund Freud in psychology; Oskar Kokoschka and Gustav Klimt in art; Hugo von Hofmannsthal and Arthur Schnitzler in literature; Mahler, Schönberg, and Webern in music. The course will study representative works to explore this phenomenon. This course satisfies the writing requirement and counts as a unit toward the German studies major. Includes a third session each week. Students enrolled in German courses, particularly 201-202, are encouraged to fulfill the Writing 125 requirement with this class.

GER 202W Intermediate German in Vienna

Ward, Fisk (Music)

Like 202 on campus, this course strengthens and expands all language skills including idiomatic grammar review, oral and listening practice, readings on contemporary and historical topics, and practice in composition. This course is offered as a total immersion experience and has an important cultural component. In 2006 we explore the musical heritage of Vienna. We shall approach this rich legacy through the study of composers like Haydn, Beethoven, Schuler, Brahms, Mahler, Schoenberg, and Berg – all of whom are closely tied to the musical life of the city. In the course of our exploration we shall visit sites of special significance and attend concerts. No technical knowledge of music is necessary. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.

GER 231 Advanced Studies in Language and Culture

Nolden, Hansen

Development of communicative skills necessary to negotiate complex meaning in reading, speaking, and writing. We will study facets of contemporary culture in German-speaking countries. Review of selected grammar topics. A variety of texts will be considered, including poetry, a novel, films, and Web site materials. Designed for students with four semesters of language training or equivalent. Required for the majors in German language and literature and in German studies unless exempted by the department by virtue of linguistic proficiency. Three meetings per week.

GER 236 Vienna Imagined: The Urban Experience in Literature and Film

Hansen

This course will explore the fascination that the city of Vienna has exerted on the imagination. We shall read texts of various genres: history, travel literature, autobiography, poetry, and literature. Texts by authors like Arthur Schnitzler, Stefan Zweig, Ingeborg Bachmann, the classic film The Third Man (1949), as well as a modern Austrian film. The course is designed to develop the skills of reading and writing. Written work will increase in sophistication from summarizing to analyzing texts and formulating original arguments. Taught in German, two periods.

GER 239 Germany and Austria Today: Advanced Conversation and Composition

Kruse

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Intensive practice in oral and written communication and presentation; introduction to rhetorical strategies of conversation and discussion; introduction to elements of German prose style; practice of various forms of writing. On the basis of newspaper and magazine articles, essays and stories, television news, film clips, and Web site materials, we will discuss and write about current events and issues in Germany and Austria.

GER 241 Themes of Childhood, Youth, and Adolescence in German Literature

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will explore images of children and adolescents in adult literature. The texts encompass the medieval to contemporary periods and are unified thematically by such issues as youthful rebellion, inter-generational struggles, social initiation, and the crisis of adolescence. We shall analyze the portrayals of youth as idealized heroes, as innocent victims, and as critical witnesses of the adult world. Authors include Goethe, Stifter, Hesse, and Aichinger. We will also read Grimms' folktales, Wilhelm Busch's proto-comic book, Max und Moritz, and Heinrich Hoffmann's cautionary verses, Der Struwwelpeter. Taught in German. Two meetings per week.

Prerequisite: 231 or permission of instructor.

GER 242 Myth, Memory, and Movie Making (in English)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will analyze the role of cinema in the creation of national myths and in the construction of collective memories in twentieth-century Germany. We will focus on a core of topics (i.e. Shoah, reconstruction, liberations movements, minorities, reunification) and their representation primarily in the films of New German Cinema (Wenders, Fassbinder, Herzog, Sanders-Brahms, Reitz, Farocki, von Trotta). We will draw comparisons with other cinematic traditions (Nazi film, Hollywood, East German film) and discuss the narrative and visual strategies used to negotiate Germany's complex history. We will discuss film as a medium of propaganda and of subversion, and examine the relationship between media and national identity. Close readings of paradigmatic features, and shot-by-shot analyses of key sequences. Lectures, readings and discussions in English; all films subtitled.

GER 248 The Fantastic in German Literature

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The course will explore short fiction of the fantastic and the uncanny that emerges after the eighteenth century. These works, which employ allegories of escapist fantasy, horror and supernatural terror, delusion, and abnormal psychic states, are chosen for their literary treatment of fears that prey on the human imagination. We will begin with tales from the Grimms' collection of fairy tales and explore themes of the Doppelgänger, shapeshifting, talking animals, and magic. We will apply Sigmund Freud's theory of "the uncanny" to literary texts from Romanticism to Kafka and beyond. Taught in German, two periods.

GER 255 The Woman Question

Ward

We will trace the way the "Frauenfrage" was posed by three generations of women and men in German-speaking countries – the role of women in Romantic thought and their activity in Romantic circles and salons; the way in which the debate was changed by the revolutionary convulsions of 1848; the development of an organized women's movement in the 1870s and 1880s. We will read essays, letters, and autobiographical works, poetry, and one novel that reflect a range of attitudes toward woman's societal role. Taught in German.

GER 268 Richard Wagner, Nietzsche, Mann: The Composer and His Critics (in English)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Richard Wagner – composer, poet, critic – is a controversial figure in German culture. This course will examine in depth the four operas that make up the great mythical tale of lust and power, The Ring of the Nibelung. Beginning with Norse sagas, we shall read Wagner's sources, the major responses to Wagner, (concentrating on his contemporary, the philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche), and short works by Thomas Mann. We shall also read Wagner's own essays to understand his subsequent use by National Socialism. Two periods with additional listening sessions.

For Credit Toward the Major

CPLT 254 Imaginary Crimes and Courts: The Law in Literature

Directions for Election

The department offers a major in language and literature as well as a minor in German. GER 101-102 is counted toward the degree but not toward the major or minor. Students who begin German at Wellesley and wish to major will be encouraged to advance as quickly as possible to upper-level work by doing intermediate language training during the summer or accelerating in our January-in-Vienna program during Wintersession.

Students interested in an interdepartmental major in German studies are referred to the listing for this interdepartmental program.

The major in German language and literature

The major in language and literature develops advanced language skills with emphasis on the critical reading of texts while also stressing a deeper acquaintance with the literary and cultural traditions of German-speaking countries. GER 202 may count toward the eight-unit minimum major. GER 231 or 239 and two 300-level units are required, either 325 or 329 (offered in alternate years) and one seminar (389). Of the remaining minimum four elective units, one unit can be a 200-level course offered by the department in English, but if a 300-level of the same course is offered with an extra session taught in German, this is highly recommended. With approval of the department, certain courses taken abroad may count toward the major at the 200 level. Courses on the German studies related courses list are also recommended as complements to the language and literature major. Each student should consult her departmental advisor about the best sequence of courses for her major program.

The major in German studies

Please see German Studies.

The minor in German

The minor offers an opportunity to acquire advanced skills in the language with emphasis on communicative strategies and cross-cultural understanding. GER 202 may count toward the five-unit minimum minor. GER 231 or 239 is required. One 300-level unit is highly recommended. One unit can be a 200-level course offered by the department in English, but if a 300-level of the same course is offered with an extra session taught in German, this is highly recommended. With the approval of the department, certain courses taken abroad may count toward the minor. Students are encouraged to supplement the minor with any of the related courses listed under German studies. Each student should consult with her departmental advisor about the best sequence of courses in her case.

Honors Program

The department offers two plans for the honors program. Plan A (See Senior Thesis Research, 360 and 370) offers the opportunity for original work in language and literature or German studies, culminating in the writing of a longer paper or papers with an oral defense. See Academic Distinctions. Plan B, honors by examination, is open to candidates in language and literature only. Written and oral examinations are based on a reading list devised by the student under the guidance of an advisor. Plan B carries no course credit, but where appropriate, students may elect a unit of 350 to prepare a special author or project that would be included in the honors examination.

German Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Kruse (German)

This interdisciplinary and interdepartmental major is designed to provide the student with a broader understanding of the cultures of Germany, Austria, and Switzerland by achieving an advanced level of language proficiency and by studying the art, history, literature, philosophy, and politics of these countries in depth. GER 202 may count toward the eight-unit minimum major. GER 231 and two 300-level units are required. It is recommended that one of these units be a seminar. A minimum of five units should be completed in the German department, one of them at the 300 level. The elective units taken in the German department may be drawn from courses taught in German or English, including either GER 120/WRIT 125 or GER121/WRIT 125.

The remaining minimum of three elective units may be drawn from any of the related courses listed below. A student who enrolls in these courses is expected to do a project or paper on a German, Austrian, or Swiss topic in order to count the course toward her German studies major. She may also do an interdisciplinary 360-370 project that is supervised by an interdepartmental committee. With approval of the relevant department, courses taken abroad may count at the 200 level toward the major. A course in German history is highly recommended, as are two units from a single allied field. While it is helpful to have an advisor in the allied field, a student must have a major advisor in the German department, who must approve all German studies programs.

Honors

The route to honors in the major is writing a thesis. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level. See Academic Distinctions.

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will follow the peoples of Europe, both West and East, from the "splendid century" of Louis XIV to the present era of European Union. Our focus will be on the changing mentalities and everyday experiences of Europeans. We will journey from the political and cultural wars of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries to the age of industrialization and new nineteenth-century ideologies of nationalism, liberalism, and socialism. We will also explore European imperialism, totalitarianism under Hitler and Stalin, and two disastrous world wars. The course will conclude by examining how Europeans have coped since 1945 with Cold War divisions, the loss of international hegemony, the collapse of communism, and the new challenges of reunification.

HIST 205 The Making of the Modern World Order

Kapteijns, Giersch

A foundational course in international history.

Explores the evolution of trade, competition, and cultural interaction among the world's diverse communities, from the Mongol conquests of the late thirteenth century through the end of the twentieth century. Themes include the growing divergence in trajectories of the Western and non-Western worlds evident by the fifteenth century, the rise of European wealth and power in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, imperialism and its impact, the evolution of the nation-state, scientific and industrial revolutions, and "modernization" and the non-Western world in the twentieth century. Attention to agents of global integration, including trade, technology, migration, dissemination of ideas, conquest, war, and disease.

HIST 206 Colonial Latin America, 1450-1810

Ickes

This course will introduce the principal topics of an extraordinary period in the history of the Americas. We will focus primarily on Mexico, the Andes and Brazil, with some consideration of the Caribbean and the Southern Cone. Our principal concern will be with the dynamics between the European colonizer and the indigenous colonized, and with the relationships between the political and economic structures of colonialism and the emergence of an extremely diverse and distinctly Latin American social and cultural historical experience. Topics will include indigenous societies, conquest, Iberian absolutism, labor systems, the Catholic Church, the Inquisition and religious hybridization, African slavery, the place of women, the Enlightenment, Liberalism, and Creole Nationalism. The course will rely on lectures, readings, in-class discussion and visual and electronic media.

HIST 207 Modern Latin America, 1810-Present

Ickes

This course will introduce students to the history of the Spanish and Portuguese Americas from independence (c.1800-1824) to the present. Our principal focus will be on the development of the Latin American nation-state and its economy and political culture. We will also emphasize Latin America's social and cultural formation within a developing political economy. We will draw primarily on the histories of Mexico, Brazil, and Cuba although illustrations from elsewhere in the region will be significant. Additional topics to be addressed will include colonialism, liberalism, caudillismo, slavery, race relations and relations of gender and labor, dependency, popular culture, U.S.-Latin American relations, authoritarianism, and re-democratization. The course will rely on lectures, readings, in-class discussion and visual and electronic media.

HIST 210 The British Isles in the Age of Revolution and Empire: 1603-1901

Frace

Between the deaths of Queen Elizabeth and Queen Victoria, Britain was transformed from a relatively minor kingdom into the wealthiest and most powerful nation in the world, controlling a quarter of the earth's population. We'll examine Britain's (often precarious and reversible) development, tracing the causes and repercussions of events such as the destructive Civil Wars and the Glorious Revolution, and addressing major themes, such as the creation of one of the world's first modern consumer societies and the working class, the birth of liberal, conservative, and socialist ideologies, and the questions of social and sexual hierarchy raised at home by an expanding empire abroad. Though largely centered on England, we will also look at Scotland and Ireland's particular histories of resistance, conquest, and integration.

HIST 211 Bread and Salt: Introduction to Russian Civilization

Tumarkin

For centuries Russians have welcomed visitors with offerings of bread and salt. This introductory course is an earthy immersion in Russian life and culture from the age of Tolstoy to Putin's dissonant new Russia. Black bread, dense and pungent, is central to our exploration of food, feasting, fasting and famine in the Russian experience. We will weave in both related and contrapuntal themes, such as religious faith and folk beliefs, the Russian way of death, the splendor and agony of Russian high culture, and Russian émigré constructions of a lost civilization. Guest lectures by Russianists in disciplines other than history.

HIST 215 Gender and Nation in Latin America*Osorio*

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Since their invention in the early nineteenth century, nations and states in Latin America have been conceived of in gendered terms. This has played a key role in producing and reproducing masculine and feminine identities in society. This course examines the powerful relationship between gender and nation in modern Latin America. Topics include patriarchal discourses of state and feminized representations of nation; the national project to define the family as a male-centered nuclear institution; the idealization of motherhood as a national and Christian virtue; the role of military regimes in promoting masculine ideologies; state regulations of sexuality and prostitution; changing definitions of the feminine and masculine in relation to the emergence of "public" and "private" spheres; and struggles over the definition of citizenship and nationality.

HIST 216 Revolution in Latin America*Osorio*

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In Latin America, the twentieth century was indelibly marked by revolution and counter-revolution. Any analysis of the recent history of the peoples and states of Latin America must focus on the conditions, desires, and perils that have shaped the revolutionary experience. We will examine the main historical currents of armed revolution in Latin America, including instances of successful armed revolution, post-revolutionary state-making and nation-building, and the many guerrilla movements. Revolution in the Americas was not only about seizing state power, but about making "the new man" and reinventing society. We will consider the past, present, and possible future of revolution in the Americas.

HIST 221/321 A Global Empire: The Rise and Fall of Spanish World Power*Osorio*

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Whether the term "globalization" is defined as the global imposition of a hegemonic culture or as the dynamic of global interaction, it is nothing new – it can be traced as far back as the Spanish Empire of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. This course examines the two and a half centuries (late fifteenth to mid-eighteenth) in which Spain established the most extensive empire the world had ever known, ranging from Naples and the Netherlands to the Philippines; a global enterprise in which non-Spaniards played essential roles in its daily functioning. Beyond examining the vast diversity of resources, peoples, and ideas behind Spain's overwhelming powers, we will explore the role played by the rise of the British Empire and France in the decline of Spanish world power. This course may be taken as 221 or, with additional assignments, as 321.

HIST 225 Modernity, Populism, Popular Culture, and National Identity in Brazil, 1922–1964*Ickes*

In the mid-twentieth century Brazilians experienced a period of dramatic political and cultural change. It was also a period during which the Brazilian nation came to define itself, and to struggle with how it was to be seen by the rest of the world. This course will explore the emergence of populism, popular culture, and national identity during this period and the interrelationships between these phenomena within the context of Brazilian modernization. The course will rely on lectures and readings to provide the relevant background information, and from there the class will be responsible for presentations of weekly material, to be followed by in-class discussion. HIST 227 The Renaissance in Italy and Northern Europe*Frace*

The legendary rebirth of classical learning was also an era of global expansion and religious warfare. By placing Renaissance Europe into its wider context, this course will emphasize cultural developments and intellectual innovations. We will interrogate the turbulent minds and worlds of Dante, da Vinci, Machiavelli, Erasmus, Thomas More, and others to assess the dramatic changes from, as well as continuities with, the preceding medieval ages. How did these contemporaries discuss what it meant to be human, or a member of society? What were the debates over the role of women at the familial and national levels, over the nature of God and religious duty? How did the accumulation of wealth and the exploration of “new worlds” affect most men and women?

HIST 232 The Transformation of the Western World: Europe from 1300-1815

Frace

Understanding modernity requires a proper exploration of its origins. This course will provide a dynamic overview of the social, political, and cultural movements and events that have defined Europe during its transition into the modern era. From the Black Plague to the French Revolution, we will focus on the concurrent trajectories of fragmentation and cohesion at the national and communal levels, including the Renaissance, the Reformation and brutal religious wars, the emergence of the absolutist and modern liberal state, the Enlightenment, global trade empires, feminism, and embryonic capitalism. By relying on documents ranging from private diaries and letters to political treatises and popular novels, this course will bring to vivid life a world that is at once foreign and familiar.

HIST 236 The Bridge to Modernity? The European Enlightenment

Frace

The Enlightenment has been alternately demonized and revered for its prominent role in forging Western modernity. Was it the harbinger of modern democracy, secularism, and feminism? Or of ethnocentric racism, sexism, and fascism? This course will examine the works of the most innovative and controversial writers in the canon, including Mary Wollstonecraft, Immanuel Kant, Catherine Macaulay, Adam Smith, Voltaire, Rousseau, Locke, Leibniz, among others. We will also address the forgotten legions of men and women who comprised the international republic of letters, and who frequented the (sometimes respectable, often scandalous) coffeehouses, salons, and secret societies of the eighteenth century. With our discursive focus on political hegemony, civil liberties, religious toleration, gender, social development, sexuality, and race, a prior background is neither required nor expected.

HIST 247 Splendor and Serfdom: Russia Under the Romanovs

Tumarkin

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An exploration of Imperial Russia over the course of two tumultuous centuries, from the astonishing reign of Peter the Great at the start of the eighteenth century, to the implosion of the Russian monarchy under the unfortunate Nicholas II, early in the twentieth, as Russia plunged toward revolution. St. Petersburg – the stunning and ghostly birthplace of Russia's modern history and the symbol of Russia's attempt to impose order on a vast, multiethnic empire – is a focus of this course. We will also emphasize the everyday lives of peasants and nobles; the vision and ideology of autocracy; Russia's brilliant intelligentsia; and the glory of her literary canon.

HIST 264 The History of Precolonial Africa

Kapteinjs

Precolonial Africa encompasses ancient agrarian kingdoms (such as Egypt and Merowe), city-states on the shores of sea and desert, and "nations without kings," with their own, unique social and political institutions. Students will learn about the material bases of these societies, as well as their social relations and cultural production, all the while familiarizing themselves with the rich array of written, oral, linguistic, and archeological sources available to the historian of Africa. After 1500, in the era of the European expansion, large parts of Africa were incorporated into the Atlantic tropical plantation complex through the Slave Trade. The enormous impact on Africa of this unprecedented forced migration of Africans to the Americas from c. 1500 to the 1880s will constitute the concluding theme.

HIST 265 History of Modern Africa

Kapteinjs

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Many of Africa's current characteristics are the legacy of colonial domination. We will therefore first study different kinds of colonies, from those settled by White planters to the "Cinderellas," in which colonial economic intervention was (by comparison) minimal and the struggle for independence less bloody. For the post-independence period, we will focus on the historical roots of such major themes as neo-colonialism, economic underdevelopment, ethnic conflict and genocide, HIV-AIDS, and the problems of the African state. However, Africa's enormous natural and human resources, its resilient and youthful population, and its vibrant popular culture – a strong antidote against Afro-pessimism – will help us reflect on the future of this vast continent.

HIST 272 Political Economy of Development in Colonial and Postcolonial South Asia

Rao

India's recent "India Shining" publicity program announced the government's ambition to play a leading role in the global marketplace. Participation in the global economy is, however, a relatively recent understanding of appropriate economic development. This course introduces students to the complex politico-economic landscape of the subcontinent by examining how the idea of development changes in modern Indian history. How is the idea of development embedded in contexts of politics, society and culture? How do competing ideologies and interests influence the understanding of development? The course considers these questions by examining themes such as: the colonial state's construction of a railway network; Gandhi's critique of industrialization; Nehru's vision of an industrial economy; the Green Revolution; the onset of economic deregulation in 1991 and ensuing problems facing India today.

HIST 275 The Emergence of Ethnic Identities in Modern South Asia

Rao

South Asian society has long been represented by rigid systems of hierarchy. Caste, most famously, has been represented as an inexorable determinant of social possibility. Yet, what are the ways in which people actually identify themselves, and to what extent is hierarchical identification a product of South Asia's modern history? This course explores the problems of social and cultural difference in South Asia. How do modern institutions such as the census and electoral politics shape the way in which these problems are perceived today? What are the effects of the introduction of English education? Caste will be the primary form of identity that we explore, but we also consider class, religion and gender in seeking to unravel the complex notion of ethnicity.

HIST 276 The City in South Asia

Rao

Powerfully represented through the medium of Bollywood films, Indian cities are currently undergoing massive demographic and spatial transformations. This course considers the historical development of the South Asian city in conjunction with a variety of popular representations of the city. How did colonial rule affect the narrative of industrialization, migration, and urban expansion that is traditionally used to analyze urbanization? How do representations of city and country change from the colonial period to the present and, in turn, affect the process of urbanization? We will consider examples of colonial port cities, cantonment cities and older "native" cities. We also consider a range of sources: scholarly literature, Bollywood films such as Shree 420 and Satya, and the stories of Saadat Hasan Manto and Rohinton Mistry.

HIST 281/381 Dream of the Red Chamber: An Introduction to Chinese Society, ca 1650–1800

Giersch

We will read one of China's great novels, Dream of the Red Chamber, and use it as an entrée into the social, political and economic history of the early and high Qing periods. Cao Xueqin's engaging tale describes in rich detail the fictional Jia family, a wealthy, powerful clan whose political connections and social status closely resembled those of Cao's own family. While reading about the Jias, we will simultaneously use historical studies to deepen our understanding of family life, gender relations, religious devotion, sexuality, education, commerce, and political power during one of China's most dynamic periods. This course may be taken as either 281 or, with additional assignments, as 381.

Prerequisite: 281: none; 381: by permission of the instructor.

HIST 284 The Middle East in Modern History

Kapteijns

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Themes in the history of the Modern Middle East from 1914 to the present. After World War I, European powers dominated the area and carved it up into the modern nation states that we know today. We will study the political history of these states up to the present, but will focus especially on the historical roots and causes of crucial social developments and conflicts. Thus we will study the impact of the oil boom, labor migration, urbanization, the changing roles of women, and the emergence of politicized fundamentalist Islam, as well as aspects of the Palestinian-Israeli conflict, the Iranian Revolution, the Lebanese Civil War, and the Gulf War. Our emphasis will be on the Arab Middle East.

HIST 291 Marching Toward 1968: The Pivotal Year

Auerbach

Within a single year the Tet offensive in Vietnam, the assassinations of Martin Luther King, Jr. and Robert F. Kennedy, and the election of Richard M. Nixon transformed American foreign and domestic policy, ending an era of liberal internationalism, domestic reform, and generational protest. Exploration of how, and why, "The Sixties" happened. Consideration of recent political and intellectual trends that reflect the continuing impact of the 1960s on American public life.

HIST 294 Europe in the Age of Revolution, 1789-1900

Meloy

Beginning with the French and Industrial Revolutions, this course explores the history of Europe during a period of cataclysmic political, economic, social, and cultural change. We will examine the evolution of liberal and nationalist ideas in the early nineteenth century; trace the growth of and interaction among European nation-states in the mid-nineteenth century; and assess the impact of economic and technological change on society, culture and politics at the turn of the century. Finally, we will explore how Europeans thought of themselves and related to non-Europeans. Major topics include Napoleon, the revolutions of 1848, imperialism and German and Italian unification. In addition to traditional historical accounts, the course incorporates a variety of primary sources, including novels, memoirs and visual art.

HIST 306 Seminar. Buying the American Dream: Consumer Culture in the United States

McCarthy

This course will examine the history of consumer culture in the United States from the colonial period to the late twentieth century. Paying special attention to the rise of the marketplace and the emergence of a culture of mass consumption, we will consider the development of American consumer behavior, such as shopping, saving, and working, and the values that reinforced those social practices. We also will explore the positive and negative implications of consumer culture including increased individuality and freedom of choice versus rampant materialism and greater inequality. Other topics include the rise of advertising, the advent of department stores, and the twentieth-century credit revolution.

HIST 316 Seminar. Authority and Authenticity in Native American History

Sheidley

An in-depth exploration of diversity and difference as factors which shaped the history of North America's native peoples from the sixteenth century through the era of "removal." Particular attention will be paid to gender, class, ethnicity, and belief as modes of organizing power within American Indian societies east of the Mississippi River. We will consider how these elements have influenced relations with non-Indians and determined the very nature of the sources historians use to interpret the Native American past.

HIST 317 Seminar. The Historical Construction of American Manhood, 1600-1900

Sheidley

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. From Nat Turner to Frederick Douglass, Thomas Jefferson to Teddy Roosevelt, the history of American men is well known. But does manhood itself have a history? Drawing on autobiography, fiction, personal correspondence and visual evidence, we will explore the diverse and changing meanings attached to masculinity in America from the seventeenth through the nineteenth centuries. What forces have shaped male identities in colonial America and the United States and what impact have those identities had on men's lives and actions? Topics include: fatherhood and family life, violence and war, male sexuality, religious belief, work, and the myth of the self-made man. Special attention will be paid to race, class, and region as sources of variation and conflict in the historical construction of American manhood.

HIST 328 Seminar. Antisemitism in Historical Perspective

Malino

Historians often refer to antisemitism as the "Longest Hatred." What accounts for this obsession? Is the antisemitism of medieval Europe that of Nazi Germany? These questions will inform our examination of pre-Christian antisemitism, the evolving attitudes of Christianity and Islam, the ambiguous legacy of the Enlightenment and the impact of revolution, modernization and nationalism. Sources include Church documents, medieval accounts, nineteenth- and twentieth-century memoirs and contemporary films.

HIST 330 Seminar. Revolution and Rebellion in Twelfth-Century European Society

Ramseyer

This course will examine the revolutionary changes that occurred in all facets of life in twelfth-century Europe. The twelfth century represents one of the most important eras of European history, characterized by many historians as the period that gave birth to Europe as both idea and place. It was a time of economic growth, religious reformation, political and legal reorganization, cultural flowering, intellectual innovation, and outward expansion. Yet the twelfth century had a dark side, too. Crusades and colonization, heresy and religious disputes, town uprisings and mob violence also marked the century. Students will study the internal changes to European society as well as the expansion of Europe into the Mediterranean and beyond, paying close attention to the key people behind the transformations.

HIST 333 Seminar. Dangerous Relations: USSR and the World, From Stalin to Gorbachev

Tumarkin

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The USSR was America's superpower rival in a prolonged and deadly nuclear arms race. Beginning with the Nazi-Soviet Pact of 1939, and ending with the spectacular demise of east European communism and the collapse of the USSR in 1991, this seminar on the Soviet Union in world politics spans the entire Cold War. What accounts for the USSR's extraordinary success in sovietizing eastern Europe just when the US had a monopoly on the atomic bomb? Was ideology or national interest the driving force of Soviet foreign policy? What role did the character of Soviet leaders play in determining the USSR's international affairs? The seminar will conclude by exploring the ways in which the imperatives of a global communist empire both empowered and ultimately destroyed the USSR.

HIST 343 Seminar. History of Israel

Auerbach

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course explores the historical development of Jewish national identity, from biblical promise through Zionist advocacy to contemporary political reality in the State of Israel. We will consider the continuing debate within Israel, ever since its founding, over national identity: traditional or modern; Jewish or democratic; religious or secular. Close attention will be paid to such formative national experiences as the Holocaust; the struggle for independence; the social and political consequences of mass immigration; the 1967, 1973, and Lebanon wars; the Palestinian intifadas; Israel's relations with its Arab citizens and neighbors; Jewish settlements; and the "post-Zionist" revision of Israeli national history.

HIST 364 Seminar. Women in Islamic Society: Historical Perspectives

Kapteijns

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In the last decade, Muslim women scholars and writers have become major contributors to the study (and history) of women in Islamic societies. They have undertaken a critique of older (including Western feminist) scholarship and proposed new theoretical approaches and methods. This seminar will focus on this new historiography and the insights it provides into the history of women and gender issues from the time of the Prophet to the present. Student research papers will focus on concrete case studies of women in specific Islamic societies and time periods, from North Africa and Western Europe to South Africa, Afghanistan and China.

HIST 377 Seminar. The City in Latin America

Osorio

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Urbanity has long been central to Latin American cultures. This seminar examines the historical development of Latin American cities from the Roman principles governing the grid pattern imposed by the Spanish in the sixteenth century, through the development of the twentieth-century, post-modern megalopolis. The seminar's three main objectives are (1) to develop a theoretical framework within which to analyze and interpret the history, and historical study of, Latin American cities; (2) to provide a basic overview of the historical development of cities in the context of Latin American law, society, and culture; (3) to subject to critical analysis some of the theoretical "models" (i.e. Baroque, Classical, Dependency, Modernism and so on) developed to interpret the evolution and workings of Latin American cities.

Related Courses

For Credit Towards the Major

A student may, with approval of her advisor, petition the chair of the history department to receive credit toward the major for one related course outside the department's offerings taken at Wellesley or an institution at which a Wellesley student may cross-register.

Directions for Election

Most 200-level courses in the department are open to first-year students. Seminars are ordinarily limited to 15 students, non-majors as well as majors, who meet the prerequisite.

Majors in history are allowed great latitude in designing a program of study, but it is important for a program to have breadth, depth and historical perspective. To ensure breadth, the program must include: (1) at least one course (1.0 unit) in the history of Africa, China, Japan, Latin America, the Middle East, or South Asia; and (2) at least one course (1.0 unit) in the history of Europe, the United States, or Russia. To encourage depth of historical understanding, we urge majors to focus eventually upon a special field of study, such as (1) a particular geographical area, country, or culture; (2) a specific time period; (3) a particular historical approach, e.g., intellectual and cultural history, social and economic history; (4) a specific historical theme, e.g., the history of women, revolutions, colonialism. To ensure that students have a broad historical perspective, history majors must take at least one course (1.0 unit) in pre-modern history (e.g., ancient Greece and Rome, Japan before 1800, and so forth). We recommend that majors include at least one seminar in their program of two 300-level units (2.0) in the major required for the B.A. degree.

The minimum major requires nine units of coursework. Normally, seven of the nine units and all 300-level work must be taken at Wellesley. No Advanced Placement credits, and at most one related course (1.0 unit) in another department may be counted toward the major.

360/370 Honors Thesis. The only path to honors is the senior thesis. Students must have a grade-point average of 3.5 or higher in courses applied to the major and must complete 6 of the 9 major units of coursework before the end of their junior year. For additional information, please consult the departmental website or ask at the history office. Also see Academic Distinctions.

The history minor consists of a minimum of six units of coursework, of which at least four courses (4.0 units) must be above the 100 level and at least one course (1.0 unit) at the 300 level (excluding 350). Of these six courses, at least three courses (3.0 units) shall represent a coherent and integrated field of interest, such as, for example, American history, Medieval and Renaissance history, or social history. Of the other courses, at least one course (1.0 unit) shall be in a different field. Normally at least four courses (4.0 units) must be taken at Wellesley, and related courses in other departments will not count toward the minor.

History and International Relations: Students interested in a major combining both of these fields should consider International Relations-History, listed under International Relations.

Teacher Certification: Students interested in obtaining certification to teach history in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult Mr. Auerbach in the history department and the chair of the education department.

International Relations

INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJORS IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS – ECONOMICS, INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS – HISTORY,
INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS – POLITICAL SCIENCE

Available to members of the classes of 2007 and beyond. Members of the class of 2007 may choose between these majors and the interdepartmental major in international relations described below.

Director: Velenchik (Economics)

Steering Committee: Kapteijns (History), Moon (Political Science), Velenchik (Economics)

These majors in international relations (IR) are designed to provide students with the breadth necessary for an interdisciplinary approach to the study of international relations, as well as with substantive training in one of three component disciplines (economics, history, and political science). Students elect one of three majors: IR-economics (IREC), IR-history (IRHI), or IR-political science (IRPS). Students may select their major advisor from among the faculty in their departmental major.

Students who elect one of these IR majors may not combine it with a second major in the same department – e.g. students may not double major in IR-economics and economics. Other double majors are permissible.

IR majors consist of 14 units of course work – five core courses plus nine courses in one of the three tracks. In addition to this course work, all IR students are required to demonstrate advanced proficiency in a modern language, normally defined as two units of language study beyond the minimum required by the College. Language courses do not count towards the minimum 14 courses.

Five core courses: All students majoring in IR must take the following courses:

ECON 101, ECON 102, ECON 213, 214, or 220, HIST 205, and POL3 221.

It is strongly recommended that students complete all core courses by the end of the sophomore year.

Nine courses in one of the following majors:

Economics

Students who elect the IR-Economics major take the following courses in addition to the IR core:

a) ECON 103/SOC 190, ECON 201, ECON 202, and ECON 203.

b) At least two of the following electives:
ECON 313 (International Macroeconomics),
ECON 314 (International Trade Theory), or ECON 320 (Economic Development).

c) One intermediate or advanced history course dealing with a country or region outside the United States or with international or diplomatic history

- One 300-level political science course in an area related to economic issues or policies
- One additional course in Africana studies, anthropology, history, political science, sociology or women's studies, dealing with a particular country or region, or with relations among nations, or with transnational institutions or phenomena.

History

Students who elect the IR-history major take the following courses in addition to the IR core:

- Two history courses dealing with the period before 1800
- Three history courses dealing with the modern history of countries or regions
- Two courses dealing with modern international history to be selected in consultation with advisor
- One international history seminar

(Three of these eight history courses, including one pre-1800 course, must focus on one region of the world; at least three courses must deal with the non-Western world; and at least two must be at the 300 level)

- One additional 200- or 300-level course in Africana studies, anthropology, economics, political science, sociology or women's studies

Political Science

Students who elect the IR-political science major take the following courses in addition to the IR core:

- Five political science courses in international relations (i.e. POL3 courses or POL2 courses that may count as POL3), at least two of which must be at the 300 level and one of which must be a seminar
- Two political science courses in comparative politics:
- Either POL2 202 or POL2 204
- One of the following area studies courses: POL2 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, or 211
- One political science course in American politics or in political theory or statistics and data analysis
- One additional 200- or 300-level course in Africana studies, anthropology, economics, history, sociology, or women's studies

With the approval of the IR director and the chair of the department in which she is majoring, a student may count up to two Wellesley courses taken outside the departments of economics, history, or political science towards the nine courses in her major. Attention is particularly drawn to IR-related courses offered in the departments of Africana studies, anthropology, sociology, and women's studies.

IR majors are strongly encouraged to spend at least one semester in a study abroad program. Transfer credits from study abroad programs must be approved by the appropriate department chair. (If the transfer credits come from an international relations department, however, they may be approved by the IR director.) At least two 300-level units must be completed at Wellesley.

Honors in IR-Economics, IR-History and IR-Political Science

The policies governing eligibility for honors work in IR-Economics, IR-History, or IR-Political Science are set by the individual departments. Students interested in pursuing honors should consult the relevant departmental entry in the Bulletin.

Advanced Placement/International Baccalaureate

The IR program's policy about AP/IB credits follows that established by the relevant department. Please consult directions for election in the Departments of Economics, History, and Political Science. In no case do AP credits count towards the minimum major in IR.

THE INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONSAvailable to members of the classes of 2006 and 2007

Students declaring the major should choose an advisor from among the director, the steering committee, and the faculty teaching courses in the core.

The international relations major consists of ten units, which must include the following:

I. Core Courses: The IR major requires core courses in economics, history, and political science. Students must take a minimum of three of the following courses; at least one core course must be taken in each department:

a. ECON 213 (International Finance and Macroeconomic Policy); ECON 214 (formerly ECON 212) (Trade and Migration)

b. HIST [103] (History in Global Perspective); HIST 205 (Making of the Modern World Order); HIST [244] (Cold War in Europe); HIST 269 (Japan, the Great Powers and East Asia); HIST 294 (Rise of the National State in Europe); HIST [295] (Strategy and Diplomacy of the Great Powers since 1789); HIST [296] (The Cold War, 1945-1991); HIST [299] (The American Century: The United States in the World Since 1900).

c. POL3 221 (World Politics); POL3 222 (Comparative Foreign Policies)

Because these courses lay the foundation for more advanced work in the subject, all three should normally be completed by the end of the fifth semester. Students planning to study abroad should, if possible, complete these courses before leaving Wellesley.

II. Language Proficiency: The international relations major requires a level of proficiency in a modern language beyond that required by the College's foreign language requirement. Students may indicate their attainment of this enhanced proficiency in one of three ways:

1. Language Track: A student may take two foreign language courses beyond the College's foreign language requirement in the same language used to fulfill that requirement (above the intermediate level) to be counted as two units toward the major in international relations. This requirement will usually be met by the completion of two units of language study at the third-year college level. Students who elect this option may take literature or culture courses (e.g. GER 274 (Postwar German Culture)) that require, at a minimum, completion of the second-year level in the language for enrollment and are taught in the foreign language.

2. Nonlanguage Track I: A student who has fulfilled the College language requirement by virtue of being educated in a native language that is not English has the following option. She may choose, with the approval of her advisor, to use her native language to fulfill the language proficiency requirement of the major. This student will not be counting any language courses toward the ten units required for the major.

3. Nonlanguage Track II: A student completing a second major in a language department or area studies program may choose, with the approval of her advisor, to indicate her enhanced proficiency through the completion of the second major, without counting her advanced language courses toward the ten units required for her international relations major.

III. Electives: Students presenting language courses as units toward the major must select five units as electives, while students fulfilling the language proficiency requirement without presenting languages courses as units must select seven units as electives. The elective courses must include:

1. Two 300-level units, which must be completed at Wellesley, and only one of which may be a 350, 360, or 370
2. At least one but not more than two units that focus on a specific country or countries within a region, normally a country or region where the student's second language is used. Courses that deal with the international relations of a country or region (e.g. HIST 296: Japan, the Great Powers, and East Asia) do not count towards this area studies requirement and limitation.

3. At least three units taken at Wellesley.

[Students presenting five elective units can thus expect to transfer only 2 units taken abroad as electives to their major].

There are many courses throughout the curriculum that may be counted as electives in the international relations major. In addition to courses in economics, history, and political science, students are encouraged to explore courses offered in Africana studies, anthropology, peace and justice studies, sociology, and women's studies. If a student has a question about whether a particular course in these or other departments may count for the major, she should consult with the program director.

IV. Concentration: In order to give the major a focus, students will designate, in consultation with their advisors, a concentration on a specific theme or issue within international relations. Examples of such concentrations include international security, international political economy, international law and organization, global development, gender in world politics, human rights, international environmental studies, foreign policy analysis, and the international politics of a particular region (e.g. the European community). The concentration may consist of a group of courses that relate to the theme and/or papers or other substantive work completed in any courses counted for the major. Normally, students will plan a concentration in their junior and senior years when preparing to undertake advanced work in international relations.

Honors in International Relations

A student whose GPA in courses in her international relations major is 3.5 or higher may apply to write an honors thesis. The application, which is available from the director, should be submitted in April of the student's junior year. Students should have identified a topic and an advisor before applying. The applications are evaluated by the IR steering committee. Students planning to study abroad should discuss their interest in honors with the director and with potential advisors during their sophomore year, and plan to submit their application in April of their junior year abroad.

Department of Italian Studies

Professor: Jacoff, Viano, Ward (Chair)

Assistant Professor: Parussa

Visiting Assistant Professor: Pausini

Senior Lecturer: Laviosa

All courses, unless otherwise listed, are conducted in Italian. In all courses given in Italian, except seminars, some work may be required in the language laboratory.

Qualified students are encouraged to spend their junior year in Italy on the Wellesley-Bologna program. See Special Academic Programs, Study Abroad.

The Department of Italian Studies offers both a major and a minor. See Directions for Election.

ITAS 101-102 Elementary Italian

Laviosa, Parussa, Ward

These courses focus on the development of basic language skills. Viewing of language video programs, TV programs and films, listening to traditional and modern songs, and reading of passages and short stories offer an introduction to Italy and its culture. Three periods. Each semester earns one unit of credit. However, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

ITAS 103 Intensive Elementary Italian

Pausini

This course is for students with little or no previous knowledge of Italian. It covers the same material as in ITAS 101 and 102 over five class periods per week. The course aims to develop skills in speaking, oral and reading comprehension, writing, and the fundamentals of grammar. This is a demanding course developed especially for students with a strong interest in Italian Studies and who intend to spend a semester or year abroad.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

ITAS 201-202 Intermediate Italian

Laviosa, Parussa, Ward

The aim of these courses is to develop students' fluency in spoken and written Italian. The reading of short stories, articles from Italian newspapers, and selected texts on Italian culture as well as the writing of compositions are used to promote critical and analytical skills. Listening is practiced through the viewing of Italian films, cultural videos, or TV programs. Both reading and listening activities are followed by in-class discussions. Three periods. Each semester earns one unit of credit. However, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

ITAS 211 Introduction to Italian Cultural Studies

Laviosa

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Topic: Women in Italy. This course explores the works of women writers, philosophers, sociologists, educators, political activists, legislators, film directors and singers from the 1920s up to today. Feminist issues are discussed through selected literary texts, historical readings, essays on Italian legislation, film/documentary, lullabies, feminist rock and pop songs. Women's art and roles, rights and work, health and reproduction, prostitution and crime, fashion and beauty myths, careerism and (fe)maleism, nomadism and migration are presented through various media in a broad socio-political-historical context as well as in a cross-disciplinary cultural studies approach.

ITAS 212 Italian Women Directors: The Female Authorial Voice in Italian Cinema (in English)

Laviosa

This course examines the films of five major Italian women directors across three artistic generations: Elvira Notari in the silent film era; Liliana Cavani and Lina Wertmüller from the 1960s to the 1990s; Francesca Archibugi and Roberta Torre in the 1990s. Neither fascist cinema nor neorealism fostered female talents, so it was only with the emergence of feminism and the women's movement of the 1960s and 1970s that a space for female voices in Italian cinema was created. The course will explore how women directors give form to their directorial signatures in film, focusing on their films' formal features and narrative themes in the light of their socio-historical context.

ITAS 261 Italian Cinema (in English)

Viano

The first half of this course aims to survey Italian cinema through an examination of films (e.g. Bicycle Thief) and directors (e.g. Fellini) unanimously regarded as landmarks of the history of motion pictures. The second half will focus on the evolution and socio-cultural ramifications of a specific genre. We will study La Commedia all'Italiana (Comedy Italian style), one of the genres that made Italian cinema marketable abroad. In addition to regular class meetings, students are required to attend a three-hour weekly film showing.

ITAS 262 Religion and Spirituality in Italian Cinema (in English)

Viano

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Religious imagery, spiritual concerns, and depictions of the church are common elements in many Italian films. Making use of the most well-known and thought-provoking among them, the course will chart the presence of religion and spirituality in Italian culture, as well as explore the sacred as a cinematic genre. We will watch films by directors such as Rossellini, Fellini, Bertolucci, and Cavani. The several films depicting the figure of St. Francis, spanning the period 1917-89, will give us the opportunity to examine different periods of film history. In addition to regular class meetings, students are required to attend a three-hour weekly film showing.

ITAS 263 Dante (in English)

Jacoff

The course offers students an introduction to Dante and his culture. The centrality and encyclopedic nature of Dante's Divine Comedy make it a paradigmatic work for students of the Middle Ages. Since Dante has profoundly influenced several writers of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, knowledge of the Comedy illuminates modern literature as well. This course presumes no special background and attempts to create a context in which Dante's poetry can be carefully explored.

ITAS 271 The Construction of Italy as a Nation

Ward

The course aims, first, to give students who wish to continue their study of Italian the chance to practice and refine their skills; and second, to introduce students to one of the major themes of Italian culture: namely, the role played by Italian intellectuals in the construction of Italy as a nation. We will read how Dante, Petrarch, and Machiavelli imagined Italy as a nation before it came into existence in 1860; how the nation came to be unified; and how the experience of unification has come to represent a controversial point of reference for twentieth-century Italy. Other figures to be studied will include Bembo, Castiglione, Foscolo, Gramsci, Tomasi di Lampedusa, D'Annunzio, Visconti, Levi, Blasetti, and Rossellini.

ITAS 272 Small Books, Big Ideas. A Journey through Italian Identities

Parussa

Unlike other European literatures, contemporary Italian literature lacks a major work of fiction representing the nation's cultural identity. Rather, Italian literature boasts the small book, brief unclassifiable narratives that express the variety and complexity of Italian culture. Realistic novels or philosophical short stories, memoirs or literary essays, these works are a fine balance between a number of literary genres and, as such, are a good entranceway into the multifaceted and contradictory identity of Italy as a nation. The course will combine a survey of contemporary Italian literature with a theoretical analysis of how Italian identity has been represented in works by Moravia, Calvino, Ortese, and others.

ITAS 273 Italy in the 1960s

Ward

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The 1960s were a period of great change in Italy. The major consequence of the economic boom of the late 1950s was to transform Italy from a predominantly agricultural to an industrialized nation. Through a study of literary and cinematic texts, the course will examine this process in detail. Time will also be given to the consequences of the radical changes that took place: namely, internal immigration, consumerism, new role of intellectuals, resistance to modernity, neo-fascism, student protest. Authors to be studied will include Italo Calvino, Luchino Visconti, Pier Paolo Pasolini, Ermanno Olmi, Umberto Eco and authors from the Neo-Avant Garde movement.

ITAS 309 Italian-Jewish Identity

Parussa

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In the light of events like the high-profile trial of a Nazi war criminal and the Pope's encyclical letter on the responsibilities of Christians in the Holocaust, this course aims to discuss the question of Jewish identity in contemporary Italian culture. Students will read prose and poetry, essays and articles, as well as watch films that address issues such as religious and national identity in a culturally, racially, and linguistically homogeneous country like Italy. The course will also give students an overview of the formation and transformation of the Jewish community in Italian society. In addition to well-known Jewish Italian writers like Primo Levi and Giorgio Bassani, students will read pertinent works by non-Jewish writers like Rosetta Loy.

ITAS 310 Fascism and Resistance in Italy

Ward

This course examines the two fundamental political and cultural experiences of twentieth-century Italy: the twenty-year fascist regime and the resistance to it. We will study the origins of fascism in Italy's participation in World War I and its colonial ambitions; we will follow the development of fascism over the two decades of its existence and ask to what extent it received the consensus of the Italian people. We will go on to examine the various ways in which Italians resisted fascism and the role the ideals that animated antifascist thinking had in the postwar period. Authors to be studied include: Marinetti, D'Annunzio, Pascoli, Croce, Gobetti, Rosselli, Bassani, Ginzburg, Levi, and Silone.

ITAS 311 Theatre, Politics, and the Arts in Renaissance Italy

Parussa

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. The flourishing Italian theatre in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries is an extraordinary and unmatched phenomenon in the history of Italian culture. In Italian courts and city squares, theatre became the center of a dynamic relationship between power and culture. Under the aegis of princes and popes, artists of all kinds worked for the stage to celebrate and criticize the same power that both fostered and limited their intellectual freedom. The stage became a mirror in which Renaissance Italy, while attempting to admire its beauty, came face to face with its distorted image. The course will include readings of major plays by Bibiena, Machiavelli, and Ariosto. Attention will also be given to the paintings, drawings, and sketches used in the staging of these plays.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.

ITAS 312 Rinascimento e Rinascimenti: Cultural Identities in Fifteenth- and Sixteenth-Century Italy

Parussa

The Renaissance witnessed deep cultural transformations that have influenced contemporary ways of thinking. Cultural notions of class, gender, and religion find their roots in the cultural debate that animated Italian courts during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Exploring how these notions have been both shaped and challenged, the course will suggest that it is more appropriate to think of the Renaissance as a plural rather than a single entity. In particular, attention will be given to themes such as the donna angelicata and the poet, the cortegiano and the peasant, the principe and the artist. The course will give students a solid introduction to the literature of the period and provide them with a theoretical framework for a thorough discussion of the material at hand.

ITAS 314 The Other Half: History and Culture of the Italian South

Ward

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course aims to introduce advanced level students to the rich and varied cultural and historical landscape of the Italian South, the mezzogiorno. Taking as its starting point the medieval court of Frederick II and the deep-seated repercussions its influence had on Italian cultural life, the course goes on to examine the works of southern thinkers and writers like Giordano Bruno, Tommaso Campanella, and Giambattista Vico, as well as the Neapolitan Enlightenment and the Southern question. In addition, we will examine twentieth-century writers like Carlo Levi, Giuseppe Tomasi di Lampedusa, Giuseppe Verga, Leonardo Sciascia and Vincenzo Consolo, who were either born in southern Italy or have written about it.

ITAS 349 The Function of Narrative

Ward

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Beginning with Boccaccio and going on to Manzoni and Verga, the course introduces students to the major figures of the Italian narrative tradition. We then go on to study twentieth-century narrative texts, all the time seeking answers to the question of why narrative is such a fundamental human need. Why, for example, do we narrate our experience of life and the sense we have of ourselves, even in the form of diaries? Do the stories we tell faithfully reflect reality or do they create it? The course concludes with a reflection on narrative technique in cinema illustrated by the films of Michelangelo Antonioni. Other authors to be studied may include: Fra Gonzaga, Calvino, Ceresa, Rasy, Pasolini, Celati, and Benni.

Directions for Election

The Department of Italian Studies offers both a major and a minor.

The major in Italian studies offers students the opportunity to acquire fluency in the language and knowledge of the culture of Italy in a historical perspective. Students are strongly urged to begin Italian in their first year. ITAL 101-102 count toward the degree, but not the major. Students majoring in Italian are required to take nine units above the 100 level. One of such courses must be either 211, 271 or 272. In addition, one course must be taken outside the department, on a related topic to be decided by the student and her major advisor. Furthermore, two of the nine courses must be at the 300 level and be taken in the department. The requirement to take two courses at the 300 level may not be met by taking 350 (Research or Individual Study), 360 (Senior Thesis Research) or 370 (Senior Thesis). Students are encouraged to consult with the chair about the sequence of courses they will take. Courses given in translation count toward the major. Qualified students are encouraged to spend their junior year abroad in Italy on the Eastern Consortium program in Bologna (of which the Italian department is a participant) or on another approved program.

The Italian studies minor requires five units above the 100 level. Courses offered in translation count towards the minor.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR AND MINOR

Director: Malino (History)

Visiting Assistant Professor: Ronell

Advisory Board: Bernat (Religion), Geller (Religion), Malino (History), Ronell (Jewish Studies)

The major in Jewish studies is designed to acquaint students with the many facets of Jewish civilization through an interdisciplinary study of Jewish religion, history, philosophy, art, literature, social and political institutions, and cultural patterns.

For the eight-unit major in Jewish studies, students must take courses pertaining both to the ancient and modern worlds and show proficiency in Hebrew (equivalent to at least two semesters at the second-year level). In certain cases, where students whose area of concentration necessitates another language (such as Arabic, French, Spanish, Yiddish, or Ladino), that language may be substituted for Hebrew in consultation with the student's major advisor. In addition, students are expected to concentrate in some area or aspect of Jewish studies (such as religion, history, or Hebrew language and literature) by taking four courses above the 100 level, including at least two at the 300 level.

Advanced study of Hebrew may be pursued as a 350 course, and this may be used to fulfill the Language and Literature distribution requirement.

Majors devise their own programs in consultation with the director of the Jewish studies program and an appropriate faculty member from the student's area of concentration. Courses with an asterisk (*) also require the permission of the instructor if the course is to be counted for Jewish studies.

In addition to Wellesley courses, students are encouraged to take courses at Brandeis University in the Department of Near Eastern and Judaic Studies which may be applicable to the Jewish studies major. These courses must be approved, in advance, by the corresponding department at Wellesley. See the director of Jewish studies for further details.

A minor in Jewish studies consists of five units from the following courses (of which at least one must be at the 300 level and no more than one at the 100 level): ANTH 242, 247; CLCV 240; HIST 217, 218, 219, 326, 327, 328, 343, 367; ITAS 309; REL 104, 105, 140, 202, 207, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, [247], 260, [302], [303], 305, 342; SPAN 252, 267, and 279. Units must be taken in at least two departments; in consultation with the director of the program in Jewish studies, a student can also arrange to take courses for inclusion in the Jewish studies minor in Brandeis University's Department of Near Eastern and Judaic Studies.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

The following courses are available in Jewish studies:

HEBR 101-102 Elementary Hebrew

Ronell

Introduction to Hebrew with emphasis on its contemporary spoken and written form. Practice in the skills of listening and speaking as well as reading and writing, together with systematic study of Hebrew grammar. Students will master a basic vocabulary of approximately 1,000 words, and become comfortable in the use of the present, past and future tenses, as well as basic verb patterns. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

HEBR 201-202 Intermediate Hebrew

Ronell

Building on the foundations of 101-102, the third semester will continue to develop skills in modern Hebrew. Students will broaden their knowledge of verb patterns, compound sentence structures and mixed tenses. Special emphasis will be placed on composition and oral reports. The fourth semester will focus on literature through reading and discussion of selected short pieces of prose and poetry. Some examples of classical, rabbinic, and liturgical Hebrew will also be analyzed. Students will be required to write short compositions inspired by their readings. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

HEBR 210 Jewish Fiction Around the Globe: Homeland and the Diaspora (in English)

Ronell

An exploration of contemporary Jewish fiction from diverse Jewish communities around the world including Israel, the US, Latin America, Germany, Eastern Europe, and South Africa. An examination of ideas of Homeland and the Diaspora, immigration and exile. Focus on the challenges of representing post-Holocaust Jewish identity in a global context. The authors to be read include Philip Roth, Shai Agnon, Aharon Appelfeld, Eva Hoffman, Ronit Matalon. The course is designed to provide students with an opportunity to develop a deeper understanding of global Jewish fiction today and its foundation in Hebraic literary tradition. All texts are in English translation.

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: *Renjilian-Burgy (Spanish),
Wasserspring (Political Science)*

Faculty Committee: Agosin (Spanish), Elkins (Religion), Guzauskyte (Spanish), Ickes (History), Levitt (Sociology), McEwan (Economics), Oles (Art), Osorio^A (History), Renjilian-Burgy (Spanish), Roses (Spanish), Rubio (Spanish), Vega (Spanish), Wasserspring (Political Science)

The Latin American studies major seeks to understand the Latin American experience through an interdisciplinary program of study. Students must submit a plan of study following the requirements listed below for approval by the directors. The Latin American studies major normally consists of 11 courses: 2 Spanish language courses at the level of 241 or above and 9 courses from the list that appears below. (In the case of bilingual speakers or students with advanced Spanish proficiency, the 2 language course requirement may be replaced by an oral and written exemption exam.) In fulfilling the requirement of 9 courses, students must select a concentration of 4 courses in one of the following disciplines: art history, history, political science, sociology or Spanish. Of these 9 units, at least 2 must be taken at the 300 level. It is recommended that one of these 300-level courses be a seminar.

Students should note that several of the courses listed below have an asterisk(*), which signifies that upon enrollment, the student must notify the instructor that the course is to be counted for Latin American studies and that, as such, the student will be required to do a research paper which focuses on Latin America.

Qualified juniors are encouraged to spend a semester or a year in Latin America. Both the directors and the Study Abroad Office have information to help students select appropriate sites for study in Latin America. Wellesley offers several opportunities, including its own program in Puebla, Mexico as well as exchange opportunities in Argentina. Additionally, the Wellesley Internship Program in Costa Rica (WICR) offers funded summer internships to qualified students. To be eligible for study in Latin America, a student should normally be enrolled in SPAN 241 or a higher level language or literature course the previous semester.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. Students who are interested in writing an honors thesis in Latin American studies should submit a proposal to the faculty committee by the end of their junior year. The proposal should include a description of the thesis project, a sample bibliography and a copy of the student's transcript. It is required that the student has already completed fundamental coursework in the area in which she proposes to do her honors work. See Academic Distinctions.

Majors may also apply to the Five-Year Cooperative M.A. Program at Georgetown University in Latin American Studies. This program enables the student to apply upper-level Latin American Studies courses taken at Wellesley toward the Master's Degree at Georgetown. A summer of study at the Universidad Catolica in Santiago, Chile, taken during an undergraduate summer, and a year of academic work at Georgetown are required to earn the Master's Degree at Georgetown in one year. Interested students should contact the directors of Latin American Studies or the Center for Work and Service.

MATH 101 Reasoning with Data: Elementary Applied Statistics

Staff

An introduction to the fundamental ideas and methods of statistics for analyzing data. Topics include descriptive statistics, basic probability, inference and hypothesis testing. Emphasis on understanding the use and misuse of statistics in a variety of fields, including medicine and both the physical and social sciences. This course is intended to be accessible to those students who have not yet had calculus.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have completed 116, 116Z, 120, or 205, except by permission of the instructor; such students should consider taking 220 instead. Not open to students who have taken or are taking MATH 101Z, POL 199, QR 180, ECON 103/SOC 190, [QR 199] or PSYC 205.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

MATH 101Z Reasoning with Data: Elementary Applied Statistics with Health Applications

Polito (Quantitative Reasoning)
In this course, students use probability and statistics to examine the risks that we encounter every day. The focus is on personal medical decision-making and the impact of our environment on our health. Students will address questions such as: How concerned should we be about pesticide use? How can we make informed decisions about women's health issues, including contraception and sexually transmitted diseases? How much of an impact does diet have on health? Why did different studies of hormone replacement therapy come to contradictory conclusions, and how can we read reports on such studies intelligently and skeptically? Topics include descriptive statistics, basic probability, inference and hypothesis testing.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have taken or are taking MATH 101, POL 199, QR 180, ECON 103/SOC 190 [QR 199], or PSYC 205. Not open to students who have completed MATH 116, 116Z, 120, or 205, except by permission of the instructor; such students should consider taking 220 instead.

MATH 102 Applications of Mathematics without Calculus

Sontag, Wilcox

This course explores several areas of mathematics which have application in the physical and social sciences, yet which require only high-school mathematics as a prerequisite. The areas covered will be chosen from systems of linear equations, linear programming, probability, game theory, and stochastic processes. Students will solve problems on topics ranging from medical testing to economics with the results demonstrating the value of mathematical reasoning. May not be counted toward the major.

MATH 115 Calculus I

Staff

Introduction to differential and integral calculus for functions of one variable. The heart of calculus is the study of rates of change. Differential calculus concerns the process of finding the rate at which a quantity is changing (the derivative). Integral calculus reverses this process. Information is given about the derivative, and the process of integration finds the "integral" which measures accumulated change. This course aims to develop a thorough understanding of the concepts of differentiation and integration, and covers techniques and applications of differentiation and integration of algebraic, trigonometric, logarithmic, and exponential functions. MATH 115 is an introductory course designed for students who have not seen calculus before.

Prerequisite: Open by permission of the department, based on the results of the departmental placement exam.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

MATH 116 Calculus II

Staff

The course begins with techniques and applications of integration. It covers additional techniques for finding limits and explores more deeply and with more precision the notions of limit and convergence. The second half of the course covers infinite sequences and series. Some of the questions that arise in this part of the course are: What do we mean by a sum with infinitely many terms, such as $1 + 1/2 + 1/4 + 1/8 + 1/16 + \dots$ or such as $1 - 1 + 1 - 1 + 1 - \dots$? Is there such a thing as a polynomial of degree infinity and what does infinity mean in this context? Both concrete and abstract, this portion of the course gives students an opportunity to strengthen their reasoning skills as well as to learn some important computational techniques. Topics include integration techniques, l'Hôpital's rule, improper integrals, applications of integration including volumes of solids of revolution, theoretical basis of limits and continuity, infinite series, power series, and Taylor series. MATH 116 is the appropriate first course for many students who have had AB calculus in high school.

MATH 120 Calculus IIA

Staff

This course is a variant of 116 for students who have a thorough knowledge of the techniques of differentiation and integration, and familiarity with inverse trigonometric functions and the logarithmic and exponential functions. It includes a rigorous and careful treatment of limits, sequences and series, Taylor's theorem, approximations and numerical methods, Riemann sums, Improper integrals, l'Hôpital's rule, and applications of integration.

Prerequisite: Open by permission of the department to students who have completed a year of high school calculus. Students who have studied Taylor series should elect 205. Not open to students who have completed 115, 116 or the equivalent.

MATH 205 Multivariable Calculus

Staff

Most real-world systems that one may want to model, whether in the natural or in the social sciences, have many interdependent parameters. To apply calculus to these systems, we need to extend the ideas and techniques of MATH 115 and MATH 116 to functions of more than one variable. Topics include vectors, matrices, determinants, polar, cylindrical, and spherical coordinates, curves, functions of several variables, partial and directional derivatives, gradients, Lagrange multipliers, multiple integrals, line integrals, and Green's Theorem.

Prerequisite: 116, 120, or the equivalent. Not open to students who have completed MATH 216/PHYS 216.

MATH 206 Linear Algebra

Shuchat, Wang

Linear algebra is one of the most beautiful subjects in the undergraduate mathematics curriculum. It is also one of the most important with many possible applications. In this course, students learn computational techniques that have widespread applications in the natural and social sciences as well as in industry, finance, and management. There is also a focus on learning how to understand and write mathematical proofs and an emphasis on improving mathematical style and sophistication. Topics include vector spaces, subspaces, linear independence, bases, dimension, inner products. Linear transformations, matrix representations, range and null spaces, inverses, eigenvalues.

MATH 214 Euclidean and Non-Euclidean Geometry

Kerr

A rigorous treatment of the fundamentals of two-dimensional geometry: Euclidean, spherical, elliptic and hyperbolic. The course will present the basic classical results of plane geometry: congruence theorems, concurrence theorems, classification of isometries, etc. and their analogues in the non-Euclidean settings. The course will provide a link between classical geometry and modern geometry, preparing for study in group theory, differential geometry, topology, and mathematical physics. The approach will be analytical, providing practice in proof techniques. This course is strongly recommended for prospective teachers of mathematics. *Normally offered in alternate years. MATH 215/PHYS 215 Mathematics for the Sciences I

Shultz

This course is the first in a two-course sequence tailored to the needs and preparations of students considering majors in the sciences. It presents techniques of applied mathematics relevant to a broad range of scientific studies, from the life sciences to physics and astronomy. The topics of study include complex numbers, ordinary differential equations, an introduction to partial differential equations, linear algebra (matrices, systems of linear equations, vector spaces, eigenvalue problems), and Fourier series. The course emphasizes mathematical techniques and presents applications from all the sciences. Some familiarity with vectors (e.g., dot products) is assumed. Students may register for either MATH 215 or PHYS 215 and credit will be granted accordingly.

MATH 216/PHYS 216 Mathematics for the Sciences II

Hu (Physics)

When laws of nature are written in advanced mathematical forms (for example, Maxwell's equations for electromagnetism), gradient, divergence, and curl are frequently encountered.

In the first part of this course, we will study these mathematical operations in the broader context of differential and integral vector calculus, with an emphasis on their physical meanings. This part is similar to MATH 205, but topics closely related to physics – Gauss' and Stokes' theorems, spherical and cylindrical coordinates – will be discussed in depth. The second part of this course will cover Fourier transforms and partial differential equations, which are used throughout the physical sciences. The third part of this course will introduce numerical methods, which are widely used in most modern scientific and engineering fields when analytical solutions to algebraic or differential equations do not exist. We will use MATLAB, a popular high-level programming language. Students may register for either MATH 216 or PHYS 216 and credit will be granted accordingly.

MATH 220 Probability and Elementary Statistics

Shuchat, Magid

This course is about the mathematics of uncertainty, where we use the ideas of probability to describe patterns in chance phenomena. Probability is the basis of statistics and game theory, and is immensely useful in many fields including business, social and physical sciences, and medicine. The first part of the course focuses on probability theory (random variables, conditional probability, probability distributions), using integration and infinite series. The second part discusses topics from statistics (sampling, estimation, confidence interval, hypothesis testing). Applications are taken from areas such as medical diagnosis, quality control, gambling, political polls, and others.

MATH 223 Number Theory

Chang

Number theory is the study of the most basic mathematical objects: the natural numbers (1, 2, 3, etc.). It begins by investigating simple patterns: for instance, which numbers can be written as sums of two squares? Do the primes go on forever? How can we be sure? The patterns and structures that emerge from studying the properties of numbers are so elegant, complex, and important that number theory has been called "the Queen of Mathematics". Once studied only for its intrinsic beauty, number theory has practical applications in cryptography and computer science. Topics include the Euclidean algorithm, modular arithmetic, Fermat's and Euler's Theorems, public-key cryptography, quadratic reciprocity. MATH 223 has a focus on learning to understand and write mathematical proofs; it can serve as valuable preparation for 305. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course in 2005-06.

MATH 225 Combinatorics and Graph Theory

Trenk, Shultz

Combinatorics is the art of counting possibilities: for instance, how many different ways are there to distribute 20 apples to 10 kids? Graph theory is the study of connected networks of objects. Both have important applications to many areas of mathematics and computer science. The course will be taught emphasizing creative problem-solving, as well as methods of proof, such as proof by contradiction and induction. Topics include: selections and arrangements, generating functions, recurrence relations; graph coloring, Hamiltonian and Eulerian circuits, trees.

MATH 251 Topics in Applied Math

Topic A for 2005-06: Cryptology and Coding Theory: The Mathematics of Secure and Reliable Communication

Pritchett (Babson) and Spence (Olin)

Cryptography, the science of developing “secret codes” or ciphers for secure and confidential communication, is essential to both e-commerce and military operations. Cryptology includes the study of both cryptography and cryptanalysis, the breaking of ciphers. Coding theory consists of mathematical techniques for detecting and correcting errors that occur during data transmission. These topics are critical to information exchange today. Through this exploration into the technical, social, and historical aspects of cryptology and coding theory, students will learn and extensively use basic concepts from number theory, finite field and ring theory, matrix algebra, and the software package MAGMA. Highlighted topics include the RSA cryptosystem, digital signatures, DES, linear and cyclic codes, Reed-Solomon codes, and the McEliece cryptosystem.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

Topic B for 2005-06: Operations Research

Shuchat

This course studies the algebraic and geometric foundations of optimization and its applications to decision making in private and public sector management. We will study linear and integer programming, i.e., maximizing and minimizing linear functions whose variables must satisfy linear equations or inequalities, and where we may also require that the variables be integers. Applications will be selected from mathematical models in such areas as production, inventory, scheduling, investment, harvesting, transportation, and distribution. Small-scale problems will be solved by hand, and larger-scale problems by computer. The theoretical level will be similar to 206, but students will do fewer proofs and more modeling. MATH 251 counts toward the mathematics major/minor as an elective. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course in 2005-06.

Prerequisite: 206 or permission of the instructor

MATH 302 Elements of Analysis I

Sontag

Real analysis is the study of the rigorous theory of the real numbers, Euclidean space, and calculus. The goal is to thoroughly understand the familiar concepts of continuity, limits and sequences. We also study compactness, connectedness and metric spaces, which are generalizations of familiar notions. For example, in calculus the definition of continuity contains the expression $|x - c|$. How can we define continuity for higher-dimensional spaces, such as \mathbb{R}^2 or any \mathbb{R}^n , where there is no notion of absolute value? The key is the fact that $|x - c|$ can be understood as distance. Viewed from this perspective, continuity makes sense in any setting in which we have a notion of distance. A set with a suitable notion of distance is called a metric space, this is the primary context for real analysis. Topics include metric spaces, compact, complete, and connected spaces, continuous functions, differentiation, integration, and interchange of limit operations.

MATH 305 Abstract Algebra

Magid

In this course, students examine the structural similarities between familiar mathematical objects such as number systems, matrix sets, function spaces, general vector spaces and mod n arithmetic. Topics include groups, rings, fields, homomorphisms, normal subgroups, quotient spaces, isomorphism theorems, divisibility and factorization. Many concepts generalize number theoretic notions such as Fermat’s little theorem and the Euclidean algorithm. Optional subjects include group actions and applications to combinatorics.

MATH 306 Topics in Abstract Algebra

Chang

Topic for 2005-06: Galois Theory. This course offers a continued study of the algebraic structures introduced in MATH 305, culminating in the Fundamental Theorem of Galois Theory, a beautiful result that depicts the circle of ideas surrounding field extensions, polynomial rings and automorphism groups. Applications of Galois theory include the unsolvability of the quintic by radicals and geometric impossibility proofs, such as the trisection of angles and duplication of cubes. Cyclotomic extensions and Sylow theory may be included in the syllabus.

MATH 307 Topology

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The topological properties of an object are those which are unchanged by bending, twisting, stretching, or shrinking. A mathematical knot is a circle embedded in three-dimensional space. Classical knot theory is the branch of topology that deals with knots and links in three-dimensional space. The central problem is determining whether two knots can be deformed to be exactly alike, via bending, twisting, stretching, or shrinking. This course provides an introduction to the theory of knots. Methods of knot tabulation, surfaces applied to knots, and knot polynomials will be covered, as well as applications to natural and physical sciences. Open problems in the field will also be discussed. Offered in alternate years.

MATH 309 Foundations of Mathematics

Sontag

This course studies the subject matter – set theory — that inspired David Hilbert’s remark “no one will drive us from the paradise that Cantor has created”. This set-theory paradise includes infinitely many infinities. We also study the proof of Goedel’s undecidability theorem, which asserts that any consistent system containing arithmetic has questions that cannot be answered within the system. Topics include: axioms for set theory; construction of the natural numbers, the integers, and the rational and real numbers; induction and transfinite induction; cardinal numbers and ordinal numbers; the axiom of choice and its equivalents; consistency; Goedel’s undecidability proof. Offered in alternate years. Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course in 2005-06.

Directions for Election

Placement in Courses and Exemption Examinations

The mathematics department reviews elections of calculus students and places them in MATH 115, 116, 120, or 205 according to their previous courses and summer placement results. See the descriptions for these courses. If there is a question about placement, the student should attend the course in which she is placed and contact the sectioning coordinator (contact information in Science Center 361) to discuss her placement. No special examination is necessary for placement in an advanced course.

Students may receive course credit towards graduation through the CEEB Advanced Placement tests in mathematics and the IB Higher Level mathematics exam. Students with scores of 4 or 5 on the AB Examination or an AB-subscore of 4 or 5 on the BC Examination, or a score of 5, 6, or 7 on the IB Higher Level mathematics exam receive one unit of credit (equivalent to 115) and are eligible for 116 or 120. Those entering with scores of 4 or 5 on the BC Examination receive two units (equivalent to 115 and 116 or 115 and 120) and are eligible for 205. Students with a 5 on the AP examination in statistics receive one unit of credit (equivalent to 101). Neither Advanced Placement credits nor IB credits may count toward the major.

Students majoring in mathematics must complete MATH 115 and one of 116/120 (or the equivalent) and at least seven units of 200-level and 300-level courses, including 205, 206, 302, 305, and one other 300-level course. MATH 215/PHYS 215 can be counted towards the mathematics major. Credit for MATH 216/PHYS 216 satisfies the requirement that a math major take 205, but does not count as one of the seven units of 200-level and 300-level courses. Students entering with AP credits must complete eight units after entering college, where MATH 216/PHYS 216 does not count as one of these eight units.

Students expecting to major in mathematics should complete the prerequisites for 302 and 305 before the junior year. Students may wish to consult the chair of the Department of Mathematics or their current mathematics instructor in deciding when to take 302 and 305. Independent study units (MATH 350, 360, 370) may not count as the third 300-level course required for the major.

Majors are also required to present one classroom talk in either their junior or senior year, usually in one of the courses specially designated as fulfilling this requirement. (See course listings with "Majors can fulfill the major presentation requirement in this course.") Usually two such courses are designated each semester. In addition, a limited number of students may be able to fulfill the presentation requirement in other courses. Students need to speak with individual instructors to find out what is possible in a given course.

Students expecting to do graduate work in mathematics should elect 302, 305, and at least four other 300-level courses, possibly including a graduate course at MIT. They are also advised to acquire a reading knowledge of one or more of the following languages: French, German, or Russian.

The mathematics minor is recommended for students whose primary interests lie elsewhere but who wish to take a substantial amount of mathematics beyond calculus. Option I (five units) consists of: (A) 205, 206 and (B) 302 or 305 and (C) two additional units, at least one of which must be at the 200 or 300 level. Option II (five units) consists of: (A) 205, 206 and (B) three additional 200- or 300-level units. MATH 215/PHYS 215 can be counted as one of these five units. MATH 216/PHYS 216 satisfies the requirement that a math minor take 205, but does not count as one of the five units. A student who plans to add the mathematics minor to a major in another field should consult a faculty advisor in mathematics.

Teacher Certification

Students interested in teaching mathematics at the secondary-school level should consult the chair of the mathematics department and the chair of the education department. Students interested in taking the actuarial science examinations should consult the chair of the mathematics department.

MIT Courses

Students are encouraged to elect MIT courses that are not offered by the Wellesley College mathematics department.

Honors

The department offers the following options for earning honors in the major field: (1) completion of 302, 305, and four other 300-level courses, and two written comprehensive examinations or (2) two semesters of thesis work (360 and 370). An oral examination is required for both programs. To be admitted to the honors program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Media Arts and Sciences

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Co-Directors: Irish, Metaxas

The Departments of Art and Computer Science offer an interdepartmental major in media arts and sciences that explores the artistic, cultural and scientific applications within the context of new media technologies. The program focuses on media production that balances artistic sensibility with analytical reasoning within the rich tradition of the liberal arts environment. Areas of study include digital imaging and design; web-connected database architectures; three-dimensional visualization and modeling; digital composition in audio/video; analog print and photographic processes; computer graphics and animation; human-computer interaction; programming for networked environments.

A major in media arts and sciences requires 12 units of course work, at least eight of which must be above the 100-level and two of which must be at the 300-level other than 350 or 360. Flexibility has been built into the major to allow students the ability to adapt their course of study in relation to their interests, by choosing an emphasis either in media sciences or in media arts. The major starts with three introductory courses, at least five courses in the area of concentration and at least two courses outside the area of concentration. In addition to other courses at Wellesley, students can take courses from MIT's media lab or comparative media studies.

The major consists of:

1. Three required introductory courses, one each from studio art, art history and computer science: ARTH 101 (Introduction to the History of Art Part II: Renaissance to the Present), ARTS 109 (Basic Two-Dimensional Design) or ARTS 108 (Photography I), and CS 110 (Computer Science and the Internet).
2. At least two required art courses (at least five required for emphasis in media arts) from the following: ARTS 165 (Introduction to Video Production), ARTS 219 (Introductory Print Methods: Lithography/Monotype) or ARTS 220 (Introductory Print Methods: Intaglio/Relief), ARTS 221 (Digital Imaging), ARTS 255 (Dynamic Interface Design), ARTS 260 (Moving Image Studio), ARTS 265 (Intermediate Video Production) or ARTS 208 (Photography II), ARTS 313 (Virtual Form), ARTS 317 (Seminar. Topics in the Visual Arts), ARTS 320 (Architectonics and Installation).
3. At least two required computer science courses (at least five required for concentration in media sciences) from the following: CS 111 (Computer Programming and Problem Solving), CS 215 (Multimedia Design and Programming), CS 230 (Data Structures), CS 231 (Fundamental Algorithms), CS 242 (Computer Networks), CS 304 (Databases with Web Interfaces), CS 307 (Computer Graphics).
4. At least one media culture course is recommended from the following: ARTH 225 (Modern Art Since 1945), ARTH 226 (History of Photography: From Invention to Advertising Age), ARTH 291 (Persuasive Images), CAMS 175

(Introduction to Cinema and Media Studies), EXP [240] (Papyrus to Print to Pixel), SOC 216 (Sociology of Mass Media and Communications).

Majors are also encouraged to take an advanced media production course (e.g. an individual study).

Honors: The MAS thesis offers a year-long opportunity to develop independent research and production with honors. Students interested in proposing a thesis need to have a minimum 3.5 GPA in the major, and the support of a faculty advisor in the art or CS departments. An interdepartmental review will occur at the end of the fall semester, to determine whether the student should continue her project as a 370 in the Spring and convey its decision to the student by December 20th. In a case where it is recommended that the Senior Thesis not be continued into the second semester, a student would receive credit for 360 work on the completion of a schedule of work previously agreed to between the thesis advisor and the student.

Thesis proposal should be discussed with the primary faculty advisor during the spring prior to senior year. Proposals for thesis projects must be submitted in writing, detailing the scope for the project, research methodology, project timeline, and must be accompanied by an electronic portfolio of at least 4 MAS projects. Proposals are due on August 25 before the beginning of the student's senior year.

Medieval/Renaissance Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Directors: Armstrong (Art), Ramseyer (History)

Advisory Committee: Carroll (Art), Elkins (Religion), Vega (Spanish)

The major in Medieval/Renaissance studies enables students to explore the richness and variety of European and Mediterranean civilization from later Greco-Roman times through the Renaissance and Reformation, as reflected in art, history, literature, music, and religion. It has a strong interdisciplinary emphasis; we encourage students to make connections between the approaches and subject matters in the different fields that make up the major. At the same time, the requirements for the major encourage special competence in at least one field.

For a Medieval/Renaissance studies major, students must take at least eight (8) units of course work from the list that follows. Of these, at least four must be above the 100-level in an area of concentration – a single department, a geographical location, a topic or theme. Two units of course work must be at the 300-level. Each year at least one 200-level course and one seminar are offered which are especially designed to accommodate the needs and interests of majors. The majors' seminars for 2005-06 are (1) ARTH 330 (Seminar. Venetian Renaissance Art) (for details, see the department entry for art history) and (2) ME/R 344 (Tales of Love). Normally, credit/non courses do not count for the major. The Medieval/Renaissance studies program does not accept AP credits to replace course work in the major.

Majors who are contemplating postgraduate academic or professional careers in this or related fields should consult faculty advisors to plan a sequence of courses that will provide them with a sound background in the language and critical techniques essential to further work in their chosen fields. We make every effort to accommodate individual interests and needs through independent study projects (350s and senior theses) carried out under the supervision of one or more faculty members and designed to supplement, or substitute for, advanced seminar-level work.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA on the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

There are numerous opportunities for study abroad for those who wish to broaden their experience and supplement their research skills through direct contact with European and Mediterranean culture. Up to three courses in accredited programs abroad may be counted toward the major. By participating in the Collegium Musicum, students can learn to perform Medieval and Renaissance music; see the departmental entry for music.

ME/R 246 Monsters, Villains, and Wives

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will select its monsters, villains, and wives from early English, French, and Anglo-Norman literature, ranging from the giant Grendel (and his mother) in Beowulf to the arch-villain Ganelon in The Song of Roland, from Guinevere to the wife of the enigmatic Green Man in Sir Gawain and the Green Knight. We will finish by considering the survival of the magical villain in a modern-day fantasy classic like the medievalist J.R.R. Tolkien's Hobbit, or a volume in his Lord of the Rings trilogy, and in John Gardner's recasting of the Beowulf-story, Grendel.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ME/R 247 Arthurian Legends

Wall-Randell (English)

A survey of legends connected with King Arthur, and their literary context in medieval and Renaissance romance, from the sixth century through the sixteenth, with some attention to new interpretations of the Arthurian tradition and of the romance mode in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

ME/R 248 Medieval Women Writers

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course explores a variety of texts by medieval women writers and the contexts in which and against which they were written. These texts raise questions about the role of the female body and about strategies of self-authorization which remain important today. The writers we will consider in depth are Marie de France, Heloise (and Abelard), selected medieval mystics, Margery Kempe, Julian of Norwich, and Christine de Pizan.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ME/R 249 Imagining the Afterlife

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An exploration of medieval visions and versions of the afterlife in the classical, biblical, Jewish, Islamic, and Christian traditions. We will study material from various Scriptures, popular visions, literary texts, and the visual arts. The focus will be on the implications of ideas about life after death for understanding medieval attitudes toward the body, morality, and life itself.

Prerequisite: None. Preference given to medieval/renaissance majors.
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

ME/R 344 Tales of Love

Jacoff (Italian)

Love becomes a central subject of literature in the Middle Ages and remains so in our own time. This course will explore some canonic medieval tales of love (Tristan and Iseult, Paolo and Francesca, Dante and Beatrice, Petrarch and Laura) and selected Renaissance dramatizations of the power of passion (Shakespeare sonnets and plays). We will conclude by reading one modern novel in which many of the themes and issues of the earlier periods remain alive and powerful.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors or by permission of instructor. Preference given to medieval/renaissance majors.

Middle Eastern Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR AND MINOR

Director: Euben^{A2} (Political Science) (Chair, Fall); Marlow^{A1} (Religion) (Chair, Spring)

Advisory Committee: Euben (Political Science), Geller^A (Religion), Kapteijns (History), Malino (History and Jewish Studies), Marlow^{A1} (Religion)

Visiting Associate Professor: Davidson

Assistant Professor: Aadnani

The major in Middle Eastern studies is designed to acquaint students with the many facets of Middle Eastern civilizations through an interdisciplinary study of the languages, literatures, histories, religions, arts, social and political institutions, and cultural patterns of the Middle East. Study of Middle Eastern communities living in diaspora may also be counted towards the major.

The major in Middle Eastern studies requires nine units. Students must demonstrate proficiency in Arabic (equivalent to at least two semesters at the second-year level). In certain cases, another Middle Eastern language (for example, Persian, Turkish, Hebrew) may be substituted for Arabic; a student whose area of concentration may render such a substitution appropriate should consult her advisor. No credit towards the major is given for the first year of language study. For students who are exempt from the language requirement, nine units are still necessary for the completion of the major. Students are required to concentrate in some area or aspect of Middle Eastern studies (for example, Arabic language and literature; religion; the Medieval Middle East; the modern Middle East; religion and politics in the Middle East) by taking four courses above the 100 level, including at least two at the 300 level, one of which must be a seminar. At least two courses should be taken in each of the departments of history and religion.

Majors devise their own programs of study in consultation with an appropriate faculty member from the student's area of concentration. Courses with an asterisk (*) also require the permission of the instructor if the course is to be counted for Middle Eastern studies.

In addition to Wellesley courses, students are encouraged to take relevant courses at Brandeis University (in the Department of Near Eastern and Judaic Studies), and at MIT. These courses must be approved toward the major, in advance, by the corresponding department at Wellesley.

A minor in Middle Eastern studies consists of five units, of which at least one should be at the 300 level (excluding 350). Units must be taken in at least two departments; only one course at the 100 level can be counted towards the minor. Second-year Arabic may be counted towards the minor.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

The following courses are available in Middle Eastern Studies:

ARAB 101-102 Elementary Arabic

Aadnani, Davidson

An introduction to the Arabic language. The course takes a comprehensive approach to language learning and emphasizes the four skills of listening, speaking, reading, and writing. Students are introduced to the principles of grammar, taught how to read and write in the Arabic alphabet, and trained in the basics of everyday conversation. Through the use of a variety of written, video and audio materials, as well as other resources made available through the World-Wide Web, the course emphasizes authentic materials and stresses the active participation of students in the learning process. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: None

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARAB 201-202 Intermediate Arabic

Aadnani

A continuation of ARAB 101-102. The course takes students to a deeper and more complex level in the study of the Arabic language. While continuing to emphasize the organizing principles of the language, the course also introduces students to a variety of challenging texts, including extracts from newspaper articles, as well as literary and religious materials. Students will be trained to work with longer texts and to gain the necessary communicative skills to prepare them for advanced-level Arabic. Each semester earns 1.0 unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: ARAB 101-102 or equivalent

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

ARAB 210 Arabic Literature in Translation

Aadnani

Exploration of some highly influential works of literature translated from Arabic. Students will have a chance to delve into literary works composed by authors from a large geographical area, extending from Morocco to the Middle East, from the turn of the nineteenth century to the present day. Our study of modern and contemporary Arabic literature will focus on a number of recurring themes, such as cultural and national identity, colonialism, religion, gender relations, and class conflict. Authors to be discussed include Naguib Mahfouz, Abdelrahman Munif, Ahlam Mosteghanemi, Leila Abouzeid, Tahir Wattar, Mohammed Zafzaf, and Yusuf Idris.

MES 310 Resistance and Dissent in North Africa and the Middle East (in English)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An exploration of the emergence and the shaping of a culture of "resistance" in North Africa and the Middle East since the early 1980s. Topics include the rise of democratic movements, such as political parties, associations and NGOs; the role and importance of Islam to the identity of contemporary nation states in the region; the status of women and minorities in the ideologies of the movements under study; and the status and implications of dissent. Materials studied include works of fiction and nonfiction, films, speeches, song lyrics, and online publications. Taught in English.

MUS 100 The Culture of Classical Music

Fisk

Until the late twentieth century, the only music

usually deemed worthy of serious study was so-called “classical music,” a written repertory originating in Western Europe but eventually gaining apparent pre-eminence in many other regions as well. Today that pre-eminence is being challenged, and many musics are given serious curricular attention, both for their own substantial musical interest and as expressions of different cultures and ways of being. Recognizing that classical music is not the “universal language” it was once thought to be, this course will explore it as a cultural phenomenon, tracing the evolution of some of its many forms and meanings, social contexts, composers, performers and audiences, and its resonances with different world music traditions. May not be counted toward the major.

MUS 105 Introduction to World Music

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An exploration into the musics of the world from an ethnomusicological perspective: music understood within the framework of culture. Primary emphasis is placed on the musics of Africa and the Americas, with attention also to those of India, Indonesia, and the Middle East. Students may undertake research projects on the music of any area of the world,

even repertoires not covered in the syllabus.

MUS 111X Introduction to the Language of Music

Samuel

A more in-depth and extensive study of music

fundamentals than that offered in MUS 111, students will be placed into this course based on their performance on the music theory placement test. Further development of aural and reading skills through sight-singing, dictation, keyboard skills, and critical listening. Two lectures, one ear training section, and an optional keyboard skills class are offered weekly. Regular assignments and quizzes are given and the student is required to compose melodies from mid semester on. The final project entails the presentation of a composed melody (optional setting with a text) that is harmonized with keyboard accompaniment and performed in class by the student and instructor. May not be counted

MUS 122 Harmonic Concepts in Tonal Music*Samuel*

Beginning with a comprehensive review of musical terminology and basic materials, MUS 122 explores the fundamentals of tonal harmony, voice-leading, phrasing, and form. Topics include harmonic functions and phrase structure, cadence formation, voice-leading and figured bass, and tonal analysis. Written exercises are complemented by regular ear-training practice. MUS 122 is normally the initial corequisite for MUS 199 (lessons for academic credit); MUS 220 is an alternate corequisite (for students who exempt 122). Normally followed by 244.

Prerequisite: Open to all students who have completed or exempted 111 or 111X. Students who meet this requirement are advised to take 122 or 220 in the fall semester.

MUS 199 Performing Music (for academic credit)Staff

One 45-minute lesson per week. Students may take an hour-long lesson for an additional fee. A minimum of six hours of practice per week is expected. One credit is given for a full year of study, which must begin in the first semester. Not to be counted toward the major in music. MUS 199 may be repeated without limit. For further information, including fees, see Performing Music: Private Instruction and Academic Credit. See also MUS 99, 299, and 344. Mandatory credit/non-credit. Except by special permission, no credit will be given unless both semesters are completed satisfactorily.

Prerequisite/Corequisite: By entrance audition; 111 or 111X, or exemption determined by a mandatory music theory placement test. Completion of an additional music course is required before credit is given for each subsequent year of 199. 122 or 220 must normally be completed during the first semester of 199. Students who must take 111 or 111X during the first semester of 199 must also complete 122 during the second semester of the first year. Completion of an additional music course is required before credit is given for each subsequent year of 199. Students pursuing jazz performance in 199 should plan to take MUS 120 following completion of MUS 111 or 111X. Students should consult the department web site for details regarding the entrance audition for 199.

MUS 200 History of Western Music I*TBA*

The first half of a year-long comprehensive survey of Western music history, MUS 200 considers significant forms and styles of earlier eras, from the liturgical and vernacular repertoires of the Middle Ages to the music of the mid-eighteenth century. The course offers a strong historical component, and also encourages the development of analytical skills. As we examine compositions in many genres, we will pursue numerous avenues of inquiry, including close readings of verbal texts, evaluation of formal structures, harmonic analysis, assessment of melodic and rhythmic features, and investigation of the broader circumstances that surround and inform musical creation.

Prerequisite/Corequisite: 122/244

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

MUS 201 History of Western Music II*Fisk*

A continuation of the survey of Western music history begun in MUS 200, MUS 201 examines the pre-Classical, Classical, and Romantic periods, as well as the music of the past one hundred years. The course places special emphasis on the acquisition of analytical skills, and students are encouraged to devise and support interpretive hypotheses in written essays. Students may enroll in MUS 201 without having taken MUS 200.

Unit: 1.0

MUS 208/AFR 227 The Blues in Historical and Cultural Context

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course offers a historical overview of the development of recorded blues music, a genre with a deep and lasting influence on the American musical and cultural landscape. Understanding the development of the blues entails considering the social conditions that informed twentieth-century African American life. Through related readings and class discussions, we will address these conditions as key issues in the study of the blues. We will develop a critical vocabulary for discussing blues music as a cultural phenomenon, and, through close listening and music analysis, we will learn how to discern the presence of blues influence in other musical genres. Students may register for either MUS 208 or AFR 227 and credit will be granted accordingly.

MUS 209/AFR 224 A History of Jazz*TBA*

This course offers a listener's introduction to jazz, one of the greatest expressions of American artistic genius. Early jazz drew from several vibrant streams of indigenous musical art (including ragtime and blues), and subsequent stylistic phases have corresponded closely to significant developments in social history; knowledge of jazz is thus highly relevant to an understanding of American culture since 1900. Through a selection of recordings and readings, we will follow the progression of jazz styles from African roots to recent developments. A fundamental goal of the course is that students learn to listen to music critically: to discern and interpret form, texture, style, and expressive content in jazz of all periods. Students may register for either MUS 209 or AFR 224 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken MUS 233/AFR 233.

Unit: 1.0

MUS 213 Twentieth-Century Techniques*Zallman*

Studies in the language and style of twentieth-century concert music, through analysis of shorter representative compositions by major composers. Brief exercises in composition are designed to familiarize students with a variety of structural approaches. MUS 213 and 313 will meet together.

Prerequisite: 122, 220, or permission of the instructor.

Unit: 1.0

MUS 216 Musics of East Asia: China, Korea, and Japan

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An introduction to the musical cultures of China, Korea, and Japan. While these nations share many of the same instruments, each has developed indigenous musical styles, variously shaped by cultural, religious, philosophical, and political forces. Through readings, recordings, videos, and performances by guest artists, we will explore representative genres from each area, including Buddhist chants, Chinese folk songs and instrumental music, Peking Opera, Korean court music (aak) and folk traditions (saraji, sinawi, pansori), as well as the Japanese theatrical genres of noh, kabuki, and bunraku (puppet theater).

Unit: 1.0

MUS 220 Theory, Analysis, and Performance*Zallman*

This course is appropriate for students who already have a solid background in basic theory, and also possess advanced performing skills. The principal goal of the course is to encourage an understanding of practical analytical methods and their value to musical performance. Musical examples to be studied are selected from the standard tonal repertory. Included are in-depth studies of melodic phrasing, harmonic functionality, and their interaction with the meter and rhythm of tonal music. Practice in basic writing and listening skills will be regularly incorporated into class work and written assignments. MUS 220 is intended for students who have exempted MUS 122, and may serve as a prerequisite for MUS 244.

Prerequisite: Open to students who have exempted 122.

MUS 222/322 Women in Music

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An introduction to the history of works composed by women, and to feminist music criticism and analysis. The course addresses issues surrounding women as composers, performers, and patrons, as well as notions of gender, ethnicity, and sexuality. While both levels stress socio-cultural critique and feminist theory, MUS 322 also emphasizes analysis and listening skills.

Prerequisite: 222: open to all students; 322: 200 or 201 required.

MUS 223 Das Lied: The Music and Poetry of the German Art Song

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The Lied dates back to the Middle Ages as one of the major cultural expressions of the German language. This course will examine the development of the genre through analysis of German poetry and associated musical settings by a variety of composers, both well-known German artists and non-Germans working within Germanic traditions. No previous musical training or background is assumed.

Unit: 1.0

MUS 225/325/AFR 232/332 Topics in Ethnomusicology: Africa and The Caribbean Washington

This course will focus on the traditional, folk, and popular musics of Africa and the Caribbean. Emphasis will be placed on issues of Africanism and marginal retention in the musics of Brazil, Cuba, and Haiti. The musical repertoires of Candomble, Santeria, and Vodun, as well as the samba, rumba, and meringue, will be discussed in terms of their respective influences on the modern musics of Africa. The musical "round trip" between Africa and the Caribbean, whereby genres like the rumba spawned new forms including the juju of Nigeria, the soukous of Zaire, and the highlife of Ghana, will be closely examined. Musical analysis will be required of those students electing to enroll at the 300 level. Students may register for either MUS 225/325 or AFR 232/332 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: 100, 111, 111X, 122, or permission of the instructor. In addition, for 325 or AFR 332, 200 or 201 is required.

MUS 230 Opera: Its History, Music, and Drama

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course offers a comprehensive chronological survey of the history and evolution of opera, from 1600 to the present time. Lectures will examine historical background, the sub-genres of operatic literature (opera seria, opera buffa, music drama), and complete operas by major composers representing a number of periods and styles (including Monteverdi, Mozart, Verdi, and Alban Berg). We will also study librettos, relevant novels, and other source materials in order to establish connections between musical structure and dramatic expression. Two class meetings, with additional sessions required for viewing operas in their entirety.

MUS 240 Opera Workshop

Dry

This course is appropriate for singers currently enrolled in voice lessons who wish to gain expertise in dramatic musical performance – that is, the techniques that aid singing actors in the presentation of operatic repertory. All students will receive extensive musical and dramatic coaching, and will have the opportunity to perform a scene or aria in an informal presentation at the conclusion of Wintersession. Emphasis will be placed on researching of roles, character development, actions appropriate to musical style, and the interaction of text, music, and movement. The class meets daily, and students are expected to study and rehearse individually and with other participants outside of class sessions. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.

MUS 244 Tonal Counterpoint and Harmony Zallman

A continuation of MUS 122/MUS 220, this course offers a comprehensive introduction to two- and three-part counterpoint with emphasis on its relationship to the harmony and melodic figuration of the music of the seventeenth through nineteenth centuries. This will be followed by a detailed study of tonal cadence structures and how these expand to produce the vast array of harmonic progressions typical of tonal music. Written exercises in two and three voices, chorales, and in chorale and keyboard-style harmony will be complemented by a keyboard lab offering practice in playing figured bass and basic harmonic progressions.

MUS 250H Performing Ensembles for Credit

MUS 250H is open to qualified students by permission of the individual ensemble director. One-half unit of credit is granted for a full year (two consecutive semesters) of participation in any one of the department-sponsored ensembles. A maximum of two units of credit toward the degree can be accumulated through 0.5 courses. Of the 32 units required for graduation, no more than four units in performing music may be counted toward the degree; thus students taking music lessons for credit during all four years at Wellesley cannot also receive degree credit via MUS 250H. No credit will be given for this course unless both semesters are completed satisfactorily. MUS 250H is graded on a credit/non-credit basis.

MUS 276 Cylinders to CDs to Cyberspace: Recording Technology and Twentieth-Century American Music

Barzel, Freundlich (Instructional Technology)

From Edison's wax cylinders to gramophones, 78 r.p.m. discs, electric recording, long-playing records, "45s," magnetic tape, multi-channel recording, the home recording studio, compact discs, sampling, MP3s, and more recent digital innovations, we will consider the relationship between American music and the ever-changing methods and media used to record and play back musical sound. By providing listening examples that correlate to significant developments in recording technology, the course will provide an overview of the recorded history of twentieth-century American music. We will also discuss how, as Mark Katz notes in Capturing Sound (2004), developments in recording technology have forced us to think and rethink music's "tangibility, portability, invisibility, repeatability, temporality, receptivity, and manipulability."

MUS 285 Visionaries and Punks: New York City's Downtown Music Scene

Barzel

As hip hop was emerging in the Bronx and salsa was taking over New York City's uptown neighborhoods, musicians on Manhattan's Lower East Side were creating their own kind of startling and original music. This course explores the New York "downtown" music scene of the 1970s–90s, concentrating on "New York Noise," avant-garde jazz, experimentalist composers, and punk music, including precursors to the feminist, queer-positive Riot girl phenomenon of the 1990s. Much like SoHo for visual artists, the Lower East Side was the incubator for many key developments in American music. We will listen to and discuss the artistically innovative music from this period, and we will learn about the history of Lower Manhattan as a bohemian enclave. No musical experience necessary.

MUS 299 Performing Music (advanced, with academic credit)

Staff

A one-hour private lesson per week. Students who have completed at least one year of MUS 199 are eligible for promotion to 299. A student wishing to enroll in MUS 299 is expected to demonstrate accomplishment distinctly beyond that of the MUS 199 student. Students are recommended for promotion by their instructors. A minimum of ten hours of practice per week is expected.

MUS 299 may be repeated without limit. One 200- or 300-level music course must be completed for each unit of credit granted for MUS 299. A music course already used to fulfill the requirement for MUS 199 may not be counted again for 299. One unit of credit is given for a full year of study. Not to be counted toward the major in music. For further information, including fees, see Performing Music: Private Instruction and Academic Credit. See also MUS 99, 199, and 344. Mandatory credit/non-credit. Except by special permission, no credit will be given for this course unless both semesters are completed satisfactorily.

MUS 300 Seminar: Studies in History, Theory, Analysis, Special Topics

Offered in both semesters, with two topics presented consecutively in each semester; students may select any number or combination of the four topics offered each year. Open to music majors, minors, and other students with appropriate background.

Topic A: Literature into Opera

Brody

The adaptation of literature into opera poses challenges for both the composer and critic. In this course, we will consider questions of literary and musical narration, the relationship of musical form and fictional plot, and the nature of character development in three case studies: novel into opera (Britten's Billy Budd and Harbison's The Great Gatsby); Shakespeare monologues set to music by Verdi, Shostakovich, and Barber; and an adaptation from multiple sources (Alban Berg's Lulu). Final projects may take the form of a critical essay or a compositional exercise in operatic adaptation.

Prerequisite: 200, 201 and 244, or permission of the instructor
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall Unit: 0.5

Topic B: Chopin's Genres

Fisk

Frederic Chopin was in many respects a paradoxical figure: a Polish nationalist who felt most at home in Paris; a brilliant performer who shunned many opportunities to perform; a Romantic Neo-Classicalist; one of the most popular and beloved composers of all time, and yet traditionally marginalized as a miniaturist, a salon composer, or as an 'effeminate' composer. One way that Chopin brought fullness to his piano-centered oeuvre was by creating a virtual world of musical genres – ballade, scherzo, nocturne, waltz, polonaise, mazurka, prelude – that by himself he either invented or redefined as independent concert pieces. This course will explore the metaphor of Chopin's generic 'system' as a kind of musical ghetto, an alluring but until recently – despite its enormous popularity – never fully validated musical world unto itself.

Semester: Fall Unit: 0.5

Topic C: Puccini to Sciarrino: Twentieth-Century Art Music in Italy.

Samuel

Composers and compositional trends in the Italian Novecento will be considered in their historical, political, and artistic context as well as through different approaches in musical analysis. Beginning with late Puccini and Respighi, and continuing with the era of Futurism and the First World War, the seminar will deal with mid-century Fascist-era composers (e.g., Dallapiccola) and with the next generations of radical avant-garde composers, including Nono, Maderna, Scelsi, Berio, to finally examine a more recent prominent voice, Salvatore Sciarrino. Consideration of film music by Italian composers such as Nino Rota and Ennio Morricone will be included.

MUS 315 Advanced Harmony

Zallman

Follows MUS 244. A study of advanced tonal techniques: mode mixture, procedures for variation and development (including harmonic sequences), modulation by chromatic harmony, and prolongation. Also includes an introduction to basic Schenkerian terminology and modes of analysis.

Prerequisite: 244 and either 313 or 201
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

MUS 344 Performance Workshop

Tang

Intensive study of advanced interpretation and performance, as an adjunct to lessons at the 299 level with a member of the College performance faculty. The program offers students an opportunity to perform frequently in an informal setting before fellow students and faculty, to discuss repertoire and interpretation, and to receive constructive comment. This is the only credit course in performance that can be counted toward the music major.

Prerequisite: Honors-level work in all music courses, averaging a GPA of 3.5 or higher; a written recommendation from her instructor in performing music
Corequisite: Students must complete both 200 and 201 by the end of the first year of 344. If enrolled in the course for a second year, an additional 200- or 300-level course must be completed. Permission to elect subsequent units is granted only to a student who has fulfilled all corequisite requirements and whose progress in 344 is judged excellent; a maximum of four units of MUS 344 may be counted toward the degree.

Directions for Election

The music major is a program of at least ten units. The normal sequence of courses for the major is: MUS 122 or 220, 244, and 315; 200 and 201 (history and analysis); and a total of two semesters of 300 (offered in theory and harmony, four autonomous modular units per year, from which students may select any combination). Also required are three additional elected units of 200- or 300-level work. The study of composition (213/313) is highly recommended for majors.

The music minor is a program of at least five units. It consists of MUS 122 or 220, 244, 200 and 201 or one of these plus another history or literature course, and one additional unit of 300-level work.

The music department does not ordinarily allow courses taken credit/non to count toward the major or minor.

Students interested in majoring or minoring in music are strongly encouraged to begin the theory sequence with 122 or 220 in the fall semester of the first year. This allows them to enroll in the spring-term offering of 244, which is the prerequisite for 200 and the courses that follow sequentially. Starting on this sequence immediately affords the option of taking a wider variety of elective music courses in the junior and senior years, and also makes it easier for those spending the junior year abroad to complete the major comfortably. Students who plan to undertake graduate study in western music history or theory are advised that knowledge of both German and French (beyond the introductory level) is essential, and proficiency in Italian highly desirable. Also of value are studies in European history, literature, and art.

Music majors are especially encouraged to develop musicianship through the acquisition of basic keyboard skills, and through ear training, private instruction in practical music, and involvement in the music department's various performing organizations.

Group instruction in basic keyboard skills, including keyboard harmony, sight reading, ear training, and score reading, is provided free to all students enrolled in any music course (including 100 with the instructor's permission and if space is available), and to MUS 99 students with the written recommendation of their private instructor. Ensemble sight reading instruction on a more advanced level is also available for pianists.

The department offers a choice of three programs for honors, all under the catalog numbers 360/370; honors students normally elect the two units in succession during the senior year. Under Program I, the honors candidate carries out independent research leading to a written thesis and an oral examination. Under Program II, honors in composition, the 360 and 370 units culminate in a composition of substance and an oral examination on the honors work. Prerequisites for this program are 315 and distinguished work in 313. Program III, honors in performance, culminates in a recital, a lecture-demonstration, and an essay on some aspect of performance. The prerequisite for Program III is 344 in the junior year and evidence during that year, through public performance, of exceptional talent and accomplishment; 344 must then be continued in the senior year (though as an adjunct to the 360/370 sequence, and not for separate course credit).

Performing Music Instrument Collection

The music department owns 40 pianos (which include 28 Steinway grands, two Mason and Hamlin grands, and numerous Steinway uprights), a Fisk practice organ, a harp, a marimba, a jazz drum kit, and a wide assortment of modern orchestral instruments. In addition, an unusually fine collection of instruments appropriate to early music performance is available for use by students. These include a Dolmetsch clavichord, a virginal, two harpsichords, a positive organ, a fortepiano, a newly restored 1823 Clementi grand piano, eight violas da gamba, a Baroque violin, and an assortment of Renaissance and Baroque wind instruments.

Of particular interest is the Charles Fisk meantone organ (completed 1981) in Houghton Memorial Chapel, which is America's first major instrument constructed after seventeenth-century German prototypes. The chapel also houses a three-manual Aeolian-Skinner pipe organ. Galen Stone Tower contains a 32-bell carillon.

Performance Workshop (MUS 344)

The performance workshop is directed by a member or members of the performing music faculty. It offers advanced students an opportunity to perform frequently in an informal setting before fellow students and faculty, to discuss repertoire and interpretation, and to receive constructive comments.

Private Instruction

The music department offers private instruction in voice, piano, fortepiano, organ, harpsichord, harp, violin, Baroque violin, fiddle, viola, violoncello, double bass, viola da gamba, flute (Baroque and modern), oboe, clarinet, bassoon, trumpet, French horn, trombone, tuba, recorder, lute, classical guitar, saxophone, and marimba; and private jazz instruction in piano, violin, bass, saxophone, flute, percussion, and voice. We will make every attempt to accommodate students wishing private instruction in instruments not currently taught.

All students planning to enroll for music lessons must take the basic skills placement test.

Information concerning auditions and course requirements for noncredit and credit study is given above under listings for MUS 99, 199, 299, and 344. Except for 344, auditions and the basic skills placement test are ordinarily given at the start of the first semester.

There is no charge for performing music to students enrolled in 199, 299, or 344 who: 1) have demonstrated financial need as determined by the Wellesley College Financial Aid Office; 2) are receiving financial aid from Wellesley College; and 3) are taking the normal length of lesson. All other 199 and 299 students are charged $884, the rate for one half-hour lesson per week throughout the year. Students who contract for performing music instruction under MUS 99 are charged $884 for one half-hour lesson per week through both semesters, and may register for 45-minute or hour lessons for an additional charge. A fee of $35 per year is charged to performing music students for the use of a practice studio. The fee for the use of a practice studio for fortepiano, harpsichord, and organ is $45.

Music lessons at Wellesley involve a full-year commitment: lesson contracts are binding for the entire school year. Performing music fees are payable by September 30; no refunds will be made thereafter.

For purposes of placement, a basic skills placement test is given before classes start in the fall semester. All students registered for MUS 111, 122, 220, or private instruction in 99 or 199 are required to take the examination.

Arrangements for lessons are made at the music department office during orientation of the first week of the semester. Students may begin private study in 99 (but not 199 or 299) at the start of the second semester, if space permits.

Academic Credit and Corequisites for MUS 199 and 299

Credit for performing music at the 199 and 299 levels is granted only for study with the department's performance faculty, not with outside instructors; the final decision for acceptance is based on the student's audition. One unit of credit is granted for a full year (two semesters) of study in either 199 or 299; except by special permission, both semesters must be satisfactorily completed before credit can be counted toward the degree. While music performance courses (99, 199, 299, 344) may be repeated without limit, no more than four units of credit in these courses may be counted toward the Wellesley degree.

More than one course in performing music for credit can be taken simultaneously only by special permission of the department.

MUS 122 is normally taken along with the first semester of lessons for credit; 220 is an alternate, and can substitute for 122 in the major/minor sequence. Students pursuing jazz performance in 199 may elect 122, 220, MUS 209/AFR 224 or MUS 233/AFR 233 as a corequisite. An additional music course must be elected as a corequisite for each unit of credit after the first year.

The music department's MUS 199 and 299 offerings are made possible by the estate of Elsa Graefe Whitney '18.

Group Instruction

Group instruction in classical guitar, percussion, and voice is available for a fee of $250 per year.

Performing Organizations

The following organizations, all directed by faculty members, are vital extensions of the Wellesley music department's academic program.

The Wellesley College Choir

The College Choir, consisting of approximately 50 singers, is devoted to the performance of choral music from the Medieval era through the present day. Endowed funds provide for collaborative concerts with men's choirs from such institutions as the U.S. Naval Academy, Harvard, and Cornell; the choir has also commissioned new compositions in recent years. In addition to staging local performances of works for choir and orchestra (including a recent performance of the Brahms Requiem), the choir tours both nationally and internationally. Auditions are held during Orientation.

The Wellesley College Glee Club

The Glee Club performs a range of choral literature from many periods. In addition to presenting concerts, the Glee Club provides music at various chapel services, and collaborates with the College Choir in concerts and at the annual Vespers service. Auditions are held at the beginning of each semester.

The Wellesley College Chamber Singers

The Chamber Singers is an ensemble of 12 to 16 vocalists selected from the College Choir's finest singers. The group specializes in music for women's voices with and without instruments, and presents concerts in conjunction with other College music organizations during the academic year.

The Collegium Musicum

The Wellesley College Collegium Musicum specializes in the performance of Western music from the Middle Ages to the early nineteenth century. This ensemble of singers and instrumentalists is open to Wellesley College students, faculty, staff, and members of the local community. The Collegium is also frequently joined by guest artists, who enrich the ensemble for special projects. Members of the Collegium enjoy the use of an extensive collection of historical instruments. Separate consort instruction is available in viola da gamba, renaissance winds, and recorder for both beginning and advanced players on a fee basis ($250 for the 2005-06 academic year).

The Wellesley-Brandeis Orchestra

The College Orchestra consists of approximately 40 musicians. Selection for membership is based on auditions at the start of each semester. The group is directed by a faculty conductor, but is run by students; a student assistant conductor is chosen by audition. The Orchestra performs compositions from the standard symphonic repertory once or twice each semester, and periodically engages in collaborations with other institutions to perform such large-scale works as Mahler's Second Symphony and Beethoven's Symphony No. 9.

The Chamber Music Society

The Chamber Music Society offers an opportunity for small ensembles to explore the chamber music repertory of the last three centuries. A number of groups, which include singers and players of strings, winds, and keyboards, rehearse independently and also meet weekly with a faculty coach at no cost. Throughout the year, players present formal and informal recitals. Entrance is by audition.

Prism Jazz

Prism Jazz is a faculty-directed jazz ensemble of six to ten students. Rehearsals encourage the development of fluency in jazz improvisation; previous jazz experience is not required. The ensemble performs several times each year, and presents joint concerts with ensembles from Wellesley and other area colleges. Workshops on jazz improvisation with visiting guest artists are also offered. Auditions are held at the beginning of each year.

Body and Soul

Body and Soul is a faculty-directed vocal jazz ensemble of six to eight singers that performs several times each academic year. The ensemble focuses on developing improvisational skills through individual and group repertoire; previous jazz experience is not required. Auditions are held at the beginning of each year.

Fiddleheads

This group studies and performs the fiddle tunes and styles of Scotland, Ireland, Cape Breton, Québec, and New England. The class is taught entirely by ear, and all instruments are welcome. No prior experience playing in a traditional style is necessary.

Yanvalou Drumming and Dance Ensemble

Yanvalou, an ensemble that explores the traditional musics of Africa and the Caribbean, offers participants the opportunity to perform with authentic instruments, and to experience a variety of cultures through their musics. In collaboration with their dance troupe, Yanvalou presents several concerts during each academic year.

Neuroscience

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Berger-Sweeney (Biological Sciences)

Neuroscience Advisory Committee: Beltz (Biological Sciences), Ducas (Physics), Goldman (Physics), Kolodny (Chemistry), Hildreth (Computer Science), Keane (Psychology), Paul (Biological Sciences).

The Departments of Biological Sciences, Chemistry, Computer Science, Physics, and Psychology offer an interdepartmental major in neuroscience that provides interdisciplinary study of the nervous system and mechanisms underlying behavior.

A major in neuroscience must include the following core courses: BISC 110, 111; CHEM 105 (or 120), and 211; PSYC 205, and NEUR 213/BISC 213, which should be completed by the end of junior year. For students who enter the College in fall 2004 or later, PSYC 101 is also a required course for the major. Majors must elect two 200-level courses from among the following: BISC 219, 220, CHEM 221, 222; and of PSYC 215, 216, 217. Additionally, majors must elect two 300-level courses, at least one of which must be a laboratory course. Acceptable 300-level courses are BISC 302, 306; CLSC 300; CS 332; NEUR 315/BISC 315, NEUR 332/BISC 332, NEUR 335/BISC 335/PHYS 335; PSYC 316, 318, 319. Any other 300-level courses must be specifically approved by the director. A minimum of 6 courses (a minimum of 6.75 units) towards the major requirements must be taken at Wellesley.

Honors (senior thesis) projects may be supervised by members of the various departments associated with the major, in accordance with the requirements of the host department. Students are advised to check with the chair of the host department in their sophomore or junior year to clarify details of the honors program (see honors requirements for individual host department).

Students wishing to attend graduate school in neuroscience also should take CHEM 212 and physics through PHYS 106 or PHYS 108.

NEUR 213/BISC 213 The Biology of Brain and Behavior with Laboratory

Beltz, Helluy, Paul (Biological Sciences), Goldman (Physics)

An introduction to the study of the nervous system and behavior with particular emphasis on the structure and function of the nervous system. In the first half of the semester, basic neuroanatomy, neurochemistry and neurophysiology are covered. In the second half of the semester, brain mechanisms involved in sensation, language, addiction, memory, and cognition are emphasized. The laboratory is designed to expose the student to basic neuroanatomy, neurochemistry, physiology and behavior. Students may register for either NEUR 213 or BISC 213 and credit will be granted accordingly.

NEUR 315/BISC 315 Advanced Topics in Neurobiology with Laboratory

Tetel (Biological Sciences)

Topic for 2005-06: Neuroendocrinology.

Hormones act throughout the body to coordinate basic biological functions such as development, differentiation and reproduction. This course will investigate how hormones act in the brain to regulate physiology and behavior. We will study how the major neuroendocrine axes regulate a variety of functions, including brain development, reproductive physiology and behavior, homeostasis and stress. The regulation of these functions by hormones will be investigated at the molecular, cellular and systems levels. Laboratory experiments will explore various approaches to neuroendocrine research, including the detection of hormone receptors in the brain and analysis of behavior. Students may register for either NEUR 315 or BISC 315 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: NEUR 213/BISC 213
Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.25

NEUR 332/BISC 332 Advanced Topics in Neuroscience

Tetel (Biological Sciences)

Topic for 2005-06: Frontiers in Neuroscience: Neurogenesis and Neurodegeneration.

This course will explore two critical issues in neuroscience today: the birth of new neurons (neurogenesis) in the adult brain, and mechanisms of cell death in the brain (neurodegeneration). In addition to lectures, students will review current literature, give group presentations, and write a paper on their chosen topic. We will begin by exploring the controversy surrounding, and the implications of, neurogenesis in the adult brain. The second part of the course will investigate mechanisms of neurodegeneration in disorders such as Alzheimer's, Huntington's and Parkinson's Disease. Students will develop skills in critically reading research papers and giving presentations. Students may register for either NEUR 332 or BISC 332 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Distribution: Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

NEUR 335/BISC 335/PHYS 335 Computational Neuroscience with Laboratory

Goldman (Physics)

Computations by networks of neurons in the brain underlie all of our thoughts, perceptions, and memories. However, direct experimental observation of neural computations is extremely difficult. Mathematical models are used increasingly to bridge the gap between experimental measurements and hypothesized network functions. This course will focus on the use of mathematical models to describe computations performed in the nervous systems of a variety of animals. Topics will range from single neuron biophysics to the analysis of circuits thought to underlie sensory perception and memory. Each topic will be introduced by background lectures, followed by student-led presentations of primary literature and construction of a computer model of the system studied. Labs will introduce students to computer programming of mathematical models in MATLAB and the neuron-simulator NEURON. Students may register for either NEUR 335, BISC 335, or PHYS 335 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: PHYS 104/107 and either PHYS 106/108 or NEUR/BISC 213; or permission of instructor. No programming experience is required. Not open to first-year students.

Peace and Justice Studies

A STRUCTURED INDIVIDUAL MAJOR

Faculty Co-Director: Kapteijns (History)

Co-Director for Experiential Education: Kazanjian

Lecturer: Kazanjian

Peace and Justice Studies Advisory Board: Agosin (Spanish), Lam (East Asian Languages and Literatures), Levitt (Sociology), de Warren (Philosophy), Genero (Psychology), Kapteijns (History), Kazanjian (Religious and Spiritual Life), Murphy (Political Science), Rosenwald (English), Velenchik (Economics), Wasserspring (Political Science)

The peace and justice studies program provides a program of study which integrates the many areas of intellectual inquiry relating to the historical and contemporary search for a peaceful and just society and world.

A major (eight units) in peace and justice studies should be designed in consultation with the program directors. Majors must elect a concentration of at least four units above 100 level. Concentrations will normally be in one department, but may be constructed across departments. In either case, the major must demonstrate the intellectual coherence of the concentration. The major must include two 300-level courses. The major consists of:

1. Two required courses: PEAC 104

(Introduction to the Study of Conflict, Justice, and Peace) and PEAC 259 (Peace and Conflict Resolution)

2. Six courses through which students are expected to develop proficiency in two areas:

- the social, political, historical, and cultural factors that lead to conflict, violence, and injustice;
- the various strategies and techniques of peacemaking and justice-seeking at the level of nation states, social groups and communities within nation states, and interpersonal and individual relationships;

Students are expected to develop expertise in a particular international, national, regional, or local conflict situation.

3. Students majoring in peace and justice studies are usually expected to include an experiential education component in their course of study. This component should be discussed with the program directors and may include:

Wintersession, summer or year-long internships, course-related experiential education programs, or community service projects.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

PEAC 104 Introduction to the Study of Conflict, Justice, and Peace

Murphy (Political Science)

An interdisciplinary introduction to the study of conflict, justice, and peace. The course engages students in developing an analytical and theoretical framework for examining the dynamics of conflict, violence, and injustice and the strategies that have been employed to attain peace and justice, including: balance of power, cooperation, diplomacy and conflict resolution, law, human rights, social movements, social justice (economic, environmental, and race/class/gender), interpersonal communication, and religiously-inspired social transformation.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PEAC 224/324 Grassroots Development, Conflict Resolution, and the Gandhian Legacy in India

Kazanjian (Religious and Spiritual Life), Murphy (Political Science) and Rosenwald (English)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This three and a half week wintersession course in India focuses on understanding the historical development of the Gandhian philosophy of nonviolence and on how Gandhian strategies have been adapted by grassroots community-based organizations to address the challenges facing India and the world today. The course involves both experiential and classroom learning. During this course we will meet with women's organizations, peace organizations, environmental action groups, and community health activists in rural and urban communities in the North of India. In addition we will take part in a seminar series on intercultural and interreligious conflict resolution at the Malviya Centre for Peace Research at Banaras Hindu University. This course may be taken as either 224 or, with additional assignments, 324. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's office approval.

Prerequisite: Two 200-level courses in related fields.

Application required.

PEAC 259 Peace and Conflict Resolution

Kolodny (Chemistry)

Topic for 2005-06: The Nuclear Challenge.

Since the discovery of nuclear fission in the 1930s, the potential of nuclear energy both for war and for peace has presented an ongoing challenge to humanity. This course will examine the development of nuclear weapons and the treaties limiting them, as well as the ongoing danger of nuclear terrorism. It will also examine peaceful uses of nuclear energy for the generation of electricity and for medical diagnosis and treatment, as well as the waste disposal problems that result from these uses. Course materials will include primary and secondary historical documents, literature and films. No scientific background required.

Associate Professor: McGowan

Assistant Professor: de Warren, Wearing

PHIL 101/WRIT 125 Ancient Greek Philosophy Congleton

Study of selected dialogues of Plato and treatises of Aristotle. Plato topics to be discussed and written about include his account of the human "psyche," his theory of Forms, and his portrait of Socrates. Studies of Plato's student, Aristotle, will include learning to speak, write, and analyze the philosophical vocabulary which Aristotle developed and which became standard for subsequent Western philosophy. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards the major in philosophy. Includes a third session each week. Mandatory credit/noncredit.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PHIL 103 Self and World: Introduction to Metaphysics and Epistemology McGowan, McIntyre

This course introduces basic philosophical methods and concepts by exploring a variety of approaches to some central philosophical problems. Topics covered include the existence of God, the relation between reason and faith, skepticism and certainty, theories of knowledge, the relation between mind and body, and the compatibility of free will and causal determination. Readings are drawn from historical and contemporary texts. Discussions and assignments encourage the development of the student's own critical perspective on the problems discussed.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

PHIL 106 Introduction to Moral Philosophy McIntyre, Chaplin

A study of central issues in moral philosophy from ancient Greece to the present day. Topics include the nature of morality, conceptions of justice, views of human nature and their bearing on questions of value, and competing tests of right and wrong.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

PHIL 201 Ancient Greek Philosophy Congleton

An introduction to philosophy through study of the dialogues of Plato and the treatises of Aristotle. Emphasis will be on topics in Plato and Aristotle that are especially important today, such as the foundations of "stereotyping," whether scientific and ethical reasoning are fundamentally the same or different, whether there are rational emotions, whether women and men are or are not essentially different, and what role political rhetoric plays in a democracy.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken PHIL 101/WRIT 125
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PHIL 202/AFR 202 African Philosophy
Menkiti

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Initiation into basic African philosophical concepts and principles. The first part of the course deals with a systematic interpretation of such questions as the Bantu African philosophical concept of Muntu and related beliefs, as well as Bantu ontology, metaphysics, and ethics. The second part centers on the relationship between philosophy and ideologies and its implications in Black African social, political, religious, and economic institutions. The approach will be comparative. Students may register for either PHIL 202 or AFR 202 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 203 Philosophy of Art
de Warren

What makes an object an art object? How does art reflect on the human condition? Why is there art rather than not, expression rather than silence, a gesture rather than stillness? A philosophical approach to art is primarily interested in clarifying the problem of aesthetic value, the special activities that produce art, and the claim to truth which finds expression through artistic creation. The aim of this course is to explore these questions, among others, by examining the positions of major philosophers and twentieth-century artists.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PHIL 204 Philosophy and Literature
Menkiti

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. This course considers the questions: what sort of object is the literary text and what are the ontological issues raised by acts of literary interpretation? It also examines the complex relationship between fiction and fact, and between fiction and morality. The treatment of commitment to self and others, of self-knowledge and self-identity, and of individual and social ideals will also be explored. We end the course by looking at poetry – how it has meaning despite an inbuilt element of ambiguity and how it succeeds not only in shaping, but also healing the world.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 206 Normative Ethics
Chaplin

Can philosophers help us to think about moral issues, such as what to do about poverty and hunger, or racism and sexism; what is the good life and how could we know that it is good? We shall look at the attempts of some contemporary philosophers to provide answers, or at least guides to finding answers, to these and similar questions. We shall compare and contrast several approaches to evaluating an action: placing major weight on its consequences, or on whether it conforms to a moral rule, or whether it is the sort of thing a virtuous person would do.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PHIL 207 Philosophy of Language
McGowan

This course will explore a variety of philosophical issues concerning language: the different ways in which spoken language functions and conveys information, the alleged difference between speech and action and how it relates to freedom of speech issues (e.g., pornography and hate speech), the general problem of how words get attached to their referents, and criticisms of traditional conceptions of meaning and reference.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy, and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PHIL 208 Theories of Knowledge
Wearing

We usually assume that we know a lot about the world around us. But how do we know that our beliefs reflect what the world is really like? We will investigate the nature of knowledge and the conditions under which we can be said to have any. We will explore answers to the following questions: What distinguishes knowledge from mere opinion? When is it rational to hold a particular belief? What are the connections between knowledge and evidence? What constitutes justification? We will conclude by examining the contributions of feminism and cognitive science to answering these questions.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy, and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PHIL 209 Scientific Reasoning
Wearing

This is a reasoning course that emphasizes the practical importance of critical thinking. Topics covered will include the basic forms of scientific inference, the basics of probability, issues of data collection, the difference between correlation and causation, and the theoretical and practical difficulties associated with establishing causal claims. Students will also gain an appreciation of the political and ethical importance of critical thinking by evaluating cases of sexist and racist science.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PHIL 210 Philosophy of Business
Congleton

This course looks at philosophical foundations of U.S. corporate business and the role of the corporate executive, beginning historically and moving to the present day. It begins by looking at the development of corporate business from the time of the greatly accelerated industrialization and urbanization following the Civil War, looking at differing theories involved in thinking about the new urban wage laborer and unions, the definition of corporations as legal “persons” beginning in the 1880s, the emergence of government regulations such as the Sherman Antitrust law, and the transformation of the U.S. into a consumerist nation, including the development of “marketing” in relationship to “democracy.” The study of the construction of the role of corporate executive includes questions of gender in relationship to individualism, competitiveness and teamwork.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PHIL 211 Philosophy of Religion
Winkler

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. A philosophical examination of the nature and significance of religious belief and religious life. Topics include the nature of faith, the role of reason in religion, the ethical import of religious belief, and toleration and religious diversity.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 213 Social and Political Philosophy
Chaplin

Human rights are supposed to be rights claimed by virtue of simply being human, and, as such, they are said to exist universally. However, despite the unanimous adoption of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights by the United Nations, there is now a global conversation about the importance of civil and economic rights, the right of Western society to impose its conception of human rights on other societies, and the rights of minorities. Beginning with the eighteenth century and extending into the contemporary debate, this course will discuss the nature, justification, and extent of human rights.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy, and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PHIL 214 Foundations of Ethics
Piper

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Can we all get along? In a multicultural society in which we share a common language but often differ in our basic values and cultural practices, is there anything on which we can all agree? If so, what are the ground rules for reasoned dialogue? For social cooperation? In order to formulate viable answers to these questions that provide real-life resolutions to our real-life conflicts, we will examine and critique the answers offered by the leading contemporary moral theorists, John Rawls and Jürgen Habermas.

Prerequisite: 106 or another course in ethical theory.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 215 Philosophy of Mind*McIntyre*

How are thoughts and sensations related to neurological processes? Could mental states be identical to brain states? What is free will? Could we have free will if we live in a deterministic universe? After examining a variety of answers to these traditional questions in the philosophy of mind, we will expand our inquiry to include recent work in philosophy and cognitive science that examines the nature of consciousness, animal intelligence, and the role of emotion in thought and action.

Prerequisite: One course in philosophy, psychology, or cognitive science or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

PHIL 216 Logic*Wearing, McGowan*

An introduction to formal logic. Students will learn a variety of formal methods – methods sensitive only to the form of the arguments, as opposed to their content – to determine whether the conclusions of the arguments follow from their premises. Discussion of the philosophical problems that arise in logic, and of the application of formal logic to problems in philosophy and other disciplines. Some consideration of issues in the philosophy of language.

PHIL 217 Philosophy of Science: Traditional and Feminist Perspectives*Wearing*

This course will survey various issues in the philosophy of science surrounding the debate over scientific realism. Issues include: What constitutes adequate evidence? Exactly what does accepting a scientific theory involve? Does science discover the single objective way that the world is or does it partially construct the world around us? How do cultural attitudes (e.g. gender) affect scientific practice?

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

PHIL 221 History of Modern Philosophy*Winkler*

A study of central themes in seventeenth- and eighteenth-century philosophy, concentrating on Descartes, Hume, and Kant. More limited readings of such figures as Spinoza, Locke, Ann Conway, Leibniz, and Berkeley. Among the topics: the relationship between mind and body; the limits of reason; determinism and freedom; the bearing of science on religion.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students in their second semester and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Historical Studies

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PHIL 222 American Philosophy*Winkler*

The development of American philosophy from colonial times to the present. Among the topics: Native American world-views; European justifications of colonization and conquest; the spiritualist metaphysics of Berkeley and Jonathan Edwards; philosophical underpinnings of the revolution and the republic; slavery and abolition; transcendentalism (Emerson, Thoreau); justice and civil disobedience; feminism. We will concentrate in particular on pragmatism, America's unique contribution to world philosophy, with reading in Peirce, James, Dewey, Quine, Richard Rorty, and Cornel West. The course is intended for students of history, literature, and American studies as well as for students of philosophy.

PHIL 224 Existentialism*de WarrenNOT OFFERED 2005-06. OFFERED 2006-07.

This course will study basic themes in existentialism by focusing on the theoretical and theatrical works of key existentialist writers such as Jean-Paul Sartre, Simone de Beauvoir, Antonin Artaud, Samuel Beckett, Albert Camus, and Eugene Ionesco. In taking the human condition as its primary question, existentialism redefines the meaning of theory as a philosophical reflection or "seeing" of the human condition, as well as the significance of theatre as a "seeing" or "manifestation" of features of the human condition that otherwise remain hidden from view. Special emphasis will be placed on the themes of boredom, death, bad faith, anxiety, suffering, freedom, and inter-subjective relationships.

Prerequisite: One philosophy course or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Historical Studies

Semester: N/O. Offered 2006-07.

Unit: 1.0

PHIL 225 Phenomenology and Hermeneutics*de Warren*

Phenomenology attempts to reclaim the richness of human experience for philosophical analysis. An important movement of twentieth-century philosophy, phenomenology represents an original approach to traditional philosophical questions based on the investigation of how "lived experience" animates the various ways in which the world is meaningful for human beings. As an introduction to the phenomenological movement, including the hermeneutic turn of phenomenological philosophy, this course will focus on the work of Husserl, Heidegger, Lévinas, and Merleau-Ponty.

Prerequisite: One philosophy course or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition

Unit: 1.0

PHIL 226 Human Nature in Three Medieval Philosophers*Congleton*

What is it to be a human being? This course will examine the responses of two twelfth-century writers - the Jewish thinker Moses ben Maimon (Maimonides) and the Islamic thinker Ibn Rushd (Averroes) - and a thirteenth-century Christian thinker who built on their work, Thomas Aquinas. Primary focus will be the question of whether each human being is essentially unique or simply an example of a species. Other questions will include whether the most educated people should control what texts/debates are available to the less educated, and what is involved in arguing that God is "transcendent." The course will begin with an introduction to central concepts of Plato and Aristotle used by these medieval thinkers. Also considered will be the "neo-Platonism" of Plotinus and that of Ficino, as found in his discussion of "Platonic love."

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy or medieval studies and to sophomores, juniors and seniors without prerequisite.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PHIL 230 Nineteenth-Century Philosophy*de Warren*

This course will study selected themes in nineteenth-century philosophy. Readings from Kant, Hegel, Marx, Kierkegaard, Schopenhauer, and Nietzsche will address central issues such as the status of reason, the irrational and the unconscious, modernization and the meaning of history, and the significance of religion and art for human existence. Other important figures of nineteenth-century thought such as Darwin, Comte, Mill, and Schlegel may also be addressed.

Prerequisite: One course in philosophy or permission of instructor.

PHIL 232 Vedanta Ethics and Epistemology*Piper*

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Whereas Western ethics is dominated by the obsession with reconciling self-interest with altruism and passion with reason, the Vedanta ethics and epistemology of ancient India regards the distinction among them as the product of egocentric delusion and ignorance of the true nature of the self. Vedanta confidently prescribes very specific actions and personal practices as time-tested means for achieving insight into the true nature of the self and union with ultimate metaphysical reality. We will study the basic texts in order to evaluate ourselves, our practices, our values as products of an increasingly ubiquitous Western culture.

Prerequisite: Open to all students.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

PHIL 233 Environmental Philosophy*Winkler*

A study of conceptions of the natural world and our place in it, from the pre-Socratics and the Book of Genesis to the deep ecologists and ecofeminists of the present day. Readings in the history of philosophy (Aristotle, Descartes, Spinoza, Newton, Rousseau, and Hume, among others), in Emerson and Thoreau, and in contemporary nature writers and natural scientists. Discussion of ethical issues and of Third-World critics of Western environmentalism.

PHIL 234 Philosophy of Yoga*Piper*

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Yoga, one of the six orthodox systems of Indian philosophy, includes philosophies of ethics and action, mind and spirit, knowledge, love, and the body. The word "yoga" means union – of individual ego and ultimate reality. We will study classical texts and commentaries and evaluate yoga's applications to a global Westernized culture that fragments relationships, identity, bodies, minds, and spirit in zero-sum relations of competition, distrust, and mutual antagonism.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 249 Medical Ethics

Menkiti

A philosophical examination of some central problems at the interface of medicine and ethics. Exploration of the social and ethical implications of current advances in biomedical research and technology. Topics discussed will include psychosurgery, gender surgery, genetic screening, amniocentesis, and euthanasia.

Prerequisite: Open to first-year students who have taken one course in philosophy and to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PHIL 300 Seminar in Modern Philosophy

Winkler

Topic for 2005-06: Spinoza and Nietzsche. A study of two naturalistic world-views with dramatic consequences for morality. Half of the meetings will be devoted a close reading of Spinoza's Ethics, and half to close readings of several works by Nietzsche, among them Beyond Good and Evil and On the Genealogy of Morals. Although the course will not be limited to themes common to the two philosophers, these themes will receive particular attention. They include the nature of truth; the moral and political consequences of naturalism (the attempt to view human beings as parts of natural world); the consequences of naturalism for religious belief; the challenge of combining determinism with calls to freedom or self-mastery; and alternatives to the belief in personal immortality.

Prerequisite: 221
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PHIL 302 Kant's Solution to Skepticism and Solipsism

Piper

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Kant thinks that we can't know what anything is really like, including us. We can only know appearances we construct. So it seems we're permanently trapped in subjective illusions and biases. But Kant also thinks we have objective knowledge and that he can prove it. How can he reconcile these seemingly contradictory claims? Kant's Critique of Pure Reason has set the agenda for nineteenth- and twentieth-century philosophy, and influenced psychology, physics, history, geography, political science, and law.

Prerequisite: 221
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 303 Kant's Metaethics

Piper

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Kant thinks human beings are free, rational, and autonomous; and therefore have moral responsibilities that are universally and cross-culturally valid. This is a controversial view that has influenced international conceptions of human rights, justice, legal liability, and personal convictions about freedom and self-determination. Its metaethical justification begins in Kant's conceptions of freedom, reason, and the self in the Critique of Pure Reason, and extends all the way through to his normative moral theory in the late Metaphysics of Morals.

Prerequisite: 221
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

PHIL 311 Plato

Staff

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. Intensive reading of some of the middle and late Platonic dialogues with particular attention to two issues: the so-called "Socratic Paradox," which holds that no one knowingly does evil, and the theory of forms. Alternates with 312.

Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

PHIL 312 Aristotle

Chaplin

An inquiry into some of Aristotle's ethical ideas, including but not limited to, the notion of human flourishing as an ethical concept, virtue as an activity of the soul, why we sometimes act against our own best interests, the difference between justice and equity, and friendship as an ethical category. Some contemporary views of virtue ethics will also be discussed. Alternates with 311.

Prerequisite: 201 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Religion, Ethics and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PHIL 313 Seminar in Metaphysics

McGowan

Topic for 2005-06: Constructionism. This course will survey various ways in which we make facts about our world. That certain facts are constructed (e.g. speed limits and check-mates) is uncontroversial. Substantive philosophical issues arise, however, when delineating the precise manner in which such facts are constructed and drawing a defensible line between that which is constructed and that which is not. Constructionist speech, the social construction of gender and certain global constructionist theses will be considered. The diverse work of such contemporary analytic philosophers as Elgin, Goodman, Haslanger, Hacking, Lewis, Putnam, and Searle will be discussed.

Prerequisite: Open to students who have taken two courses in philosophy.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PHIL 323 Seminar. Continental Philosophy

de Warren

Topic for 2005-06: Notre Maître: Sartre's Philosophical Century. This seminar explores the philosophical thought of Jean-Paul Sartre and its resonance in the development of twentieth-century French philosophy. Based primarily on a reading of Sartre's principal philosophical works, Being and Nothingness and Critique of Dialectical Reason, defining moments of Sartre's thinking are examined and connected to selected themes in the writings of Laçan, Foucault, Lévinas, Merleau-Ponty, and Levi-Straus. Emphasis is placed on Sartre's seminal analysis of the "Other" and "the look," the dialectic of "for-itself" and "in-itself" in the formation of consciousness; the phenomena of "bad faith" and "anguish," and the concepts of "individual praxis" and "the practico-inert." Other readings include: Laçan's "The Formation of the Ego in the Mirror Stage;" Foucault's "The Birth of the Clinic: an archaeology of the medical regard"; Lévinas' "Time and the Other" and "The Trace of the Other."

Prerequisite: One course in philosophy or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PHIL 326 Philosophy of Law

Menkiti

A systematic consideration of fundamental issues in the conception and practice of law. Such recurrent themes in legal theory as the nature and function of law, the relation of law to morality, the function of rules in legal reasoning, and the connection between law and social policy are examined. We will also look at some philosophical problems that arise in connection with crime, civil rights, and "the legislation of morality."

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite and to sophomores who have taken one course in philosophy.
Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PHIL 340 Seminar. Contemporary Ethical Theory

McIntyre

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06.

Prerequisite: 103, 106, 201, 206, 213, 214, 215, 303, 311, 312 or permission of the instructor.

PHIL 345 Seminar. Advanced Topics in Philosophy of Psychology and Social Science

McIntyre

Topic for 2005-06: Theories of Motivation. Humean accounts of motivation distinguish between beliefs and desires and claim that only desires can motivate action since beliefs are by nature motivationally inert. Yet emotions, evaluative judgments, and episodes of sympathetic identification don't seem to fit neatly into this bifurcated classificatory system. It is not even clear that Hume's own moral psychology is consistent with standard "Humean" views. Objections to Humean views will be critically examined while contemporary alternatives to them are explored.

Prerequisite: 103, 106, 206, 207, 215, 216, 217, 221 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PHIL 349 Seminar. Speech Acts

McGowan

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. This seminar will survey various philosophical issues and applications of speech act theory. Particular attention will be paid to utterances that enact facts about what is permissible for others, the role of authority in this, and indirect speech acts. Recent applications of speech act theory to free speech (e.g. hate speech and pornography) will also be discussed.

Directions for Election

The philosophy department divides its courses and seminars into three subfields: (A) the history of philosophy: 201, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 230, 300, 302, 303, 311, 312, 319, 349 (when the topic is appropriate); (B) value theory: 106, 202, 203, 204, 206, 208, 210, 211, 213, 214, 227, 232, 233, 234, 249, 303, 312 (when the topic is appropriate), 326, 332, 340, 349 (when the topic is appropriate); (C) metaphysics and theory of knowledge: 103, 202, 207, 209, 211, 215, 216, 217, 218, 232, 233, 234, 300, 302, 304, 313, 314, 323, 327, 345, 349 (when the topic is appropriate).

The major in philosophy consists of at least nine units. PHIL 201 and 221 are required of all majors. In order to assure that all majors are familiar with the breadth of the field, every major must take two units in each of subfields B and C. Majors are strongly encouraged to take a third unit in subfield A. Students planning graduate work in philosophy should take PHIL 216 and acquire a reading knowledge of Latin, Greek, French, or German. In order to assure that students have acquired some depth in philosophy, the department requires that each major complete at least two 300-level units; these units must be in different subfields of philosophy.

The minor in philosophy consists of five units. No more than one of these units may be at the 100 level; PHIL 201 or 221 is required of all minors; at least one of the five units must be at the 300 level.

Honors

The department offers the following options for earning honors in the major field: (1) writing a thesis or a set of related essays and passing an oral examination; (2) a program designed particularly for students who have a general competence and who wish to improve their grasp of their major field by independent study in various sectors of the field. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. Option (2) involves selecting at least two related areas and one special topic for independent study. When the student is ready, she will take written examinations in her two areas and, at the end of the second term, an oral examination focusing on her special topic. See Academic Distinctions.

Exchange

The department participates in exchange programs with Brandeis and MIT. Both schools have excellent philosophy departments, and students are encouraged to consult the respective catalogs for offerings.

PE 121 (Fall and Spring) Physical Education Activities and Athletics Teams

Physical Education and Athletics Requirement

To complete the College degree requirement in physical education, a student must earn eight credit points. Students are strongly urged to earn the eight credit points by the end of the sophomore year. These credit points do not count as academic units toward the degree, but are required for graduation. There are no exceptions for the degree requirement in physical education and athletics.

Directions for Election

The requirement can be completed through:

1. completion of sufficient number of physical education instructional classes to earn eight credits; or
2. sufficient length of participation in one or more of Wellesley's 13 varsity athletic teams to earn eight credits; or
3. a combination of sufficient completion of instructional classes and participation on varsity athletic teams to earn eight credits, including credits earned at other colleges.

Students can receive partial credit towards the eight credit points through:

Independent pursuit either on or off campus (max. four points). Students must satisfactorily complete this preapproved independent study as specified in the physical education and athletics curriculum handbook.

Sufficient length of participation in Wellesley's physical activity clubs (max. two points). Students must satisfactorily complete this preapproved participation as specified in the physical education and athletics curriculum handbook.

Transfer students will be given partial credit toward the physical education requirement dependent upon year and semester of admission. Usually, students admitted in the sophomore year will be expected to complete four credit points at Wellesley. Students admitted in the junior year or as a Davis Scholar will be considered as having completed the degree requirement.

A student's choice of activity is subject to the approval of the physical education and athletics department and the College health services. If a student has a temporary or permanent medical restriction, she, the physical education and athletics department and the College health services will arrange an activity program to serve her individual needs.

No student is exempt from the physical education requirement.

Students may take a specific physical education activity only once for credit. Students may continue to enroll in physical education instructional classes after the PE 121 requirement is completed provided space is available in the class.

A. Physical Education Instructional Classes

The instructional program in physical education is divided into four terms, two each semester. Some physical education activity classes are scheduled for a term (six weeks) and give two credit points toward completing the requirement. Other physical education activity classes are offered for a semester (12 weeks) and count four credit points toward completing the requirement. All classes are graded on a credit-no credit basis.

CR – Credit for course completed satisfactorily.

NC – No credit for course not completed satisfactorily. Inadequate familiarity with the content of the course or excessive absence may result in an NC grade.

INC – Incomplete is assigned to a student who has completed the course with the exception of a test or assignment which was missed near the end of the course because of reasons not willfully negligent.

Activity classes scheduled for a semester (12 weeks):

Both Semesters: African Dance, Jazz, Badminton, Self-defense, Yoga, Strength and Circuit Training, Tai-chi, Elementary Tennis, Squash, Stretch and Tone, Pilates, Cardiovascular Fitness

First Semester only: Ballet I, Modern Dance I, Archery, Raquetball, Latino Salsa Dance, Indian Dance-Kathak Style, Karate, Kung Fu

Second Semester only: Golf, Caribbean Dance Styles, Latino Combination Dances, Intermediate Tennis

Activity classes scheduled for a term (six weeks):

Activity	Term
Aerobics	1, 2, 3, 4
Archery	4
CPR/First Aid	3, Wintersession
Fencing	2, 3
Golf	1, 4
Horseback Riding	1, 2, 3, 4
Sailing	1, 4
Swim – Elementary	1
Swim – Stroke Development	2
Skiing Downhill/Snowboarding	3
Table Tennis	1, 2
Yoga	Wintersession

B. Athletics Teams

The intercollegiate program offers 13 sports through which a student may earn credit points towards the completion of the degree requirement. The athletics program is divided into three seasons: fall, winter, and spring with several sports offered each season.

Athletic Team	Season
Basketball	Winter
Crew (varsity and novice)	Fall, Spring
Cross-country Running	Fall
Fencing	Winter
Field Hockey	Fall
Golf	Fall/Spring
Lacrosse	Spring
Soccer	Fall
Softball	Spring
Squash	Winter
Swimming	Winter
Tennis	Fall, Spring
Volleyball	Fall

Enrollment and eligibility for earning credit points toward completion of requirement by participating on one of these teams is limited to those students who are selected to the team by the head coach. Notices of organizational meetings and tryouts for these 13 teams are distributed each year by the head coach.

PE 205 Sports Medicine

Bauman

The course combines the study of biomechanics and anatomic kinesiology. It focuses on the effects of the mechanical forces which arise within and outside the body and their relationship to injuries of the musculoskeletal system. In addition to the lectures, laboratory sessions provide a clinical setting for hands-on learning and introduce students to the practical skills involved in evaluating injuries, determining methods of treatment and establishing protocol for rehabilitation. An off-site cadaver lab reinforces identification of anatomical structures. Academic credit only.

PHYS 101 Einstein's Century: Physics in the Last 100 Years

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In 1905, Albert Einstein published three seminal papers in the history of modern science, introducing the theory of special relativity, launching the field of quantum mechanics, and helping establish the atomic nature of matter. We will use Einstein's contributions as a springboard for an introductory exploration of the natures of light, matter, space, and time. PHYS 101 is designed for the student who may not have a strong science background but would like an introduction to the major themes of physics in the last one hundred years. In addition to lectures and demonstrations we will have readings that draw from the biographical and historical contexts in which these ideas developed. We will make use of basic high school algebra, and some trigonometry, in our work. Not to be counted toward minimum major or to fulfill entrance requirement for medical school.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement.

Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science

PHYS 103 The Physics of Marine Mammals with Laboratory

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Sperm whales can dive thousands of feet, stay submerged for over an hour, and resurface rapidly; no other mammal can do that and survive. Many marine mammals thrive in arctic waters, sense the world around them using sound, and move with phenomenal efficiency. In this course we will learn the physics underlying the remarkable abilities of these aquatic mammals. Marine mammal characteristics and the associated scientific topics include: diving and swimming (ideal gas law, fluids, and forces); metabolism (energy, thermodynamics, and scaling); and senses (waves, acoustics, and optics). This course represents a naturally interdisciplinary approach in connecting biology, chemistry and engineering principles to the physics we will study as we learn about these animals. The course also emphasizes the development of modeling and problem-solving techniques. Whale watch. Not to be counted toward the minimum major or to fulfill entrance requirement for medical school.

PHYS 104 Fundamentals of Mechanics with Laboratory

Berg, Quivers (Fall), Ducas (Spring)

This course is a systematic introduction to Newtonian mechanics, which governs the motion of objects ranging from biological cells to galaxies. Primary concepts such as mass, force, energy, and momentum are introduced and discussed in depth. We will place emphasis on the conceptual framework and on using fundamental principles to analyze the everyday world. Topics include: Newton's Laws, conservation of energy, conservation of momentum, rotations, waves, and fluids. Concepts from calculus will be developed and used as needed. Laboratories introduce experimental approaches to these topics. Students with a strong background in math or previous experience in physics should consider PHYS 107. May not be taken in addition to 107. Not to be counted toward the minimum major.

Prerequisite: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement; Corequisite: calculus at the level of MATH 115.

PHYS 106 Fundamentals of Electricity, Magnetism, and Optics with Laboratory

Goldman (Fall), Quivers (Spring)

This second semester of classical physics concentrates on the fundamental forces of electricity and magnetism. The electric and magnetic forces are entirely responsible for the structures and interactions of atoms and molecules, the properties of all solids, and the structure and function of biological material. Our technological society is largely dependent on the myriad applications of the physics of electricity and magnetism, e.g., motors and generators, communications systems, and the architecture of computers. After developing quantitative descriptions of electricity and magnetism, we explore the relations between them, leading us to an understanding of light as an electromagnetic phenomenon. The course will consider both ray-optics and wave-optics descriptions of light. Laboratory exercises will emphasize electrical circuits, electronic measuring instruments, optics, and optical experiments. PHYS 106 does not normally satisfy the prerequisites for 202 or 203 and does not count toward the minimum major. In the fall semester, this course may be taken as 106 or, with alternative assignments and exams, 108.

PHYS 107 Principles and Applications of Mechanics with Laboratory

Ducas, Stark (Fall), Stark (Spring)

Newtonian mechanics governs the motion of objects ranging from biological cells to galaxies. The fundamental principles of mechanics allow us to begin to analyze and understand the physical world. In this introductory, calculus-based course, we will systematically study the laws underlying how and why objects move, and develop analysis techniques for applying these laws to everyday situations. Broadly applicable problem-solving skills will be developed and stressed. Topics include: forces, energy, momentum, rotations, gravity, and waves, and a wide range of applications. Laboratories focus on hands-on approaches to these topics. May not be taken in addition to 104.

PHYS 108 Principles and Applications of Electricity, Magnetism, and Optics with Laboratory

Goldman (Fall), Berg (Spring)

The electromagnetic force, one of the fundamental interactions in nature, is responsible for a remarkably wide range of phenomena and technologies, from the structures of atoms and molecules to the transmission of nerve impulses and the characteristics of integrated circuits. This introductory course begins with the study of Coulomb's Law of electrostatics and progresses through investigations of electric fields, electric potential energy, magnetic fields, and Faraday's Law of magnetic induction. The course culminates in the study of light, where the deep connections between electricity and magnetism are highlighted. Geometrical optics and an introduction to interference effects caused by the electromagnetic wave nature of light are covered. Laboratories, a central part of the course, provide students with hands-on experiences with electronics and electronic and optical instruments. In the fall semester, this course may be taken as 106 or, with alternative assignments and exams, 108.

PHYS 115/CS 115 Robotic Design Studio (Wintersession)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. In this intensive course, students are introduced to engineering principles while designing and assembling robots out of LEGO® parts, sensors, motors, and tiny computers. Fundamental robotics skills are learned in the context of studying and modifying a simple robot known as SciBorg. Then, working in small teams, students design and build their own robots for display at a robot exhibition. These projects tie together aspects of a surprisingly wide range of disciplines, including computer science, physics, engineering, and art. Students may register for either PHYS 115 or CS 115 and credit will be granted accordingly.

PHYS 202 Introduction to Quantum Mechanics and Thermodynamics with Laboratory

Stark

The development of quantum mechanics represented one of the most fundamental revolutions in our understanding of the natural world. Quantum mechanics forms the basis for our knowledge of atoms, molecules, and solid state systems as well as of nuclei and fundamental particles. Thermodynamics deals with the concepts of heat and temperature and their connection to properties of matter and to processes in natural and constructed systems. This course introduces both of these important branches of physics and looks at their links by investigating such phenomena as atomic and molecular heat capacities, and the statistical basis for black-body radiation and the second law of thermodynamics.

PHYS 203 Vibrations, Waves, and Special Relativity with Laboratory

Ducas

A wide range of physical systems exhibits vibrational and wave motion. Because of this universality, learning about fundamental characteristics of waves and vibrations provides insight into a tremendous number of phenomena such as the motion of strings and springs, the design of musical instruments, molecular spectra, oscillations in solids, liquids and gases, sound, and electromagnetic radiation as well as the behavior of fundamental particles. There will be an emphasis on optical applications as clear and elegant examples of wave phenomena. We will also study particular research applications such as Fourier Transform Spectroscopy and Nuclear Magnetic Resonance. The course culminates with an introduction to Einstein's Theory of Special Relativity, with a focus on explaining how this theory radically alters classical notions of space and time.

PHYS 215/MATH 215 Mathematics for the Sciences I

Shultz (Mathematics)

This course is the first in a two-course sequence tailored to the needs and preparations of students considering majors in the sciences. It presents techniques of applied mathematics relevant to a broad range of scientific studies, from the life sciences to physics and astronomy. The topics of study include complex numbers, ordinary differential equations, an introduction to partial differential equations, linear algebra (matrices, systems of linear equations, vector spaces, eigenvalue problems), and Fourier series. The course emphasizes mathematical techniques and presents applications from all the sciences. Some familiarity with vectors (e.g., dot products) is assumed. Students may register for either PHYS 215 or MATH 215 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Hu

When laws of nature are written in advanced mathematical forms (for example, Maxwell's equations for electromagnetism), gradient, divergence, and curl are frequently encountered. In the first part of this course, we will study these mathematical operations in the broader context of differential and integral vector calculus, with an emphasis on their physical meanings. This part is similar to MATH 205, but topics closely related to physics – Gauss’ and Stokes’ theorems, spherical and cylindrical coordinates – will be discussed in depth. The second part of this course will cover Fourier transforms and partial differential equations, which are used throughout the physical sciences. The third part of this course will introduce numerical methods, which are widely used in most modern scientific and engineering fields when analytical solutions to algebraic or differential equations do not exist. We will use MATLAB®, a popular high-level programming language. Students may register for either PHYS 216 or MATH 216 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Berg

We are increasingly surrounded in our lives by boxes filled with electronics, but for most people (including many scientists) the inner workings of these boxes remain obscure and mysterious. This course is intended to remove much of this mystery. The approach is practical, aimed at allowing experimental scientists to understand the electronics encountered in their research. The emphasis is on designing and building circuits. Topics include diodes, transistor amplifiers, op amps, and digital electronics including microprocessors and microcontrollers.

Applications to robotics will be explored. Two laboratories per week and no formal lectures.

PHYS 222 Medical Physics

Ducas

This course covers applications of physics to two important areas of medical science: the mechanisms of the human body and the design of modern diagnostic and treatment techniques. We will use principles of physics from mechanics, fluids, electricity and magnetism, thermodynamics, acoustics and optics to model aspects of human structural design and performance such as respiration, circulation, muscle and nerve operation, heat regulation, hearing and vision. We will also study the principles underlying modern medical technology such as ultrasound imaging, computer aided tomography (CT scans), magnetic resonance imaging (MRI), positron emission tomography (PET scans) and applications of lasers in diagnosis and surgery.

PHYS 265 Thinking Physics: Developing a Physicist’s Habits of Mind

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This seminar will emphasize the development of a repertoire of critical skills necessary for understanding and doing physics. These skills include conceptual problem-solving, making connections across fields, testing mathematical models, asking and answering analytical questions and making effective presentations of results.

Corequisite: 202
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

PHYS 302 Quantum Mechanics

Quivers

This course provides a comprehensive development of the principles of non-relativistic quantum mechanics, the fundamental theory of electrons, atoms, and molecules. Quantum mechanics governs the building blocks of all matter, and yet fundamentally challenges our physical intuition, which is based on the behavior of everyday macroscopic objects. Topics include the postulates of quantum mechanics, the Schrödinger equation, operator theory, the Heisenberg uncertainty principle, the hydrogen atom, and spin.

Prerequisite: 202, 203, and [EXTD 216] or MATH 216/
PHYS 216
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

PHYS 305 Statistical Mechanics and Thermodynamics

Stark

Modern statistical mechanics builds from the quantum nature of individual particles to describe the behavior of large and small systems of such particles. In this course we will derive the fundamental laws of thermodynamics using basic principles of statistics and investigate applications to such systems as ideal and real atomic and molecular gases, radiating bodies, magnetic spins, and solids. We will study Bose-Einstein and Fermi-Dirac statistics and learn about exciting new developments such as Bose-Einstein condensation and ultra cold Fermi gases. We will cover additional applications of statistical mechanics in the fields of biology, chemistry, and astrophysics.

Prerequisite: 202 and [EXTD 216] or MATH 216/
PHYS 216
Distribution: Mathematical Modeling or Natural and Physical Science
Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PHYS 306 Advanced Classical Mechanics

Hu

The basic laws of Newtonian mechanics are revisited in this course using advanced mathematical tools such as differential equations and linear algebra. Special attention is paid to central forces, planetary orbits, oscillations, and rigid body dynamics. In addition, Hamilton-Lagrange mechanics, an alternative to Newtonian mechanics, nonlinear dynamics, and chaos are introduced.

Prerequisite: 203 and [EXTD 216] or MATH 216/
PHYS 216

PHYS 314 Electromagnetic Theory

Berg

Richard Feynman once said, “From a long view of the history of mankind – seen from, say, ten thousand years from now – there can be little doubt that the most significant event of the nineteenth century will be judged as Maxwell’s discovery of the laws of electrodynamics. The American Civil War will pale into provincial insignificance in comparison with this important scientific event of the same decade.” In this course we will study the classical theory of electromagnetic fields and waves as developed by Maxwell. Topics include boundary value problems, electromagnetic radiation and its interaction with matter, and the connection between electrodynamics and relativity.

PHYS 335/BISC 335/NEUR 335 Computational Neuroscience with Laboratory

Goldman

Computations by networks of neurons in the brain underlie all of our thoughts, perceptions, and memories. However, direct experimental observation of neural computations is extremely difficult. Mathematical models are increasingly used to bridge the gap between experimental measurements and hypothesized network functions. This course will focus on the use of mathematical models to describe computations performed in the nervous systems of a variety of animals. Topics will range from single neuron biophysics to the analysis of circuits thought to underlie sensory perception and memory. Each topic will be introduced by background lectures, followed by student-led presentations of primary literature and construction of a computer model of the system studied. Lab will introduce students to computer programming of mathematical models in MATLAB® and the neuron-simulator NEURON. Students may register for either PHYS 335, BISC 335, or NEUR 335 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: 104/107 and either 106/108 or NEUR/BISC 213; or permission of instructor. No programming experience is required. Not open to first-year students.

PHYS 349 Applications of Quantum Mechanics

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Quantum mechanical techniques such as perturbation theory and the numerical solutions to the Schrödinger equation will be developed. Applications to problems in atomic, molecular, and condensed matter physics will be studied both theoretically and experimentally. Two lectures and one laboratory per week.

Directions for Election

A major in physics should ordinarily include: 107, 108, 202, 203, 302, 305, 306, and 314. [EXTD 216] or MATH 216/PHYS 216 is an additional requirement. 219 and 349 are strongly recommended. One unit of another laboratory science is recommended.

A minor in physics (six units) should ordinarily include: 104 or 107, 108, 202, 203, 302 and one other unit at the 300 level (350 cannot be counted as the other 300-level unit). [EXTD 216] or MATH 216/PHYS 216 is also required.

All students who wish to consider a major in physics or a related field are urged to complete the introductory sequence (107 and 108) as soon as possible, preferably in the first year. A strong mathematics background is necessary for advanced courses. It is suggested that students complete MATH 115 and 116 or 120 in their first year and the MATH 215/PHYS 215 and 216 sequence no later than their second year. All students majoring in physics are urged to develop proficiency in the use of one or more computer languages.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Teacher Certification

Students interested in obtaining certification to teach physics in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult the chairs of the education and physics departments.

Exemption Examinations

If a student has a strong physics background (AP, IB physics credits or the equivalent) and wishes to be exempted from our introductory courses for the purpose of enrolling in a higher-level physics course, she must pass an exemption examination administered by the department. Sample examinations are available from the department. Students may not receive more than two units of credit for the introductory physics sequence. For example, a student who enrolls in both PHYS 107 and 108 will not also receive AP or IB credit.

Introductory Courses

POL 100 Introduction to Political Science
Staff

Politics is a struggle for power – and questions about power are at the heart of political science: How is power gained? How is it lost? How is it organized? How is it used? How is it abused? This course introduces students to the concerns and methods of political scientists and to the major subfields of the discipline: American politics, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. The course is centered on several major books in the field, some describing important political events, such as the rise of the Nazi party in Germany and the collapse of apartheid in South Africa, and some illustrating how political scientists analyze and evaluate the world of politics.

POL 199 Introduction to Methods in Political Science

Han, Staff

An introduction to the collection, analysis, interpretation and presentation of data. Using examples drawn from the subfields of political science, the course provides the skills needed to understand, interpret, and critically assess empirical data presented by the news media and in academic journals. Topics include research design, hypothesis-building, measurement, data gathering, hypothesis-testing and a wide range of methods appropriate for analyzing and interpreting data. The course provides a solid foundation for conducting empirical analysis and is strongly recommended for students interested in independent research, particularly the senior honor thesis.

Prerequisite: Two courses in political science. Not open to students who have taken or are taking MATH 101, MATH 101Z, ECON 103/SOC 190, QR 180, or PSYC 205.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

American Politics and Law

POL1 200 American Politics

Burke, Han

The institutions, processes, and values that shape American politics. The origins and evolution of the U.S. Constitution, and the institutions it created: Congress, the executive branch, the presidency, the federal court system and federalism. Analysis of "intermediary" institutions including political parties, interest groups, elections, and the media. Study of enduring debates over values in American politics, with particular attention to conflicts over civil rights and civil liberties.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

POL1 210 Political Participation and Influence

Just

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. How do citizens express their interests, concerns, and preferences in politics? Why and how do some groups achieve political influence? Why are some issues taken up and others ignored? The roles played by public opinion polls, interest groups, political parties, PACs, elections, the mass media, protests, riots, and demonstrations in articulating citizen concerns to government. Special attention to problems of money in politics, low voter participation, and inequality of race, class, and gender. Course work includes reading, discussion, and direct political participation in an interest group or election campaign.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL1 212 Urban Politics

Rich

Introduction to contemporary urban politics. Study of policy-making and political leadership in the areas of public education, city bureaucracies, housing, welfare, fiscal management, and economic redevelopment. Consideration of population shifts, racial and ethnic conflicts, and the impact of federal policy on urban planning.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science, economics, or American studies.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL1 213 Washington Decision-Making

Schechter

Intensive Wintersession course on American politics. Analysis of the political process based on readings and discussions of contemporary political and legal issues and interaction with members of Congress, congressional staff, executive department officials, activists in nonprofit organizations, Supreme Court law clerks, political campaign professionals, and reporters. This course will meet for the first week of Wintersession in Wellesley and then will move to Washington for two weeks of briefings, seminar, and policy research. Mandatory credit/non credit. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's Office approval.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor required. Enrollment limited to juniors and seniors. One unit in American politics or law strongly recommended. Interested students must fill out a course application available in the political science office.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Wintersession Unit: 0.5

POL1 215 Courts, Law, and Politics

Burke, Staff

Fundamentals of the American legal system, including the sources of law, the nature of legal process, the role of courts and judges, and legal reasoning and advocacy. Examination of the interaction of law and politics, and the role and limits of law as an agent for social change.

Prerequisite: 200 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

POL1 311 The Supreme Court in American Politics

TBA

Analysis of major developments in constitutional interpretation, the conflict over judicial activism, and current problems facing the Supreme Court. Emphasis will be placed on judicial review, the powers of the president and of Congress, federal-state relations, and individual rights and liberties.

Prerequisite: 215 or one other unit in American legal studies, or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL1 313 American Presidential Politics

Rich

Analysis of the central role of the president in American politics and the development and operation of the institutions of the modern presidency. The course will focus on sources of presidential power and limitations on the chief executive, with particular emphasis on relations with the other branches of government and the making of domestic and foreign policy.

Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL1 314 Congress and the Legislative Process

Han

Analysis of the representative and lawmaking capabilities of the contemporary United States Congress. Examination of how candidates for Congress run for office, with an emphasis on the use of the mass media and campaign finance. Exploration of the roles of Congress members as representatives and lawmakers; the structures and dynamics of legislator-constituent relations; the influence of the public, political parties and interest groups in the policymaking process; the institutional arrangements of Congress and its relations with other branches of government. Discussion about how internal and external opportunities and constraints affect the public policy-making process of the Congress.

Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL1 315 Public Policy and Analysis

Rich

The first part of the course will examine how domestic public policy is formulated, decided, implemented, and evaluated, at both the federal and local levels. Both moral and political standards for making policy will be examined. Factors that promote or impede the development and realization of rational, effective, and responsive public policy will be reviewed. The second part of the course will be devoted to student research and presentations on selected policy topics, including public schools, public transportation, homelessness, the environment, and drug enforcement.

Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL1 316 Mass Media in American Democracy

Just

Focus on the mass media in the American democratic process, including the effect of the news media on the information, opinions, and beliefs of the public, the electoral strategy of candidates, and the decisions of public officials. Discussion of news values, journalists' norms and behaviors, and the production of print and broadcast news. Evaluation of news sources, priorities, bias, and accessibility. Attention to coverage of national and international affairs, as well as issues of race and gender. Questions of press freedom and journalistic ethics are explored.

Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL1 317 Health Politics and Policy

Burke

The American system of health care is distinctive. Financing is provided through voluntary employer contributions, tax subsidies, individual payments and an array of public programs, principally Medicare and Medicaid – but despite the variety of funding sources, Americans, unlike citizens of other affluent democracies, are not guaranteed health care coverage. How did the American approach to health care develop? How is it different from that of other affluent nations? What explains the differences? What are the strengths and weaknesses of the American health care system? Issues of cost containment, technological innovation, quality of care, and disparities in health outcomes are explored.

Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL1 318 Religion and Politics in Contemporary America

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course examines the relationship between religion and politics. From the founding of the United States to President Bush's faith-based initiative, the role of religion in American political behavior has been the subject of great debate. Special attention will be paid to how religion serves as a form of political socialization, often informing political participation, voting behavior and political attitudes. Relevant policy and legal decisions will be reviewed. First Amendment topics such as the separation between church and state, religious freedom and the Establishment Clause will also be addressed.

Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL1 319S Seminar. Campaigns and Elections
Just

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Exploration of the issues in campaigns and elections: Who runs and why? Do elections matter? The impact of party decline and the rise of campaign consultants, polls, advertising, and the press. Candidate strategies and what they tell us about the political process. How voters decide. The “meaning” of elections. Attention to the rules of the game (the primaries, debates, the Electoral College), recent campaign innovations (talk shows, town meetings, infomercials), third party candidacies, and prospects for political reform. Course work includes campaign participation.

Prerequisite: 200 or 210 or by permission of instructor.
Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL1 320S Seminar. Inequality and the Law
TBA

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Analysis of statutory and Constitutional law regarding inequalities based on gender, race, class, sexual orientation, and disability, and the effect of this law on society. Do anti-discrimination laws reduce social inequality? To what extent have the legal rights won by groups such as African Americans, women, and disabled people been translated into social practices? Focus on the equal protection and due process clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment, statutes such as the 1964 Civil Rights Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act, and recent Supreme Court decisions. Examination of the role of law and litigation in public policies regarding affirmative action, school desegregation, employment discrimination, housing, and welfare.

Prerequisite: 215, 311, or another unit in American legal studies and permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL1 333S Seminar. Ethics and Politics
Just

An exploration of ethical issues in politics, public policy, and the press. Critical questions include deception (is it permissible to lie?), “bedfellows” (does it matter who your friends are?), and means and ends (do some purposes justify deception, violence, or torture?) Consideration of moral justifications of policies, such as cost-benefit analysis, risk ratios, and social justice, as well as the proper role of journalists in holding public officials to an ethical standard.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in American politics.
Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL1 334S Seminar. Disability in American Society: Politics, Policy, and Law

Asch (Women’s Studies), Burke
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The preamble of the Americans with Disabilities Act declares that 43 million Americans are disabled, but some believe the number is a ridiculous overestimate while others consider it a vast understatement. What exactly is “disability”? How is this concept used in American public policy and law? What is life like for Americans with disabilities? This seminar examines the politics of disability in the United States, paying particular attention to the perspectives of people with disabilities and to the history of the disability rights movement.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors by permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL1 335S Seminar. The First Amendment
Burke

A study of some of the classic legal cases and continuing controversies that have arisen out of the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Examination of contemporary First Amendment issues such as flag-burning, hate speech, pornography, libel, invasion of privacy, school prayer, creationism, and government aid to religious institutions. Comparisons with the legal doctrines of other nations regarding freedom of speech and religion.

Prerequisite: 215, 311, or another unit in American legal studies and permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL1 336S Seminar. Judicial Politics
TBA

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of judges as political actors in a democratic system, with a focus on judicial selection, judicial behavior, and theories of judicial interpretation. Comparison of popular election of judges with political appointment; consideration of recent issues about campaign contributions to judicial candidates and the role of interest groups in the confirmation process. Analysis of various theories of judicial behavior, such as attitudinal, strategic, psychological and institutional approaches, as explanations of judicial decision-making. Study of interpretive theories in constitutional and statutory lawmaking as a means of discussing the appropriate role of judges in the broader democratic policymaking process.

Prerequisite: 215, 311, or another unit in American legal studies and permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL1 337S Seminar. The Politics of Minority Groups in the United States

Rich
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of office-holding, voting patterns, coalition formation, and political activities among various racial, ethnic, and religious minority groups in the United States, including Black Americans, Mexican Americans, Native Americans, Puerto Ricans, Jews, Arabs, Asians, Central and South Americans.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors by permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Website.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL1 338S Seminar. Representation

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Analysis of the theory and practice of political representation. Examination of what constitutes “good” representation, how much control the people should have over their elected leaders and the public policymaking process, and what factors (i.e., public opinion, political parties, interest groups, the media, the common good, etc.) influence legislators’ policy and legislative decisions. Exploration of how the possibilities for making our representative institutions more participatory are related to our notions of human nature, citizenship, and community.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors by permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL1 339S/EDUC 339 Seminar. The Politics of Urban Public Schools

Rich
This seminar examines recurrent issues in public school management and governance. Critical questions include the changing demographics of inner city schools, the evolving role of school boards, big city mayors, urban superintendents, teachers unions, and school finance. We will also discuss alternatives to public schools (parochial, private, and charter schools), high-stakes testing, and district-state relations. The seminar will also analyze the increasing intervention of state and federal governments in local school administration and the role of the courts in curriculum controversies, student life, and security. Students may register for either POL1 339S or EDUC 339, and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: One unit in POL or EDUC.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

Comparative Politics

POL2 202 Comparative Politics
Krieger, Wasserspring, Staff

A comparative study of contemporary politics and political systems and the exploration of various approaches to comparative political analysis. Emphasis on the interactive effects of global forces and domestic politics. Issues to be discussed include authoritarianism, revolutions, nationalism, social movements, and political culture. Country studies will be used to illuminate themes such as the role of the state in governing the economy, the challenges of democracy, and the politics of collective identities (attachments such as religion, ethnicity, race, gender, and nationality). Guest lectures and active participation by the entire comparative politics faculty. This course is strongly recommended for political science majors for all further work in comparative politics.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Science
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

POL2 204 Political Economy of Development and Underdevelopment

Candland

An analysis of political and economic issues in the Third World with special emphasis on the major explanations for underdevelopment and alternative strategies for development. Topics discussed include colonialism, nationalism, the Third World in the international system, state-building and political change, rural development, and gender perspectives on underdevelopment.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science. Open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite. By permission of instructor to other qualified students.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL2 205 The Politics of Europe and the European Union

Krieger

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A comparative study of contemporary West European states and societies. Primary emphasis on politics in Germany, Britain, and France, and the political challenges posed by the European Union and pressure for regional integration. The course will focus on topics such as the rise and decline of the welfare state and class-based politics; the implications of the end of the Cold War and German reunification; tension between national sovereignty and supranational policy goals; immigration and the resurgence of xenophobic movements and the extreme right.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science or European history; open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL2 206 Politics and Foreign Policy of Russia

Arreguin-Toft

An introduction to the political history, political system, and international politics of the Russian Federation. The course will introduce the creation, development, and dissolution of the Soviet Union, but will focus most closely on post-Soviet Russia. Particular attention will be paid to the legacies of the communist regime in shaping the inter- and intra-state politics of the Russian Federation; as well as processes of political, economic, and military reform.

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL2 207 Politics of Latin America

Wasserspring

The course will explore Latin American political systems, focusing on the problems and limits of change in Latin America today. An examination of the broad historical, economic, and cultural forces that have molded Latin American nations.

Evaluation of the complex revolutionary experiences of Mexico and Cuba and the failure of revolution in Chile. Focus on the contemporary struggles for change in Central America. Contrasting examples drawn from Mexico, Cuba, Chile, Nicaragua, and El Salvador.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science; permission of instructor to other qualified students.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL2 208 Politics of China

Joseph

An introduction to the modern political history and contemporary political system of China. Topics include the origins and victory of the Chinese Communist revolution, the rule and legacy of Chairman Mao Zedong, economic reform and political repression in the era of Deng Xiaoping, and recent developments in Chinese politics. Politics in Tibet, Hong Kong, and Taiwan will also be considered.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science, economics, history, or Asian Studies recommended, but not required.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL2 209 Politics of Japan and Korea

TBA

The first half of the course will focus on Japan and consider the core political institutions of the postwar era and the politics of rapid industrialization. Issues to be discussed include: the shift from one-party dominance to coalition government, the new electoral system, and the effects of economic stagnation. The second half of the course looks at Korean politics (South and North) and inter-Korean relations and considers the effects of Japanese colonialism and the Korean War. For South Korea, we will look at authoritarianism, democratization, economic development, nationalism, regionalism, and minority rights; for North Korea, the leadership and its ideology, economic conditions, and nuclear diplomacy.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science, economics, history, or Asian studies. Open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL2 211 Politics of South Asia

Candland

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An introduction to the colonial political histories and contemporary political systems of India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, Afghanistan, Nepal, Bhutan and the Maldives. The course addresses the following issues: the process of decolonization and the struggle for independence; the political challenges of economic development; religious and ethnic conflict; democracy, democratization, and human rights; regional cooperation and conflict.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science; open to juniors and seniors without prerequisite.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL2 302 Globalization and the Nation-State

Krieger

An assessment of globalization and the challenges it poses for the exercise of state power before and after September 11, 2001. Topics to be considered include: economic competitiveness, alternative geopolitical strategies, and international terrorism. The course will consider alternative interpretations of globalization and weigh the explanatory value of a set of theses that are intended to explain the interactive effects of globalization and state power in an era of unrivaled American hegemony. Case studies will look in depth at the United States, E.U., Europe, and East Asia.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in comparative politics or international relations or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL2 304 State and Society in East Asia

Moon

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of the relationships between governments and social forces in Northeast and Southeast Asia. Countries to be considered include Japan, Korea, Taiwan, Singapore, the Philippines, Malaysia, Thailand, and Indonesia. The course takes a thematic approach to analyzing the political development and changing international roles of these countries in the second half of the twentieth century. Among the issues to be considered are: authoritarianism, military rule, democratization, labor movements, gender politics, nationalism, and relations with the West.

POL2 309S Seminar. Ethnicity, Nationalism, Religion, and Violence

Goddard

Investigates the causes of modern conflicts over religious, national, and ethnic identity. Introduces methods for studying nationalism, ethnic groups in conflict, and religious violence. Considers the construction of ethnicity and nation, the political uses of ethnicity, nationalism, and religion; the relationship between gender, class, ethnicity, and nationalism; various sources of inter-ethnic, international, and inter-religious conflict; and the psychology of group violence and warfare. This course may count as either a comparative politics or an international relations unit for the political science major, depending upon the student's choice of research paper topic.

Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL2 310S Seminar. Politics of Community Development

Candland

Focuses on strategies for poverty alleviation, employment generation, promotion of social opportunity, and empowerment. Examines the activities of non-governmental organizations and their often contentious relations with funders, government agencies, and each other. Considers women's leadership in social change, local control of resources, faith-based activism, and collaboration between activists and researchers. Emphasis is on developing Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Specific non-governmental organizations and development programs are closely examined.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors or seniors by permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site. Not open to students who have taken [POL2 310]. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL2 311S Seminar. The Politics of Contemporary Cuba

Wasserspring

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An analysis and assessment of the politics of the Cuban Revolution. Examination of the pre-Revolutionary Cuban society, significant transformatory phases of Cuban policy, the impact of United States and Soviet foreign policy objectives on Cuba, and the contemporary dilemma of maintaining socialist institutions in the post-cold war era. Special emphasis on political culture and its transformation, the role of political leadership, and the international constraints upon domestic policy formulation. Topics include the government's impact on education, health care and women's lives, the effects of the reintroduction of tourism as a developmental strategy, and the influence of Cuban-American politics in Miami. In addition to social science sources, we will use Cuban film, art, and literature as vehicles of understanding this complex political experience.

Prerequisite: Any 200-level unit in comparative politics or permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

TBA

Focuses both on how to make and how to study environmental policy. Examines issues essential in understanding how environmental policy works and explores these topics in depth through case studies of current environmental policy issues. Students will also undertake an original research project and work in groups on influencing or creating local environmental policy.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in political science and permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: TBA Unit: 1.0

POL2 383 Politics of Migration

Moon

A comparative study of the politics of mass population movements across state borders, including forced relocation under colonialism, refugees of war, food migration, labor migration, and different forms of legal and illegal immigration, including the international trafficking of persons. Analyzes migration and immigration policies in sending and receiving countries, U.N. conventions on the movement of persons, and social movements against and on behalf of migrant peoples. Country cases to be examined include Algeria and France, Brazil and Japan, Canada and Hong Kong, China and North Korea, Germany and Turkey, and the Philippines and the United States.

Prerequisite: One 200-level course in comparative politics or international relations or permission of instructor. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

International Relations

POL3 221 World Politics

Arrequin-Toft, Goddard

An introduction to the international system with emphasis on contemporary theory and practice. Analysis of the bases of power and influence, the sources of tension and conflict, and the modes of accommodation and conflict resolution. This course serves as an introduction to the international relations subfield in the political science department, and also as a means of fulfilling the political science core requirement of the international relations major.

Prerequisite: One unit in history or political science. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

POL3 224 International Security

Paarlberg, Arrequin-Toft

An examination of warfare as a central problem of international politics. The shifting causes and escalating consequences of warfare since the Industrial Revolution. The post cold war danger of a clash of civilizations versus prospects for a "democratic peace." The multiple causes and consequences of modern internal warfare, and prospects for international peacekeeping. The spread of nuclear weapons, the negotiation of arms control agreements, the revolution in military affairs (RMA), and the threat of terrorism and asymmetric war.

Prerequisite: One unit in international relations or permission of instructor. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL3 226 International Relations in East Asia

TBA

This course examines political and economic relations in East Asia, with the aim of understanding the determinants of conflict and cooperation in the region and providing a framework for analyzing the foreign policies of East Asian states. Among the questions considered: Is the East Asian economic miracle indeed a miracle? Is the rise of China dangerous to its neighbors? Can Japan be a leader in the region? What is South Korea's choice between security and reunification? Whether North Korea survives or implodes, what would be the consequences for East Asia? How do states respond to growing economic interdependence and to security multilateralism in the region?

Prerequisite: One unit in international relations or comparative politics or permission of the instructor. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL3 227 The Vietnam War

Joseph

An examination of the origins, development, and consequences of the Vietnam War. Topics to be considered include: the impact of French colonialism on traditional Vietnamese society; the role of World War II in shaping nationalism and communism in Vietnam; the motives, stages, and strategies of American intervention in Vietnam; leadership, organization, and tactics of the Vietnamese revolutionary movement; the expansion of the conflict to Cambodia and Laos; the antiwar movement in the United States; lessons and legacies of the Vietnam War; and political and economic development in Vietnam since the end of the war in 1975.

Prerequisite: One unit in social sciences or permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken [POL3 306]. Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL3 321 The United States in World Politics

Paarlberg

An examination of American foreign policy, understood as the current and recent behavior of the United States Government abroad. The pre-eminence of American military power in the post Cold War Era makes understanding United States policy essential to the larger study of international relations. Emphasis will be placed on different theoretical approaches to explaining United States behavior, including approaches based on structures of the international system versus explanations that are particular to American geography, history, culture, or institutions.

Prerequisite: One unit in international relations. Not open to students who have taken [POL3 321S].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL3 322S Seminar. Gender in World Politics Moon

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. The course will examine gender constructions in world politics and assess the roles of women as leaders, actors, and objects of foreign policy. Some topics include gender biases in international relations theories, institutions, and policies; women's relationship to state; feminist analysis of war/peace, political economy, and human rights; coalition building around issues of gender.

Prerequisite: 221 or permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL3 323 International Economic Policy Paarlberg

A review of the politics of international economic relations, including trade, money, and multinational investment within the industrial world and also among rich and poor countries. Political explanations for the differing economic performance of states in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Consideration of the respective roles of intergovernmental organizations, nongovernmental organizations, and multinational corporations. Discussion of global governance issues including food, population, migration, energy, and environment.

Prerequisite: One unit in international relations or comparative politics.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL3 325 International Environmental Law DeSombre

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Examines the basic legal instruments and their historical development in addressing international environmental issues. Under what conditions have states been able to cooperate to improve the global environment? Negotiation of, compliance with, and effectiveness of international environmental law, and specific environmental issue areas in which international environmental law operates will be addressed.

Prerequisite: One unit in international relations or legal studies, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL3 327 International Organization TBA

The politics of global governance. Emphasis on the U.N., plus examination of specialized agencies, multilateral conferences, and regional or functional economic and security organizations. The theory and practice of integration beyond the nation-state, as well as the creation and destruction of international regimes.

Prerequisite: One unit in international relations or comparative politics.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL3 328S Seminar. Selected Topics in World Politics: Anti-Americanism as Politics and Performance

Moon

Seminar exploring the causes, characteristics, and political implications of the recent resurgence of "anti-Americanism" in international politics. Political actors engaged in anti-American activities and activism include civic organizations, intellectual and cultural elites, politicians, media, terrorists, peace activists, and others in democratic and authoritarian countries alike. Differing political motivations and public expressions, as well as national and regional variations of anti-Americanism will be examined. The seminar will engage a range of sources, such as survey data, religious rhetoric, nationalist platforms, protest literature, official policy statements, court cases, and pop music. Country cases include France, Germany, Iraq, Mexico, North Korea, Pakistan, Philippines, South Korea, the United Kingdom, and the United States.

Prerequisite: One 200-level course or higher in both international relations and comparative politics. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL3 329 International Law

Hotchkiss (at Babson)

An exploration of the meaning of the "rule of law" in a global context. The course focuses on three themes. First, the classic form of international law, including the concepts of statehood and sovereignty, the relationship of nations to each other, and the growth of international organizations. Second, the role and responsibility of individuals in international law, especially in the area of human rights. Third, the developing international law of the earth's common areas, specifically the oceans, space, and the environment.

Prerequisite: One unit in international relations or legal studies, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL3 332S Seminar. People, Agriculture, and the Environment Paarlberg

An examination of linkages between agricultural production, population growth, and environmental degradation, especially in the countries of the developing world. Political explanations will be sought for deforestation, desertification, habitat destruction, species loss, water pollution, flooding, salinization, chemical poisoning, and soil erosion – all of which are products of agriculture. These political explanations will include past and present interactions with rich countries, as well as factors currently internal to poor countries. Attention will be paid to the local, national, and international options currently available to remedy the destruction of rural environments in the developing world. This course may qualify as either a comparative politics or an international relations unit for the political science major, depending upon the student's choice of research paper topic.

Prerequisite: 204 or 323. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL3 348S Seminar. Problems in North-South Relations

Murphy

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An exploration of historical and contemporary relations between advanced industrial countries and less developed countries, with emphasis on imperialism, decolonization, interdependence, and superpower competition as key variables. Consideration of systemic, regional, and domestic political perspectives. Stress on the uses of trade, aid, investment, and military intervention as foreign policy instruments. This course may qualify as either a comparative politics or an international relations unit for the political science major, depending upon the student's choice of research paper topic.

Prerequisite: One unit in international relations or permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL3 351S Seminar. Global Governance

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Explores the challenge of global institutions in the new century within a larger historical context. Considers the function and role of the League of Nations, the International Labor Organization, the United Nations, the Bretton Woods institutions, the GATT and the World Trade Organization. Special emphasis on comparing and contrasting international organizations in the three main periods of institution building: post-World War I, post-World War II, and post-cold war. Discusses radical, liberal internationalist and realist approaches.

Prerequisite: One unit in international relations. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

Political Theory

POL4 201 Issues in Political Theory

Candrea

An introduction to the study of political theory, and specifically to the problems of political action. Exploration of questions about civil disobedience, legitimate authority, ethics and politics, and the challenge of creating a just order in a world characterized by multiple beliefs and identities. Discussion of the social contract, democracy, liberalism, decolonization, violence and revolution, universalism and cultural relativism, and differences of race, class, and gender. Authors include Plato, Machiavelli, Rousseau, Locke, Martin Luther King, Jr., Malcolm X, Fanon, and Gandhi.

POL4 240 Classical and Medieval Political Theory

Candrea

Study of selected Classical, Medieval, and early modern writers, including Plato, Aristotle, Cicero, St. Augustine, St. Thomas Aquinas, Machiavelli, Luther, and Calvin. Emphasis on the logic of each theorist's argument, including such questions as the nature of human sociability, possible – and best – forms of government, and the question why we should obey government and the limits to that obedience. Exploration of diverse understandings of the concepts of justice, freedom, and equality. Attention is paid to the historical context within which a political theory is written.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science, philosophy, or European history.

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL4 241 Modern Political Theory

Stettner

Study of the development of Western political theory from the seventeenth to nineteenth centuries. Among the theorists read are Hobbes, Locke, Hume, Rousseau, Burke, Wollstonecraft, Mill, Hegel, and Marx. Emphasis on the logic of each theorist's argument, including such questions as the nature of human sociability, possible – and best – forms of government, and the question why we should obey government and the limits to that obedience. Exploration of diverse understandings of the concepts of justice, freedom, and equality. Attention is paid to the historical context within which a political theory is written.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science, philosophy, or European history.

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL4 242 Contemporary Political Theory

Krieger

Study of several twentieth-century traditions that raise fundamental questions about the human condition, processes of historical and personal transformation, and our capacity to understand them. Exploration of contemporary political and social theories, including existentialism, contemporary variants of Marxism, postmodern theory, feminism, and liberal theory.

Prerequisite: One unit in political theory, social theory, or political philosophy, or permission of the instructor.

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL4 248 Power and Politics

Euben

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of the nature and functioning of power in politics, with an emphasis on the following questions: What is the nature of power and how has it been exercised in political life both past and present? Who has power and who should have it? Is power primarily wielded by political leaders and bureaucrats, or has the development of new technologies decentralized power, making each of us its instrument? Do the powerless – for example, miners in Appalachia, Polish solidarity activists, Indian anti-colonialists – understand and exercise power differently from those who traditionally hold it? Are power and violence inextricably intertwined or are they opposites?

Readings will be drawn from several disciplines, and authors include Thucydides, bell hooks, Hannah Arendt, Marx, Nietzsche, Foucault, Kafka, Gandhi, and Vaclav Havel.

Prerequisite: One unit in political science, philosophy, or history, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL4 340 American Political Thought

Stettner

Examination of American political writing, with emphasis given to the Constitutional period, progressive era, and contemporary sources. Questions raised include: origins of American institutions, including the rationale for federalism and separation of powers, the roles of president and Congress, judicial review; American interpretations of democracy, equality, freedom and justice; legitimate powers of central and local governments. Attention paid to historical context and to importance for modern political analysis.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in political theory, American politics, or American history, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

POL4 342S Seminar. Marxist Political Theory

Krieger

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Study of the fundamental concepts of Marxist theory, including alienation, the materialist conception of history, class formation, and class struggle. Particular attention will be paid to Marx's theory of politics. The applicability of Marxist theory to contemporary political developments will be assessed. Study of contemporary Marxist theory will emphasize issues of class, race, and gender.

Prerequisite: Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL4 343S Seminar. Democracy and Difference

Krieger

An examination of liberal democracy and contemporary theoretical challenges introduced by diversity and difference. Does liberal democracy, with its emphasis on individual rights, separation of powers, representative assemblies, and the principle of a limited state, remain a durable model? How does the consideration of cultural diversity and difference, understood by reference to gender, race, ethnicity, language, religion, nationality, and sexual orientation, affect our understanding of citizenship, representation, recognition, and community? Study of communitarian thought, multiculturalism, and feminist critiques of democracy.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in political theory, or permission of instructor. Enrollment limited; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

POL4 344S Seminar. Feminist Political Theory

Euben

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of feminist theory, beginning with early liberal and socialist feminisms and continuing on to radical, post-structuralist and postcolonialist feminist theories, among others. Particular attention to the complexity of theorizing about "what women are and need" in the context of a multicultural society and a postcolonial world. Consideration of feminist perspectives on rights and the law, pornography, racial and sexual differences, methodology, and non-Western cultural practices such as veiling. Authors include Wollstonecraft, Engels, Hooks, MacKinnon, Gilligan, and Butler.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in political theory, philosophy, or women's studies; interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL4 346 Comparative Political Thought: Modern Western and Islamic Theories of Politics

Euben

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of Western and Islamic theories about the nature and dilemmas of modern politics: does modern politics require secularization or a return to the "fundamentals" of tradition, religion, and community? Is there such a thing as a distinctive Western or Islamic perspective in a world stamped by colonialism, imperialism, and now globalization? Issues include the relationship between religion and politics; cultural relativism and universalism; Islamic fundamentalist and postmodernist reactions to the crises of modern politics. Authors include Machiavelli, Muhammad Abduh, Rousseau, Ibn Khaldun, Taha Hussein, and Foucault.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit in political theory or philosophy or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

POL4 347S Seminar: Politics, Literature, and the Concept of Empire

Candrea

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. What does it mean to be an "empire"? In this seminar, we will explore this question through specific historical examples (including Greece, Rome, Britain and France), using a variety of literary and philosophical texts (Herodotus, Virgil, Machiavelli, Conrad, Kipling, Fanon, Said). Particular attention will be given to questions about freedom, power, rights and obligations. In conclusion, we will examine contemporary sources to assess whether or not the term "empire" may be applied to the United States today.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor. Interested students must fill out a seminar application available in the political science department office or on the department Web site.

Distribution: Religion, Ethics, and Moral Philosophy
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

Directions for Election

POL 100 is strongly recommended for all further work in political science, particularly for those who are considering a major in the department.

A major in political science consists of at least nine units. Courses at the 100-level may be counted toward the major, but not toward a subfield distribution requirement (see below). In the process of fulfilling their major, students are encouraged to take at least one course or seminar that focuses on the politics of a culture other than their own.

The Department of Political Science divides its courses beyond the introductory level into four subfields: American politics and law (POL1), comparative politics (POL2), international relations (POL3), and political theory (POL4). In order to ensure that political science majors familiarize themselves with the substantive concerns and methodologies employed throughout the discipline, all majors must take one 200-level or 300-level unit in each of the four subfields offered by the department. Recommended first courses in the four subfields are: in American politics and law: POL1 200; in comparative politics: POL2 202; in international relations: POL3 221; in political theory: POL4 201, 240, 241.

In addition to the subfield distribution requirement, all majors must do advanced work (300 level) in at least two of the four subfields; a minimum of one of these units must be a seminar, which normally requires a major research paper. (Courses fulfilling the seminar requirement are denoted by an "S" after the course number.)

Admission to department seminars is by permission of the instructor only. Interested students must fill out a seminar application, which is available in the political science office prior to preregistration for each term. Majors should begin applying for seminars during their junior year in order to be certain of fulfilling this requirement. Majors are encouraged to take more than the minimum number of required 300-level courses.

Ordinarily, a minimum of five units for the major must be taken at Wellesley, as must the courses that are used to fulfill at least two of the four subfield distributions and the seminar requirement. The department does not grant transfer credit at the 300 level for either the major or for College distribution or degree requirements.

Although the College does not grant academic credit for participation in internship programs, students who take part in the Washington Summer Internship Program may arrange with a faculty member to undertake a unit of 350, Research or Individual Study, related to the internship experience.

Students may receive units of College credit if they achieve a grade of 4 or 5 on the American Government and Politics or the Comparative Politics Advanced Placement Examinations. Such AP credits do not count toward the minimum number of units required for the political science major nor for the American or comparative subfield distribution requirements for the major. If a student does receive a unit of College credit for the American politics exam, she may not take POL1 200 (American Politics). Students who are uncertain whether to receive a College AP credit in American politics or to take POL1 200 should consult with a member of the department who specializes in American politics or law.

Majors who are interested in writing a senior honors thesis are urged to discuss their ideas and plans with either their advisor or the department chair as early as possible in their junior year. Students considering going to graduate school for a Ph.D. in political science should talk with their advisors about appropriate preparation in quantitative methods and foreign languages.

PSYC 212 Personality

Cheek, Norem

A comparison of major ways of conceiving and studying personality, including the work of Freud, Jung, behaviorists, humanists, and social learning theorists. Introduction to major debates and research findings in contemporary personality psychology.

Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP score of 5 or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 215 Memory

Cleveland

Introduction to the study of human memory. Examines processes underlying encoding, storage, and retrieval of information. Will review theoretical models focusing on distinctions between different forms of memory including short-term and long-term memory, implicit and explicit memory, episodic and semantic memory. Factors contributing to forgetting and distortion of memory will also be discussed.

Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP score of 5 or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 216 Psychology of Language

Lucas

Introduction to the study of the psychological processes underlying language. An evaluation of theory, methods, and current research in language abilities, including speech perception, word and sentence comprehension, and language acquisition in children. Examination of the relationship between language and thought and the evolutionary and biological bases of language behavior.

Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP score of 5 or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PSYC 217 Cognition

Tincoff

Cognitive psychology is the study of the capabilities and limitations of the human mind when viewed as a system for processing information. An examination of basic issues and research in cognition focusing on attention, pattern recognition, memory, language, and decision-making.

Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP score of 5 or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 218 Sensation and Perception

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A survey of the human senses from stimulus to perception. Topics include basic features in vision: color, form, orientation, and size; perception of the third dimension; illusions; attention; limits on perception; and the effects of experience and development. Relevant neurophysiological and clinical examples will be reviewed as well as laboratory demonstrations.

Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP score of 5 or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

PSYC 219 Biological Psychology

Koff

Introduction to the biological bases of behavior. Topics include structure and function of the nervous system, sensory processing, sleep, reproductive behavior, language, and mental disorders.

Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP credit or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite. Not open to students who have taken BISC 213/NEUR 213.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PSYC 224 Abnormal Psychology

Theran

An examination of major psychological disorders with special emphasis on phenomenology. Behavioral treatment of anxiety based disorders, cognitive treatment of depression, psychoanalytic therapy of personality disorders, and biochemical treatment of schizophrenia will receive special attention. Other models of psychopathology will also be discussed.

Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP score of 5 or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite. Not open to students who have taken [309].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 230 Psychology of Law

Carli

Do biases affect the decisions of juries? Do guilty defendants escape punishment by faking insanity? Does the death penalty reduce crime? This course focuses on the application of psychology to legal questions such as these. Other possible topics include: jury selection, the reliability of eyewitness testimony, factors affecting the perceived innocence or guilt of defendants, the use of hypnosis and lie detector tests, blaming victims of crime, methods of interrogation, and issues surrounding testimony from children in abuse cases. This course will explore both theory and research on the psychology of law and will include case analyses.

Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP score of 5 or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 245 Cultural Psychology

NOT OFFERED 2005-06. Examines how and why cultural factors affect social and developmental psychological processes. Individual, interpersonal, and contextual factors are considered to expand our understanding of increasingly diverse environments.

Prerequisite: For students entering the College in fall 2004 or later: PSYC 101, AP score of 5 or permission of instructor. For students entering the College prior to fall 2004: no prerequisite.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

PSYC 248 Psychology of Teaching, Learning, and Motivation

NOT OFFERED 2005-06. The psychology of preschool, primary, secondary, and college education. Investigation of the many contributions of psychology to both educational theory and practice. Topics include student development in the cognitive, social, and emotional realms; assessment of student variability and performance; interpretation and evaluation of standardized tests and measurements; classroom management; teaching style; tracking and ability grouping; motivation; and teacher effectiveness.

Prerequisite: One 200-level unit, excluding 205.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

PSYC 299 Practicum in Psychology

Staff

Participation in a structured learning experience in an approved field setting under faculty supervision. Does not count toward the minimum major in psychology. Mandatory credit/non-credit, except by permission of instructor.

Prerequisite: Open by permission to junior and senior PSYC majors. Two units above the 100-level that are most appropriate to the field setting as determined by the faculty supervisor (excluding 205).
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 300/CLSC 300 Topics in Cognitive and Linguistic Sciences

Lucas

Topic for 2005-06: Cooperation and Competition. According to traditional models of rationality, rational agents should act in ways that will maximize their self-interest. And the study of evolution teaches us that individuals are in competition for survival. Nonetheless, we have all experienced acts of apparent selflessness and societies could not function without cooperation among their members. How, then, can cooperative and selfless behaviors be explained? In this course, an interdisciplinary approach to the problem will be taken. Evidence and theories from the psychological, economic, and neurobiological literatures will be examined. Cross-cultural, developmental, and cross-species differences will be explored as will the evolutionary origins of cooperation and competition and the role of cooperation in language. Students may register for either PSYC 300 or CLSC 300 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken one of PSYC 215-219, [LANG] LING 114, PHIL 215, CS 111 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 303 Psychology of Gender Norem

An examination of different theoretical approaches to the study of sex and gender, the social construction and maintenance of gender, and current research on gender differences. Topics will include review of arguments about appropriate methods for studying sex and gender and its "legitimacy" as a research focus, gender roles and gender socialization, potential biological bases of gender differences, and the potential for change in different sex-typical behaviors.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units excluding 205, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PSYC 306R Research Methods in Developmental Psychology and the School Experience

NOT OFFERED 2005-06. An introduction to research methods appropriate to the study of human development in teaching and learning settings: preschool through college. Individual and group projects. Laboratory. Each section typically limited to 12 students. Observations at the Child Study Center and other classroom locations required.

Prerequisite: 205 and 207 or 248. Not open to students who have taken [206R].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.25

PSYC 307R Research Methods in Developmental Psychology Glcason, Cleveland

An introduction to research methods appropriate to the study of human development. Individual and group projects. Laboratory. Each section typically limited to 12 students. Observations at the Child Study Center required.

Prerequisite: 205 and 207. Not open to students who have taken [207R].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.25

PSYC 308 Systems of Psychotherapy Wink

This course examines theory, research, and practice in three schools of psychotherapy: psychodynamic, cognitive-behavioral, and humanistic.

Topics to be covered include underlying assumptions of normalcy/pathology, theories of change, methods/techniques, and relationship between therapist and client.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units including 224 and excluding 205, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 310R Research Methods in Social Psychology Schiavo, Akert

An introduction to research methods appropriate to the study of social psychology. Individual and group projects on selected topics. Laboratory. Each section typically limited to 12 students.

Prerequisite: 205 and 210, 211, or 245. Not open to students who have taken [210R].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.25

PSYC 311 Seminar. Environmental Psychology Schiavo

Exploration of the interaction between the physical environment and an individual's behavior and feelings. Emphasis on relevant topics such as territoriality, personal space, and crowding. Some attention to children and to environmental issues, such as conservation and psychological consequences of natural disasters. Specific settings, such as urban environments, playgrounds, and homes, are studied. Small groups of students will use observation, interview or questionnaire techniques to pursue small-scale research topics. There will be individual oral reports.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 312 Seminar. Applied Psychology

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Analysis of psychologically-based programs and interventions in applied settings such as organizations, social service agencies, health-care facilities, social support groups, environmental and community change agencies, etc. Consideration of the psychological theories, methods, and research findings which provide the foundation for these programs. Students will participate in relevant settings or activities.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

PSYC 312R Research Methods in Personality Psychology Norem

An introduction to research methods appropriate to the study of personality psychology. Student projects investigate individual and group differences in personality traits, values, goals, and dimensions of self-concept. Laboratory. Each section typically limited to 12 students.

Prerequisite: 205 and 212. Not open to students who have taken [212R].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.25

PSYC 314R Research Methods in Cognitive Psychology Robin

Introduction to research methods appropriate to the study of human cognition (i.e., how people take in, interpret, organize, remember, and use information in their daily lives). Individual and group projects. Laboratory. Each section typically limited to 12 students.

Prerequisite: 205 and one of the following, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, BISC 213/NEUR 213. Not open to students who have taken [214R].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.25

PSYC 316 Seminar. Psycholinguistics Tincoff

Topic for 2005-06. TBA

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, including one of the following: 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, or BISC 213/NEUR 213, and excluding 205, or by permission of instructor. [LANG] LING 114 may be substituted for either 200-level unit.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 318 Seminar. Brain and Behavior Koff

Selected topics in brain-behavior relationships. Emphasis on psychopharmacology. Topics include principals and mechanisms underlying action of drugs, major neurotransmitter systems, major classes of psychoactive drugs, and psychological disorders and medications.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, including one of the following: 219 or BISC 213/NEUR 213, and excluding 205.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 319 Neuropsychology

NOT OFFERED 2005-06. An exploration of the neural underpinnings of higher cognitive function based on evidence from individuals with brain damage. Major neuroanatomical systems will be reviewed. Topics include motor and sensory function, attention, memory, language, and hemispheric specialization.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, including either 219 or BISC 213/NEUR 213, and excluding 205.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

PSYC 320R Research Methods in Applied Psychology

NOT OFFERED 2005-06. An introduction to research methods appropriate to studying applied topics in psychology. Possible topics include the psychology of organizations, the law, or health. Group projects with some individual exercises. Laboratory. Each section typically limited to 12 students.

Prerequisite: 205 and one other 200-level psychology course. Not open to students who have taken [220R].
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.25

PSYC 324R Research Methods in Abnormal Psychology

Wink

An introduction to research methods appropriate to the study of abnormal psychology. Topics will include affective and personality disorders, substance abuse, and stressful life events. Individual and group projects. Laboratory. Each section typically limited to 12 students.

Prerequisite: 205 and 224. Not open to students who have taken [224R].

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.25

PSYC 326 Seminar. Child and Adolescent Psychopathology

Theran

Description, etiology, and developmental patterns of behavior problems of children, adolescents, and their families. Topics include theories of child and adolescent psychopathology, externalizing problems such as conduct disorder and attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder, internalizing problems such as depression, anxiety, and children's experiences of trauma, and developmental disorders such as mental retardation, risk and protective factors for child psychopathology, and child and family interventions.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 329 Seminar. Psychology of Adulthood and Aging

Wink

An examination of how people cope with changes in their adult lives. Particular emphasis on aging as an example of life stage. Topics include: personality and cognitive change in later life; development of wisdom and integrity; retirement and bereavement; coping with death; intergenerational transmission of values; social support and coping with change. Models of life stages in adulthood will also be discussed.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 333 Clinical and Educational Assessment

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Current approaches to the psychological appraisal of individual differences in personality, intelligence, and special abilities will be investigated through the use of cases. Tests included in the survey are: MMPI[®], CPI[®], WAIS[®], Rorschach[®], and the TAT[®]. Special emphasis will be placed on test interpretation, report writing, and an understanding of basic psychometric concepts such as validity, reliability, and norms. Useful for students intending to pursue graduate study in clinical, personality, occupational, or school psychology.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 337 Seminar. The Psychology of Creativity

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An explanation of the foundations of modern theory and research on creativity. An examination of methods designed to stimulate creative thought and expression. Topics include: psychodynamic, behavioristic, humanistic, and social-psychological theories of creativity; studies of creative environments; personality studies of creative individuals; methods of defining and assessing creativity; and programs designed to increase both verbal and nonverbal creativity.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 338 Social Influence

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course focuses on a major topic in social psychology: attitude formation and change. Techniques of social influence that we encounter in everyday life will be explored, with a particular emphasis on advertising. The findings of empirical research and theory will be used to understand persuasive messages. Topics include how emotion, gender and culture are used to maximize the effectiveness of advertisements, and how stereotypes are both perpetuated and refuted in advertising.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken 210 and one other 200-level unit, excluding 205, or permission of instructor. Not open to students who have taken [240].

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 339 Seminar. Narrative Identity

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Narrative psychology explores the human propensity to create and use stories about significant figures and events in the process of identity formation. Topics will include an exploration of mermaids and related figures as cultural images, metaphors for personal transformation, and archetypal symbols of the collective unconscious. The Little Mermaid and La Sirene of Haitian Vodou will be examined as representations of men's fear of, and attempts to control, women's spirituality and sexuality. The personality theories of Jung and Reich provide the framework for the seminar.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken 212 and one other 200-level unit, excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 340 Organizational Psychology

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An examination of key topics such as: social environment of the work place, motivation and morale, change and conflict, quality of worklife, work group dynamics, leadership, culture, and the impact of workforce demographics (gender, race, socioeconomic status). Experiential activities, cases, theory, and research.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units excluding 205, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 341 Seminar. Psychology of Shyness

Cheek

An examination of psychological approaches to understanding shyness and the related self-conscious emotions of embarrassment and shame. Topics include: genetics of shyness, evolutionary perspectives on shyness in animals, adolescent self-consciousness, and individual and group differences in social behavior.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken at least one course numbered 207-212 and at least one course numbered 215-219, or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall, Summer

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 342 Seminar. Psychology of Optimism and Pessimism

Norem

An examination of the ways in which expectations influence and are influenced by thoughts, feelings, motivation, and behavior. There are a variety of psychological constructs that fall under the general rubric of optimism and pessimism, and research has shown that they relate to physical and mental health, achievement, personal relationships, and even longevity. This seminar will explore those relationships, with an emphasis on understanding both the costs and the benefits of personal and cultural optimism and pessimism.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors with 212 or 210 and one other 200-level course, excluding 205.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 344 Seminar. Social Imagination

Gleason

An examination of the uses and types of imagination in both childhood and adulthood. This course will touch on the mechanics of mental imagery and discuss the ways in which imagery is manifest in cognition and particularly in management of social relationships. Emphasis will be placed on the connections between imagination and emotion, such as in children's enactment of scary or nurturant pretend play. How imagination affects interpersonal interactions will be considered, as will other topics such as children's creation of imaginary companions, imagination as pathology, and individual differences in imagination, imagery of individuals deprived of particular senses, and the influence of imagination on memory.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level courses, excluding 205.

Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: Fall

Unit: 1.0

PSYC 345 Seminar. Selected Topics in Developmental Psychology

Cleveland

Topic for 2005-06: "Mind-reading" in Children. This course will trace the development of our understanding of what's going on in other people's minds – their beliefs, goals, and intentions – and how we learn to use this information to guide our own actions. Topics include infants' abilities to follow pointing and eye-gaze and to engage in imitation and understand goal-directed actions; preschoolers' knowledge of false belief, deception, and accidents; the roles that language and social interaction play in developing our knowledge of other minds: and the effects of lacking this knowledge, as may be the case for children and adults with autism. Observations at the Child Study Center (outside of class time) will be required.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken 207 and one other 200-level course, excluding 205.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PSYC 347 Seminar. Culture and Social Identity Genero

Examines the social and developmental aspects of identity with a special focus on ethnicity. The social construction of culture, interpersonal functioning, ethnic group differences, and expectations will be explored as they relate to identity development. The course includes a field research component.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units excluding 205, and including 245, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 348 Advanced Topics in Personality and Social Psychology Check

An exploration of the interface between personality and social psychology. Areas of research that are best understood by considering both personal dispositions and social situations will be examined. Topics include: conformity, romantic relationships, and social anxiety.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken 210 and 212, or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 349 Seminar. Nonverbal Communication Akert

An examination of the use of nonverbal communication in social interactions. Systematic observation of nonverbal behavior, especially facial expression, tone of voice, gestures, personal space, and body movement. Readings include scientific studies and descriptive accounts. Issues include: the communication of emotion; cultural and gender differences; the detection of deception; the impact of nonverbal cues on impression formation; nonverbal communication in specific settings (e.g., counseling, education, interpersonal relationships).

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken two 200-level units, excluding 205.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

PSYC 350 Research or Individual Study

Prerequisite: Open by permission to juniors and seniors.
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 351 Internship in Psychology Staff

Participation in a structured learning experience in an approved field setting under faculty supervision. Analytical readings and paper(s) required.

Prerequisite: Open by permission to junior and senior majors. Two units above the 100-level that are most appropriate to the field setting as determined by the faculty supervisor (excluding 205).
Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 360 Senior Thesis Research

Prerequisite: Completion of a research methods course by the end of the junior year, and by permission of department. See Academic Distinctions.

Distribution: None
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

PSYC 370 Senior Thesis

Prerequisite: 360
Distribution: None

Directions for Election

Psychology major: Consists of at least 9.25 units, including 205, one research methods course, three 200-level courses (at least one course numbered 207-212 and at least one course numbered 215-219 and excluding any research methods courses), and two 300-level courses (at least one of which must be numbered 302-349 and excluding any research methods courses). For students who entered the college in Fall 2004 or later, 101 is also a required course for the major. PSYC 299 does not count as one of the nine courses for the major. At least five of the courses for the major must be taken in the department.

Statistics: 205 is the only Wellesley statistics course that will count toward the fulfillment of the major. In order to obtain Wellesley credit for a statistics course taken at another institution during the summer or academic year, approval must be obtained from the department prior to enrolling in the course. Transfer students wishing to obtain credit for statistics courses taken prior to enrollment at Wellesley should consult the chair of the department.

Research Methods Requirement: The department offers seven research methods courses: PSYC 306R, 307R, 310R, 312R, 314R, 320R and 324R. In order to be eligible for Senior Thesis Research (PSYC 360), students must complete the research methods course by the end of the junior year.

Psychology minor: Consists of five units, including one course at the 300 level and including 101 for students who enter the college in Fall 2004 or later. PSYC 299, 350, and 351 do not count as one of the five courses for the minor. At least three of the courses for the minor must be taken in the department.

Related Interdepartmental Majors: Students interested in an interdepartmental major in neuroscience or cognitive and linguistic sciences are referred to the section of the catalog where these programs are described. They should consult with the directors of the neuroscience or cognitive and linguistic sciences programs.

Advanced Placement Credit: The unit given to students for advanced placement in psychology does not count towards the minimum psychology major or minor at Wellesley but it does fulfill the PSYC 101 requirement. If an AP student with a score of 5 completes PSYC 101, she will receive the appropriate psychology credit but will receive no AP credit.

Advanced placement credit for statistics does not exempt students from or fulfill the PSYC 205 requirement. An AP student with a score of 5 in statistics must still take 205 but can receive AP credit.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Quantitative Reasoning Program

Director: Taylor

Lecturer: Polito

Advisory Committee: Brabander (Geosciences), Ducas (Physics), Flynn (Chemistry), Genero (Psychology), Hawes (Education), Keane (Psychology), McGowan (Philosophy), Shuchat (Mathematics), Stark (Physics), Swingle (Sociology), Wolfson (Chemistry)

The ability to think clearly and critically about quantitative issues is imperative in contemporary society. Today, quantitative reasoning is required in virtually all academic fields, is used in most every profession, and is necessary for decision-making in everyday life. The Quantitative Reasoning Program is designed to ensure that Wellesley College students are proficient in the use of mathematical, logical, and statistical problem-solving tools needed in today's increasingly quantitative world.

The Quantitative Reasoning Program provides a number of services to the academic community. It oversees the administration of the Quantitative Reasoning Assessment (described below) and staffs QR 140, the basic skills QR course, and some QR overlay courses. The Program also provides tutorial support to students and instructors of quantitative reasoning overlay courses. Finally, the Quantitative Reasoning Program provides curricular support to faculty interested in modifying existing courses or designing new ones so that these courses will satisfy the overlay component of the quantitative reasoning requirement.

The Quantitative Reasoning Requirement

All students must satisfy both components of the quantitative reasoning requirement: (1) the basic skills component and (2) the overlay course component. The basic skills component is satisfied either by passing the quantitative reasoning assessment given during Orientation or by passing QR 140, the basic skills course that builds mathematical skills in the context of real-world applications. Students are required to satisfy the basic skills component in their first year so that they may enroll in the many courses for which basic quantitative skills (including algebra, geometry, basic probability and statistics, graph theory, estimation, and mathematical modeling) are a prerequisite.

The overlay component is satisfied by passing a QR overlay course or by scoring a 5 on the AP Statistics exam. QR overlay courses emphasize statistical analysis and interpretation of data in a specific discipline. The Committee on Curriculum and Instruction has designated specific courses in fields from across the curriculum as ones that satisfy the QR overlay requirement. These courses (listed below) may also be used to satisfy a distribution requirement. See the Statistics section of the catalog for more information about some of these QR overlay courses.

QR 140 Introduction to Quantitative Reasoning

Polito, Taylor

In this course, students develop and apply mathematical, logical, and statistical skills to solve problems in authentic contexts. The quantitative skills emphasized include algebra, geometry, probability, statistics, estimation, and mathematical modeling. Throughout the course, these skills are used to solve real world problems, from personal finance to medical decision-making. A student passing this course satisfies the basic skills component of the quantitative reasoning requirement. This course is required for students who do not pass the quantitative reasoning assessment. Those who pass the assessment but still want to enroll in this course must receive permission of the instructor.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor required for students with a score of 9.5 or above on the QR assessment.

Unit: 1.0

QR 180 Statistical Analysis of Education Issues

Taylor

What factors explain individual and group differences in student achievement test scores and educational attainment? Do inequities in financing public elementary and secondary schools matter in terms of student achievement and future employment? This course explores the theories and statistical methods used by social scientists and education researchers in examining these and other education issues. Analyzing data from the National Center for Education Statistics and other data sources, students evaluate issues including the importance of family and school resources, the effects of school tracking, and the returns to private versus public schools. In doing so, students learn to use a variety of statistical tools including regression analysis, and learn to use statistical software.

Prerequisites: Fulfillment of the basic skills component of the Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Not open to students who have taken or are taking ECON 103/SOC 190, MATH 101, MATH 101Z, POL 199, PSYC 205, or [QR 199].

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis. Fulfills the Quantitative Reasoning overlay course requirement.

REL 228 Fundamentalisms: A Comparative Approach
Cox

From its earliest application to a movement within American Protestantism, the term "fundamentalism" is now often used to characterize the most conservative wings of several different religious traditions. Focusing on such representative groups as American TV evangelists, "End-Time" Christian Zionism, the Catholic Opus Dei, Marian apparitions, the Jewish "Messianic Zionism" of Israeli settlers, the Lubavitcher movement, and Hamas, we will ask such questions as: Can we learn anything useful about a religion by examining an extreme form? Do these movements have anything in common? Is "fundamentalism" anti-modern or itself a modern religious phenomenon? Is the term "fundamentalist" helpful or misleading?

Prerequisite: None

In a liberal arts college, the study of religion constitutes an integral part of the humanities and social sciences. Recognizing religion as an elemental expression of human life and culture, past and present, the department offers courses in the major religious traditions of the world. These courses examine both the individual and the collective dimensions of religion and approach their subject from a variety of perspectives including historical, textual, theological, and social scientific.

The major consists of a minimum of nine units, at least two of which must be at the 300-level, including a seminar, and no more than two 100-level courses. A maximum of three courses taken outside the Department may be counted toward the major, no more than two of which may be taken at an institution other than Wellesley.

The major requires both a concentration in a specific field of study and adequate exposure to the diversity of the world's religions and cultures. To ensure depth, a major must present a concentration of at least four courses, including a seminar, in an area of study that she has chosen in consultation with and approved by her departmental advisor. This concentration may be defined by, for example, a particular religion, cultural-geographical area, canon, period of time, or theme. To promote breadth, a major must complete a minimum of two courses, also to be approved by her departmental advisor, devoted to religious cultures or traditions that are distinct both from each other and from the area of concentration. All majors are urged to discuss their courses of study with their advisors before the end of the first semester of their junior year.

The minor consists of a minimum of five courses, including at least one seminar and no more than two 100-level courses. Three of the five courses, including a seminar, should be within an area of concentration chosen by the student in consultation with and approved by her departmental advisor.

In addition, it is strongly recommended that all majors and minors attend REL 399 (Religion Department Colloquium) and that senior majors and minors elect it for credit.

For some students, studies in the original language of religious traditions will be especially valuable. REL 298 (New Testament Greek) and 200-level courses in Hebrew and Arabic can be credited toward both the major and the minor. Latin, Chinese, and Japanese are available elsewhere in the College. Majors and minors interested in pursuing language study should consult their advisors to determine the appropriateness of such work for their programs.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

RUSS 125/WRIT 125 Great Short Stories from Russia (in English)

Bishop

Russian literature has given the world some of the best stories ever told, and this course surveys two centuries' worth of them. Someone once quipped that all of twentieth-century Russian literature came out of Nikolai Gogol's "Nose." Thus, we begin with "The Nose" and other ridiculous stories by Gogol. We will go on and read some of the finest short stories of Chekhov, and the Nobel Prize winner Ivan Bunin. The grotesque realism of Isaac Babel's stories and the magical realism of Vladimir Nabokov's also lie within the scope of this course. We will conclude with the late- and post-Soviet stories of Tatiana Tolstaia and Liudmila Petrushevskaia. No prior knowledge of Russian language or literature is required. This course satisfies the requirements for Writing 125. Three periods.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.

RUSS 251 The Nineteenth-Century Russian Classics: Passion, Pain, Perfection (in English)

Hodge
Survey of Russian fiction from the Age of Pushkin (1820s–1830s) to Tolstoy's mature work (1870s) focusing on the role of fiction in Russian history, contemporaneous critical reaction, literary movements in Russia, and echoes of Russian literary masterpieces in the other arts, especially film and music. Major works by Pushkin (Eugene Onegin, "The Queen of Spades"), Lermontov (A Hero of Our Time), Gogol (Dead Souls, "The Overcoat"), Pavlova (A Double Life), Turgenev (Fathers and Sons), Tolstoy (Anna Karenina), and Dostoevsky (Crime and Punishment) will be read. Taught in English. Two periods.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

RUSS 255 Soviet and Russian Film (in English)

Bishop
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. The masterpieces of Russian film from the 1920s to the present day will be screened, analyzed, and discussed. Students will explore the famous techniques and themes developed by legendary Russian/Soviet filmmakers, including Eisenstein, Vertov, Tarkovsky and Mikhalkov. We will treat these films as works of art, examining the ways in which directors, like authors of novels and other literary genres, create a fictional world. Guest lecturers will comment on specific issues. Taught in English. Two periods.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

RUSS 257 Madness in Russian Literature and Culture (in English)

Partan
From current events in post-Soviet Russia to classic Russian literature, madness is a ubiquitous element of the Russian experience. We will cover a broad range of works – from the medieval period to post-Soviet masterpieces – to investigate the evolution of madness in Russian culture. The protagonists of the novels, plays, and short stories we will explore range from holy fools to everyday madmen to chronically troubled spirits. Readings will include Pushkin's "Queen of Spades," Dostoevsky's The Idiot, Chekhov's "The Black Monk" and "Ward No. 6," Bulgakov's Master and Margarita, Nabokov's The Defense, Pelevin's Buddha's Little Finger, and a selection of short stories. We will also examine manifestations of fictional insanity in film, opera, and the visual arts. Taught in English.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

RUSS 272 Politically Correct: Ideology and the Nineteenth-Century Russian Novel (in English)

Hodge
Is there a "politically correct" set of responses for artists active under a repressive regime? We examine various Russian answers to this question through an intensive analysis of the great ideological novels at the center of Russia's historic social debates from the 1840s through the 1860s. The tension between literary Realism and political exigency will be explored in the fictional and critical works of Herzen, Turgenev, Chernyshevsky, Goncharov, Dobroliubov, Dostoevsky, and Pisarev. Representative works from the nonliterary arts will supplement reading and class discussion. Taught in English. Two periods.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

RUSS 276 Fedor Dostoevsky: The Seer of Spirit (in English)

Weiner
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2007-08. Probably no writer has been so detested and adored, so demonized and deified, as Dostoevsky. This artist was such a visionary that he had to reinvent the novel in order to create a form suitable for his insights into the inner life and his prophecies about the outer. To this day readers are mystified, outraged, enchanted, but never unmoved, by Dostoevsky's fiction, which some have tried to brand as "novel-tragedies," "romantic realism," "polyphonic novels," and more. This course challenges students to enter the fray and explore the mysteries of Dostoevsky themselves through study of his major writings. Taught in English. Two periods.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2007-08. Unit: 1.0

RUSS 277 Lev Tolstoy: Russia's Ecclesiast (in English)

Hodge
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. An odyssey through the fiction of the great Russian novelist and thinker, beginning with his early works (Sevastopol Stories) and focusing on War and Peace and Anna Karenina, though the major achievements of Tolstoy's later period will also be included (A Confession, The Death of Ivan Ilich). Lectures and discussion will examine the masterful techniques Tolstoy employs in his epic explorations of human existence, from mundane detail to life-shattering cataclysm. Important film adaptations of Tolstoy's works, including Bondarchuk's monumental War and Peace (1967), will be screened. Students are encouraged to have read the Maude translation of War and Peace (Norton Critical edition) before the semester begins. Taught in English. Two periods.

RUSS 282 What's Love Got to Do With It? Sex and Family in Twentieth-Century Russian Literature (in English)

Bishop
Tolstoy famously wrote, "All happy families are alike; each unhappy family is unhappy in its own way." Beginning with his controversial novella, The Kreutzer Sonata, we will discuss love and family in Russian literature, a problem which becomes particularly complicated in the twentieth century. We will explore issues of androgyny in the writings of the symbolists, the regimentation of sex in Zamiatin's anti-utopian novel We, questions of disease and sterility in Solzhenitsyn's Cancer Ward, and adultery in Pasternak's Dr. Zhivago. We will revisit the eternal literary theme of generational conflict, specifically in the form of mothers and daughters in the writings of Tsvetaeva and Petrushevskaja. We will also view and analyze films such as Bed and Sofa and Commissar. Taught in English. Two periods.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

RUSS 286 Vladimir Nabokov (in English)

Weiner
NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. An examination of the artistic legacy of the great novelist, critic, lepidopterist, and founder of the Wellesley College Russian department. Nabokov's works have joined the canon of twentieth-century classics in both Russian and English literature. Students will explore Nabokov's English-language novels (Lolita, Invitation to a Beheading) and the authorized English translations of his Russian works (The Defense, Despair, Invitation to a Beheading). Taught in English. Two periods.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

RUSS 301 Advanced Russian: Moscow

Epstein
Students will become experts in one of the great overarching themes of Russian culture: Moscow. We will read and discuss texts, view films, listen to music, and compose essays on the theme of Russia's historic capital. The course includes study of grammar, vocabulary expansion with strong emphasis on oral proficiency and comprehension. At the end of the semester each student will write a final paper and present to the class her own special research interest within the general investigation of Moscow's history, traditions, culture, and art. Taught in Russian. Three periods.

Prerequisite: 201-202 or the equivalent
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

RUSS 302 Advanced Russian: St. Petersburg

Weiner
An inquiry into the unique history, traditions, and myth of St. Petersburg. Students will explore Russia's second capital through readings, films, and song. Special emphasis will be placed on oral proficiency. Each student will pursue her special research interest throughout the course and give an oral presentation on it at the end of the semester. Taught in Russian. Three periods.

Prerequisite: 301 or the equivalent

RUSS 320 Children and Laughter in Russia (in Russian)Epsteyn

Students will enter the world of Russian children's folklore, literature, songs, film, and animation. We will start with lullabies and verbal games, and tales by Pushkin and Tolstoy. We will then examine the contribution of Soviet authors from the early 1920s to the late 1980s such as V. Maiakovsky, K. Chukovsky, S. Marshak, D. Kharms, M. Zoshchenko, A. Gaidar, N. Nosov, and E. Uspensky and their effect on the aesthetic development and ethical upbringing of Soviet children. The course emphasizes oral proficiency, extensive reading and weekly writing assignments. Students will write and present a final paper on their own special research interest.

Taught in Russian. Two periods.

RUSS 330 Aleksandr Pushkin and the Development of Russian Verse (in Russian)Bishop

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. In this course, we will explore the verse of Aleksandr Pushkin and examine his relationship to other Russian poets of the nineteenth century. We will read and discuss, in Russian, the lyric and narrative poetry of Zhukovsky, Batiushkov, Lermontov, Tiutchev, Pavlova and Fet, among others.

Prerequisite: 301 or 302 as prerequisite or corequisite. Not open to students who have taken RUSS [372].
Distribution: Language and Literature
Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07.

Unit: 1.0

RUSS 333 Nineteenth-Century Russian Narrative Poetry: Tales of Mystery and Adventure (in Russian)Hodge

Students will immerse themselves in the famous poemy of Derzhavin, Zhukovskii, Pushkin, Baratynskii, Kozlov, Lermontov, and Nekrasov, analyzing ballads and verse tales devoted to the natural and the supernatural. "Exotic Oriental" cultures as well as high and low Russian culture serve as the backdrop for these dramatic verse narratives. Russian painting, music, and history will enrich our discussions of Russian Romanticism in the poetry.

Directions for Election

Students majoring in Russian should consult the chair of the department early in their college career. For information on all facets of the Russian department, please visit www.wellesley.edu/Russian/rusdept.html.

Students who cannot take RUSS 101 during the fall semester are strongly encouraged to take 101 during Wintersession or Summer School; those interested in doing so should consult the chair early in the fall term.

Advanced courses on Russian literature and culture are given in English translation at the 200 level; corresponding 300-level courses offer supplemental reading and discussion in Russian. Please refer to the descriptions for 376, 382, and 386 above.

The Major in Russian Language and Literature

A student majoring in Russian Language and Literature must take at least eight units in the department above RUSS 102, including:

1. language courses through 302;
2. RUSS 251;
3. two 200-level courses above 251; and
4. one unit of 300-level coursework above 302 other than 350, 360, and 370.

RUSS 101 and 102 are counted toward the degree but not toward the Russian major.

Thus, a student who begins with no knowledge of Russian would typically complete the following courses to major in Russian: 101 and 102, 201 and 202, 301 and 302; 251; two 200-level literature courses above 252; and one unit from 300-level literature courses, including 320.

The Minor in Russian Language

A student minoring in Russian must take at least five units in the department above RUSS 102, at least one of which must be at the 300 level.

Honors, Study Abroad

Students may graduate with honors in Russian either by writing a thesis or by taking comprehensive examinations. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. Students electing to take comprehensive examinations have a series of non-credit-bearing weekly tutorials on four special topics in Russian literature or culture (or both) over the entire course of their senior year; these topics must be chosen under the guidance of the chair and will normally be related to the coursework the student has completed; at the end of the student's final semester at Wellesley, she takes six written examinations over the course of one week: four on her special topics, and two language examinations. Students who wish to attempt either honors exercise should consult the chair early in the second semester of their junior year. See Academic Distinctions.

Majors are encouraged to enroll in summer language programs to accelerate their progress in the language. Credit toward the major is normally given for approved summer or academic-year study at selected institutions in the U.S. and Russia. Major credit is also given for approved junior year abroad programs.

Russian Area Studies

Students interested in an interdepartmental major in Russian area studies are referred to the following and should visit the Russian area studies Web pages at www.wellesley.edu/Russian/RAS/rashome.html. Attention is called to Russian area studies courses in history, economics, political science, anthropology, and sociology.

Russian Area Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Director: Tumarkin (History)

Advisory Committee: Hodge (Russian), Kohl (Anthropology), Tumarkin (History), Weiner (Russian)

Russian area studies majors are invited to explore Russia and the lands and peoples of the former Soviet Union through an interdisciplinary study program.

A major in Russian area studies consists of a minimum of eight units. Majors are normally required to take four units of the Russian language above the 100 level, including Russian 301-302. In addition to those four units of the Russian language above the 100 level, a major's program should consist of at least four units drawn from Russian literature, history, political science, anthropology, economics, and sociology. Majors are required to take at least two units of 300-level coursework, at least one of which should be outside of the Russian department. At least three of a major's units should be outside of the Russian department. Prospective majors are strongly encouraged to take HIST 211 (formerly I05) (Bread and Salt: Introduction to Russian Civilization) as a basic introduction to Russian area studies.

Majors are encouraged to take advantage of various programs of study in the former Soviet Union, including the opportunity to spend a semester or year on exchange at a university in Russia or one of the other former Soviet republics. Majors who are contemplating post-graduate academic or professional careers in Russian area studies are encouraged to consult with faculty advisors, who will assist them in planning an appropriate sequence of courses. For more information on the Russian area studies program, students may consult the Wellesley College Russian area studies Web pages: www.wellesley.edu/Russian/RAS/rashome.html.

Honors

Seniors who wish to graduate with Honors in the major must write an Honors thesis. Applicants for Honors must have minimum 3.5 GPA in the major (in courses above the 100 level). Interested students should discuss their ideas and plans with their advisor, the program chair, or a member of the advisory committee as early as possible in their junior year.

The following courses are available for majors in Russian area studies:

RAST 211/ANTH 211 Wintersession Program in the Republic of Georgia

Kohl (Anthropology)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Students travel to Tbilisi, Georgia for Wintersession. They attend lectures in English at Tbilisi State University on Georgian history, language and culture and on contemporary political developments there and visit sites of historical interest in and around Tbilisi. They live with Georgian families and spend three weeks completing a self-designed internship with a local organization. Students may register for either RAST 211 or ANTH 211 and credit will be granted accordingly. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's office approval.

Prerequisite: One course in RAST or ANTH. Application required.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis or Historical Studies
Semester: N/O Unit: 0.5

RAST 212/ES 212 Lake Baikal: The Soul of Siberia

Moore (Biological Sciences) and Hodge (Russian)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. The ecological and cultural values of Lake Baikal – the oldest, deepest, and most biotically rich lake on the planet – are examined. Lectures and discussion in spring prepare students for the three-week field laboratory taught at Lake Baikal in eastern Siberia in August. Lectures address the fundamentals of aquatic ecology and the role of Lake Baikal in Russian literature, history, art, music, and the country's environmental movement. Laboratory work is conducted primarily out-of-doors and includes introductions to the flora and fauna, field tests of student-generated hypotheses, meetings with the lake's stakeholders, and tours of ecological and cultural sites surrounding the lake. This course does not count toward the minimum major in biological sciences. This course can count towards a concentration in environmental science or as an elective for the other concentrations. Students may register for either RAST 212 or ES 212, and credit will be granted accordingly. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's office approval.

Prerequisite: BISC 111, RUSS 101, and permission of the instructors. Preference will be given to students who have also taken HIST 211, formerly [105].

SOC 102 The Sociological Perspective: An Introduction to Sociology

Cuba, Rutherford

Thinking sociologically enables us to make observations and offer insights about the social world. In this course, we will become familiar with some of the major substantive topics that sociologists study, as a way of developing a critical capacity to understand how the social world works. We will analyze a variety of sociological themes as they emerge in some of the most exciting contemporary research focusing especially on the study of social problems, social inequality, and popular culture.

SOC 109 Race and Ethnicity: An Introduction to Sociology

Srinivas

Introduction to sociology with special attention to issues of race and ethnicity. Overview of the key concepts, theoretical frameworks, and methods in the field and exploration of major questions in the sociological study of race and ethnicity. One major course goal is to heighten awareness of the social patterns, institutions, and structures that are an integral, unquestioned part of everyday life and to provide tools to analyze and criticize them. Examination of the ways in which groups in multiethnic societies around the globe come together and interact over time.

Prerequisite: None

SOC 138 Conformity and Deviance: An Introduction to Sociology

Cuba

Why are some behaviors, differences, and people stigmatized and considered "deviant" while others are not? Why do some people appear to conform to social expectations and rules while others are treated as different and deviant? This course examines theoretical perspectives on deviance, which offer several kinds of answers to these questions. Focus on the creation of deviant categories and persons as an interactive process: how behaviors are labeled, how people enter deviant roles and worlds, how others respond to deviance, and how deviants cope with these responses. Descriptions of conformity and deviance as inescapably linked.

Human rights is one of the most powerful approaches to social justice in the contemporary world, yet it is a rapidly developing and changing system. This course offers a critical analysis of human rights as a social, cultural, and legal system. It explores the historical and philosophical origins of the contemporary human rights system and its growth and development as a global social movement over the last few decades. This includes the diversification of rights to include social, economic and cultural rights and the collective rights of indigenous peoples. The course examines the ongoing controversy between human rights' claims to universalism in contrast to assertions of cultural difference. Special topics include the rise of non-governmental human rights organizations, humanitarianism as an ideology, debates on military humanitarian interventions, the emergence of violence against women as a human rights issue, and the forms and types of justice in societies that have experienced large-scale violence.

Unit: 1.0

SOC 203/AFR 203 Introduction to African American Sociology

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An introduction to the African American intellectual traditions within the discipline of sociology. Beginning with an examination of the contributions of the founders of these traditions (DuBois, Johnson, Frazier, Cox et al.), the course then focuses on some of the main contemporary discussions: the Black family, Afrocentric sociology, the class versus race debate, and feminist sociology. Throughout the semester, African American sociology will be discussed within the contexts of traditional Eurocentric sociology and the particular political-economic structure in which it exists. Students may register for either SOC 203 or AFR 203 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Unit: 1.0

SOC 205/WOST 211 American Families and Social Equality

Hertz

American families are undergoing dramatic changes in social, political, and economic arenas: the rise of the dual-worker family, the increasing number of single mothers, the demands of family rights by gay and lesbian families, and growing numbers of couples having children at older ages. The new economy poses real challenges for American parents as the social and economic gaps between families continues. As women dedicate a greater proportion of their time to the workplace, more children are cared for outside the home. How do children view parents' employment? How do families function when they have only limited hours together? What does fatherhood mean in these families? Using a provocative blend of social science, novels, and memoirs, we will examine how gender, race, ethnicity, and social class shape the experience of family life in the contemporary United States. Students may register for either SOC 205 or WOST 211 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Unit: 1.0

SOC 206/AFR 208 Women in the Civil Rights Movement

Rollins

An examination of the role of women in the classical Civil Rights movement. Particular attention will be paid to the interplay between the social factors of the women (e.g., their class, religiosity, race, regional background, age) and their perspectives/behavior within the movement. Essentially, women's impact on the Civil Rights movement and the effects of the movement on the women involved are the foci of this course. Students may register for either SOC 206 or AFR 208 and credit will be granted accordingly.

SOC 209 Social Inequality

Rutherford

This course examines the distribution of key social resources—wealth, power, and status—to groups and individuals, as well as theoretical explanations of how unequal patterns of distribution are produced, maintained, and challenged. In addition to global inequalities, special consideration will be given to how race, ethnicity, and gender intersect with social class to produce different life experiences for people in various groups in the United States. One course objective will be the critical evaluation of social policy initiatives designed to reduce social inequalities and alleviate poverty-related issues. Students will have the opportunity for service learning in a social-service organization in the metropolitan Boston area.

Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.

SOC 211 Society and Culture in Latin America

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Broad overview of Latin American cultures and societies and of the Latino experience in the U.S. Focus on the history of Latin America and the Caribbean; its political, religious, social, and cultural institutions; and on how social life in the region varies by race, class, and gender. Social and economic incorporation of Latinos in the U.S. Regional integration and the ways in which economic and political life in North and South America mutually influence one another.

Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.

Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

SOC 212 Comparative Sociology and Demography of the Family

Swingle

An examination of the forces that shape contemporary living arrangements in American society and others. This course will cover a wide expanse of recent demographic research, including explanations for the variety of family forms based on kinship and non-kinship; changes in the meaning of marriage as well as the opportunities for marriage in Western countries; the increasing prevalence of single living in the U.S.A.; the meaning and function of friendship in different societies; the links between living arrangements and other institutions such as school and work; and the economic, social and psychological effects of living arrangements on women, men, and children. Cross-national comparisons will be used in the course to highlight similarities and differences to American living arrangements.

SOC 217 Power: Personal, Social, and Institutional Dimensions

Cuba

The study of power extends far beyond formal politics or the use of overt force into the operation of every institution and every life: how we are influenced in subtle ways by the people around us, who makes controlling decisions in the family, how people get ahead at work, whether democratic governments, in fact, reflect the “will of the people.” This course explore some of the major theoretical issues involving power (including the nature of dominant and subordinate relationships and types of legitimate authority) and examines how power operates in a variety of social settings: relations among men and women, professions, corporations, cooperatives, communities, nations and the global economy.

SOC 218 Religion in Contemporary Society

Levitt

This course explores the relationship between society and religious institutions, beliefs, and practices. Some of the topics we will cover include whether or not modern society is becoming more secular, the place of religion in politics, religious conversion, fundamentalism, new religious movements, the globalization of religion, and religiously-motivated terrorism. These themes will be explored using classical and contemporary sociological theories and empirical data.

Prerequisite: None

SOC 221 Globalization

Levitt

McDonald's®, Starbucks®, and the Gap® are now common features on the street corners of Europe, South America, and Asia. Arnold Schwarzenegger enjoys unprecedented popularity in the Far East while Americans are fascinated by karaoke and Indian films. Does this globalization of production and consumption mean that people all over the globe are becoming the same? In this course, we will explore the globalization of social organization. We will examine the different ways in which economic, political, and cultural institutions are organized in the increasingly interdependent world in which we live, compare them to those in the past, and explore their consequences.

Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.

Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

SOC 246 Immigration

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Comparative, historical look at the immigrant experience. We explore theories of migration and differences between voluntary and involuntary population movements. We examine immigrants' political, economic, religious, and social integration into their host countries and their continued ties to their homelands over time. The experiences of second generation immigrants will also be covered. Course is designed around a series of field-work exercises to be carried out in Framingham, Mass. Students will be asked to complete at least three small projects, involving data collection and analysis, on the history of immigration to the city and immigrants' social and economic incorporation.

SOC 259 The Sociology of International Justice

Cushman
Examination of the formal and informal strategies used by societies to achieve justice in the face of human rights violations, political crimes, and war. Focus on just war theory, war crimes tribunals, truth and reconciliation commissions, amnesties, apologies, and forgiveness as modes of justice in a variety of settings in the modern world. Analysis of the globalization of human rights and international justice through case study of the International Criminal Court. Students will participate in moot court exercises which simulate legal reasoning and formal legal procedures in international settings.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

SOC 301 Methods of Social Research

Swingle

Focus on quantitative methods of data collection and analysis. Beginning with modes of data presentation, students will practice with existing data sets to describe and explain social variation in different populations. Building on this extension of basic statistics (SOC 190/ECON 103 or [QR 199]), this course will be devoted primarily to an examination of the logic of survey analysis from the development of hypotheses and construction of a survey instrument to the analysis and reporting of results. Discussion sessions and exercises will address issues of sampling, validity, and reliability; models of causation and elaboration; data coding, cleaning, and analysis. The course will also review multiple methods of research, content analysis, triangulation, and case studies.

Prerequisite: 190/ECON 103, [QR 199] or permission of instructor. Required of all sociology majors.

SOC 302 Seminar. Advanced Topics in Human Rights

Cushman

Topic for 2005-06: Humanitarianism and Humanitarian Intervention. An overview of the history and sociology of humanitarianism as an ideology and of humanitarian organizations. The seminar will provide a critical examination of a number of organized social practices of rescue, including emergency relief to victims of natural and man-made disasters, social and economic sanctions, negotiation, and military responses to gross violation of human rights abuses. The seminar presents case studies of humanitarianism and humanitarian intervention in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries in relation to sociological theories and concepts.

Enrollment limited to 15 students.

SOC 306/WOST 306 Women and Work

Hertz
Aside from new technology and increasing global interdependence, the biggest force for change in the U.S. economy has been the growing diversity of the American labor force. The goal of this course is to understand the impact of gender and racial diversity on the nature of work in America. We will give special attention to four key aspects of change: (1) the dynamics of gender and race in the workplace; (2) the tensions between work/family and gender equity; (3) the struggle to integrate women into male-dominated occupations and professions; and (4) the challenges for women in leadership roles. Each student will select an occupation, which they will study in-depth. Students may register for either SOC 306 or WOST 306 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: One course in ANTH, SOC, ECON, or WOST at the 200-level or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

SOC 309 Seminar. Topics in Inequality

Rutherford

Topic for 2005-06: Language, Power and Society. Language is critical in the formation of social groups and struggles for power and prestige among groups. This course will survey language diversity in American society, based on such variables as class, ethnicity, race, gender, religion, age and region. Examination of language policy issues that illuminate the ways that dominant usages of language reinforce structured differences in social power and prestige among cultural groups. Political uses of language both legitimize and challenge key aspects of the social order, with particular attention to discursive attempts by both liberals and conservatives to appropriate the American narrative in staking their territory on contested issues.

Prerequisite: At least one sociology course or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

SOC 311/WOST 311 Seminar. Family and Gender Studies: The Family, the State, and Social Policy

Hertz

Analysis of problems facing the contemporary U.S. family and potential policy directions for the new millennium. Discussion of the transformation of the American family including changing economic and social roles for women and expanding varieties of family types (such as single mothers by choice and lesbian/gay families). Sexuality, teen pregnancy, reproductive issues, day care, the elderly, divorce, welfare, the impact of work on the family, equality between spouses, choices women make about children and employment, and the new American dreams will be explored. Comparisons to other contemporary societies will serve as a foil for particular analyses. Students are expected to work in groups to analyze the media's portrayal of family/gender stories and selected legal cases.

Students may register for either SOC 311 or WOST 311 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: One 200-level course in family or gender in sociology, anthropology, history, political science, psychology or women's studies, or by permission of instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis

SOC 313 Indian Cinema – Image, Text, and Context

Srinivas

The Indian film industry produces the largest number and variety of feature films in the world: commercial cinema, regional cinema, art films, and "middle cinema" that transcends the popular culture-high culture divide. The course will examine the complex social world of cinema in urban India. Further we will explore Indian society and culture using the films as our text. What do they say about gender and identity, about emotions and the family, and politics and nationalism?

Prerequisite: One 100-level course in sociology or permission of the instructor.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

SOC 314 Medical Sociology and Social Epidemiology

Imber

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Definition, incidence, and treatment of health disorders. Topics include: differential availability of health care; social organization of health delivery systems; role behavior of patients, professional staff, and others; attitudes toward terminally ill and dying; movements for alternative health care.

SOC 321 Globalization: A Research Seminar

Levitt

This course uses the topic of globalization to teach students to carry out research. Following a basic introduction to the topic, each student will design and carry out a research project of her own. She will learn how to define research questions, identify and carry out appropriate methodologies, use various types of data sources, collect and analyze data, and write a final report. Course readings are tailored to students' particular question. Interview and field-work based projects are strongly encouraged.
Enrollment limited to 15 students.

Prerequisite: A background in social science. Not open to first-year students.

SOC 332 Sociology of Film

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. How does our experience of movie going in the contemporary United States compare with the experience across space and time and what can such comparison tell us about cinema as a mass medium? In this course we will address these and other related questions with a view to understanding cinema through its experience rather than through textual analysis of the films themselves. This course will adopt an evolutionary and comparative approach to the study of popular cinema and its consumption. Field assignments will involve going to the movies.

Prerequisite: One 100-level unit or permission of instructor.

Directions for Election

Sociology is the systematic and scientific study of social life, including informal and formal organization and the multiple ways that people collectively give meaning to their behavior and lives. The scope of sociology ranges from the analysis of passing encounters between individuals in the street to the investigation of broad-scale social change. Sociology brings a unique perspective to the study of institutional and collective forms of social life, including the family, mass media and popular culture, social movements, migration, the professions, and global systems and processes. Research is conducted across many cultures and historical periods in order to illuminate how social forces such as social class, gender, race, and ethnicity, age, group membership, and culture shape human experience.

A major in sociology consists of at least nine units. The core of the major consists of four required courses (SOC 190, 200, 201, and 301) which emphasize basic concepts, theory, and research methods that are the foundation of the discipline, but are also useful in a range of social sciences and professions. Permission to take a required unit elsewhere for the major must be obtained from the department chair in advance. Students must take at least five additional units exploring the range of substantive topics in sociology (for example social problems, deviance, immigration, social change and development, race and ethnicity, medicine and epidemiology, mass media, and popular culture).

Choosing courses to complete the degree and the major requires careful thought and planning. Sociology majors are encouraged to explore the full range of disciplines and subjects in the liberal arts, and they should consult a faculty member to select courses each term and to plan a course of study over several years. It is recommended that students complete the sequence of theory and methods courses by the end of their junior year if they want to conduct independent research or honors projects during their senior year. If a major anticipates being away during all or part of the junior year, the theory (SOC 200 and 201) and research methods course (SOC 301) should be taken during the sophomore year, or an alternative plan should be arranged with her advisor.

A minor in sociology (six units) consists of: any 100-level unit, SOC 200, and four additional units, one of which must be a 300-level unit. The plan for this option should be carefully prepared; a student wishing to add the sociology minor to the major in another field should consult a faculty advisor in sociology.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Human Rights Concentration in Sociology

Director: Thomas Cushman

The Department of Sociology offers a concentration in human rights. Students electing this concentration will major in Sociology and will take three specific courses in the concentration that will be counted toward the major in Sociology.

SOC 202 Introduction to Human Rights

SOC 259 The Sociology of International Justice

SOC 302 Advanced Topics in Human Rights.
Topic for 2005-06: Humanitarianism and Humanitarian Intervention

Students electing this concentration are encouraged, in consultation with the director, to take other courses in the college curriculum dealing with human rights, to engage in independent research (SOC 350, 360 and 370), and to participate in internships in human rights organizations in the United States and abroad.

Department of Spanish

Professor: Gascón-Vera, Agosin, Roses (Chair), Vega

Associate Professor: Ramos, Renjilian-Burgy

Assistant Professor: Guzanskyte, Rubio

Senior Lecturer: Hall, Syverson-Stork

Lecturer: Darer

Courses are normally conducted in Spanish; oral expression is stressed.

The department reserves the right to place new students in the courses for which they seem best prepared regardless of the number of units they have offered for admission.

SPAN 101-102 and 201-202 are counted toward the degree but not toward the major.

Qualified juniors are encouraged to spend a semester or a year in a Spanish-speaking country, either with Wellesley's consortium program in Córdoba, Spain, in Puebla, Mexico, or another approved program. To be eligible for study in Córdoba for one or two semesters in Wellesley's Programa de Estudios Hispánicos en Córdoba (PRESHCO), or "Program for Mexican Culture," a student must be enrolled in 241 or a higher-level language or literature course the previous semester.

SPAN 101-102 Elementary Spanish

Staff

Introduction to spoken and written Spanish; stress on interactive approach. Extensive and varied activities. Oral presentations. Cultural readings and recordings. Video program. Three periods. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

Prerequisite: Open to all students who do not present Spanish for admission.

Distribution: None

Semester: Fall, Spring

Unit: 1.0

SPAN 201-202 Intermediate Spanish

Staff

Intensive review of all language skills and introduction to the art, literature, and cultures of Spain and Latin America. Emphasis on oral and written expression and critical analysis. Three periods. Each semester earns one unit of credit; however, both semesters must be completed satisfactorily to receive credit for either course.

SPAN 245 Ethnic Passions

Vega

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A close reading and viewing of selected written and performance texts by Latina/o artists, with particular focus on the intersection of categories of race/ethnicity and sexuality. Selected artists - all writing or performing in the last two decades (Francisco S. Alarcón, Luis Alfaro, Gloria Anzaldúa, Ana Castillo, Sandra Cisneros, Juan Leguizamo, Cherríe Moraga, Ela Troyano and others) - will be examined in light of their role within (or rejection by) the Latino literary "canon." Topics for analysis include contemporary debates regarding the nature and construction of Latino identity; the relationship between ethnic and sexual categories; and Latino nuances within essentialist/social constructionist debates regarding gender, sexual and ethnic identities.

SPAN 248 Exiles, Builders, and Visionaries: Wellesley College and Spain, 136 Years of Synergy

Ramos

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. An exploration of the historical, intellectual, creative and artistic connections between Spain and the US from Columbus' diaries to the present. The United States and Spain, so far apart geographically, have intersected at decisive moments in history for more than five hundred years. Despite the relatively high level of familiarity each society has of the other, mutual misunderstandings have been frequent. This course explores the roots of this dissonance by looking closely at a few specific episodes in history and culture that have shaped reciprocal perceptions. The class offers readings and materials drawn from history, architecture and literature and concludes with an analysis of the role of Wellesley College in the long-running intercultural dialogue.

SPAN 329 Seminar. Chile: Literature and the Arts*Agosin*

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. From 1971 to 2003, Chile, one of South America's longest democracies, has experienced traumatic cultural, political, and social change. From the election of Salvador Allende (1971-1973) through the Pinochet dictatorship, during these turbulent times an unprecedented cultural life was manifested in literature, theatre, and the visual arts. In this seminar, we will explore the cultural changes experienced in Chile during three decades, the ways in which writers understood the complex web of creativity, as well as the specter of censorship. We will analyze how historical figures were revived through writers such as Gabriel Mistral, Rosamel del Valle, Pablo Neruda, and Salvador Allende. Narratives, journalistic essays, theatrical and visual productions will be examined vis à vis the social and political history in which the topics were created.

EDUC 308 Seminar. World Languages Methodology

HIST 206 Colonial Latin America, 1450-1810

Directions for Election

A minimum of eight units exclusive of 101-102 and 201-202 must be presented for the Spanish major and must ordinarily include 241 or 242 and at least one 200-level unit on Spain and at least one 200-level unit on Latin America. Also required are at least two 300-level units, including a seminar during the senior year. The units should be selected in consultation with the major advisor. SPAN 350, 360, and 370 do not count towards the minimum requirement of two 300-level courses for the major.

Upon approval from the department, up to four courses taken during study abroad in Spain or Latin America may be counted toward the major. Students who participate in these programs (either for a semester or a full-year) may petition to have one course taken abroad count for one unit of departmental 300-level credit, but not for senior seminar credit. Students who submit such a petition will be required to present materials produced in the course taken abroad and the department will determine whether or not 300-level credit should be granted upon review of these materials.

For students interested in an interdisciplinary approach to the study of Latin America, also available is the interdepartmental major in Latin American Studies, which allows students to choose from a list of courses in different departments, including Spanish. Majors devise their own programs in consultation with the directors of Latin American studies. Students are referred to the Latin American studies interdepartmental program listing for further information.

AP: A student may receive one unit of credit and satisfy the foreign language requirement with a grade of 5 on either or both of the AP Spanish exams. She will lose the AP credit(s) if she takes SPAN 202 or a lower-numbered course. AP credit does not count toward the major in Spanish.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

Teacher Certification: Students interested in obtaining certification to teach Spanish in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should consult Prof. Renjilian-Burgy, Department of Spanish, and Prof. Beatty of the Department of Education.

Theatre Studies

AN INTERDEPARTMENTAL MAJOR

Program Director: Hussey

Instructor: Arciniegas, Hussey, Loewit

Lecturer: Lopez, Roach

Director of Theatre: Hussey

Production Manager: Loewit

Advisory Committee: Ko (English), Masson (French), Ward (German), Genero (Psychology), Renjilian-Burgy (Spanish), Rosenwald⁴ (English)

The theatre studies major is both an academic field of study and a practical application of that study. The purpose of the major is to provide students with a theoretical knowledge and appreciation of the history and literature of the theatre. Additionally, students are instructed and given "hands on" experience in production and promotion of theatrical events. The theatre is one of the oldest art forms in existence, and students learn valuable information about the way various disparate societies have evolved throughout the ages. Students are expected to work on productions as performers and technicians. The theatre department actively tries to cultivate well-rounded theatre students who are knowledgeable in all areas of theatre.

Early consultation with the director is essential, because some of the relevant courses are not offered every year and careful planning is necessary. In addition to working with the director of the theatre program, students will be encouraged to consult with other members of the faculty familiar with the interdepartmental theatre major.

Students majoring in theatre studies must take a minimum of nine units, including ENG 127 or ENG 281 and THST 203. Two of the nine must be at the 300 level. At least five of the nine must come from within the theatre studies department. The remaining four may be drawn from any related department (see list below).

Developments in the theatre arts are a result of stage experiments, and because the theatre performance is an expression of theatre scholarship, it is expected that students planning a major in theatre will elect to complement formal study of theatre with practical experience in the extracurricular production program of the College Theatre and related on-campus producing organizations. Students may also remain on campus over the summer or Wintersession to gain experience with Wellesley Summer Theatre (the professional wing of the academic department) for credit. All students are encouraged to participate in 250 and 350 individual study offerings in order to pursue their particular area of theatrical interest.

Students majoring in theatre studies may elect to take at least one resident semester of concentrated work in the discipline to supplement and enrich their work at Wellesley. They may attend the National Theatre Institute at the Eugene O'Neill Theatre Center, another institution in the Twelve College Exchange Program, or one of the many London programs offering intensive study in their discipline. Additionally, extensive courses are offered in the drama program at MIT.

Honors

The Theatre Program offers a variety of opportunities for honors. After consultation with the director, the candidate will devise a proposal that incorporates both the academic and the practical aspects of the thesis. Normally the candidate completes the research and writing segment of the thesis in the first semester. In the second semester the candidate produces the practical/theatrical component for public performance. Recent thesis projects have included a musical to educate elementary school students about black holes, and a solo performance piece on racial identity at Wellesley. Applicants for honors should have a minimum 3.5 GPA in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. Students must apply in their junior year for approval of their proposal.

THST 128/WRIT 125 Modern European Drama

Rosenwald (English)

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. A study of some distinguished, important plays from late nineteenth-century and twentieth-century Europe, and of the theories connected with those plays. Likely playwrights and theorists: Ibsen, Chekhov, Stanislavsky, Shaw, Pirandello, Brecht, Artaud, Ionesco, Beckett, Weiss, Handke. Focus both on close reading and on big ideas. Discussion of at least one Wellesley College theater production, and perhaps of some off-campus theater. This course satisfies the Writing 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in Theatre Studies. Includes a third session each week.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.

Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

THST 203 Plays, Production, and Performance

Hussey
This course studies the principles and practice of the related arts that make up the production of a play in the theatre. Students will analyze the dramatic script in terms of the actor, the director, the scenic, costume, and lighting designers, and the technicians. Practical applications of acquired skills integrate the content of the course. Each student participates in the creation of a fully realized "miniproduction" which is presented for an audience.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.25

THST 204 Introduction to Acting

Arciniegas

This course is intended for any and all levels of experience. Students are introduced to the fundamentals of contemporary stage performance, as devised by such stage theoreticians as Constantine Stanislavsky, Lee Strasbourg and Sanford Meisner. Instruction focuses on the proper methods for breaking scenes down into their component units or "beats," staging them for clarity of purpose, and performing them truthfully in the immediate present before a live audience. Students perform in every class with a rotating roster of partners, emphasizing group learning and mutual support in the pursuit of an individual acting aesthetic. Performance material is drawn from the work of contemporary playwrights researched by the students or recommended by the instructor.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

THST 205 Advanced Scene Study (Historic Periods)

Arciniegas

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course is intended to give the advanced theatre student experience in the performance styles of other periods. Focusing on Classical, Elizabethan, Restoration, and Victorian dramatic literature, students retrace the development of the Western European theatrical tradition in practical terms. Particular emphasis is placed upon developing the performance skills necessary for remaining faithful to the acting style of the period while ensuring relevance and accessibility to a contemporary audience.

Prerequisite: 204
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

THST 206 Directing and Dramaturgy

Hussey

This course studies the creative skills of the director in conjunction with the analytical skills of the dramaturge. Particular emphasis will be placed on communicating on a "moment-to-moment" basis with an actor. Students will be encouraged to develop their own unique "directorial vision." Students will be expected to provide probing intellectual questions to each other while collaborating. Dramatic material will be drawn from a variety of world literatures with emphasis placed on women playwrights. Students will be given opportunities to work each week with professional actors in a guest artist "lab" format.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

THST 207 Stagecraft for Performance

Loewit

This course studies the craft and theory of the production arts in the theatre. The course will cover the process and will analyze the designers' function in the production: creating working drawings, problem-solving, and use of theatrical equipment and alternative media for the realization of sound, set, and lighting designs. There will be additional time outside of class scheduled for production apprenticeships.

Prerequisite: 203 or permission of instructor.
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

THST 208 Introduction to Stage Management

Loewit

This course examines the role and duties of a stage manager in the collaborative process and the stage manager's relationship to the director, designers, and actors. Students will learn to write rehearsal reports, call cues, assemble rehearsal schedules, call scripts, etc. Students will also be taught the importance of technical script analysis. Emphasis will also be placed on a number of transferable skills, including leadership, organization, delegation, effective communication, and attention to detail. In addition, students are strongly encouraged to complete a THST 250H by stage managing either a Wellesley College Theatre or an Upstage production during the academic year in order to complement the material learned in class.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring Unit: 0.5

THST 210 Echoes of the Homeland

Hussey, Lopez, Roach

Have you ever wondered what is lost in the process of assimilation into American culture? In this interpretation class, students are introduced to the literature of Hispanic, Celtic, and African American cultures. Through prose, poetry, and drama, stories and characters are brought to vivid life. Students will hone their interpretive skills while exploring issues of identity, immigration, and the female experience. Material will be taken from folklore, mainstream literature, and emerging writers of today.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

THST 212 Representations of Women on Stage

Lopez

OFFERED IN 2005-06. NOT OFFERED IN 2006-07. This course looks at specific examples of the representation of women on the dramatic stage during various eras in a variety of cultures, focusing primarily on what a public and popular art says and implies about women: their "nature," their roles, their place in the society reflected. Consideration is given to the male dominance in both playwrighting and performance in historic cultures. Texts will be chosen from a broad spectrum of dramatic world literature.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

THST 214 Inside Out: A Study of Character Through Voice and Movement

Kahn

This course will give students the tools and skills to develop a character either from the outside in, using movement, or from the inside out, using the voice. Utilizing the techniques of Kristin Linklater, students will move towards "freeing their natural voice" and developing range, color, and texture for effective stage use. Concurrently, students will work on "freeing their bodies" and using physicality to flesh out a character. Class work will focus on both individual and group work with particular attention given to layering voice and movement with text to create vivid, fully developed characters. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's office approval.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
Semester: Wintersession Unit: 0.5

THST 220 Classic Plays and Players

Lopez

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. OFFERED IN 2006-07. This course, taught by playwright Melinda Lopez, surveys dramatic texts as realized in performance (including the plays of Shakespeare). Films and video recordings of live performances approximating the original production style will be utilized along with modern interpretations. Class discussion will also incorporate analysis and comparison of women and minorities who have shaped and created the theatre as actors, directors, designers, and producers. Analytical and critical writing skills are emphasized in the development of written critiques. Students will contrast and compare contemporary events with the events in dramatic texts and will incorporate that knowledge into class projects such as adaptations, research papers, or original plays. Guest artists from the theatre world occasionally visit to illuminate other perspectives.

Prerequisite: None
 Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
 Semester: N/O. Offered in 2006-07. Unit: 1.0

THST 221 Introduction to Playwriting

Harrington

This course will teach basic playwriting skills implemented through in-class exercises and at-home writing assignments. This hands-on, practical approach will require writing one short play each week. Emphasis is on experimentation, innovation, risk taking, and process. A spirit of fun, innovation, and creativity will dominate this workshop format. Each class meeting will incorporate reading student work aloud with commentary from the instructor and the class. Students will listen, critique, and develop the vocabulary to discuss plays, structure, story, and content. Each student will begin to connect her dramatic voice and intellectual passion. Not offered every year. Subject to Dean's office approval. Mandatory credit/noncredit.

THST 306 The Directors Art

Hussey

Intended for the serious directing student, this course will focus on seeing, analyzing and critiquing the work of the director. Significant attention will be paid to the collaboration between directors, designers, and actors. The pragmatic aspects of mounting a production will be analyzed using the performances attended by the class as raw material for discussions. Students will attend six productions paid for by theatre studies, one in New York, one in Providence, and four in Boston. Particular emphasis will be placed on the students determining how successful the productions are in engaging the audience and fulfilling the intention of the playwright. As a final presentation students will produce and direct their own ten-minute play presented at a festival for the Wellesley community.

Prerequisite: 203 or 206 or under unusual circumstances permission of the instructor.
 Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video
 Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

THST 315 Acting Shakespeare

Arciniegas

This course focuses on the study and practice of skills and techniques for the performance of scenes and monologues and the realization of theatrical characters from Shakespeare's texts. Speeches and scenes will be performed for class criticism. The class will be subdivided by instructor according to skill levels. Students are expected to rehearse and prepare scenes outside of class time.

Prerequisite: 203, 204, and 205 or permission of instructor after audition.
 Distribution: Arts, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

WOST 108 The Social Construction of Gender Marshall

This course discusses the ways in which the social system and its constituent institutions create, maintain, and reproduce gender dichotomies. Gender is examined as one form of social stratification and studied in the context of identity formation. The relationship among gender, race, ethnicity, and social class will be stressed. The processes and mechanisms that institutionalize gender differences will be considered in a variety of contexts: political, economic, religious, educational, and familial. We will examine some deliberate attempts to change gender patterns.

Unit: 1.0

WOST 120 Introduction to Women's Studies Cheng, Creef, Reverby

Introduction to the interdisciplinary field of women's studies with an emphasis on an understanding of the "common differences" that both unite and divide women. Beginning with an examination of how womanhood has been represented in myths, ads, and popular culture, the course explores how gender inequalities have been both explained and critiqued. The cultural meaning given to gender as it intersects with race, class, ethnicity, and sexuality will be studied. This course also exposes some of the critiques made by women's studies' scholars of the traditional academic disciplines and the new intellectual terrain currently being mapped.

WOST 125/WRIT 125 Growing Up Gendered Marshall

This course focuses on childhood and the teen years in the United States. How do we become gendered? What are the experiences of children and teens in families, schools, and peer groups that contribute to that process? How does gendering vary by race/ethnicity and social class? We will explore these questions from a sociological perspective, emphasizing the ways in which gender is constructed in social interactions; the intersections of gender, sexuality and peer status; the importance of including the voices of children and teens; and the importance of collective and individual agency. This course offers focused instruction on modes of writing for the social sciences. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward the women's studies major or minor. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

Prerequisite: None. Open only to first-year students.

WOST 200 Introduction to Reproductive Issues

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course explores reproduction in contemporary U.S. society, attending to psychological, social, ethical, and policy implications of pregnancy, childbirth, and parenthood. Reproductive health, technology, and practices are considered in light of the significance of children in different eras and cultures, and in light of policies concerning children, families and the status of women. This course draws from the biological sciences, the social sciences, and the humanities, and students will gain practice in conducting interviews, analyzing data, and writing about controversial issues in bioethics and social policies.

Prerequisite: None. Not open to students who have taken [EXTD 103].

WOST 202 Multidisciplinary Approaches to Abortion

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Why is abortion an emotionally-charged, intellectually troubling, and nationally divisive issue? There is more to the topic of abortion than the conflict between "pro-choice" and "pro-life" positions. We can achieve better understanding of the problem by examining the biological and medical aspects of abortion as well as its religious, social, psychological, and philosophical implications. The class will explore a range of views on such topics as prenatal screening, the moral and legal significance of fathers' claims, and the possible impact of medical and technological advances (such as RU-486) on the issue of abortion.

Prerequisite: Open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors who have taken one introductory course in a social science, biology, philosophy, or women's studies.

WOST 203 Ethical and Social Issues in Genetics

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. New genetic technologies confront us with complex questions. Should we use prenatal tests to select children's characteristics? Should genetic information be private and confidential? How should knowledge of the genetic origins of certain conditions affect health policy? If some personality and behavioral characteristics have genetic components, should this change our views about personal responsibility?

Prerequisite: One course in any of the following: biology, philosophy, psychology, sociology or women's studies.

WOST 204 Women and Motherhood

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. As poet and feminist Adrienne Rich points out, motherhood is both an "experience and institution." This course highlights how social institutions and cultural beliefs shape the experience and meaning of motherhood. We will contrast motherhood today with motherhood in other cultures and periods, and we will examine how contemporary medical practice and social policy have created new options and new problems for women. Topics will include the experience of pregnancy and childbirth, contemporary family policy, reproductive technologies, and what have become known as "maternal/fetal conflicts."

WOST 205 Love and Intimacy: A Cross-Cultural Perspective Cheng

This course examines the system of meanings and practices that evolved around notions of love and intimacy as well as their political significance. The course seeks to demonstrate how these "private" emotions and desires are embedded in social structures such as gender, networks of kinship, class, race, ethnicity, and religion. How do intimate relations challenge patriarchy and heteronormativity? The course invites students to interrogate the public/private divide, examine both the reproductive role in ideologies of love and intimacy, as well as their transformative potential. In demonstrating how "the personal is political," this course also hopes to open possibilities for systemic transformation.

WOST 206 Asian Women on the Move: Transnationalism, Gender, and Ethnicity Cheng

This course examines the experiences of Asian women in the globalization process, with an emphasis on transnational migration. We will explore the paradoxical position of women who violate conventional domestic roles, contestations within the political-economy of the Asia-Pacific, and the reconfiguration of gender, class and ethnic identities in transnational movements. The goal is to understand the historical complexity of migration, the institutional and cultural controls on women's mobility, and their cultural and social agency.

WOST 207 Nature, Culture, and Bodies

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course considers how the "nature" of bodies is constructed in key cultural sites. Because science has come to be the site of authoritative claims about nature, this course will pay particular attention to scientific and medical constructions of bodies. How do categories of race, sex, class and sexuality come to be known and lived as natural features of the human body? By what processes are some bodies made normal or pathological? The course also considers how specific technologies – from clothing to cosmetic surgery – participate in changing how we live and understand the nature of bodies. Key topics addressed in the course include: the historical scientific construction of race, medical constructions of reproduction, the gendering and culturing of the body through fashion, and internet embodiment.

WOST 211/SOC 205 American Families and Social Equality

Hertz

American families are undergoing dramatic changes in social, political, and economic arenas: the rise of the dual-worker family, the increasing number of single mothers, the demands of family rights by gay and lesbian families, and the growing numbers of couples having children at older ages. The new economy poses real challenges for American parents as the social and economic gaps between families continues. As women dedicate a greater proportion of their time to the workplace, more children are cared for outside the home. How do children view parents' employment? How do families function when they have only limited hours together? What does fatherhood mean in these families? Using a provocative blend of social science, novels, and memoirs, we will examine how gender, race, ethnicity, and social class shape the experience of family life in the contemporary United States. Students may register for either WOST 211 or SOC 205 and credit will be granted accordingly.

WOST 216 Women and Popular Culture
Srinivas (Sociology)

This course examines women's representation, production, and participation in U.S. popular culture from the late nineteenth century to the present. Through the use of historical studies, film, television, music, and literature, we will discuss how race, gender, ethnicity, class, and region have impacted women's encounters with popular and mass culture. We will ask why the cultural industry has viewed women as critical to the consumption and dissemination of popular culture. We will discuss popular culture's impact on challenging and/or reinforcing gender differences. Topics include women and modernity, cities and leisure, the rise of a consumer culture, women and technology, sexuality, and feminism, and performance practices.

WOST 220 American Health Care History in Gender, Race, and Class Perspective

Reverby

Traditional American medical history has emphasized the march of science and the ideas of the "great doctors" in the progressive improvement in American medical care. In this course we will look beyond just medical care to the social and economic factors that have shaped the development of the priorities, institutions, and personnel in the health care system in the United States. We will ask how have gender, race, and class affected the kind of care developed, its differential delivery, and the problems and issues addressed.

Distribution: Historical Studies
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

WOST 222 Women in Contemporary American Society

Reverby

This course examines the transformations and continuities in the lives of women in the United States since World War II. We will look critically at the so-called "happy days" of the 1950s, the cultural and political "revolutions" of the 1960s and early 1970s, and the shifts in consciousness over the last five decades. The rise and changes in feminisms and the women's movement will receive special attention. Emphasis will be placed on the differing communities of women and how they have balanced the so-called "private," "public," and "civic" spheres of their lives.

WOST 235 Cross Cultural Sexuality

Patel

This course will examine and explore sexuality from cross-cultural perspectives, focusing on the production of sexuality in the context of different disciplines – literature, anthropology, history, and sociology. The course will address the intersections between sexual and socio-cultural, political, and economic discourses. How is sexuality constructed in relation to ideological, social, and political considerations? How are sexual "norms" established, circulated, and maintained in different cultures and at different historical junctures? What, if anything, constitutes sexual otherness in different cultures? How is this negotiated in a global economy and how is it represented under variable conditions? How do different descriptions of sexual behavior interact with the discourses of identity politics and queerness as constituted in the United States?

WOST 248 Asian American Women Writers

Creef

This course surveys the historical development of Asian American women's literature over the last 100 years. Among the questions central to our examination: How is Asian American writing positioned within the larger field of American literature (as well as within the sub-fields of other ethnic minority literatures)? Is there such a thing as a "canon" in Asian American literature? This course will survey the literature of Asian American women writers since the early twentieth century (including autobiography, fiction, and poetry) in their social, cultural, and historical contexts.

Prerequisite: None
Distribution: Language and Literature

WOST 249 Asian American Women in Film and Video

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This course will serve as an introduction to Asian American film and video, and begin with the premise that there is a distinct American style of Asian "Orientalist" representation by tracing its development in classic Hollywood film over the last 75 years. We examine the politics of interracial romance, the phenomenon of the "yellow face" masquerade, and the different constructions of Asian American femininity, masculinity, and sexuality. In the second half of the course, we look at the production of what has been named "Asian American cinema" where our focus will be on contemporary works, drawing upon critical materials from film theory, feminist studies, Asian American studies, history, and cultural studies.

WOST 280 Gender and Writing in South Asia

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. Beginning with proto-nationalism (1780s) and closing with the late nation-state (1998), this course explores the ways in which gender and writing come together in South Asia. Questions include: Under what circumstances did different genres of writing evolve? How did different genres of early nationalist writing engage with masculinity or femininity? How was the home, house, or the private configured in writing around the 1900s? How was gender articulated in relation to tradition and modernity? How were "feminist" issues addressed in different genres of writing? Writers whose works might be read in this class include Sakawat Hussain, Premchand, Saadat Hasan Manto, Ismat Chughtai, Q. Hyder, Kiran Nagarkar, and Mahasweta Devi. Movies might include Bandini, Pyasa, Umrao Jan Ada, Mother India, and Fire.

WOST 281 Gender and South Asian Cinema
Patel

South Asia has the largest multilingual film industry in the world. Since the inception of film-making in South Asia, gender has been a preeminent theme through which films have derived their emotional force. Women are either protagonists or integral to the plot movements of most South Asian movies – as mothers, widows, virgins, courtesans, queens, bad girls and terrorists. In this course students will investigate the emergence of these gendered figures in Indian cinema from the long suffering mother (who also represented the nation) through the seductive courtesan (staple of most films) to the women whose form of identification is a large weapon. Students will be expected to watch films, and read primary as well as secondary materials. We will discuss films such as Mother India, Zakhmi Aurat (Women and Blood), Sati, Macchis (Match), Dil Se (From the Heart), Paroma, Godmother, Razia Sultana, Charulata, Zubeida and Chandni Bar.

WOST 306/SOC 306 Women and Work Hertz

Aside from new technology and increasing global interdependence, the biggest force for change in the U.S. economy has been the growing diversity of the American labor force. The goal of this course is to understand the impact of gender and racial diversity on the nature of work in America. We will give special attention to four key aspects of change: (1) the dynamics of gender and race in the workplace; (2) the tensions between work/family and gender equity; (3) the struggle to integrate women into male-dominated occupations and professions; and (4) the challenges for women in leadership roles. Each student will select an occupation, which they will study in-depth. Students may register for either WOST 306 or SOC 206 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: One course in ANTH, SOC, ECON, or WOST at the 200-level or permission of the instructor.

WOST 307 Imaging Asian/Asian American Women Creff

This course will look at Orientalism as a historical discourse as a way of framing the representation of Asian/Asian American women in American culture. We will look at the historical representations of Asian women in the U.S. beginning with the turn of the century world's fairs and the immigration of "picture brides," wartime and postwar incarnations of the "dragon lady" in popular culture (in cartoons and through the figures of "Tokyo Rose" and Yoko Ono), and the work of contemporary Asian American feminist performance, installation, and spoken word artists who engage in self-reflexive critiques of Asian American Orientalism in their creative work.

Prerequisite: At least one course in women's studies or in an Asian American studies related course. Open to juniors and seniors only.
Distribution: Art, Music, Theatre, Film, Video

WOST 308 The Changing Law, the New Family, and the State Citron

This course examines the legal standing of family membership. As families have become more diverse, the law becomes an arena of political challenge. These new realities – domestic partnerships, reproductive technologies, and the rise of single mothers – have created a contested terrain. For example, what legal formalities do same-sex partners use to mimic the legal protections automatically afforded to their married counterparts? How do committed partners dissolve a marriage-like relationship outside of divorce proceedings? Using legal cases, media portrayals, and public policy statements we will examine how U.S. states are differentially responding to new family forms.

Prerequisite: Juniors and seniors only. One 200-level course in family or gender in anthropology, history, psychology, political science, sociology, or women's studies.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

WOST 311/SOC 311 Seminar. Family and Gender Studies: The Family, the State, and Social Policy Hertz

Analysis of problems facing the contemporary U.S. family and potential policy directions for the new millennium. Discussion of the transformation of the American family including changing economic and social roles for women and expanding varieties of family types (such as single mothers by choice and lesbian/gay families). Sexuality, teen pregnancy, reproductive issues, day care, the elderly, divorce, welfare, the impact of work on the family, equality between spouses, choices women make about children and employment, and the new American dreams will be explored. Comparisons to other contemporary societies will serve as a foil for particular analyses. Students are expected to work in groups to analyze the media's portrayal of family/gender stories and selected legal cases. Students may register for either WOST 311 or SOC 311 and credit will be granted accordingly.

Prerequisite: One 200-level course in family or gender in sociology, anthropology, history, political science, psychology or women's studies, or by permission of the instructor.

WOST 312 Capstone Seminar. Feminist Inquiry Creff

Topic for 2005-06: Framing the Body through Feminist Theory. This seminar will examine feminist theories and narratives of the body and its representation in visual culture, literature, and history. Our readings will include both theoretical works (on the colonial and ethnographic gaze and cyborg studies) as well as primary materials that include photography, film, and science fiction.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors only.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Language and Literature
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

WOST 313 Fieldwork in Women's Studies Staff

This is a supervised, independent fieldwork project resulting in a research paper, documentary policy initiative, creative arts presentation, or other research product approved by the student's advisor. This project, developed in conjunction with the student's advisor, will have a significant experiential component focusing on women's lives. Students are required to spend either the summer before their senior year or the first semester of their senior year gathering data on a topic of their choice. Topics should be part of the student's area of concentration. Students may (1) work in an organization, (2) work with activists or policy makers on social change issues or social policy issues, (3) design their own fieldwork experience.

Prerequisite: Open to majors and minors only.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall, Spring Unit: 1.0

WOST 314 Seminar. Global Feminism Cheng

This seminar is structured as a critical engagement with the notion of "global feminism" with particular focus on the subject of "sex trafficking." It starts with an examination of some key feminist concerns and debates – feminist epistemology, issues of representation, the politics of difference, postcolonialism and nationalism, agency and subjectivity, sexuality, development, and migration. With a grasp of these analytical tools and issues, we move on to examine the formation of transnational women's movements that has mobilized around women's human rights. In the last part, we will see why and how "sex trafficking" has become the convergent point of feminist debates, and the policy implications these differences and politics are having on the lives of women around the world.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors only.
Distribution: Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: Fall Unit: 1.0

WOST 315 Seminar. Coalitions, Institutions, and Individual Identities

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. This seminar will consider how individuals and groups, who differ by gender, class, religion, sexuality, and/or race, formed coalitions to achieve social transformations. Critical moments in differing institutional struggles will be examined. Questions will cover: Under what conditions are coalitions formed, what holds them together, and how successful have they been in transforming institutions and individual identities? Political movements and institutions to be explored include abolitionism, suffrage, trade unions, schools, civil rights, anti-racism movements, and student activism.

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors only.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Social and Behavioral Analysis
Semester: N/O Unit: 1.0

WOST 317 Seminar. History of Sexuality: Queer Theory
Patel

This seminar will introduce the concepts central to queer theory, starting with Foucault and Laqueur and discussions of sexual difference and deviance. It will examine queerness in its various manifestations and practices: butch-femme, transgenering, cross-dressing, bisexuality, and third gender. The conflicts and continuities between identity politics and queer identities will be explored in the context of racialization, class, and different-abledness and under the markers of nationhood and subalternity. Finally, what impact do the debates on the production of sexuality in different sites (African American, Native American, Latino, Asian American, and non-U.S.) and historical periods have on theories of queerness?

Prerequisite: Open to juniors and seniors who have taken any course on gender, race, or sexuality.
Distribution: Epistemology and Cognition or Language and Literature
Semester: Spring Unit: 1.0

WOST 324 Seminar. History, Memory, and Women's Lives

NOT OFFERED IN 2005-06. If a woman speaks of her experiences, do we get closer to the "truth" of that experience? How can oral history provide a window into the lives of women in the past and what does it close off? Analysis of methodological and theoretical implications of studying women's lives through oral histories as a way to end the silences in other historical forms. Special attention to be paid to other genres – history, fiction, ethnographies – as a foil to explore the strengths, and limitations, of the oral history approach.

Directions for Election

A major in women's studies offers an opportunity for the interdisciplinary study of women from the perspectives of the humanities, sciences, and social sciences. Women's studies majors seek an understanding of the new intellectual frameworks that are reshaping thought about the meaning and role of gender in human life. Majors pursue knowledge of gendered experiences in diverse cultures and across time, examining the ways in which race, social class, sexuality, and ethnicity are constitutive of that experience.

A major in women's studies requires nine units taken both within the department and through the related courses taught in other departments. Of these, two units must be 300-level courses (not counting 350, 350H, 360, or 370). Not more than two units can be 100-level courses.

Students are encouraged to enter the department through one of the three core units: WOST 108 (The Social Construction of Gender), WOST 120 (Introduction to Women's Studies), or WOST 222 (Women in Contemporary American Society). Majors must take one of these units as a required course. Apart from this one required unit (108, 120 or 222), majors must elect at least three other units offered within the women's studies department, of which one should be a seminar. Courses at the 100 level are introductions to topics in women's studies. They are taught from the perspective of each faculty member's specialty. Courses at the 200 level are overviews to substantive areas. Courses at the 300 level provide in-depth examination of material covered in 200-level courses. Students majoring in women's studies must elect four of the nine units in such a way that they form a "concentration," i.e. have a focus or central theme in common. Such concentration should include relevant method and theory units in the area of concentration, and must be discussed with and approved by a women's studies faculty advisor. Priority in all courses above the 100 level will go to majors and minors. Students selecting 300-level courses must have one course listed in the department.

The Capstone Experience in Women's Studies

All majors will be required to select a capstone experience, with the guidance of their advisor, from the following three options offered in 2005-06. Students should begin to think about which option would best fit their concentration when they declare the major. They must declare their option by the end of their junior year.

Option 1: WOST 312 (Seminar: Feminist Inquiry). Each year the seminar will be a different special topic. For 2005-06, the topic is "Framing the Body Through Feminist Theory" taught by Professor Creef. For 2006-07 The topic is "Global Feminism" taught by Professor Cheng.

Option 2: WOST 313 (Fieldwork in Women's Studies).

Option 3: WOST 360/370 (Senior Thesis).

Option three is the traditional senior honors thesis which requires two units during the senior year. See Academic Distinctions in this Bulletin for requirements. A thesis does not need to have an experiential component but typically it is based on some original research. Option 2 must involve an experiential component.

A minor in women's studies consists of five courses, of which one must be chosen from among 108, 120, or 222, and of which one must be a 300-level course (not 350 or 350H) offered within the department. A total of at least three courses must be taken within the women's studies department. Minors must devise a three-course "concentration" (see above) in consultation with a women's studies faculty advisor (the chair or any of the four women's studies faculty members). Not more than one unit can be a 100-level course.

Women's Studies AP Policy

Women's studies does not allow students to count AP credits towards the fulfillment of the major or minor.

Honors

The only route to honors in the major is writing a thesis and passing an oral examination. To be admitted to the thesis program, a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 in all work in the major field above the 100-level; the department may petition on her behalf if her GPA in the major is between 3.0 and 3.5. See Academic Distinctions.

The Writing Program

Senior Lecturer: Johnson, Viti, Wood

Lecturer: Iwanaga

Writing is central to academic life at Wellesley and will continue to play an important role in most students' lives after they graduate, whether they choose majors in the sciences, the social sciences, or the humanities. WRIT 125 provides a common introductory experience in college-level thinking and writing for all students at Wellesley and is also assumed to provide the base for writing assigned in later courses. WRIT 125 courses are taught by faculty from many departments as well as by a team of writing professionals; all WRIT 125 faculty view writing as an important part of their own professional lives and are committed to helping Wellesley students learn to use writing as a powerful tool of thought and expression, a way to gain entrance to public discourse.

All WRIT 125 courses have the primary goal of helping students establish a useful writing process, from developing ideas through revision. All sections provide instruction in analysis and interpretation, in argument and the use of evidence, in the development of voice, and in the conventions of academic writing, including writing from sources. Students may choose to take a standard WRIT 125 course (meeting two periods a week and addressing a small, well-defined topic related to the instructor's expertise), or to study writing as part of an introductory course in another department (these "combined courses" are designated with a slash in the course title; all carry one unit of credit, fulfill distribution and/or major requirements, and meet for at least three periods each week).

All students are required to take WRIT 125 in either the fall or spring semester of their first year at Wellesley. Students who lack confidence in their writing are advised to take WRIT 125 in the fall and to select one of the sections designated for underconfident writers (10, 11, 12, 13, 14, and 16 in semester I). WRIT 125 courses are ordinarily open only to first-year students.

Students who wish to pursue the study of writing beyond WRIT 125 may select independent study in writing (WRIT 250 for a full unit or WRIT 250H for a half unit of credit) with a member of the writing program staff, but they should also be aware that many courses at Wellesley are taught writing intensively, offering the opportunity to study writing as part of their disciplinary study. Students wishing to pursue course work in creative writing should consult the English department course listings.

PLEASE NOTE: Students may not take a second semester of WRIT 125 unless they have the written consent of the director of the Writing Program.

Semester I

WRIT 125 01, 02/ENG 120 Critical Interpretation

Fisher, Hickey (English)

A course designed to increase power and skill in critical interpretation by the detailed reading of poems and the writing of interpretive essays.

This course satisfies both the WRIT 125 requirement and the Critical Interpretation requirement of the English major. Includes a third session each week.

WRIT 125 03, 04/ARTH 100 Introduction to the History of Art Part I: Ancient and Medieval Art

Bedell, Rhodes (Art)

A broad multicultural survey of the art of the ancient and medieval worlds. The course focuses upon major monuments and masterpieces, including the Egyptian pyramids, the temples and sculptures of Greece and Rome, the Buddhist shrines of India, the painted scrolls of China and Japan, the mosques of the Islamic Near East, and the Gothic cathedrals of Europe. Students in this section of ARTH 100 will attend the same twice-weekly lectures as the other ARTH 100 students, but their assignments will be different, and they will attend two special WRIT 125 conferences each week. Through writing about art, students in 100/125 will develop skills in visual and critical analysis. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in art history, architecture, or studio art.

WRIT 125 05/RUSS 125 Great Short Stories from Russia

Bishop (Russian)

Russian literature has given the world some of the best stories ever told, and this course surveys two centuries' worth of them. Someone once quipped that all of twentieth century Russian literature came out of Nikolai Gogol's "Nose." Thus, we begin with "The Nose" and other ridiculous stories by Gogol. We will go on to read some of the finest short stories of Chekhov and the Nobel Prize winner Ivan Bunin. The grotesque realism of Isaac Babel's stories and the magical realism of Vladimir Nabokov's also lie within the scope of this course. We will conclude with the late- and post-Soviet stories of Tatiana Tolstaia and Ludmilla Petrushevskaja. No prior knowledge of Russian language or literature is required. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement. Includes a third session each week.

WRIT 125 06/POL 100 Introduction to Political Science

Joseph (Political Science)

Politics is a struggle for power – and questions about power are at the heart of political science: How is power gained? How is it lost? How is it organized? How is it used? How is it abused? This course introduces students to the concerns and methods of political scientists and to the major subfields of the discipline: American politics, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. The course is centered on several major books in the field, some describing important political events, such as the rise of the Nazi party in Germany and the collapse of apartheid in South Africa, and some illustrating how political scientists analyze and evaluate the world of politics. This course is strongly recommended for all further work in political science. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in political science. Includes a third session each week.

WRIT 125 07/PHIL 101 Ancient Greek Philosophy

Congleton (Philosophy)

Study of selected dialogues of Plato and treatises of Aristotle. Plato topics to be discussed and written about include his account of the human "psyche," his theory of Forms, and his portrait of Socrates. Studies of Plato's student Aristotle will include learning to speak, write and analyze the philosophical vocabulary which Aristotle developed and which became standard for subsequent Western philosophy. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards the major in Philosophy. Includes a third session each week. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 125 08 The Maternal in Film

Wood (The Writing Program)

Film theorist MaryAnn Doane observes that "In Western culture, there is something obvious about the maternal, which has no counterpart in the paternal"—and whatever it is that is obvious about motherhood is represented and played out in countless films. In this course, we will test Doane's claim, examining multiple versions of "the mother" in Hollywood cinema, both classic and contemporary. Among the motherly archetypes we will consider are: the self-sacrificing mother of 40s melodrama; the monstrous mother of the 50s, women-who-could-never-be-mothers of film noir, the absent mother of the 80s and 90s, and (possibly), as we investigate race and immigration issues, mother as "other." Writing assignments will ask students to analyze films using the techniques of film analysis to be taught in the course. *Note: Registration in this section is restricted to students from the Pathways Program. WRIT 125 09 Your Money and Your Life

Patel (Women's Studies)

Money enters and leaves people's lives in various ways. In addition to its obvious practical significance – we need to acquire, budget, and spend it – money stands in relation to things that seem outside its purview, such as feelings and time. This course is organized around topic clusters – money, care, budgets, and futures – that will enable students to investigate the relationship between money and people's lives. Readings will likely include psychoanalytic writings (Christopher Bollas), short stories (Indian writer Premchand), and films (by Italian director Vittorio de Sica). Writing assignments will include drawing up a hypothetical budget; analyzing financial and insurance advertising; and short descriptive pieces on topics such as: forms of money, the route of a dollar, and what happens to someone without insurance.

WRIT 125 10, 11 The Role of Stories

Schwartz (The Writing Program)

This course looks at the rich and various roles stories play. We look at the short story as a literary form, examining the techniques by which writers reveal their visions. This section is appropriate for students who have not done much writing in high school or who perhaps lack confidence in writing (but who love to read stories). Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 125 12 Women and Memoir: Shaping a Life

Johnson (The Writing Program)

This course explores how writers select and fashion events from their own lives to provide context for their ideas. For women writers especially, this "revision" of personal experience has proved a powerful forum for addressing artistic, social, and political issues. Readings will include essays and selections from autobiographies by Virginia Woolf, Maya Angelou, Alice Walker, Maxine Hong Kingston, and Joan Didion. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 125 13 Leaving a Trace: Women's Lives at Crossroads

Johnson (The Writing Program)

The instinct to leave a trace of a life, as Virginia Woolf notes, is the first stage in the journey from private to public voice. Yet how do writers develop the courage to write for an audience? This course focuses on young women at crucial life junctures, who often resist social pressures in order to define voice and identity on their own terms. Drawing on memoir, such as Susanna Kaysen's Girl Interrupted, as well as journals by Anne Frank and Etty Hillesum, the course examines how social and psychological adversity shape and often strengthen self-expression. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 125 14, 15 Coming-of-Age Autobiographies

Jordan (The Writing Program)

In An American Childhood, Annie Dillard writes about her own coming of age: "I woke in bits, like all children, piecemeal over the years. I discovered myself and the world, and forgot them, and discovered them again." This course will examine the works of writers who wonder about, document, and explore the process of becoming conscious in their own lives. As we will see, this journey can take many forms, including frequent twists and turns. Through critical reading, careful discussion, and thorough research, we will focus on what can be learned about the long and complicated metamorphosis into adulthood from such writers as Lorene Cary, Richard Rodriguez, Jill Ker Conway, Joan Didion, Chang-Rae Lee, Amy Tan, and E.B. White. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 125 16 The Idea of Home in Contemporary Short Fiction

Iwanaga (The Writing Program)

The readings in this course focus on the experiences of people coming to terms with where they belong, whether they are immigrants, international students, or a young girl moving from one loveless household to another, looking for acceptance. However the displacement occurs, the dilemma remains the same: Where is one's true home? Readings will be chosen from among the following: The House on Mango Street by Sandra Cisneros, Bread Givers by Anzia Yezierska, short stories by Lan Samantha Chang and Peter Ho Davies. *Please note: Enrollment in this course is limited to students who speak English as a second or additional language. WRIT 125 17 Crime and Punishment in America: Its Roots and Its Future

Viti (The Writing Program)

In this course students will read and write about some well-known criminal law cases, including Regina v. Dudley, Furman v. Georgia (the United States Supreme Court's decision striking down the death penalty as unconstitutional), and the Bobby Joe Leaster case. We will read essays about the criminal justice system (in particular, about the death penalty as it currently exists and is applied in the United States); excerpts from the work of Helen Préjean and Norman Mailer (The Executioner's Song); and writings of advocates for and opponents of the death penalty. Finally, we will screen and critique the films Dead Man Walking and Hurricane.

WRIT 125 19 Energy: Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow

Caplan (Physics)

In 1776, much of the energy used in the United States came from the muscles of humans and draft animals. Today, fossil fuels, nuclear fission and hydropower provide most of our energy, much of which is used to generate electric power. As we have seen in recent years, energy production brings multiple problems: from air pollution to nuclear waste and accidents to grid failures and blackouts. In this course, we will study and write about the technological advances that caused the change from muscle to electric power. We will also consider the economic, political, and ecological results of that change, attempting to determine, for example, why blackouts occur and whether any energy source is safe. Finally, we'll examine recent proposals for safer, cleaner energy sources.

WRIT 125 21 The Novels of Jane Austen

Meyer (English)

Students will read a selection of the great novels of Jane Austen and use her work to learn skills for the close reading of fiction in general. We will study the details of Austen's fictional technique. From what perspective are the novels told? How does the author reveal her attitudes toward her characters? At the same time we will consider the broader questions raised by the novels. What values motivate Austen's fiction? How does she comment on the larger social and historical scene? What are her views on such issues as slavery or the proper role of women? Mandatory credit/non-credit.

Lackey (English)

What role does ideology play in the construction of an individual's identity? Who controls a culture's ideology? Who benefits from the culture's ideology? Who suffers? Such are the questions at the heart of the provocative literary texts that we will examine in this course. During the semester, students will complete a variety of writing assignments on the topics of race, identity, and ideology. The assignments are designed to hone the students' reading, writing, and thinking skills. We will read texts from Joseph Conrad, Nella Larsen, Alice Walker and others.

WRIT 125 24 Sex, the City, and Literature

Lackey (English)

The women of Sex and the City struggle in conversation and in their relationships to define intimacy and love. In this course, we will also struggle, in class discussions and in writing, to formulate an understanding of the way intimacy and love have been defined in the past as well as in our postmodern age. To that end, we will look at some crucial texts, films, and Sex and the City episodes. Texts will include: Plato's Symposium, Henrik Ibsen's A Doll's House, Virginia Woolf's Mrs. Dalloway, and Milan Kundera's The Unbearable Lightness of Being.

WRIT 125 25 The Living City on Page and Screen

Ford (English)

The city is not just a setting but a character in its own right in the American literary and cinematic traditions. In this course we'll read and watch selected works of literature and film that tell stories in and about American cities; we'll examine the ways in which these urban myths define particular ideas about gender, race, and identity in contemporary narrative. Characters like the hardboiled detective hero and the femme fatale, urban experiences like race riots and existential angst, and images of fairytale and futuristic cities will all figure into our exploration of the role of the city in defining contemporary American culture. We'll use writing assignments to make connections between the city's varied characters while developing rich and layered readings of individual texts. *Note: Registration in this section is restricted to students from the Pathways Program. Rhodes (Art)

A foundation course in the history of art. From Michelangelo to media culture, this course introduces the visual cultures of Europe, Africa, and the Americas, beginning with the Renaissance, using key issues and monuments as the focus of discussion. Students in this section of ARTH 101 will attend the same twice-weekly lectures as the other ARTH 101 students, but their assignments will be different, and they will attend two special WRIT 125 conferences each week. Through writing about art, students in 101/125 will develop skills in visual and critical analysis. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in art history, architecture, or studio art.

This course is guided by questions such as: What is education? How do an individual's own efforts to make sense of the world and to guide her life relate to schools and academic work? To the diversity of experiences and cultures? What should the aims of education be? The focus will be on perspectives and processes of learning and teaching. We will use the works of earlier writers (for example, Confucius, Plato, and Dewey) and contemporary writers as starting points in our investigations. *This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward the education minor. Marshall (Women's Studies)

This course focuses on childhood and the teen years in the United States. How do we become gendered? What are the experiences of children and teens in families, schools, and peer groups that contribute to that process? How does gendering vary by race/ethnicity and social class? We will explore these questions from a sociological perspective, emphasizing the ways in which gender is constructed in social interactions; the intersections of gender, sexuality and peer status; the importance of including the voices of children and teens; and the importance of collective and individual agency. This course offers focused instruction on modes of writing for the social sciences. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward the women's studies major or minor. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 125 07/CAMS 120 Women in Film Wood (The Writing Program)

To a large extent, film is about watching, and much film is about watching women. This course provides basic instruction in film analysis, and then makes a foray into theories of cinema. How does the camera work, not only to display its characters, but also to direct the gaze upon them? What are the relationships between the visual spectacle and the progress of the film's story? Writing assignments ask students to observe, analyze, interpret, and explain. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit towards a major in cinema and media studies. Includes a third session each week.

WRIT 125 08/GER 121 Turn-of-the-Century

Vienna: The Birth of Modernism
Hansen (German)

The brilliant culture of fin-de-siècle Vienna reveals the early concerns of the twentieth century. While the 600-year-old Habsburg monarchy preserved continuity in Austria, a nervous sense of finality pervaded the period. Nostalgia clashed with social change to produce a remarkable tension in the music, art, literature, and science of the period. These disciplines reached breakthroughs that are the roots of the modern temperament: Sigmund Freud in psychology; Oskar Kokoschka and Gustav Klimt in art; Hugo von Hofmannsthal and Arthur Schnitzler in literature; Mahler, Schönberg, and Webern in music; Theodor Herzl, founder of Zionism, in social thought. The course will study representative works to explore this phenomenon. This course satisfies the WRIT 125 requirement and counts as a unit toward the German Studies major. Includes a third session each week. Students enrolled in German courses, particularly 201-202, are encouraged to fulfill the WRIT 125 requirement with this class.

WRIT 125 09 Retelling Stories: The Art and the Ethics

Schwartz (The Writing Program)

In this course we explore the moral and artistic implications of retelling stories and myths. We'll read stories from the Old Testament, Native American legends, and Chinese myths, and then examine how these stories have been radically re-told by contemporary writers such as Cynthia Ozick, Louise Erdrich, and Maxine Hong Kingston. The course will culminate in a unit on Anne Frank's The Diary of a Young Girl and the intense controversies generated by the way Anne Frank's story has been re-told and popularized for stage and screen. Students will also have the opportunity to creatively retell a story or two of their own. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 125 10 Richard Nixon: An American Icon

Viti (The Writing Program)

Archetypal political villain to some, hero and statesman to others, Richard Nixon rose to national prominence with the Army-McCarthy hearings in the 1950s and resigned from the Presidency in disgrace in 1974. In this course, we will trace Nixon's evolution as a public figure and draw some conclusions about legal and political issues in the U.S. during this tumultuous period in American society. Readings will be drawn from Nixon's own speeches and writings, as well as from legal, literary, cinematic and historical texts portraying Nixon and his many personal, political, and legal crises.

Unit: 1.0

WRIT 125 11 Law, Literature, and Film

Viti (The Writing Program)

We will read and write about short works of fiction and nonfiction, as well as popular films that reflect society's values concerning law and justice. Readings will be selected from works of Elie Weisel, Franz Kafka, and Jeanne Houston, and popular and classic films such as Inherit the Wind, To Kill a Mockingbird, The Verdict, Dead Man Walking, and The Firm. Students will be required to attend evening screenings of five films. Each film will be shown on a weeknight and again on a Sunday night, to accommodate varying student schedules.

WRIT 125 12 Irish Literature

Jordan (The Writing Program)

This course takes as its premise the idea of the "seanchai," or story-teller, as central to the richness of Irish culture. With a view toward the historical underpinnings of works of the imagination, we will examine fiction, poetry, and prose by some of the most prominent and prolific Irish and Anglo-Irish writers: Joyce, Yeats, Bowen, Trevor, O'Brien, Heaney, and Foster.

WRIT 125 13 Writing About the Vietnam War

Iwanaga (The Writing Program)

Typically, the literature of war, like its movies, depicts the experiences of the soldiers who waged it, as though they are the only ones authorized to write about it. But war affects many other people besides GIs. In this course, in addition to The Things They Carried by Tim O'Brien, we will read poetry, memoirs, short stories, and novels about the Vietnam war written by and about nurses, Vietnamese combatants and refugees, Latino and African American soldiers, and their families. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 125 14 The Science (and Art) of Interpersonal Conflict Resolution*Gelbach (Education)*

Interpersonal conflict is ever-present in social interactions. Conflicts can be as trivial as deciding what movie to attend or as consequential as child custody decisions. How effectively we resolve these conflicts implicates our personal happiness and the success of our careers. This course will touch on the art of interpersonal conflict resolution; however, the main focus will be on the psychology of conflicts and techniques for their effective resolution. Topics will include cooperation/competition, social-perspective-taking/empathy, altruism, aggression, violence, and cultural influences. Throughout the course, particular attention will be given to the role of conflict in writing.

WRIT 125 16 The Image of Islam in Western Literature, Media, and the Arts*Rollman (History)*

Through critical evaluation of selected texts and images produced by European and American travelers, academics, journalists, and artists during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, the course will explore how cultural stereotypes have had, and continue to have, a formative impact on the way Islam, Muslims, and the Middle East are understood in the West. Students will analyze the processes by which these representations and assumptions are created and perpetuated, their impact in specific historical contexts, and their relevance to broader issues of intercultural communication and understanding.

WRIT 125 17 Love Manuals: Medieval and Modern*Vega (Spanish)*

Beginning with the Islamic eleventh century Dove's Neck-Ring by Ibn Hazm of Cordoba, and the Christian twelfth century Art of Courtly Love by Andreas Capellanus – considered among the earliest of texts in the genre of the Western romantic love manual – we will critically examine medieval concepts of gender, sexuality, and “love sickness,” and how these elements have evolved in contemporary popular culture (self-help manuals such as Barbara D’Angelis’ Are You the One for Me?, as well as examples from video/film and the Internet). Complementary readings include selections from Ovid, Art of Love; Diego de San Pedro, Prison-House of Love; Irving Singer, The Nature of Love; and John Boswell, Same-Sex Unions in Premodern Europe. Mandatory credit/non-credit.

WRIT 225 Non-Fiction Writing

Writing 225 is a changing topic writing workshop that will each year take up a particular non-fiction writing genre. Open to all students who have fulfilled the Writing 125 requirement; please note that this course is not intended as a substitute for Writing 125.

Topic A: Writing the Personal Essay*Erian (English)*

Students will write four personal essays. We will read and discuss two non-fiction books: Dispatches from a Not-So-Perfect Life, by Faulkner Fox, and Summers With Juliet, by Bill Roorbach. Both works mix the personal with other outside elements: in Fox’s book, it is the writer’s own experience with motherhood combined with the larger issue of feminism; in Roorbach’s book, it is romance combined with nature. Authors will visit our class to discuss their process, and non-fiction writing in general.

Prerequisite: None

Distribution: Language and Literature

Semester: Spring

Unit: 1.0

Topic B: Memory and Imagination: A Creative Non-Fiction Advanced Writing Class*Johnson (The Writing Program)*

This class will focus on memoir writing, exploring the creative link between memory and imagination. As background for writing our own narratives, we will study memoir as a genre. Readings include: Reading Lolita in Tehran, Girl, Interrupted, This Boy’s Life, as well as personal essays by Joan Didion, Virginia Woolf, E.B.White, and Jonathan Franzen. Writing assignments include weekly short narratives that will lead to a final creative project. We will also do a series of critical explications of craft, and read and analyze essays, both literary and scholarly, on the subject of memory.

Courses in Health and Society

The anthropologist Mary Douglas observed that “the human body is always treated as an image of society and there can be no natural way of considering the body that does not involve at the same time a social dimension.” Similarly, how we perceive our bodies, how they are treated by the health care system, how medicine and health care shape how we see ourselves are critical questions we must all face. Courses in health and society include ones that examine the workings of the human body and mind and ones that take a broad look at the relationship between health and larger cultural and societal issues. These courses encourage students to confront the ethical, social, and political issues in the creation of health and science, and they allow students to consider the broad issues that link the body to the body politic. They offer valuable perspectives to students planning careers in the health field and benefit anyone confronting health care in today’s complex world.

Although there is no departmental or interdepartmental major in health studies, these courses enrich and enlarge concentrations in a variety of disciplines. They also demonstrate how different disciplines contribute to understanding a topic (health) and an institution (the health care system) that affect all our lives. Students who plan to apply for admission to medical school should consult the section on Preparation for Medical School in this catalogue.

Courses in Legal Studies

Law plays a central role in social organization, and legal and political institutions use law, doctrines, and procedures to establish collective values, mediate conflicts between individuals and groups, and resolve questions of state power. Legal materials provide a rich ground for developing reading and interpretive skills, and for promoting serious inquiry into visions of the good and the just, the dimensions and limits of private and public decision-making, and conflicts between consent and coercion. Finally, cross-cultural and historical analyses offer students opportunities to explore the ways in which legal institutions and practices help create diverse social identities and communities. Students wishing to explore a range of legal materials, analytical frameworks, and institutions are encouraged to select courses from several perspectives and disciplines.

There is no departmental or interdepartmental major in legal studies; however, coursework in this area can enrich and enlarge concentrations in a variety of disciplines. Students who plan to apply for admission to law school should consult the section on Preparation for Law School in this catalog.

Courses in Statistics

Wellesley College offers statistics courses in a variety of disciplines. Some introductory statistics courses are intended as terminal courses (e.g., MATH 101) while others are prerequisites for more advanced research methods courses in the major (e.g., PSYC 205). The courses listed below all focus on descriptive and inferential statistics but differ in their specific applications and use of statistical software. Students who wish to take one of the following statistics courses to satisfy the QR overlay requirement are advised to select the most appropriate course given their intended major(s) and minor. Students who scored a 5 on the AP Statistics exam have satisfied the QR overlay requirement but may be required to forgo that AP credit if a specific statistics course is required for their major. Please refer to the Quantitative Reasoning Program section for a complete list of QR overlay courses and see the full course descriptions under each department or program for details on the applications emphasized in each course.

Attention Called

ECON 103/SOC 190 Introduction to Probability and Statistical Methods

MATH 101 Reasoning with Data: Elementary Applied Statistics

MATH 101Z Reasoning with Data: Elementary Applied Statistics with Health Applications

MATH 220 Probability and Elementary Statistics

POL 199 Introduction to Methods in Political Science

PSYC 205 Statistics

QR 180 Statistical Analysis of Education Issues

SOC 190/ECON 103 Introduction to Probability and Statistical Methods

The following rules apply to these statistics courses:

MATH 101 and MATH 101Z are not open to students who have taken or are taking ECON 103/SOC 190, POL 199, QR 180, or PSYC 205. In addition, MATH 101 and MATH 101Z are not open to students who have completed MATH 116, MATH 116Z, MATH 120, MATH 205 or the equivalent, except by permission of the instructor; such students should consider taking MATH 220 instead. MATH 101 and MATH 101Z are intended for students who do not anticipate taking further statistics courses in college. Students considering a major in economics, political science, sociology, or psychology are advised not to take MATH 101 and MATH 101Z; other courses are more appropriate for those majors.

ECON 103/SOC 190 (formerly QR 199) is a prerequisite for ECON 203 (Econometrics) which is required of economics majors, and for SOC 301 (Methods of Social Research) which is required of sociology majors. Economics or sociology majors or minors who have completed MATH 220 or PSYC 205 may not also take ECON 103/SOC 190, but must take an additional elective in economics or sociology to complete their major or minor. Students who have taken MATH 101, MATH 101Z, POL 199 or QR 180 may only take ECON 103/SOC 190 if they are majoring or minoring in economics or sociology, and should consult the appropriate department chair.

POL 199 is not open to students who have taken or are taking ECON 103/SOC 190, MATH 101, MATH 101Z, MATH 220, PSYC 205, or QR 180, except with permission of the instructor.

PSYC 205 is required of all psychology and neuroscience majors. Students who have not declared a psychology or neuroscience major may not enroll in PSYC 205 if they have taken or are taking ECON 103/SOC 190, MATH 101, MATH 101Z, MATH 220, POL 199, or QR 180; students who have declared a psychology or neuroscience major must take PSYC 205 even if they have already taken one of these other statistics courses.

QR 180 is an elective statistics course for students interested in education policy issues. The course is not open to students who have taken or are taking ECON 103/SOC 190, MATH 101, MATH 220, POL 199 or PSYC 205.

Courses in Urban Studies

The city as a unique social, cultural, political, economic, educational, environmental, and geographic locus has been one of the main themes of nineteenth- and twentieth-century thought. As we move into the twenty-first century, the problems and promises of urban life remain an enormous intellectual challenge for researchers and policy makers in many fields, and of great import to the health of our society and to that of other countries. These courses examine the city from many perspectives and allow students to use the city as a focus for interdisciplinary study.

While there is no departmental or interdepartmental minor or major in urban studies, these courses complement and enrich concentrations in other fields, and may be useful for students interested in anthropology, architecture, economics, education, the environment, history, literature, politics, policy analysis, medicine, sociology, or other subjects. Students interested are strongly encouraged to take at least one course in the Department of Urban Studies and Planning at MIT. A special guide to MIT courses in Urban Studies and Planning is available on the Wellesley College urban studies conference. Students are also encouraged to engage in urban fieldwork and internships, opportunities for which are available through the Center for Work and Service.

Travel Directions

By Car

From the West:

Take the Massachusetts Turnpike (I-90) to Exit 14 (Weston). Go south on Interstate 95 (Route 128) for 1/2 mile to Route 16, Exit 21B. Follow Route 16 West for 2.9 miles to a stoplight (five-way intersection) in the town of Wellesley; go straight on Route 135 (West). At the third traffic light, take a left into the main entrance of the College. Take your first right to the new Davis Parking Facility.

From the East:

Take the Massachusetts Turnpike (I-90) west to Exit 16 (West Newton). Follow Route 16 West for 4.7 miles, using directions above.

From the North:

Take Interstate 95 South (Route 128) to Exit 21B (Route 16 West). Follow Route 16 West for 2.9 miles, using directions above.

From the South:

Take Interstate 95 North (Route 128) to Exit 21B (Route 16 West). Follow Route 16 West for 2.9 miles, using directions above.

By Airplane

Options from Logan International Airport:

- By car: From the airport, take the Ted Williams Tunnel to the Mass Pike (I-90) West. Then follow directions from the East.

- Take a taxi directly to Wellesley College. See Area Taxis. Allow at least an hour for the commute. The fare will be approximately $55.

Or

- Take the Logan Express bus, which picks up at all airline terminals, to Framingham. Allow at least an hour for the commute. Call 800-23-LOGAN or visit www.massport.com/logan/getti_typeo_logan.html for more information.

From Framingham, take a taxi to the College. See Area Taxis. Allow half an hour for the ride to Wellesley. The fare will be approximately $16.

Or

- Take the free shuttle bus to the MBTA subway stop. Take the Blue Line Inbound four stops to Government Center. Go upstairs and change to the Green Line. Ride an Outbound subway marked "RIVERSIDE-D" to Woodland, the second to last stop on the D line. Subway fare is $1.00.

From Woodland, take a taxi to the College. See Area Taxis. The fare will be approximately $15.

Allow two hours for total commute.

By Train

Options from the Amtrak terminal at South Station:

- From South Station, take the Framingham/Worcester Commuter Rail to the Wellesley Square stop.

The commute is approximately half an hour. One-way fare is $3.00 and is paid on the train. Exact change is not required.

Go up the stairs and turn left onto Crest Road; follow Crest a short distance. Take a right onto Central Street. Walk five minutes to the second set of lights. Cross the street to the entrance of the College. From there, allow 20 minutes to walk to your destination on campus.

Note: The Commuter Rail runs on a schedule that can be accessed by calling 800-392-6100 or 617-222-3200 or by visiting www.mbta.com. Please call ahead when making travel plans; the schedule varies on weekends and holidays. You may also take the Commuter Rail to Wellesley from Back Bay Station.

If you prefer, call a taxi from the Wellesley Square Commuter Rail stop. See Area Taxis. Fare will be approximately $4.

Or

- From South Station, take the MBTA Subway (Red Line) Inbound two stops to Park Street. Go upstairs and change to the Green Line. Ride an Outbound subway marked "RIVERSIDE-D" to Woodland, the second to last stop on the D Line. Follow the above directions from Woodland.

By Bus

- From Peter Pan and Greyhound terminals at South Station, use Commuter Rail directions above.

Or

- Take a Non-Express Greyhound or Peter Pan bus to the Riverside terminal. From there, take a taxi to the College. See Area Taxis. Commute from Riverside will be about 30 minutes, although it may be longer during rush hour. Fare will be approximately $15.

Note: Express buses DO NOT stop at Riverside.

The information contained in this Bulletin is accurate as of July 2005. However, Wellesley College reserves the right to make changes at its discretion affecting policies, fees, curricula or other matters announced in this Bulletin.

In accordance with the Student Right-to-Know and Campus Security Act (Public Law 101-542), the graduation rate for students who entered Wellesley College as first-year students in September 1998 on a full-time basis was 91%. (The period covered is equal to 150% of the normal time for graduation.)

Wellesley College admits students without regard to race, color, religion, or national origin, to all the rights, privileges, programs, and activities generally accorded or made available to students at the College. The College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin or sexual orientation, in administration of its educational policies, scholarship or loan programs, athletic and other college-administered programs or in its employment policies.

Wellesley College, as an independent, undergraduate educational institution for women, does not discriminate on the basis of sex against its students in the educational programs or activities in which it operates, and does not discriminate on the basis of sex in its employment policies, in compliance with the regulations of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, nor does the College discriminate on the basis of handicap in violation of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.
